Students Sponsor Parties For 202 Needy Children

Campus organizations are sponsoring Christmas parties for underprivileged Lexington children in an effort to share the Christmas spirit with others.

Festivities began Sunday and will continue through Thursday night.

Doug Roberts, chairman of the committee sponsoring the parties, said yesterday that some of the fraternities had been forced to drop out of the program because of Greek Week but that all sororities have cooperated very well.

Six fraternities and 10 sororities are sponsoring the following parties:

Kennedy Selects Rusk As Secretary Of State

PALM BEACH, Fla., Dec. 12 (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy today chose the high command of the new administration's foreign policy team. He named Dean Rusk secretary of state, Chester Bowles undersecretary, and Adlai Stevenson ambassador to the United Nations.

Rusk, 51-year-old Democrat, is president of the Rockefeller Foundation and served as assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs in the Truman administration.

Moslems Riot In Algiers

ALGIERS, Dec. 12 (AP)—Moslems defiantly waving the flag of nationalist rebellion rioted again today in Algiers but finally were penned up in their teeming quarter by French soldiers and riot police. The death toll from four days of disorder rose to 90.

The mobs vented their fury on Jews in the native quarter, sacking Jewish stores and looting a synagogue on the edge of the quarter. Police dispersed them with tear gas grenades. An army helicopter fired on a rebel flag hoisted above the synagogue.

Soviet Sends Airlift To Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos, Dec. 12 (AP)—The Soviet Union passed its arms airlift to Quinim Phouesaa's leftist regime today as the self-proclaimed premier's pro-Western enemies moved to undercut him with a direct appeal to King Savang Vatthana.

Polls Open At 9 A.M. For Student Election

Polls will be open from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. today so students can vote to select 99 representatives for Student Congress, and approve or reject the proposed constitution.

Bob Wainscott, acting Student Congress president, said the election was being held to fill seats granted by the new constitution.

Wainscott said, "If the constitution passes, the election will be valid, but if it doesn't pass, the empty seats will be filled under the old constitution."

He added that "we are running the election under the new constitution to get manpower."

Lack of manpower is the main reason the congress has not been operating as it should, he said.

Voting booths for each college will be located in the following buildings:

College of Arts and Sciences and Graduate School students will vote in front of the Journalism Building; Engineering, Anderson Hall; Agriculture and Home Economics, Home Economics Building; Pharmacy, Pharmacy Building; Commerce, in front of White Hall; and Education, Taylor Education Building.

Wainscott said that the Law students will handle their own voting procedure and turn the results in to him. They will be voting in Lafayette Hall.

The only requirement for voting is that the student have an ID card, Wainscott said.

When asked if the parties were making a big effort to get certain candidates elected or if there was any unusual politicking, Wainscott said:

"As I see it there is only one party (Students' Party) with candidates and they haven't done any lobbying, or made any deals with fraternities or sororities to sway votes."

Vote counting will be started as soon as the polls close and a normal check of voting procedures is concluded, probably about 5:30 p.m., Wainscott said.

According to Wainscott there will be a blackboard in the lobby of the SUB and results of the election will be tabulated there as they are counted.

Wainscott expressed hope that students would participate in the election to establish a new workable student government.

Candidates for Student Congress are listed on page two.

DR. MALCOLM JEWELL

Dr. Jewell To Head District Democrats

Dr. Malcolm E. Jewell, associate professor of political science, was elected head of the 49th district of the Lexington Democratic party.

"The best way to study the government and politics is to be involved in it," Dr. Jewell stated. His interest stems from his position as teacher of the political parties.

The Democratic party holds organization meetings every four years and elects leaders on the precinct level. From these a representative from each county is elected, except in counties such as Fayette County where two district representatives are elected.

Dr. Jewell and State Representative R. P. Moloney Sr., of the 50th district, selected the county chairman.

Directories May Be Ready For Distribution Thursday

William Grote, Kernel Printing Plant Manager, said yesterday that "the Student Directory has been printed and we are in the process of binding it, hoping to have it finished by Thursday."

Bob Wainscott, acting Student Congress president, said, "As soon as we are contacted that the directories are ready we will pick them up and take them to the three distribution points."

The directories will be available at the Campus Book Store, Kennedy Book Store, and the Student Congress office in the SUB.

Wainscott indicated that the books will cost about the same as last year.

The directories were delayed this year in the office of machine statistics. David Sheets, director of the office, said that "it was just a matter of time. We had to alphabetize the list of names, addresses, and telephone numbers."

UK Wins 15 Debates In Chicago Tournament

A University debate team won 15 out of 16 debates in a tournament held at the Chicago branch of the University of Illinois last weekend.

The "A" team was the only undefeated team of the sixty schools represented.

The "B" team tied for second place with Augustana College, Rock Island, Ill., with seven wins and one loss.

"The win was nothing short of miraculous," said Dr. Gifford Blyton, debate team coach.

The "A" team included Ben Wright, Cadiz; Gary Wright, Bedford; Jay Roberts, Richmond; and Michael Snedeker, Owensboro.

The "B" team consisted of Bettye Choate, Herndon; Warren Scoville, London; Nancy Louhridge, Lexington; and Earl Oremus, Lexington.

The debate team participating in the Dixie Classics at Wake Forest College in Winston-Salem, N.C., last weekend did not place. The Bellarmine College tournament was cancelled.

Each year in Kentucky, about 1,600 new cases of tuberculosis are reported, and each contribution helps to provide future protection for each student and their families."

The winner of the contest will be presented with an engraved trophy from the tuberculosis association.

Driving Out Playboys

Dr. Paul Woodring, consultant to the Fund for Advancement of Education, maintains that the day of the college playboy—the underachiever—is just about over.

In a recent article, he described the playboys as the students who "don't work very hard, don't learn very much, and don't seem to care even though they have the ability to do good work."

Citing examples of colleges which will no longer tolerate the student who strives for the "gentleman's C," Dr. Woodring said the playboy must go since openings in first-rate colleges are at a premium.

UK, too, has its fair share of students who are interested only in getting a degree to increase their prospective earning power or in the social aspects of college life. They manage to do just the work necessary to stay in school long enough to get their degrees.

Although UK is not yet in a position in which it must turn away applicants because of lack of space, we might examine the situation. As the population increases at a faster rate than the University's facilities expand, someday we may face the same problems.

When that day arrives, refusal to admit students without the native intellect to absorb a college education will not be sufficient. Nor will dropping students unable to make 2.0 standings solve the problem, for with future increased admission requirements, such students will not have been admitted. Then we must begin to eliminate our deadwood—cease to respect the "C" as a mark of a gentleman.

Dr. Woodring discussed colleges which dismiss the underachievers who do not perform up to their capabilities and advise the dismissed men to join the Army before applying for readmission. UK could field an entire battalion immediately if its underachievers all enlisted in the armed services.

We do not expect a future Nirvana in which every student is engrossed in a search for knowledge for the sake of knowledge alone. In our pragmatic society we expect to continue seeing major emphasis placed on the financial value of a college degree and enrollment in various curriculums will continue to increase in direct proportion to the increasing beginning salaries for graduates in the field. We may not favor such happenings, but we expect no sudden reversal just because of an expanding population and stiffened academic requirements.

But we do look forward to the day when students enter the University for an education not a meal ticket and the center of student life is the Library not the Grill.

Portrait Of A Murderer

Soviets And Mark Twain

The Soviet Union has just hailed Mark Twain, on his 125th natal anniversary, as "a depicter of the backstage side of the notorious American democracy." Mark obviously knew the truth and said it about this dreadful country of ours, according to the Kremlin spokesmen. We might help the Kremlin with a few more suggestions. H. L. Mencken, Sinclair Lewis, Peter Finley Dunne and his Mr. Dooley, and Will Rogers, for examples, were pretty good critics of American life and politics too. Like Mark Twain, they had led unregimented lives and they grew to be the kind of individual who says what he thinks after thinking for himself. The Soviet Union is welcome to read our great free-wheeling, free-criticizing wits, under one condition. In return we'd like to read some of theirs, products of the Soviet system. No names come to mind at all!

Readers Discuss Stylus, Electoral College

Defends Reviewer

To The Editor:

Indeed, it is "unusual" for a faculty member to review Stylus, and Dr. R. O. Evans' review was an unusually good one. Dr. Evans did not write five paragraphs of "meaningless chatter" and inane panegyrics about Stylus. He wrote a lucid account of what Stylus is, what it is not, and what it could be. (This account is perfectly justifiable in view of the fact that many University students do not seem to have an exact idea of the nature of Stylus.) He then gave a critique of the prose section of Stylus, and commented at equal length and with the same amount of care on the poetry published in the present issue. (Could the fact that Mr. Carbonell's poem was not selected for intensive explanation be the reason for his vitriolic denunciation of Dr. Evans' review?)

In his discussion of the art reproductions, Dr. Evans perspicaciously observed that the photograph of Phillip Harris' ceramics accomplished an unexpectedly excellent tactile effect. Only a psychopathically hyper-sensitive person could read into these comments a polemic against Mr. Harris' art work. If the earthenware objects did not have good texture, shape, and construction, they could not have been photographed so successfully.

Finally, Mr. Carbonell's unnecessarily rude and consciously vindictive closing statement reveals his inability to make an objective, intelligent, and valid evaluation of the review.

MARY MARSHALL PHELPS

On Electoral Reform

To The Editor:

In the editorial of the Baltimore Evening Sun which was reprinted in the Kernel last week, the editor seems to favor the Lodge-Gossett amendment for electoral reform. While this might seem to be a more democratic approach to the "problem," there are certain considerations that must be looked into before we change a system that has served us well through the years.

There is probably far too much concern about the Electoral College. Only once did a man lose the election after receiving the majority of the popular vote. Studies have shown that if the Lodge-Gossett proposals had been law over the years two men would have lost the election even though they won a majority of the popular vote. These elections were in 1880 and 1896.

Generally speaking, the only states that would benefit from the Lodge-Gossett proposals would be the one-party states, such as the Southern states. No one will argue that the key states such as New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, etc., don't have an advantage in the electoral college. However, it is only fair that these states have some advantages, particularly when they do not receive proper representation in Congress, particularly in the Senate.

As Sen. Kennedy said in debates in the Senate in 1956 when he was fighting such a proposal: "One of New York's greatest hopes of recapturing its relative loss of influence in the legislative branch is to have an effective influence on the presidency." He noted that each state, regardless of size, has two senators. Rural interests have always had far too much power in state legislatures as well as in Congress.

Under the Lodge plan, third parties could hope to win a few electoral votes and therefore they would be encouraged to demonstrate their power by putting up a candidate. This weapon could be extremely effective when the presidential contests are particularly close.

Another important consideration is the tedious job of counting votes. Under the proportional plan each vote would be particularly important. If the returns of future elections come in as slowly as they have in the election just past, the nation might not know the winner until weeks after the election. This plan would also encourage voting frauds.

It seems to me that this proposal would not solve the problem that it is aimed at solving, and unless a more realistic approach can be brought forward we should allow the Electoral College to function as it has in the past.

Listening And Relaxation

Music Lounge Features Quiet Atmosphere

Music Librarian

Mrs. J. S. Dailey, record librarian, pulls a record from the shelves in the Fine Arts Building Music Lounge for a student who wants to hear the recording.

Some are there for relaxation; some to listen to pleasant music; and others just find a quiet atmosphere for studying.

But, regardless of their motives, groups of students gather in the Music Lounge in the Fine Arts Building continually from the hour it opens until its doors are closed.

Those who utilize the facilities found in the lounge enjoy listening to music played over a loud-speaker system, and play records to learn to recognize individual classical pieces for humanities or music classes.

Mrs. J. S. Dailey, music librarian, says more space is needed for listening booths for students who desire to hear specific recordings. She indicated that she is able to take care of every student who needs listening space by budgeting time and booth assignments.

Listening time is limited to one hour and several students are assigned to the same booth during the rush periods.

"When we are pushed, we have to do this so more people can use the library facilities," says Mrs. Dailey.

Mrs. Dailey says the Department of Music is always alert to new recordings and "gears our materials to music classes provided by the department." Classical music is emphasized by University music classes.

Bernard Fitzgerald, head of the Department of Music, said many records are donated by private contributors, while others must be purchased by University funds.

Several gifts have enriched the library's record collection.

Twenty of the original albums which were donated by the Dale Carnegie Foundation are included in the "archives." They are not loaned except for special assignments.

Pieces written especially for the Louisville Orchestra Commission, and premiered by them are recorded and given to the library.

R. D. McIntyre, professor of marketing, has made several contributions to the library's record repertoire. He gave 34 albums to the Music Department this fall. To recognize the professor, the staff has named the collection after him.

All albums are arranged on the library's shelves in the order of acquisition, and catalogued in the same order. To check out records, students must ask the librarian for the ones desired. If it is for humanities class, Mrs. Dailey will pull the album from the shelf.

If not, students must find the recording in the catalog, get its number, and sign a card to get permission to occupy one of the empty record booths and use the record.

The library's most regular patrons are the 180 to 200 Music Humanities students who are required to do outside listening to enable them to recognize individual works and characteristics when the records are played during class tests.

Of the 50 records listed by Leopold Stokowski, famed American composer, as the finest recordings available in music stores and libraries today, the UK library has at least 39.

Student Forum Meets At 4 P.M. Today In SUB

The University of Kentucky Student Forum will meet at 4 p.m. Tuesday in the Music Room of the Student Union Building.

The forum will be conducted by UK intramural debaters, a group of about 35 students who enjoy debating but are not members of the varsity debate team.

Students debating in this first forum have selected the debate question RESOLVED: That the United States should directly intervene in Cuba. For the affirmative will be Lynn Coe, a junior electrical engineering major from Louisville, and David Berry, a senior public health student from Vine Grove.

On the negative side will be Charles Myers, a commerce senior from Louisville, and Tom Bunch, a commerce junior from Ashland.

Milk From Snakes

Zoology Major Pursues Hobby Working On Animal Groups

By JOHN BURKHARD
Kernel Staff Writer

Bill Barkley, senior zoology major, "milks" snakes and stuffs wildcats for fun and profit.

As a counselor at Camp Earl Wallace on Cumberland Lake he collected copperheads which were plentiful in the area and kept them in a glass cage.

On occasions he would take a copperhead out of the cage and milk it while the campers looked on.

"Some of the dried venom is still on the glass," Barkley says. Barkley is the student assistant curator of the W. R. Allen Museum in Funkhouser Building. He does taxidermy work for the museum and he mounts some specimens for hunters to get spending money.

Among his specimens is a wildcat named Colonel who was the last living mascot at UK.

Last summer Bill did a research problem entitled "the vertebrates of robinson forest" at University-owned Camp Robinson in Breathitt County. The project was financed by a grant from the National Science Foundation.

Bill started taxidermy as a hobby when he was a senior at Maysville High School. He dropped out of school to serve a hitch in the army, spending two years in Germany. When he returned, he taught at May's Lick High School for a year.

Even though he is self-taught, he is considered one of the few good taxidermists in the state.

Barkley's main interest is making habitat groups of animals found in Kentucky. He is now working with Dr. Douglas W. Schwartz, Department of Anthropology, and his assistant, rearranging the museum.

The specimens will be arranged according to phylogenetic (evolutionary descent) order. Bill will help in getting new specimens and arranging them in respective habitat groups.

Student Loans

Students desiring loans for the second semester should apply by Dec. 17. Applications may be secured from C. C. Carpenter, administrator of student loans, in White Hall, Room 205.

Isolation Booth

The student, Dick Wallace, Jr., is in one of the Music Lounge's four listening booths trying to learn the characteristics of a record so he can identify it on a Music Humanities test.

Cats, Fifth-Ranked Tar Heels Clash Tonight

Having regained their confidence and taken a giant step toward gaining national ranking that is traditionally accorded them, Kentucky's Wildcats move into neutral Greensboro, N. C., tonight to face the fifth-ranked North Carolina Tar Heels in quest of a victory that would even the series.

North Carolina and Kentucky have met on the basketball court five times since 1924 and the Tar Heels show an advantage of three wins to the Wildcats' two.

Baron Adolph Rupp's Blue Grass contingent, now sporting a 2-1 season mark after an upset, 68-62 conquest of mighty Notre Dame at Louisville, is even up with all other foes on their current card after trouncing VMI and losing to Florida State prior to meeting the Irish.

While one game doesn't make a season and the Wildcats obviously have a few more problems to get straightened out, their highly improved showing against Notre Dame impressed Coach Rupp as it did Tar Heel chief Frank McGuire, who was on hand for a personal scouting job.

"We still have a way to go before reaching our full potential," remarked a proud Rupp after the game, "but we are a lot nearer to being ready for the supreme test against North Carolina than we were just a few days ago. The boys are still making mistakes that will have to be ironed out, even though they made up for them against Notre Dame. The important thing is that we seem to have found the spark all good teams must have."

Although the Wildcats looked good against Notre Dame, the Tar Heels likely will reign as a solid favorite when Kentucky makes its first appearance in Greensboro at the 9,000-seat War Memorial Coliseum.

North Carolina, on the strength of outstanding personnel and two easy victories over Louisiana State and Virginia, currently ranks fifth nationally while Kentucky will be without its usual psychological advantage of a top 10 rating in the polls.

The invading Cats, however, boast wins in the last two meetings of the rivals—taking a hard-earned 76-70 decision in a first round game of the UK Invitational Tournament here last season and copping an 83-44 win in a 1950 meeting at Lexington.

North Carolina picked up the honors in the first three meetings—emerging on top by a 41-20 score in a 1924 SIAA Tournament meeting at Atlanta, Ga., winning at Lexington by 25-15 five years later and edging UK, 43-42, in a Southern Conference Tournament game in 1932.

Rupp, who utilized no less than 16 different opening combinations during an adversity-plagued 1950-50 season that was the second worst (18-7) in his 30-year career at Kentucky, likely will start the same unit that opened against Notre Dame.

This would find 6-3 Bill Lickert, who boosted his All-America candidacy with a 21-point performance against the Irish, and 6-5 Allen Feldhaus at forwards; 6-9 Ned Jennings in the pivot; and 6-4 Roger Newman and 6-1 Larry Pursiful at guards.

Lickert is the squad's leading scorer with a 14.0 average and a

Cats' Lickert Named SEC Player Of Week

Billy Ray Lickert's stellar play against Notre Dame has caused him to be named the Southeastern player of the week.

The Atlanta Constitution picked the Kentucky forward over runner-up Jim Kerwin of Tulane after Lickert scored 21 points in the Cat win over Notre Dame. Lickert also held Irish Captain Don Crosby to five points.

Others mentioned in the voting were Ray Groover, Auburn; Jack Waters, Mississippi; Roger Kaiser, Georgia Tech; and John Johnson, Georgia.

one-point (42 to 41) advantage over Newman, who is playing his first varsity season despite senior status due to absences and eligibility difficulties.

Also due for extensive action are 6-5 center-forward Vince Del Negro, leading scorer in junior college ranks for the past two seasons, and 6-4 forward Carroll Burchett.

The Tar Heels are expected to counter with 6-7 Jim Hudock and 6-5½ Doug Moe at forwards, 6-9 Dick Kepley at center, plus 6-0 Donnie Walsh and 6-4 York Larese at the guard posts.

Moe, a sterling senior who sat out part of last season with academic troubles after winning second team All-America honor as a soph, is the leading Tar Heel scorer with an 18.5 average for two games and also is top rebounder with 33.

Both clubs will miss the high scorers of last season's meeting. Carolina lost Lee Shaffer, who hit 22, while the Wildcats lost guard Bennie Coffman, who had 23 points. Both return top performers (Kepley and Lickert) who were injured last year.

Kentucky was due to arrive in Greensboro by chartered plane about 2 p.m. yesterday.

Cats Open Against Miami; SEC Schedule Cut To Six

Kentucky's football Wildcats open their 1961 season in Lexington against Miami of Florida and play only six games with Southeastern Conference foes for the first time since 1953.

In addition to the powerful and colorful Miami Hurricanes, Coach Blanton Collier's eighth edition of Wildcats will face SEC champion Mississippi, newcomer Kansas State of the Big Eight, Florida State, Xavier, and traditional rival Tennessee at Lexington in one of the most attractive home cards in years.

The first three home contests—Miami, Ole Miss, and Kansas State—will be night games starting at 8 p.m. to avoid conflict with the daytime attraction of the Lexington Trots and Keneland Fall Meeting. The only other appearance to be made by the Wildcats under the lights comes Oct. 21 in Baton Rouge, La. against Louisiana State.

Missing from the 1960. Wildcat card are Georgia Tech and Marshall. Miami, one of the South's major independent powers and holder of a 6-4 season mark, returns to the schedule after a one-year lapse as a replacement for Georgia Tech.

The change is in line with a desire of Coach Collier to cut back on the number of conference games and to remedy the "killer" aspect of last season's Kentucky schedule which saw the Wildcats facing Tech, Ole Miss, and Auburn in the first three games.

Kansas State, making its first appearance on a Kentucky football schedule, comes to Lexington on Oct. 14 as the replacement for Marshall and a welcome non-league change of pace between tough conference engagements.

Sturgeon Honored

Kentucky halfback Charlie Sturgeon was awarded the 11th annual WHAS football leadership award Sunday.

The Owensboro senior was chosen for the honor over 15 other Kentucky seniors on the basis of scholarship, conduct on the field, character, and all-around value to the team.

The award, an engraved sterling silver tray and set of four goblets, was presented by Lt. Gov. Wilson Wyatt.

Busy Week Set For Frosh

The undefeated Kentucky Kentucky freshmen began a busy week last night that should test the potential of the team.

Last night, Coach Harry Lancaster's promising team took on the Xavier freshmen, tomorrow night the Kittens meet Itawamba Junior College in Owensboro, and Friday return home to face Lindsey-Wilson Junior College in a Coliseum doubleheader.

The Friday encounter, beginning at 7:30 p.m., is a preliminary to the Clark County-Lafayette high school game.

Saturday, the Kittens won their fourth straight by swamping the Vanderbilt freshmen, 94-67. And once again, it was the sterling play of Charles (Cotton) Nash that led the way.

Nash, held scoreless in the first 12 minutes, scored 29 points on 11 of 21 field goal attempts and seven free throws. He was also second to George Critz in rebounds with 12. Critz was the game's leading rebounder with 13.

Three other Kittens hit in double figures. Tommp Harper had 21, Ted Deekin 19, and Charles (Chili) Ishmael 18.

The game was never close as Deeken scored nine of Kentucky's first 11 points to shoot the Kittens into a 11-4 lead after three minutes. The winners extended this early margin to 42-27 at halftime and poured it on in the second half.

Roger Schurig led the visitors with 28 points on 11 of 29 attempts from the field and six straight charity tosses.

Kentucky hit a hot 48.7 percent of its shots on 38 of 78 attempts while Vandy connected on 27 of 69 for 39.1 percent.

Xavier, Georgia, Tech Honor Kentuckians

Xavier, Georgia, and Georgia Tech have honored 11 of 1960 Kentucky football Wildcats on their all-opponent and superlative teams.

The Musketeers accorded the Cats the greatest honors, picking them as the best team they faced in 1960 and naming three Kentuckians to the first unit of their all-opponent team and four more to the second squad.

End Tom Hutchinson, tackle Bob Butler, and halfback Charlie Sturgeon were first-team selections. On the second team were end Dickie Mueller, guard Lloyd Hodge, center Irvin Goode, and halfback Bill Ransdell.

Georgia named UK Quarterback Jerry Elsaman as the best passer it faced this season and end Dave Gash as the top pass receiver to play against the Bulldogs.

Gash and guard Mel Chandler made the Georgia all-opponent second squad and Hutchinson and Hodge were acclaimed honorable mention.

Tech, the Cats' opening-season opponent, did not honor any Wildcats on its all-opponent team but did rank Jerry Woolum, who made his collegiate debut against the Engineers, the best passer faced.

'Witch Boy' Comments On Acting

"It's hard to realize that my mother is a witch and my father's a buzzard," said Don Galloway, the "witch boy" in Guignol's recent production of "Dark of the Moon."

Galloway says that "each play presents new and different problems," but that his witch boy role is "really something new."

"The hardest thing is to show the complete change from natural to supernatural," said Galloway. "In the first scene I appear as a witch boy riding on an eagle and then in scene two I have to be human again."

"I was 12 when I decided to be an actor, but I was 20 before I got my first role," said Galloway. This was in the Guignol production, "Caine Mutiny," where he was a member of the court and on stage the entire time but never said a word.

Since then he has been in about 40 major plays.

"The best experience I ever had was last summer in an outdoor theater," said Galloway. "During one of the most dramatic scenes a snake came slithering on the stage and the leading lady ran screaming off into the wings."

The next night, while he was in the middle of a tense speech, a bat clipped his shoulder. "Probably thinking I was a large size bug," Galloway said.

Galloway intends to make a career of acting when he graduates from UK. He plans to go to New York or California because "they are about the only places you can go if you want to pursue a professional career in acting."

Galloway, 23, is a senior drama major from Brooksville, Ky. He also played the lead role of Eugene Gant in Guignol's "Look Homeward, Angel" this year.

Solid opportunities with solid state devices

A big part of Western Electric's job is to manufacture the miniature "new arts" products that are changing the science of communications. It's a job which offers you a challenging career—a chance to plan new methods of mass producing ever-improving kinds of transistors, ferrite devices, diodes, special purpose electron tubes, etc.

You'll be with a company that is expanding rapidly in this field. At present our Allentown and Laureldale, Pa., plants are devoted exclusively to making electron devices, and a big new plant is under construction in Kansas City. The needs of the Bell Telephone System for these products are increasing daily and will multiply enormously with the introduction of Electronic Central Office switching now nearing trial operation.

These devices are changing the scene at all our manufacturing plants as they go into the startling new communications products developed by our associates at Bell Telephone Laboratories. From microwave transmission equipment to submarine cable amplifiers, our products call for creative production engineering, installation planning, and merchandising methods. Our job for the Bell System and the U.S. government has grown to the point where we are now one of the nation's "Top 11" in industrial sales. And your chance to play an important part in our future growth is solid!

Opportunities exist for electrical, mechanical, industrial, civil and chemical engineers, as well as physical science, liberal arts, and business majors. For more information, get your copy of Consider a Career at Western Electric from your Placement Officer. Or write College Relations, Room 6106, Western Electric Company, 195 Broadway, New York 7, N. Y. Be sure to arrange for a Western Electric interview when the Bell System recruiting team visits your campus.
