As charged by the By-Laws of the Central Kentucky Jewish Association, the Community Relations Committee shall "encourage within the membership individual concern about and response to the social problems of the times."

The problems are many and the responses have been prompt and varied

The Central Kentucky Jewish Association, through its Community Relations Committee, will participate with God's Pantry-Crisis Food Center to help establish a Food Bank here in Lexington. God's Pantry, an ecumenical effort to meet the significant hunger needs of the Greater Lexington area, will expand its services and become a Food Bank with space to receive food which can be distributed to non-profit agencies feeding the ill, elderly and infants. Members of the Jewish community are strongly urged to help. Please bring NON-PERISHABLE foods to Ohavay Zion Synagogue between 10:00 a.m. and 2:00 p.m. on Sunday, October 16 or 23. Items such as boxes of hot or cold cereal, spaghetti and its products, flour, rice and corn meal; cans of tuna, milk, vegetables and unsweetened juices; and infant formula and infant cereal are most desirable. Please!! Help those in Lexington who are hungry.

DID YOU KNOW there are approximately 150 Jewish faculty on the campus of the University of Kentucky? The Community Relations Committee has compiled a listing of these faculty members and is in the process of organizing a meeting with them. The purposes of the meeting are to develop a plan to counteract the pro-Arab anti-Israel activities which occur all too frequently on the campus of the University; to determine how the Jewish faculty can be most effective in expressing their concerns over the abridgement of the academic freedom of their Jewish counterparts in the Soviet Union; to investigate the feasibility of establishing a certificate in Jewish studies on the campus; and most of all to give all the faculty an opportunity to meet each other. The Committee hopes that it will be able to maintain ongoing activities with the Jewish faculty at the University of Kentucky.

AND I WAS THERE Many of you had the opportunity to see the television program "And I Was There," co-sponsored by the Community Relations Committee and Channel 18. The program was shown in prime time last month featuring five residents from Central Kentucky each of whom had personal experiences with the Holocaust, with Otis Singletary, President of the University of Kentucky, as the moderator. The Committee expresses its sincere thanks to Dr. Oscar Haber, Mrs. Sylvia Green, Mr. Henry Darmstadter, Colonel Bruce Coleman and Dr. Leonidas Mostowycz for their superb participation. We also express our great appreciation to Dr. Otis Singletary and his office staff for the time and help they provided us. Mr. Harry Barfield, station manager of Channel 18, provided us with an outstanding staff and all of the facilities of the channel. All of this help resulted in an extremely professional production. Since the airing of the program the Committee has received a phenomenal amount of extremely positive feedback, including requests for copies of the tape to be stored in several libraries, and a request to show the tape in a number of classes at the University. Copies of the tape are available for showing in private homes and at all types of group meetings. For further information please call Dr. David Wekstein at 269-4454.

ISRAEL BOND COMMITTEE
SCHOOL LIAISON PROGRAM INSTITUTED

In response to the problems and needs of our Jewish public school children within the Christian-oriented society, the Community Relations Committee has inaugurated the Liaison Program with the Fayette County Schools. Each school in the county which has Jewish students has been assigned an individual from the Central Kentucky Jewish Association whose role it is to communicate directly with the principal. The liaison is not only intended to help the principal avoid calendar conflicts during Jewish holidays, but also to assist educationally as the need may arise. Parents may also use the liaison persons in their children's schools to serve as a third party, or buffer, if problems of anti-semitism or discrimination erupt. The Community Relations Committee does encourage parents of our school children to contact their respective liaisons if any problems do arise. The liaison will not act on the problem unless requested by the parent, but will be able to keep track of various problems and be able to identify where, if any place, in the school there seem to be chronic problems.

. TALKING IT OVER

The Christian orientation of the music curriculum of the schools, both at Christmas time and throughout the year, has long been a source of concern to our public school children and their parents. Members of the Community Relations Committee have met with a group of music teachers from the various schools to discuss the problem. A full morning was spent in dialogue with these teachers at which time we had the opportunity to describe and explain our concerns. No concrete solution was achieved, but in an area where interpretation and perception are key factors, consciousness was raised on both sides of the issue. The Community Relations Committee feels comfortable in telling parents and public school children that the schools are beginning to listen. We are headed in the right direction.

If you want more information about our programs with the public schools, please call Sheila DeKosky at 268-0627.

CHAIRMAN OF AUSCHWITZ COMMITTEE TO SPEAK

Mr. Mel Mermelstein, Chairman of the Auschwitz Committee of the United States will present a film on the Warsaw Ghetto and talk about the Holocaust on Wednesday, October 19, 1983. The presentation will be at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Congregation Ohavay Zion, 120 West Maxwell Street, Lexington. Mr. Mermelstein is a survivor of the Holocaust, an author of the book By Bread Alone which tells his story. In 1981 he filed suit against the Institute for Historical Review which claimed the Holocaust was nothing but a hoax. He won his suit in the California Courts. Mr. Mermelstein has lectured extensively on the topic of the Holocaust. Please plan to attend.

CRC Chair, David Wekstein, and Co-Chair, Charlotte Baer, advise us that we need a 16 mm sound movie projector and screen to project a movie Mr. Mermelstein is going to share. If possible we need a big screen - not one used in home living rooms. Are you the person who can solve the need? Volunteer the screen and projector by calling CKJA at 277-8048.

BOY SCOUTS ANNOUNCE SPECIAL SIGN-UPS FOR JEWISH YOUTH

For many years, the Bluegrass Council of the Boy Scouts of America has held sign-ups at local schools on the first Thursday after Labor Day. This year the date fell on Rosh Hashonah. Through the efforts of the Community Relations Committee, and with the full cooperation of the Bluegrass Council office, alternate arrangements have been made for all Jewish youth interested in entering scouting.

Don Cohen has agreed to serve as the liaison between CKJA and the Boy Scout Council. If your children are interested in participating in this excellent program, contact Don at 223-9578 for information concerning registration.

BAR/BAT MITZVAH TWINNING - A POSTSCRIPT

We apologize for inadvertently omitting mention of Becky Birenbaum who celebrated her Bat Mitzvah in May at Temple Adath Israel, sharing it with Frida Mullokanov of the Soviet Union.

Young people at the Temple preparing for Bar/Bat Mitzvah work closely with Rabbi Leffler in making a decision whether to "adopt" a Soviet "twin." Information from an organization called Action for Soviet Jewry is distributed to all pre-Bar/Bat Mitzvah students.

If you or your children are interested in obtaining further information about this project, please call Rabbi Leffler at 254-8815; David Wekstein, CRC Chair at 233-6671, or 269-4454 (home); or Charlotte Baer, CRC Co-chair at 257-5932, or 277-3072 (home).

ISRAEL BOND COMMITTEE

The 1983 Central Kentucky Israel Bonds Campaign was kicked off during the High Holiday Season. Chaired by Roz and Morris Rozen of Richmond, co-chaired by Steve Caller, and supported by a large, active committee, this year's effort will be a telephone and personal solicitation campaign rather than a dinner honoring a local person. It is felt that because less than 10% of our Jewish community actually attended the dinners, the new format will reach a larger segment of possible bond purchasers.

This year Israel Bonds offers a minimum $250 bond which is not interest bearing, but is readily convertible to cash. The $500 bond, and increments above, bears the usual 4% rate and matures in 15 years. There is also an excellent bond available to IRA's, Keogh plans, building funds and other such non-profit institutions at a competitive rate of 7½% plus half the difference in the prime rate. Today it is paying 9¼%!

Funds raised through the sale of Israel Bonds go to help build Israel's economic infrastructure and to create jobs. This, of course, is the best route for Israel to become self sufficient and able to compete in the world financial community. The next decade will feature the construction of a water carrier-channel from the Mediterranean Sea to the Dead Sea. This will provide hydroelectric power for Israel as well as restore fresh salt water to the nearly depleted Dead Sea.

When you are called to purchase a bond, please respond with a positive and supportive reply. For more information, contact Roz and Morris at 606-623-3865 or Steve Caller at 266-1314. The need for money never goes away; it sits on one side of a see-saw -- it can only be balanced by caring and giving. We are the carers and the givers, aren't we?

Dear Editor,

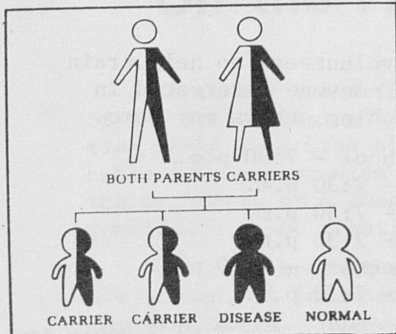

I'd like to express my thanks and give three cheers to the Pre-school Party Committee. Who are these creative and giving people? They deserve recognition for making Sukkot an exciting, educational experience for the participating pre-schoolers.

With such memories as making and decorating his own Sukkah and modeling clay into fruits and vegetables, it's no wonder my four-year-old adores these parties. I am appreciative that CKJA and its volunteers provide this type of Jewish play for the community's children.

Sincerely,
Susan S. Miller

Editor's Note: 1983 Chairwoman of Pre-school parties is Sharyn Sharer who was helped by Elayne Crystal and Kitsy Newburg.

Tay Sachs testing program on October 16

On October 16, 1983, Kentucky's first community-wide Tay Sachs testing program will be held at the Jewish Community Center in Louisville. The testing program, sponsored by the Child Evaluation Center, Jewish Hospital, the Jewish Community Federation, the Jewish Community Center, and endorsed by the Louisville Board of Rabbis, is aimed primarily at all married and engaged individuals, as well as single individuals, 21 years of age and older.

Tay Sachs disease is a rare inherited condition which occurs predominantly in Jewish children of Central and Eastern European ancestry. Approximately 50 children are born in the U.S. each year with Tay Sachs disease. This is a particularly tragic disease since the Tay Sachs child appears normal until about 6 months of age when mental and motor retardation begins and rapid deterioration ensues. Over the next several years, the child loses all of its abilities to turn over, to crawl, to sit up, to eat, to smile, to see and eventually, to live.

Tay Sachs disease is inherited from two normal healthy parents who both carry the gene for this disease. The gene has no meaning for the person's health or well-being. The only time the Tay Sachs gene can create a problem is when each of the individuals pass on their copy of the gene to their child.

Tay Sachs is 100 times more common in the Jewish population. About 1 in 30 Jews are carriers of Tay Sachs disease as compared to 1 in 300 among non-Jews. If both parents are Tay Sachs carriers, the risk per pregnancy is 1 in 4. Because of recent medical breakthroughs, all carriers can now be detected through a simple, accurate and inexpensive blood test. Once identified, couples can be helped to have unaffected children.

The cost of the test is $20.00 which includes both the laboratory expense and the cost of shipping the samples to a special laboratory in California. This test is also available year-round through the Child Evaluation Center. However, because of individual shipping costs to the laboratory, the cost is higher.

The testing is to be held from 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. on Sunday, October 16, 1983, at the Louisville Jewish Community Center. For further information and to make an appointment, call the Louisville Jewish Federation at 502-451-8840 between 9-5 and on weekends and evenings, call Barbara at 502-426-4986.

The Cincinnati JCC is sponsoring a Jewish Marriage Encounter Weekend, November 5-6-7 at Vernon Manor in Cincinnati. For information contact David and Celia Lasse, 4717 Elizabeth Place, Cincinnati, 45242, (513) 984-0163.

TEMPLE SISTERHOOD MITZVAH CORPS

The Temple Adath Israel Sisterhood's Mitzvah Corps extends an invitation to all eligible Kentuckians to join its ranks. Mitzvah Corps is a club for Jewish citizens over 55 who get together for social, educational and, above all, enjoyable meetings.

The first meeting of our New Year will be a festive get together October 25th in the Vestry of Ohavay Zion Synagogue. Lunch will be served promptly at noon and after a short business meeting, the treat of the afternoon will be a most interesting and enjoyable program: Ted Friedman will speak on Jewish Humor. This meeting will mark the second anniversary of the Mitzvah Corps.

The dues for the club are $10.00 a year. Ruth Bell, Treasurer, will look forward to receiving a check from you. She lives at 2121 Nicholasville Road, Lexington, 40503.

The Corps is most appreciative of Ohavay Zion's gracious OPEN DOOR. They look forward to the hospitality extended while they are a club without a clubhouse. You owe it to yourself to join Mitzvah Corps. Friendship, entertainment and involvement are yours when you climb aboard.

On the Paintings of J. James Tissot

It is not too difficult to perceive why J. James Tissot's gouache paintings of the Bible remained in obscurity for over fifty years. Realistic and illustrative works (executed at that explosive moment in art history when impressionism - cubism - expressionism and countless artistic modern experiments burst forth upon the awareness of a long art-retarded world) could hardly be accepted, or seriously considered to be creative or original.

With the present resuscitation of things Victorian, a new look, perhaps less prejudiced, is incumbent upon us. Tissot was undoubtedly a romantic realist in a changing world. However, his paintings were the culmination of considerable research in the realms of archaeology, ancient geography and the Bible. They could well serve as an ABC artistic primer of the Bible including, as they do, illustrations from Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Deuteronomy, the Psalms, Isaiah, Joshua, the Kings, ad infinitum.

A trip to the Museum with your children could engender in them a new excitement in their Sunday School material when faced with illustrations of (then) Palestine and Biblical heroes in living color (gouache).

The technique and interpretations of Tissot manifest many influences - from Mantegna to Whistler - from Bellini to William Hunt. The one oil painting included in the exhibit of Elijah is handled as though it were gouache, not oil. There is a great dependence upon line/outline to establish form rather than through the use of color values and tonality. Notwithstanding, the colors are bright, clear and definitive; the content involves artistic imagery, perceptive observation and reconstruction of historical and archaeological data.

There are modern Rabbinical scholars and Biblical authorities who dispute Tissot's accuracy and argue that he was guilty of basic misconceptions. Surely these arguments must be irrelevant when viewing these paintings as creative works of art and not documentaries. The privilege of reduction, deletion, distortion and even misrepresentation for purposes of composition belongs to the creative artist.

Despite their smallness of size, this suite of 160 paintings is moving and powerful. There is a strong sense of movement manipulated through design. Look for "Joseph Converses with Judah" and "David Plays the Harp Before Saul" for superb design -- and for emotionality and power, "Elijah Raiseth the Widow's Son" and "Adam and Eve Driven from Paradise."

These paintings do not speak the language of the 20th century, but they are articulate and dramatic. Don't miss them.
