FOREWORD

This bulletin has been prepared by the staff of the Division of Instructional Services, Bureau of Instruction, primarily for the purpose of presenting significant information relating to the program of secondary education in Kentucky and the listing of approved and classified high schools for the 1957-58 school year.

It is a matter of general concern that some of our high schools do not meet minimum standards for accreditation as indicated by emergency ratings. However, it should be fully recognizable that modern demands on American education not only call for meeting minimum standards, but also for making a greater effort at all levels to provide the kinds of educational opportunities that will enable our youth to meet the challenges of this age. With the financing of the Foundation Program Law, great progress has been made in a two-year period. Many improvements, both in breadth of offerings and in quality of instruction, are already apparent in our secondary education program.

I acknowledge with much appreciation the efforts that have been put forth in the compilation of the material and data contained in this bulletin both on the part of the Department of Education and local school personnel. I trust that members of the profession and others will find it useful and informative.

KENTUCKY HIGH SCHOOLS—1957-58

Kentucky public and private high schools are classified and accredited by the State Board of Education. This requirement is set forth in the law which requires that each school district in the state provide an approved twelve-grade school service and that rules and regulations be adopted governing the quality of this service. The law also provides that the "Superintendent of Public Instruction shall annually prepare or cause to be prepared and submit for approval and publication by the State Board of Education a list of all public and private high schools or other secondary schools in the state, showing their classifications." The classifications are given on recommendations of the Bureau of Instruction after consultation with the Commission on Secondary Schools of the Kentucky Association of Colleges, Secondary and Elementary Schools.

This year, there are 540 public and private high schools in the state. Last year, the number was 549. Of the 540 high schools now operating, 488 are complete organizations in that they offer work through the twelfth grade. The remaining 52 high schools are approved as incomplete feeder schools. Of the 52 incomplete high schools 44 are separate junior high schools organized as one distinct unit offering work exclusively in grades seven, eight, and nine. The remaining eight high schools are incomplete organizations that offer work only through the tenth or eleventh grades.

Of the 488 complete high schools, 294 are operated by county boards of education while 119 are maintained by boards of education in independent school districts. The remaining complete organizations are either private secondary schools or schools that are maintained entirely by the state.

This year, the six-year high schools (grades seven to twelve) number 154. Last year, they numbered 157. This year, the traditional four-year high schools (grades nine to twelve) number 301. Last year, they numbered 292. The remaining 33 complete high school organizations represent modifications of the six-year and the traditional four-year plans.

The following table presents data regarding the various types of high school organizations to be found in the state.

Table IV shows that there was a continuous growth in the number of high schools from 1915 to 1935. In 1935 there were 848 public and private high schools in the state. This represents the largest number of high schools that the state has ever had. Now that we have 540 high schools, public and private, it is clear that there has been a decrease in the number of high schools of 308 since 1935. This decrease has come about very largely through the merging of small high schools into larger school centers.

* Beginning with the school-year 1932-33, the enrollment of the seventh and eighth grades of six-year high schools and of junior high schools are included.

Table V presents an interesting picture in total high school enrollments in different types of high schools since 1915. High school enrollments increased rapidly until around 1941, then enrollments began to decrease on account of the second World War. The lowest total high school enrollment was for the school-year 1943-44. Today, the total high school enrollment is 183,140. This enrollment includes seventh and eighth grade enrollments in schools that incorporate these grades in their organizations.

There are 147,780 pupils enrolled in grades 9-12. The total high school enrollment for the current school year is 4,347 more than the total enrollment last year. An increase in enrollment of 3,635 took place in county high schools while there was a decrease in enrollment of 480 in independent school districts. There was an increase of 1,176 in private secondary schools and sixteen in high schools operated by the state.

Table VII shows the situation as regards the number of accredited high schools by years since 1910. When we use the expression "accredited high school," we think of an organization that offers a program of work through the twelfth grade. High schools that do not give work through the twelfth grade should be looked upon as incomplete feeder schools for the regularly organized, complete high schools of the district.

Accreditation of high schools is primarily a means to an end. This end is that of stimulating growth and improvement in the schools. Originally, accreditation of high schools came about as a result of the need of institutions of higher learning for some satisfactory basis for admission to college. In recent years, however, as a result of increasing numbers of young people continuing through elementary school into high school, the emphasis upon accreditation as a basis for college admission has been shifted to that of better education for all youth. The rapidly changing social, industrial, and economic world and the marked increase in high school enrollment is challenging the schools to provide for a diversity of needs and capacities.

To better provide for these needs and capacities, a broader and more varied high school program is demanded. High schools should not only prepare some pupils for work in higher institutions, but they should also prepare a larger proportion of the pupils for direct entrance into business, industry, agriculture, and homemaking. It is at once apparent that small high schools cannot possibly offer an enriched program to meet the needs and capacities of all high school pupils unless it is done at excessive cost, hence the justification of requiring increased enrollment for accreditation of high schools.
