VOLUME XXIX Z 246

Complain, too
We can't understand it. We begin to feel like there is a storm in the office simply because four complimentary notices were received in the mail yesterday.

The Big "I"
Dear Editor: Not believing in being one to blow a person up, I do however believe in giving credit where it is due and I wish through this "Clearing House" column you would tender my congratulations to Joe Creason for his splendid article on the football team in the "Wild of Thea's" Kernel.

Sports Editor
Dear Editor: I have only been here a week and already I have begun to appreciate your paper and staff, especially Joe Creason, sports editor.

Av. Shunt
Just a little bit to compliment you on the Kernel. Thus far it has been far in advance of any of the previous four years I've spent on the campus.

We're Self-Conscious
Dear Editor: I wish to commend Mr. Winer for his fine article in the "Kernals" column.

Sure Enough
We're blushing.
About The Weather.
We were especially reminded of how cold it was Wednesday when we noticed the size of the block of ice in front of Neville Hall.

Turning The Tables
A timid little freshman has, too meekly her head bowed in submission, would like to suggest that while the professors are asking for each student's name they should drop a hint as to their own identity.

Every Cloud Has—
A letter just came into the business office which we feel it ought to print.

Intramural Entries For Fall Sports
Now Due At Gym
Fraternity or independent men desiring to participate in tennis, doubles and single or touch football, the first activities on the intramural schedule for the year, may enter the competition by reaching the deadline at 6 o'clock, September 28.

Following the radio interview and speaking the University of Kentucky "Best Band In Dixie" will lead a parade of students and bands down through the main arteries of Lexington, through the courtyard of the Lexington Fire Department, to a fire truck which has been obtained in order to precede the band and clear the streets for the members of the parade.

Following the parade a dance will be held in the recreation room for the general public and the Student Union building. All students are invited to attend the dance which will last about 11 o'clock.

On the speaker's platform, Elliot Beard, president of Sukey, will introduce Bruce Shively, head of the University Athletic Department, to the new stadium. Following this there will be an interview between Coach John Heber, of the Henry Clay High School Blue Devils, and Mr. Kirwan and Mr. L. S. Honaker, coach of the Maryville Highlanders.

UK ENROLLEMT INCREASES DAILY

Late Registration Climbing Above Same Time Last Year
As Monday, the last day of registration, draws closer, it becomes more and more apparent that the attendance record will be broken.

Although the lead was cut down slightly Thursday with 3,468 students registered this year against 4,437 last year, there is no indication that the lead will not be held and may even be increased by last minute enrollment before the Registrar's office closes at incoming students at 3 p. m. Monday.

The Registrar's office is open until 12 noon on Saturday and from 2 until 3 p. m. on Sunday. This will be the last date for changing or entering an organized class.

Kirwan To Unleash 'New Deal' Wildcats On Maryville To Start 'K Comeback' Campaign

Kentucky Depends on These Backs

Wildcat Boosters Will View Kentucky Eleven In Action Tomorrow
WILL OCCUPY SEATS ON SOUTH SIDE
Club Is Composed of Fans, Alumni Interested In Cat Grid Future

Tomorrow, for the first time since their organization, members of the Wildcat Boosters Club will see a Kentucky eleven take the field in intercollegiate grid competition. The Boosters Club is composed of alumni and other fans whose interest in Kentucky's football fortunes is sufficient for them to contribute ten dollars yearly toward the team's support.

In return they will have the satisfaction of knowing that they are doing their part in building greater Blue and White pickup aggregations. Each member is given a membership card and a lapel button. At each game sections of seats on the south side of the stadium will be held for the Boosters as long as the game is in progress.

It has been the practice in recent years for the coaching staff to have no more than six players. Several nights after the game, the football squad is gathered in the gym and the pictures are shown. One of the coaches gives a running commentary as the flickers progress, criticism, commendation and suggestions.

By the way, there will be a similar "show" held later in the week to which Boosters will be admitted. This club is the outgrowth of an attempt to enable football players to assist with the program. It was unable to without this added financial assistance. Under the rules of the Southern Conference, a member-school club can give athletic scholarships, provide for tuition, room, board and books. Incidentally, the pictures are shown, and others—are not provided for.

Play-by-play scholarship loans would not be sufficient; are eligible to the funds created by due of the Wildcat Boosters Club. The athletic department assigns regular jobs to the athletes and they are paid for their work on a regular basis through the Wildcat Boosters Club. All money received from the Boosters Club.

When the idea for the club was first formulated, a tentative goal of 100 members was set. To date the Boosters roster numbers 308. This number is a rough approximation, because many localities have not signed up at the present time.

Lexington and the Blue Grass areas get a total of 300 Boosters. Approximately 300 localities have signed up at the present time.

Athletic Department Procures Banners

One hundred special banners have been procured by the athletic department for the football season in cooperation of local merchants. The banners also have the words "Welcome Visitors" and "Football Today."

The new flag will bear the figure of a grider in blue on a white background and the letters UK will be displayed on game days. The banners also have the words "Welcome Visitors" and "Football Today."

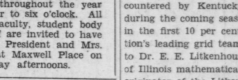

At the meeting Tuesday, J. L. Culler, instructor in English; Marvin Dunn, instructor in chemistry; George P. Osborne, laboratory assistant in hygiene and public health; Frank M. Denton, assistant in the Department of Bacteriology, Raymond H. Miller, graduate assistant in psychology, and Roy N. Walters, part-time secretary in the Department of Journalism, were appointed.

Arrogance In Culture

IT IS HARD to understand the attitude of some so-called campus scholars who after being admitted with the University for a year or so, lapse into a realm of arrogance that may well cause new students to doubt that they are attending a college in a state that is known far and wide for its hospitality and friendliness.

The cultural side of our education with the development and refinement of our minds, tastes and manners is of primary importance. It certainly seems that we should be as democratic and sociable toward our fellows as we can if we are to be considered at all intellectually civilized. We can not be arrogant and cultured, for there is no arrogance in true culture.

There are hundreds of new students enrolled at the University of Kentucky this fall who are unable to become members of the fraternities, sororities or other social groups but who are nevertheless worthy and needful of good fellowship that should and can be afforded them with a minimum of effort on the part of the more experienced members. Your nod or a smile will help lift the spirits of a newcomer immeasurably and you won't miss it.—R. G.

More Faculty Boosters

ON PAGE ONE of today's Kernel appears a story concerning the Boosters Club. It is a good story—as news stories go. It cites the goal of the Boosters as 1,000 members with half of that number to come from Lexington and vicinity. It explains why a $10 membership fee is not exorbitant and why it is necessary. It tells of the fine work of the Boosters and that the present local membership has reached the 300 mark.

But there is one thing which is not mentioned. In that group of 300, only a very few University faculty members are represented. Within the next week or two, perhaps one-fourth of the faculty will be contacted by letter or personally and asked to join the Boosters Club. Some will join at once. But, undoubtedly, there will be objections from others.

A part of this latter group will complain of the membership fee. Another section will say that the duty of an instructor is in the classroom, not on the football field.
Naturally, a professor's place is in the classroom—especially if he has the interest and respect of his students. But an instructor is also vitally affected by the University of which he is a part. And whether we like it or not, whether it is as it should be or not, the name and influence of a university such as ours is affected by the performance of its football team and the enthusiasm of its supporters.

Of course, that is putting it rather bluntly, appealing to the selfish instinct. But there is another side. Students are rather selfish, too. They like to feel that their leader is interested in them and in their interests. And the student body is vitally interested in the Boosters Club. They surely would like to see their instructor strutting into the classroom with a Booster button on his lapel.

Work Of The YM-YWCA

REMEMBER the day you said good-bye to mother, and dad, and all that is home? You came to college expecting to experience annoying pangs of homesickness. You came as a freshman entering upon a new phase of life, slightly bewildered.

Waiting to become immediately acquainted with you at various social functions during the first week were members of the YMCA and YWCA, student Christian organizations for its not unimportant. Last year they planned a program to meet the needs of high school boys and girls who would find themselves college men and women so soon.

Formulating the plans and executing the diversified programs of the YMCA and YWCA are the committee chairmen of the senior cabinets, advised by the secretaries of both organizations. Discussion groups are planned for low-leveling and upperclassmen where students meet to discuss problems of either a social, moral or religious nature.

This year the organizations plan to emphasize religion as it affects all of life, and to promote a better understanding of current social issues. Religious-in-life conferences at which twelve outstanding leaders have been scheduled to speak are to be a part of this semester's work.

For their work in the past, at the present and in the future we as students accord a vote of appreciation. Affiliation with such an organization promises fellowship and growth of character that will remain permanent through the years.—L. L. J.

Scrap Irony

By HARRY WILLIAMS

IT SEEMS that "Behind The Eckdahl" made a mistake. That worthy pundit entered the Kernel office the other morning looking like a law student who was lucky enough to get in on the bar exam this year. In other words, he fairly radiated happiness. He was unaware that Fate had stacked the deck. The first person he met was Editor L. T. Iglehart. The following dialogue ensued:

Eckdahl: "Chief, do you know what shrubbery is?"
Iglehart: "No Eckdahl, what is shrubbery?"
Eckdahl: "Shrubbery is what you eat as a desert, you know, shrubbery shortcake."
Iglehart: "You are fired. I am going to get a humorist to write the humor column in this newspaper."

It is, therefore, with the deepest sympathy in our heart for Mr. Eckdahl and with profound admiration for Mr. Iglehart's taste in humor, that we take over this page. The old gives way to the new, that is, except in the case of President Roosevelt who gives way to no one, but who gives away to everyone.

Yesterday we saw a lot of birds flying east. Now something like this might have disturbed most people. Most people would have said to themselves, "Why are these birds flying east, why are they not flying south?" or possibly, "Why are these birds flying east, why in the hell are they not flying south?" We accepted it rather philosophically though, in these days when the Editor of the Kentuckian goes about shaving completely (loosening his collar and everything) in a drug store just because there is an electric razor on demonstration, why, almost anything can happen here. In spite of Sinclair Lewis, and Jeanne Barker.

Comes word of a freshman who approached another freshman and asked him if he knew where a plebe button was wearing. The second freshman said he did not and then the first freshman said, "I don't either, they got me into a room and the only way I could get out was to take the chair." This, then, is higher education the Dale Carnegie way. When fraternities need pledges they merely get the chap into a room and PERSUADE him to join. They say, in effect, "Join our fraternity little boy or we'll stay here and embarrass you until you do."

Martha Jane Rich, who likes Fredric March, good books, dancing, and cigarettes, has been brought to our attention. She seems to be a Junior transfer from Mary Baldwin, and she Junior transfer from Mary Baldwin, and she also seems to be lovely. She made the equivalent of a "two" standing there. She likes tall men who know what to do in emergencies and if they don't have both these traits, she'll just take them tall. These girls with ideas intrigue us. There's something about a woman who has ideas. Something strangely incongruous, especially if she is as lovely as Miss Rich. It's like finding two pearls in an oyster when you don't generally go for oysters.

Since the government has seen fit to import heavers to assist WPA workers in building a dam, we feel it our duty to point out the futility of such a venture. We once knew a man who grew oranges in Florida. This chap had some trouble with the Orange-Pickers Union (Local 318) and as a result they refused to pick his 1932 crop. One day he saw his pet monkey in an orange tree throwing down the oranges, and a friend who was with him at the time asked him why he didn't buy some more monkeys and let them pick the oranges. Our friend said he had thought of that, but that he didn't think it would work. He said that as soon as he got them well-trained, the danyankes would come down and free them.

We were reading from Miss Brande's Wake Up And Live the other night. In one of her more brilliant passages she says, "When evening comes, go off into a quiet place and review your day." Now we have a great deal of respect for people who write books that sell a million copies. We hesitate to criticize their philosophy, but in this case we fail to follow the thought. Are we going to "Wake Up And Live" or are we going to "Go off into a quiet place and review our day." Come, come Miss Brande, we feel like saying, let us not lose ourselves in a flight of fancy. Let us either "Wake Up And Live" or let us forget the whole thing.

SIDELINGS

By CEPARÉ RIVIEN

ALMOST displacing the weather as a topic of talk, the situation in Czechoslovakia has engendered endless opinions among the campus commentators. Even the most uncrumpled of coeds have something to say on the subject; and until the final decision was publicized there were as many views as there are meerschaums in Munich. Now that the Czechs have been tossed to the lions, there is less plentitude of pronouncements, but more mourning for their national fate.

Joe Intermaggio, whose political observations are consistently interesting, believes the "quasi-bred child to be a diplomatic atrocity, an inexcusable example of double-barreled duplicity. Ed Muehler allowed that things were dire enough that American collegians could count on graduating from Arts and Sciences into Central European trenches. Rumsey Garrison cries, "Peace at any price!" and can see nothing wrong in the Sudeten's rejecting the Danish. Concurring with Associate Editor Garrison and a vast majority of universitians is Helen Friedman, who proclaims pacifism. Power Pritchard has little faith in the idea that the United States will ever start shooting Nazis over anything less than invasion of Brooklyn.

It is our personal belief that events are taking an inevitable and perfectly justified turn. No loss of international dignity is worth the cost of a war. Anyway, if the Sudeten want Hitler, let them have him. We can only say, "Hell, Chamberlain! Hell, peace!"

Convocation, as usual, drummed up trade for the campus cokes. When the recreation Mecca was located on the fourth floor of McVey hall, the story was the same. Tuesday, during the hour at Memorial hall, the Student Union building corridors conformed with crowds, and the grill was like unto Old Bedlam. Blue superciliousness about packed tables to exchange small talk and swags of fountain beverages.

In the midst of the multitude Didi Castle looked with that wide-eyed amazement of hers at faithful Jamie Thompson. She had a brief discussion of the difficulties of writing a scandal spread, and was frightened when a bystander told her of a similar typographical error in the last edition of her gossip gallery. At another table Gladys Dimock, Sally Gaskill, John Clarke, and George Lamason retailed the latest in risqué anecdotes. Ben Picklen and Pat Kapna Gamma, paraded from circle to circle. Kenning The Campus

By JIM CALDWELL

One of the mysteries of this life is the origin of rage. Once I heard a pea and I decided to try it back and try to remember just where I had first heard it—and it possible, to determine its source. After wracking the remains of what was once a brain, I finally traced it to Centre. How it got there, I'll never know. You've all heard it, I know. You remember—the one that goes: Are-you-a-Phi-Delt?—no. I'm just naturally repulsive. Well, anyway, the first time I heard it, it was being used by some Phi Delt at Centre to goad on the wrath of some Beta. Then the Kentucky Phi Delt left it and began to use it against the Sigma Chi. Then one day in Hygiene class, of all places, a KA heard it and immediately employed it again at the Phi Delt. His brethren took up the cry and this went on for about two weeks. Then it died out. Suddenly one day about a month later, for no apparent reason at all, it suddenly popped up in a column in the Kernel, and then the whole campus took it up. It was only stopped by the fact that school had to let out some day, which it did. The summer recess is over, I suppose the vicious cry will start all over again. Watch this—It's sure to be along some day.

BOOK REVIEWS

"Man's Courage" by Joseph Vogel

Obviously written as a protest against the present system of administering federal relief is this "Man's Courage," by Joseph Vogel.

Mr. Vogel seems to be one of those gentlemen who take a great delight in pointing out existing conditions, without giving a thought as to whether it is possible to improve them or how to improve them.

Chief concern of Mr. Vogel in this book is the relief situation, but he does not stop to take a few seconds' slams at education, the medical profession, city government, politics, and organized religion.

The book gives the impression that the author hoped it would be regarded as a "powerful indictment."

Understand I am not trying to prove that there is nothing wrong with the relief system—I have heard your details concerning it from Republican friends.

There may be some great literature arise from our present situation in the U. S., but it won't be "Man's Courage."

The story concerns a Polish immigrant, one Adam Wolack and his family. Naturally Wolack, a husky but uneducated fellow, is out of work. The author leads through various skirmishes with the above named institutions—with Wolack getting the worst of it and the institutions getting commendation. Very prosaic in style, Mr. Vogel seems to want to depend on the imagination of the reader—personally, could imagine many better stories than "Man's Courage."

The first half of the book was better written, more sanely thought out, and much more interesting than the last half.

If you are an anti New Dealer and want to feast on the atrocities of the relief system, read "Man's Courage." But I am warning you, you would get more satisfaction, and just as much literature, out of Mr. William Randolph Hearst's editorials.—A. C. E.

It was too bad that so much of the picture was taken out. Several of the most realistic scenes had been removed since I last had the privilege of seeing it. One especially impressive scene showed two soldiers in a dugout fighting an enemy of huge rattle which had been captured by their only loaf of bread. It in itself was a sufficient condemnation of war. If the shooting in this picture were permitted in Germany, it is doubtful that the loyal citizens of the Reich would be willing to do or die for dear old Hitler. Then maybe peace might break out in Europe. Who knows?

Fraternities At Miami U. Wait Semester Before Pledging

(Editor's Note—Due to the fact that a number of complaints have been received on the rushing system used on the University of Kentucky campus we think it fitting to set forth a plan used by the students of Miami University.)

Miami fraternities will again observe one full semester deferment in contacting freshmen for pledging. Howard Davis, president of the Council of Fraternity Presidents, stated yesterday afternoon.

The Council which is composed of presidents of Miami's eleven fraternities made several major changes shortly before school closed last spring. A freshman first of all points the first semester in order to be eligible for rushing. Previous to this year, freshmen were only required to make 18 points.

Strict Regulations

Fraternities are not allowed to take freshmen off the campus during rush week, and any infraction of this or any other rule by fraternities or freshmen is subject to disciplinary action by the Council of Fraternity Presidents. Freshmen who are held just as liable as fraternities for infringement of rushing rules.

Freshmen are excluded from fraternity property for the first semester, and likewise fraternity men are not allowed to make rushing contacts in the freshmen dormitories or cottages.

The Council has set aside a two week period following the issuance of the nine weeks grades, whereby fraternity rush chairmen will be allowed to contact freshmen for the purpose of making dates for rush week which starts the first Monday of the second semester.

List To Be Compiled

The names of all freshmen, who do not make the required point average or who are being penalized for infringement of rushing rules, will be sent to each fraternity at the beginning of rush week. All fraternities will be forbidden to make dates with these men.

A freshman not making rushing requirements at the end of the first semester, will not be eligible for rushing until the end of the first year, which starts the second semester, providing he has met the requirements at that time.

Two kinds: Washable All Permanent

The Perfect Combination, Quink plus the Parker Vacumatic Pen

Even the Finest Fountain Pen Performs Far Better

When Filled with this Modern Ink . . . A Marvelous Creation!

Created by Parker to guard pens from pen-clogging inks . . . 60% of the fountain pen troubles.

There is one—and never has been—any other pen designed to handle all kinds of inks—good and bad as well as the revolutionary Quink—this modern invention has no rubber ink sac, no lever filler, no piston pump. It is filled by a simple diaphragm, sealed in the top, where ink can never touch or decompose its working parts.

And its patented Television barrel lets you SEE the level of ink at all times—so you know when to refill.

This pedigreed Beauty of laminated Pearl and Jet is everywhere acknowledged to be the grandest fountain pen ever created. Yet even this Guaranteed Mechanically Perfect pen can be plugged up by filling with any kind of ordinary fountain pen ink.

Hence to guard the celebrated Parker Pens from becoming plugged up, Parker engineers developed this utterly new kind of writing ink—called Quink—ink that actually cleans any pen as it writes.

This is done by a secret ingredient, which is harmless. It dissolves the gum and other troublesome particles in your pen from any ordinary ink. It makes your pen a self-cleaner—cleans as it writes.

Parker Quink is full-bodied, rich, and brilliant. Never watery or gummy. And it dries on PAPER 35% quicker than average, due to stepped-up penetration. Yet Quink costs no more than ordinary inks—small bottles, 15c and 25c.

If you use an ordinary pen, you need Quink even more than does a Parker Pen owner, to keep it in writing condition. If you use a Parker Pen, you'll be thrilled and surprised by the way it performs when filled with Quink. For until we created Quink as a fountain pen ink, this never was a really scientific writing combination.

Those who can afford the best will not rest until they have them both. The Parker Pen Company, Jennevile, Wn.

The Chicago Plan—Will It Supplant The Old System?

In recent months a new plan of higher education has been brought forward by one of the leading American colleges. This new plan, known as the Chicago Plan, was designed to stop the falling of colleges and universities to its modern youth for the world in which they live.

In 1930 this outstanding university put into effect the working plan whereby the first two years of college became a junior college—a two-year unit. Then the school put into effect the principle of selection. They gave everyone a chance to continue in the school, but permitted none to do so unless he had shown the interest and skill the professional work demands.

If a boy or girl shows the required initiative and ability he will receive the opportunity to continue for two more years and take an advanced degree. At this university the modern boy doesn't waste his college career by playing football, and then he turned loose in a two-year period a beset member of society, seeking a place to earn a living.

Everyone remembers the system of grade schools wherein you were graded from one grade to the next after making certain grades or marks. High schools and universities also use this system. But under this new system there is no longer the use of a report card with grades on it. A person may or may not report to classes, because no attendance record is kept. The student is graded only on the results of general exams.

The system of general examinations is very unique in the fact that these series of tests are only given by the student when he is ready. The laborious concentration on credits causes to be a curse to the student. As Chicago is the initiator rests with the student and he is the loser if he doesn't take it.

Apparently the students are accepting this plan very readily as the attendance is very high at the end of the class. The students who have been admitted to this school since the conception of this plan have shown a very marked superiority by all the tests that have been applied, almost half those entering the university rank in the upper tenth of their high school graduating class. However this doesn't mean that the university is only open to valedictorians and geniuses. It encourages all students who have graduated in the upper half of the high school class to enroll.

Since the start of the new plan, the amount of required reading for each student was reduced. However, a check on that university library shows that book withdrawals have risen steadily.

The students seem to feel that the education is their education. If a teacher duplicates a lecture, or becomes bored, he is immediately bombarded with complaints.

Freshmen and sophomores ask for more frequent examinations. These students ask that the examinations be kept open for a longer period of time. Here students discuss questions in philosophy, political science, and biology, at the dinner table and at every lounging place. And finally here the students take their own study time. Truly, it is a remarkable system. It is no wonder, no Utopian idea for universities, but a reality in the mid-western state of Illinois.

Probably someday all universities will adopt this plan. WHO KNOWS?

Kentucky Student Has Studied Around World

Singapore, Madagascar, Honolulu—these are far away places that hold a magical spell for you no doubt. Enrolled as a student at this University is a student who has been there and even further—around the world.

The past two years Harriet Canary, daughter of Captain J. E. Canary, United States Army, attended the University of Hawaii at Honolulu.

In December, 1937, Harriet sailed from Hawaii aboard the Hawaiian cruiser for a month's voyage before returning to the United States. Blond and fragrantly built, her blue eyes merrily dancing, she recounted to me stories of life on board the ship.

Here has not been an ordinary existence, but one linked with exciting and interesting adventures. She has lived for seven years in Hawaii. Asked to speak the native language, since the intricate gyrations of the hula, or repeat in sorrowful tones the chants of the islands, she could oblige. At the University of Hawaii, where every race and creed classify as students, they are never bored. For an hour's diversion between classes after a quick change into bathing suits and a race to the beach, they plunge into the cooling blue water of the Pacific. Or tiring of this a few hours of surfboard riding takes the notoriety of classroom work.

Captain Canary, once a student at the University of Kentucky, is interested in his daughter in further pursuing her knowledge at his Alma Mater. Eventually I had to ask her this, "And how do you like the University?"

She replied, careful of her choice of words, "I am not yet accustomed to seeing only white students, for the luxuriant beauty of the Student Union building, which far surpasses all other union buildings she has ever seen."

From the land of flowers, of black sand beaches at Cona Inland, to the bluegrass of Kentucky Harriet has journeyed to major in political science and to learn the steps of the Big Apple!

Fresh Engineers Find Aid To Study In New Schedule

Freshmen in the College of Engineering will no longer be told that only one of three students can be admitted to pass his first year's studies. Through the use of compulsory study halls during the hours they have no classes, the average grade is being considerably raised. To aid the freshmen in choosing their field of concentration there is a regular three hour assembly every Friday at which the heads of various departments speak on the work taught by their department.

This classroom Dean Graham will read the announcements and introduce Miss Tuttle, who will speak on the use of the library and the variety of material it contains. Aside from the regular class work each engineer must spend at least one summer in field work. The civil and mechanical departments, for practical application of their classroom work. The Mechanical and Electrical majors spend a summer in the shop and laboratories instead of doing this work in the course of the school year.

There is much to be found in the engineering buildings that would interest any student on the campus. In the center of the newly completed buildings is a quadrangle that, when the landscaping is completed, will be one of the show places of the campus.

DEGREE APPLICATION

Football Bowed To UK Students In 1880

Football made its first appearance here in 1880, according to a feature article in the "Kentucky Kernel," September 23, 1934.

In the spring of 1880, two or three "Kentucky University" students read an advertisement telling of the new game which was played with a football. Their curiosity being aroused, the boys proceeded to investigate the matter.

Thus, by means of their own donations and those of other interested persons, $6 was raised, and a football was purchased from Philadelphia. Probably this was the first football ever seen in Kentucky.

Accompanying the ball was a book of rules. The zealous lads organized their own team, which consisted of guards, tackles, centers, ends and backfield men—practically as it is today—and played among themselves.

By R. Q. CUDDLESWORTH
For some reason or other the greatest amount of publicity for the commonest of all the common ailments of man, the common cold, comes in the spring of the year. But often one person's matter more carefully one is apt to find that this assumption is in the gravest error. That is to say, we people are led to believe such a fact by the advertisements of such mouthwashes and gargles as Blisters, Cresodent, Flavorin, and others. These little remedies young men and women use to their product in the spring of the year so that when young men's fancies lightly turn they will be prepared. That the incidences of the malady is that it is more prevalent in the fall.

And why say you is it more prevalent in the fall?

And that is exactly what lots and lots of scientists like The Tree Castle and others would like to know. "That word 'others' sure comes in handy when we can't think of anything else to say. We could have said Harry 'The Hop' Williams but since he's been getting to much type in his favor lately we will leave him to anonymity in this instance." So to clear the mystery we have spent the last six and seven or eight seconds thinking up why. And here are our conclusions.

In the summer one is used to sleeping in the barest of slumber wear. And since the habit is well formed we continue same in the first weeks of fall. Thereby leaving ourselves open to the ravages of the infection. Or if you use the "Paljama" under the pillow in case of fire" style you are more apt to succumb.

Again in the fall with the great colds of the country throwing

Syphilis Ratios Compared In 'Shadow on the Land'

With fifty thousand new cases of syphilis reported in New York State each year and only 2,000 new cases in Scandinavia populations being the same, America can rightly be called the land of syphilis. The treatment for the sick is bringing the desired result.

Dr. Thomas Parran in his book "Shadow on the Land" says that "there is reason to believe that if all conditions due to syphilis were reported as such it would be found a leading cause of death in the United States."

After this startling statement, Dr. Parran goes on to say that syphilis finds "its best soil" in mucous membranes; therefore it is spread chiefly through sexual contact and belongs to the group of so-called venereal diseases.

Comparison is made of Parran of an infected person who takes medical and one who has no medical treatment shows the possible end results caused by syphilis. Under medical treatment the person, through tests, then treatments, which is followed by continued treatments, and the result is that 86% of the total are cured.

Without medical treatment in the later stages of syphilis the infected person may infect other persons. The possible endings of the person without treatment is heart disease, apoplexy, blindness, insanity, or it may show no noticeable illness.

In Copenhagen 99% of the infected persons are treated sufficiently while in the United States only 1% of the infected persons are sufficiently treated.

Dr. Parran offers as a remedy for this a routine test by insurance companies, law enforcement agencies, hospitals, marriage license bureaus, government employers, and is to be followed up with "treatment for the sick, education for all, and research," to be conducted by medical and health agencies.

The New York Times recommends "Shadow on the Land" for all laymen.

as an elementary institution," and if so, General Hollifield said, "it is the duty of the state inspector and examiner to annually investigate, audit and report to the governor the financial condition of all such institutions, owned or operated in whole or part by this state, and this audit and report should be sufficiently broad so as to give the governor a complete understanding of not only the financial condition, but the past management and use of the funds furnished to said institution by the State of Kentucky."

An annual savings of approximately $1500 is seen, if the practice of hiring private accountants to audit University accounts is discontinued and the auditing investigation, and reporting is turned over to Director Sewell's office.

A report to the governor on the authority of the director to post audits to investigate the financial affairs of the State was sought.

Previously it was a touch back when two passes in the same series of downs were incomplete behind the goal line. Now it is a touch back only when a pass is incomplete over the goal line on the fourth down.

Plans for an expanded program of education in syphilis control and social hygiene to reach ultimately 35,000,000 young men and women throughout the nation were announced in New York recently by Dr. William F. Snow, Chairman of the Administrative Committee of the American Social Hygiene Association.

The Federal Government will spend more than $135,000,000 during the coming year in the largest national health program in history. Included in this amount will be an expenditure of $3,000,000 to be used in a direct attack on syphilis and gonorrhea in which local physicians will be furnished drugs and be paid from Government funds for treating these diseases.

Oglethorpe The Stormy Petrels from down Atlanta, Georgia, who possessors of a less strenuous platoon schedule than usual, trade tackles with the Blue Blues October 1. Picked as the second of the two teams that Kentucky mentor, "Al" Krivan has predicted his warriors would wallop, the Atlantans stepped off on the lame foot when they allowed the Furman gridsters to trip them 19-0 last Saturday. One game's experience plus shifty, deceptive backs should overshadow the vicissitudes of the Stormy Petrels.

Vanderbilt Clipping the lid off the pot of gridiron brags with Washington U. tomorrow and then tapering off the Western Kentucky Teachers College, next week the powerful Commodore of Vanderbilt conceded a 2-1 gamble to navigate over the Crimson Tide of Alabama in their annual "Turkey Day" skirmish this year, sails with a crew of dynamite onto the local headlines October 8. Ray Morrison's band of pirates captained by Marvin Franklin may slice off a larger hunk of Wildcat flesh than the 12-0 portion they were satisfied with last year.

Washington and Lee With five sophomore soldiers filling the molehilled warriors at Lexington, Virginia stronghold, the Washington and Lee Generals, victors over only Wofford and Virginia University last season will await the 41-6 set-back received at the hands of the "Twenty Grand" Davis and Company on the Euclid Avenue greenery last year. In addition to the five sophomore sensations who have increased the pulse rate of Coach William W. Brown's men, several varsity regulars will be on hand to greet the Blues with military precision.

Xavier Conceded a chance to break better than even in a nine-game schedule, the pugnastrous Musketeers of Cincinnati, still grinning at the worried Wildcats who scratched out just enough home only once in the year's 6-0 scramble, will play homecoming hosts to the Blue and Whites October 27 at Corcoran Field in Cincinnati. Paced by the brilliant passing and running star, Russ Nickel, the mighty Musketeers, armed with seven returning seniors should be rated an even chance to nip the Cat's tail.

Alabama The once surging Crimson Tide that faded to a mere anemic trickle at the close of the '37 season after being accredited undisputed victor in the Southeastern League, displayed no evidence that would openly brand them as such. However, news from Tuscaloosa town brings merry messages that the Crimson Elephant, still piloted by veteran mentor Frank Thomas, is all geared to trample out any rising legions in the Southeast. The piston-like knees of "Bama's" Holm, Kilgore, and Zivich, coupled with a homicidal heat wave to dispel our lads 41-0 last year.

Georgia Tech Stripped of seven superb performers, the once sturdy stalk of Georgia Tech is doomed to a huge letdown, unless W. A. Alexander can uncover a new breed of his backfield combination of Komesan and Sims. Although subjected to a 22-0 stinging in their own back yard by the romping Yellow Jackets last year, the Wildcats whose punts have been solved by the happy news of the Jacket weakness, will invade the Jacket nest November 5.

Clemson Desiring their South Carolina hair for a day, the Clemson Tigers, who should be bloodied after seven weeks of nursing flesh wounds that they are certain of receiving at the hands of such formidable opponents as South Carolina, Tennessee, Tulane, and Wake Forest, travel north to the den of the Kentucky Wildcat at Euclid Avenue, November 12. Inspired by the magnificent playing and leadership of furore-hooved Charlie Woods, who will guide the Tigers through ambitious nine game backwoods, the Clemson lads should come to the Kentucky last with claws a-flying. This year's fracas is a renewal of activities for the schools who have had one year pause. In '36 the Kentucky Blues eked out a 7-5 decision by virtue of Johnson's after touchdown placement, Tennessee

With one of the worst seasons that he has ever experienced at Tennessee behind him, Colonel Neyland, Volunteer warrior, with the aid of Catego, Wood, Sneed, and Duncan is all set for a big year. In last year's renewal of the Turkey Day feud, the vicious Vols bounced the Cats with a 13-0 count. This season the Kentuckians clamp the cover over a nine game schedule when they travel to Knoxville.

You Can Be My Friend—Your 'Roomie'

By James Hall How to get along with the roomie? That's easy, for a recent survey shows that the trouble with a roommate usually arises from a limited number of sources. Once these sources are recognized, and by practicing a bit of restraint, the fiery redheads and the intellectual types can rub elbows for weeks on end without a mere suggestion of fist-cuffs.

The biggest cause of roommate trouble is that root of all evils, money. Some people find it extremely irritating to have a roommate continually borrowing small sums of money for extra-curricular eating and such smooth Friday-night parties. After a semester of this kind of date, the date are definitely a part of college life, but not on roommate's party card.

Another constant source of woe to platonic friendship is the feather which is the common cross a sartorial eagle. Imagine a man's consternation when he finds the blue polka dot tie with the heart-shaped gray spot dangle, day after day, from the neck of his roommate. After a semester of this kind of piracy, the original owner feels guilty about wearing his own tie.

Besides money and clothes, the communistic community idea often breaks up what should have been a beautiful friendship. The communistic community idea believes: "What is yours is mine and what is mine is mine." This philosophy applies to everything from bath salts to razor blades.

It roommates hurdle all these pitfalls, there is one more which may cause many a blue eye to become tearful. It is here that the slithers into the picture. You guessed it! Don't chisel in on roomie's best girl or boy friend, whichever the case may be. Nothing can cause cold shoulder to be dispensed more quickly than a quick poke with "the wrong person." Understand now, this means an intentional poke at "the boy or girl . . . of course duty is duty.

To sum it all up there are four things to avoid: exchanging money wearing each other's clothes, borrowing tooth brushes, and as George Washington said, "Beware of Foreign Entanglements."

McVey Addresses First ODK Meeting

Pres. Frank L. McVey spoke at an open forum discussion of campus problems at a dinner meeting of ODK, national honorary men's leadership fraternity, at the Student Union building last night. Sherman Hinkbein, president of the organization, presided. Committees were appointed to investigate the cases of students who are dropping themselves necessities in order to attend college, and to make preliminary reports on the relationships between fraternities and the University.

CATS UNLEASHED

Eldner was expected to occupy one of the starting tackle slots in practice Tuesday he suffered a fractured bone in the middle finger of his right hand and, although the injury is not serious, will probably not start the game against Maryland.

At the center position Capt. Hinkbein will add his vocal inspirations to the Cats' play. Regarded as one of the outstanding centers in the South, Hinkbein is backed by a couple of 200-pounders, Joe Bailey and Harold Black, as well as Mel French, who scales 185.

Cat Weight Edge Great Kentucky will host a 21 pound weight advantage per man, the Cat team balancing 190 as an average and the Scots tipping the weights at 169. The Maryland backfield will average 166 pounds as compared to Kentucky's 180, in the line Kentucky's advantage will be the greatest with an average of 190 to 169.

Officers for the game will be Hol Stutz, DePaw, referee; Ramsey Taylor, Georgetown, umpire; Lee R. Tolley, Sewanee, head linesman and Roy Striegel, Tennessee, field judge. Probable lineups and weights:

University Personality Sketches Show Profs' Character Facets

If you have definitely made up your mind as to what you intend to do when you graduate from the University but get sidetracked instead, don't feel cheated. Prof. Raymond Barnhart of the art department did all sorts of work before he came to the University two years ago.

With a start as a deckhand on a steamer, rate clerk in a railroad office, time keeper on a building construction, laborer in glass plants, all minor jobs on road construction, radio and refrigerator salesman, and manager of an electrical appliance store.

He came from an Irish family and attended Carnegie Tech, Marshall College, Huntington, and Ohio State. Never borrowing any money, but working his way through school, he made straight A's.

It was while at Marshall college that he met his wife, Mrs. Sebastian Barnhart. They were married while in school and received their degrees later.

Mr. Barnhart stated, "I am very fond of music, but I know nothing about it, and I like fiction, but I never get to read it. I go to too many movies, but never like many of them, and I certainly dislike to write letters."

Spinning, tennis, and badminton are his favorite sports, and painting in his chief interest. Although he gives instructions in his week-end vacations to portraiture as his favorites and he uses his week-end vacations to paint.

Mr. Barnhart said that he is much more interested in the company of young people rather than older and that most of his friends are young. Although he is interested in teaching young people, he dislikes students who are not interested in their work. He loves to dance, but he feels out of place at the University dances because he believes that dancing should be relaxing, not gymnastic.

Although he has never been farther west than Chicago nor farther east than Buffalo, he is going abroad this summer to see something of the world.

By RUTH JEAN LEWIS In the Engineering College, they call him "The Colonel." This title still lives, long after many men of the battalion which he led in France during the World War have died . . . and he is every inch a colonel. The name fits him much better than "dean."

He expects a great deal from all of his young engineers. New students soon learn that the great tall man with the white hair means business. Later they discover that the apparent sternness masks a kindly teacher, who could not remain aloof, because he is so anxious to help with any student problem.

Calling 'Em Wild

By JOE CREASON

WITH mid-season fury the football storm that has been gathering for the past nine months will break upon the waiting head of John Q. Public tomorrow as practically every major team in the country breaks from the starting barrier and thumps toward the first turn in the 1938 grid derby.

Kentucky goes to bat in the first inning against the Mountaineers from Maryville College. Inexperience casts a heavy veil around the Kentucky grid moon with experts agreed on but one thing concerning the Wildcat team: that based on experience, the starting eleven will be as green as St. Patrick's Day decorations.

Possibilities Lurking From outward appearances it might appear that Kentucky's chances for escaping the year with an even fair record is as slim as a six o'clock shadow, but there are strong cards in the Blue and White pack, or so it appears from this armchair. The line which in the consensus of expert opinions couldn't stop a strong nose bleed, has possibilities which if uncovered will make or break Kentucky this year.

Remarks concerning the above mentioned duo of faults terrifies more poison to me than a chest full of cobras, so pile in your criticisms people, here are the reasons: Kentucky 38, Maryville 6. Alabama 7, Southern California 13. California 21, St. Mary's 7. Louisiana State 20, Mississippi 0. Minnesota 6, Washington 12. Pittsburgh 20, West Virginia 7. Tennessee 40, Tennessee 9. Clemson 6, Tulane 13. Florida 27, Sletson 0.

Silly Season Open Each year at the opening of the grid wars, sports writers get a far away, shell-shocked look in their eyes and kid themselves into believing they are adept at picking the Saturday winners. In this respect I'm one of the boys, except that I not only pick the winners but the scores. My system is easy, all you do is jot down the games; for the first team's score you think of any number, then look at the next team and for their score you divide your weight by the number of months in the year, then relax and wait for the predictions to explode in your face.
