MINUTES OF THE UNIVERSITY SENATE, FEBRUARY 8, 1988

The University Senate met in regular session at 3:00 p.m., Monday, February 8, 1988, in Room 115 of the College of Nursing/Health Sciences Building.

The Chair made the following remarks and announcements:

"Let me remind everyone that the March Senate Meeting has been moved to March 7. The normal course of events would have us have a meeting on the first day of Spring break. We are moving it to March 7 in Room 115 of the College of Nursing/Health Sciences Building at 3:00 p.m. At this point it would appear that the major action item for that particular meeting will be the revised rules regarding cheating and plagiarism that were sent back to committee several months ago.

The second announcement I have is that the Student Government Association has forwarded its resolution urging the University to cancel classes on Martin Luther King's birthday. I have forwarded that request to the Calendar Committee which is in the midst of discussing the other request from the Student Government Association, namely the insertion of two study days in the calendar for each semester. The committee is therefore wrestling with a proposal to add a total of five days to the academic year.

The third announcement is that the Senate Council will be recommending to the Senate the adoption of a package of courses developed by Lou Swift's committee for insertion into the new University Studies Program. This will be done by transmittal as is usually the case for handling new courses. However, you should be aware of two things. First, there is a thirty (30) rather than a ten-day circulation rule in effect for approving courses to be included in the University Studies Program. Second, it must be kept in mind that there will be other courses recommended for inclusion in the University Studies Program over the next several months and perhaps into the next academic year. This will be a continuing process and the basic starter package that you will be receiving ought to be judged in that context. The transmittal will be sent out after today's Senate meeting since our action on the "cluster concept", one of our action items on the agenda, will impact what is to be transmitted to you.

The Senate Council had a very interesting breakfast this morning with the local legislative delegation. Guess what we were discussing? President Roselle was there, and we also asked three academic deans who would represent a wide range of interest on the campus. We had Dean Baer from Arts and Sciences, representing the largest college on campus. We had Dean Royster from the Graduate School and Dean Carolyn Williams from Nursing. These four individuals, the president and three deans, gave what everyone thought was a brilliant performance. What we are trying to do is give these legislators some specific albeit antidotal information and examples of both short and long-term impacts the executive budget currently before the legislature will have down at the level of colleges and departments. Very often these people talk about that at a very high level of budgetary concern and what we tried to get to them were the nitty-gritty problems that you and I and everyone else faces on campus. We found out that they like this kind of information. They have not heard much from their higher education community. Indeed there was at least one House member who has a lot of faculty members as constituents. In fact, I suspect many of you live in Bill Lear's district. At any rate, he said he had received only two letters to date about concerns over higher education. He has received eleven letters opposing the lottery which suggests that some of us ought to do some thinking about getting some materials to these legislators. In order to get more of the kind of antidotal illustrative kinds of materials that they heard this morning to them, we have invited the deans, who were at the meeting this morning, to prepare a sort of written version of what they have done. We are inviting everyone else on campus to do the same. Indeed, in order to encourage that, we have created something with the help of Paul Eakin. What we have done is created an Infoline that any of you can access on any of the computer systems that you have available. What this will do, and Paul will tell you how to do it, is allow you to send whatever information you have concerning the impact of the budget to Infoline and it will be collected and put into a nice format. We will try to edit it and prepare it for submission to some of the legislators. Again, they like that kind of antidotal illustrative information. The second thing we learned was that they like to hear from people. They need to know that people are concerned, that people are not only willing to rally in Franfort on February 16 and the related activities that go with that, but also write letters. I attended a meeting this morning at the Radisson with the Kentucky Advocates where they were outlining what was going to happen on February 16. I know faculty members sometime think these things are "hokey" but try to keep in mind what is being done here is to stage a media event to call attention to the very severe problems facing higher education.

I want to thank those of you who sent in cards. Some of you sent them over to the Senate Council office. Let me tell you, the Kentucky Advocates have received over 20,000 of those cards. If you haven't sent yours in, please do so before March 1, the sooner the better. A computer firm in London, Kentucky, has volunteered to punch all this into a data base and a computerized list will be developed so that each legislator will receive a message about those cards from constituents in his or her district. By April 1, each person who sent in a card will get a mailing asking us to call the 800 number in Frankfort to remind legislators of our concern. Then, of course, there is the Rally which is going to be held on February 16. The Rally day begins at 11:30 in the morning with a press conference sponsored by the Council on Higher Education and the Kentucky Advocates. At 1:30 in the afternoon they are asking the students for higher education to be in the march. They are asking all faculty and interested persons to also attend the march and they even have arrangements for Donovan scholars. At 3:30 that afternoon there will be a warmup for the Rally in the Civic Center, a half hour of music and bands and at 4:00 p.m. they will begin the student showcase which will feature musical presentations from student organizations from all the universities throughout the state. At 5:30 p.m. they have invited four speakers to give the message on behalf of higher education. First person to speak will be Stan Sharon, I believe it is, of Louisville who will be speaking as an alumni and a parent who has sent children to university systems in the Commonwealth. The second person to speak will be representing the faculty. You will be interested to know that the person chosen for this task is our own Beverly Sypher from the Department of Communications. Finally, there will be a student from Murray University and I have heard her speak. She does an absolutely fantastic job. I urge all of you to get out to this event and urge your colleagues to do so as well. I know that all of us would like to believe that the virtues of higher education are self evident and irrefutable to everyone, but that simply is not the case. We need to get our message across. As Yogi Berra used to say, "It ain't over 'til it's over." The legislators need to know of our concerns and that we will remember their efforts to help higher education. I urge all of you to do that and if you have any questions about that Rally, we will try to answer them.

Chairman Lyons recognized Professor Paul Eakin (Mathematics) and asked him to tell the senators how to get on infoline. Professor Eakin was impressed with the legislator's comment that they have had plenty of statistical information. Senator Moloney said they need more illustrative type of information. What has been done is set up a place to collect the information easily so that it can be organized and then sent to the Senate Council office. He said that every computer on campus now has an account called "infoline". No matter where someone is if they will mail information to infoline, it will ultimately end up on the ninth floor of Patterson Office Tower where it will be formatted and organized into areas of concern. The Senate Council office will edit the material, get it back to Professor Eakin who will see that it is formatted properly and then it can be immediately circulated to interested people. He said this would be an on-going activity for a while. This would also include students. He said it would be useful if everyone would include a phone number so that verification can be made or additional collaboration.

Chairman Lyons asked the senators to spread that information around campus. He said if everyone would tell their colleges, the infoline would be in business.

Professor James Applegate (Communications) noted that he was surprised from the meeting how optimistic and how much hope the representatives had to do something about the Governor's budget. He felt there was a lot of selling to do. He said he had just talked with someone from off campus who said the salaries for professors were terrible, but thought the assistant professors and associate professors were getting paid well considering they were in training. He said that was the type of misconception that the University had to change.

Professor Mary Sue Coleman (Biochemistry) shared with the senators that President Roselle would be on the Milton Metz Show (a call-in program) on WHAS in Louisville from 9:00 p.m. to 12:00 p.m. with Don Swain and the president of Bellarmine College. She said that everyone was invited to call and express their opinion. She asked everyone to call and have the switch board jammed. The numbers are (502) 571-8484. The other line is 1-800-444-8484. She urged the senators to listen even if they did not call. She added that letters were critical and told the senators to write by hand because it was better than typing them and not to put the letters on University stationery but to use their own paper and stamp. She said that the University faculty is not getting the message there and the legislators were not hearing.

Chairman Lyons said that the prize to be drawn at the Rally will be two tickets to the final four. He said to look for the UK sign where there would be a place reserved for the University, and he hoped everyone that could would go. President Roselle announced that an additional prize to be drawn at the Rally was a tour of the great universities of England and Scotland.

Professor Jesse Weil (Physics and Astronomy) asked for directions. The Chair said it would be in the Civic Center which holds almost 6,000 people. Professor Hans Gesund (Engineering) asked about getting a map printed in the Kernel. The Chairman said he would do what he could but to follow the signs to the Civic Center.

The first order of business was the consideration of the honorary degree candidates. The Chair recognized Dr. William Marksberry who chairs the honorary degrees committee who presented the candidates. The Chair reminded the Senators that until the candidates were approved by the Board of Trustees the information was to be regarded as confidential. Professor Marksberry said that the graduate faculty has reviewed and approved the individuals he presented. Following Dr. Marksberry's presentation, Professor Applegate moved to accept the five candidates for recommendation to the President. Professor Jewell seconded the motion which unanimously passed.

Chairman Lyons said this was an opportune time to think about the consequences of the budget along with the discussion about the need to write letters and to get involved in the Rally. President Roselle and Mr. Ed Carter were invited to the meeting to give a presentation on budget concerns and some of the things that may be coming up in the near future on the legislative agenda and the whole budgetary process as it begins to unfold in Frankfort.

The Chair recognized President Roselle who made the following remarks:

"Thank you Bill. What I will say to you today has two thoughts to it. One is that we want to keep from managing this particular budget and we will thus discuss what is necessary or helpful to avoid that outcome. The other problem is to decide how we will manage such a budget should it be the result of the legislative session that is now ongoing. I want also to underline our obligation to the people of the Commonwealth of Kentucky to properly manage whatever resources are made available to the University. We will manage a good budget the same as we would a not so good budget; namely, with the University's goals in mind.

Ed Carter is here to take you through the Executive budget and to begin your thinking about how we might manage our affairs if we get such a budget. My reason for being here is to tell you that I am not ready to agree that the Executive budget will be the University of Kentucky's budget. Some people call that being a "cry baby," but I continue to think that the University should press its case.

February 16 is certainly a key date. If the Advocates for Higher Education were to rally in Frankfort, and it was not a newsworthy event, that would be a bad thing. I hope that you will do your best to be there for the afternoon, and I hope that you will encourage others to be there also. It is clearly to our advantage to have that be a well attended event.

The next key date is February 24. That is the date candidates must file for office. There is a belief that legislators might be less willing to take positions before February 24. The feeling is that on February 25 it may be more likely that some of the legislators will be willing to engage in more conversation about what might be possible.

I thank you for your support and I encourage you to consider your position on the budget and to make your position known to members of the Legislature. Please encourage your friends to do the same."

Professor Weil wanted to know if anything was being done to get Community Colleges around the state to write to their legislators. President Roselle's answer was in the affirmative and said also the extension people would be called upon and that there is also a liaison group. Professor Coleman said there was one thing that was done when the Dental School was in terrible trouble was to go to Alumni Associations, all in one night and blanket the state. She said the alumni responded and wondered if President Roselle had any plans of contacting the alumni. President Roselle said this had been discussed as something to do in March. He said the University would like for that to be happening at a time when there was a proposal for the people to be for as opposed to just going out and asking them to be unhappy along with us. He felt that was a difficult position in which to put people. Professor Weil said that one letter could be written now to say we need more money for education and another letter when there is a proposal. Professor Roselle urged the senators to write letters and not to feel those letters had to be restricted to the Fayette County delegation but tell others what the situation is. He said that Ed Carter would give the senators an idea how bad the situation is. President Roselle told the legislators that in his opinion, and he has been a faculty member most of his adult life, one can generally underpay and give not very good working conditions to faculty members, but one thing that is devastating is to make them feel unappreciated. He said the budget really does that.

President Roselle asked the senators to help with the antidotal information also. He said he had testified before the House Education Committee which was a very friendly group. The next day the Governor's Budget Director indicated that he agreed with what the presidents had said. He said the infoline that Professor Eakin talked about would be very helpful. He asked that everyone work together on the project and on beyond the project. He feels it is important to work together whether one takes a short-term or long-term view. He said it was important to lay the groundwork for future bienniums. President Roselle thanked the senators and departed.

The Chairman announced that Mr. Ed Carter (Vice President for Administration) was going to give the Senate some numbers and said that some of the information might be something the senators might want to write down. He added that some of the things might be something to write letters about.

Mr. Carter's remarks and charts follow:

"Thank you Bill. I appreciate the opportunity again to come before this group. One of these days I hope the message is better than it has been in the last little bit. Last time we talked about the priorities of our planning process, Council recommendation, the state budget outlook which is pretty accurate, I think. Today I want to update the state budget outlook a little more and give you a little information. I am not going to burden you with a lot of details. One of the reasons is that it is a very difficult budget to get details out of, as a matter of fact. I want to talk a little about how the budget impacts the University of Kentucky and bring you up-to-date on what is going on in terms of our ability to deal with that budget if it does pass. The President is absolutely correct that we literally are working both sides of the street in trying to avoid having to implement this budget but if, in fact, we do we can't wait until April 1 or April 15 to begin talking about it. To refresh your memory and the observations we made in December the following chart is a display of the two hundred million dollar ($200,000,000) problem per year. The revenue estimates are probably now the most significant number. The expenditure side is what is being proposed by the legislative staff rather than the gubernatorial staff.

Mr. Carter presented the following charts:

GENERAL FUND
PROPOSED BUDGET
1988-90

	1988-89	1989-90
Original Projected Revenue	$3,241.6	$3,431.5
Projected Revenue (Proposed Budget)	3,262.9	3,442.4

1. Additional $21.3 million in 1988-89 is a result of (1) a reestimation or reexamination of the individual component taxes in January and (2) a projection by the Revenue Cabinet that an additional $30,000,000 in revenue will result in FY 1989 from the accelerated collection from larger taxpayers of sales tax payments and individual withholding tax payments.
2. Additional $10.9 million in 1989-90 is a result of (1) a reestimation or reexamination of the individual component taxes in January and (2) the projection of an additional $10 million revenue from the implementation of a more comprehensive tax compliance programs.

Assumes Following Actions --

- Suspends the overmatch of the Teacher's Retirement System and discontinues the overmatch of the Kentucky Employee's Retirement System redirecting an approximate $40 million each year of the biennium.

- In 1988-89 transfers $19.5 million from the Kentucky Law Enforcement Foundation Program and the Professional Firefighters Foundation Fund to the General Fund.

- In 1989-90 transfers $18.9 million from the Division of Water Patrol, the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, the Kentucky Law Enforcement Foundation, the Fire and Tornado Insurance Fund, the Department of Insurance, the Department of Financial Institutions, the Professional Firefighters Foundation Fund, and the Commerce Cabinet to the General Fund.

UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY
BUDGET PLANNING ANALYSIS
1988-90

What are the options available to us?

- We can choose to not meet high priority needs, e.g. salaries
- We can look for additional revenue sources which are not currently available
- On the expenditure side, we can reallocate funds to deal with priority needs
 - in that the University is basically a people-enterprise those reallocations would probably have to come from position freezes or the elimination of positions

We could pursue some combination of the above

All options are currently under consideration.

Mr. Carter's final remarks:

One of the options the University has is to choose not to meet the high priority needs. In other words, forego salary increases which would save approximately $2,000,000 a year for each percent of increases for faculty and staff. If the University did not do a two percent increase in the first year the $9,000,000 deficit goes down by $4,000,000. The University could look for additional revenue sources, which are not currently available. We can either increase prices for our services, we can put new revenue measures into place that are not now there. The Governor's suggestion is the third option on the expenditure side and that is to reallocate funds to deal with our priority needs presuming there are not vast amounts of resources in this institution that are applied to something. It means to stop spending for one thing and apply it to something else. In that the University is basically a people enterprise reallocations would almost have to mean cutting back on the personnel side of the budget. The Chancellors are carefully reviewing all options and having discussions with deans and other groups. We will work on some form of solution between now and April sometime.

The President did not mention one other date. He is testifying before the Senate A & R Committee this Wednesday.

Mr. Carter said that he would be happy to respond to any questions. Professor Malcolm Jewell (Political Science) said that the press mentioned several times that the Governor mentioned that the universities got a twenty percent increase at the beginning of the biennium and then they casually mentioned that so much money would have to be given back. He said that he had also heard that twenty percent figure when used for bond issues, equipment and other things, and wanted to know if it would be possible to come up with a figure, leaving aside the bond issue, what the actual increase for the universities in general was after the revenue shortfall had been subtracted. Mr. Carter thought that was a good question. He said that he and Joan McCauley had left two Herald-Leader reporters in his office working on that very question. He felt they would do a story sometime this week dealing with that in all higher education. Professor Eakin wanted to know what percentage of the University's expenditures was represented in faculty salaries. Mr. Carter said if one looked at all sources of funds from the hospital funds, grants, auxiliaries, the normal operation would be about 60 percent. He said it would be substantially higher than that in the pure academic programs.

Professor Applegate wanted to know if the Survey Research Center in the Kentucky poll could be used to provide some sort of scientifically sound barometer of people's attitudes toward conforming to the federal tax codes, tax increase when geared with other options which the state is facing. Professor James Hougland (Sociology) said a poll was scheduled for April but they do have the capability of doing particular polls for particular purposes. He said an overnight poll could be done on short notice. He felt the University had to be careful because 90 percent of the time there is the advantage of being perceived as a completely unbiased source. However, on this particular issue the University could be accused of being biased. Professor Weil wanted to know about having the University's polling service phrase the questions in a good manner and some off-campus outfit run the poll. Mr. Carter said again the problem is money and there is a feeling that higher education folks are an island to themselves. He has had several legislators say that people back home are perfectly happy with the Governor's budget. The problem is that it will be six months past July 1 to January 1989 before people really realize what is going on.

Professor Hans Gesund (Engineering) wanted to know why the University does not cut down on some of the high visibility things such as the number of coaches on the basketball and football teams. He said every front page in the state would print that information. Mr. Carter said that unfortunately that would not do much for $9,000,000. Professor Gesund said the important thing is for the people of the state to realize that when the University is in trouble, the state is in trouble. The thing the people know most about the University is the basketball and football teams. He said that would stir up a hornet's nest.

Professor Eakin said that he had heard the Governor's budget does not actually appropriate the two percent. Mr. Carter said there are two or three versions of that. There is the Governor's speech, the departmental managers interpretation of that, and there is not much question that two percent in several agencies in state government came out of either some big allocations such as teacher retirement, fish and wildlife, etc., or came out of the reallocation within agencies or departmental budgets, because there are several state agencies that actually have less money in 1990 than they do in 1987-88. Mr. Carter said if one looked at the Governor's priorities that higher education is sitting with zero but there are some that actually have reductions.

Professor Martin McMahon (Law) wanted to know if the University is considering things like eliminating programs, and if it would be fair to announce what the targets are so that people can move on when opportunities present themselves before they get the "ax" unexpectedly. Mr. Carter said at the appropriate time that would have to be the case. He felt the problem with that in terms of the political environment is announcing a solution before there is some finality of the problem. Professor McMahon's point was that the University is dealing with human lives so the people should have notice that their jobs are those that are potentially on the "chopping block" well in advance so they can go to other universities that are making them offers when they think there is something at UK. It would be quite a shock to people when they have turned down offers this year and find out they have been "axed" at the end of the fiscal year when their programs have been terminated. Mr. Carter agreed. There were no further questions from the floor.

Chairman Lyons introduced Joan McCauley (Associate Vice President) who is also working on many of the budget problems and agonizing over them.

The Chairman said everyone should try to keep in front of their minds that there is still this process to go through. He said there was an opportunity for the faculty to attempt to make some impact on what the outcome of the process will be. He felt that was some optimistic news everyone should try to hold on to at this point in time.

The second action item was a proposed addition of the "Cluster Concept" to the University Studies Program. The Chair said that although the proposal might appear to be a relatively minor one, there is in the Rules which passed in 1986 a statement which was circulated with the proposal. He said in order to put the "Cluster Concept" into place, the Senate Council agreed with Professor Swift's committee that this might be a good idea. The Chair said that technically the rule would have to be changed. The circulation was the language for the notation that would go in on page 6 of the University Studies Program.

The Chairman recognized Professor Loys Mather for the recommendation from the Senate Council. Professor Mather, on behalf of the Senate Council, moved that the Senate approve an amendment of the "Cluster Concept" to University Studies Program. This proposal was circulated to members of the Senate under date of 27 January 1988.

Professor Mather yielded to Professor Louis Swift to give the rationale and background of the proposal as it had come from the University Senate Committee. The proposal did not require a second.

Professor Swift said that the circulation was fairly clear but that he would be happy to answer any questions. He said that a technicality in the rules regarding University Studies might prevent students from having a better academic experience than the one now in place. According to existing rules a student would take a pair of offerings to satisfy the University Studies' cross-disciplinary requirement and then a different set of courses to satisfy the disciplinary component. In certain cases where individuals would be taking 12 hours of integrated courses they would get exposure to the humanities, or social sciences, or natural sciences and a good cross-disciplinary experience as well. Professor Swift pointed out some things to remember. First, there will be no diminution in the number of hours required to satisfy the University Studies Program. Secondly, the courses that would be put into the "Cluster Concept" would go through the same process that other courses go through for approval. Thirdly, the "Cluster Concept" applies not just to the humanities but to the social sciences and the natural sciences as well. The University currently has two departments in the natural sciences which are working on the development of a cluster of 12 hours. Professor Swift said the way the program was structured originally so as to provide a diversity of offerings and sufficient number of hours made it technically impossible for the committee to do something which he felt was an improvement.

There were no questions or discussion. The proposal passed and reads as follows:

The Senate Council recommends that the University Studies Program adopted by the University Senate on February 3, 1986 be amended to include the concept of "Clustered Courses" and to allow such courses to become exceptions to the rule prohibiting students from using a course to satisfy more than one area of University Studies. The current rule as stated in the Note on page six of the approved University Studies Program reads as follows:

Note: A course taken to satisfy a requirement in one area of general studies cannot be used to satisfy a requirement in another except that a single calculus course may be used to satisfy the mathematics component in both I-A and II-A.

The Senate Council concurs with the University Studies Committee and recommends that the Note be amended to read as follows: (proposed changes are underlined)

Note: A course taken to satisfy a requirement in one area of University Studies cannot be used to satisfy a requirement in another except that (a) a single course in calculus may be used to satisfy the mathematics component in both I-A and II-A; and (b) courses approved as Clustered Courses  may be used to satisfy both the Cross-Disciplinary and designated Disciplinary requirements.

 Clustered Courses must be composed of two or more sets of paired courses approved for the cross-disciplinary component of the University Studies Program. All clusters must be approved in accordance with the rules and procedures for including any course or sequence of courses in the University Studies Program.

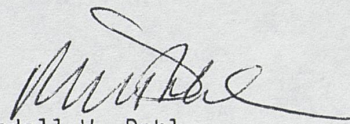

RATIONALE: Certain sequences of courses in the humanities, natural sciences, and social sciences lend themselves to clustering in such a way as to provide a coherent and enriched cross-disciplinary experience for students. For example, a student taking a two semester sequence in Western history (HIS 104/105) which has been clustered with a two semester sequence in Western literature (ENG 261/262) for a total of twelve hours fulfills the spirit and purpose of the humanities requirement and the cross-disciplinary requirement in a most desirable way. Technically, however, a student could not do this under the existing rule in the University Studies Program. Thus, a student taking the two-course sequence in History for the humanities requirement would be excluded automatically from using either course to pair with one of the literature courses to satisfy the cross-disciplinary requirement. In this way a very beneficial educational experience is forestalled by strict adherence to what is otherwise a good rule. It should be emphasized that the cluster concept involves no diminution of the number of hours required and that the clusters can be developed and approved for use in the natural sciences, the social and behavioral sciences, and the humanities. Currently two have been developed in the humanities. Three other, including one in the natural sciences, are being discussed.

Effective Date: Immediately

The Chairman reminded the Senate that they would be getting a list of names and home addresses of all of the Senators and House Members from this immediate area, the Fayette County plus the surrounding counties. He urged the Senators to write using their own stationary and stamp and make it as personal and specific as possible. He asked the faculty to support the legislators in whatever effort they might be able to launch in the legislature.

The revised University calendars for 1988-1989 and the proposed 1990-1991 calendars are being circulated for your information. Also the revised College of Medicine calendars for 1987-88 and 1989-90 are attached.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned at 4:30 p.m.

Secretary of the University Senate

UNIVERSITY SENATE COUNCIL
10 ADMINISTRATION BUILDING

January 27, 1988

TO: Members of the University Senate

FROM: University Senate Council

SUBJECT: AGENDA ITEM: University Senate Meeting, Monday, February 8, 1988.
Proposal to include the "Cluster Concept" in the University Studies Program

The Senate Council recommends that the University Studies Program adopted by the University Senate on February 3, 1986 be amended to include the concept of "Clustered Courses" and to allow such courses to become exceptions to the rule prohibiting students from using a course to satisfy more than one area of University Studies. The current rule as stated in the Note on page six of the approved University Studies Program reads as follows:

Note: A course taken to satisfy a requirement in one area of general studies cannot be used to satisfy a requirement in another except that a single calculus course may be used to satisfy the mathematics component in both I-A and II-A.

The Senate Council concurs with the University Studies Committee and recommends that the Note be amended to read as follows: (proposed changes are underlined)

Note: A course taken to satisfy a requirement in one area of University Studies cannot be used to satisfy a requirement in another except that (a) a single course in calculus may be used to satisfy the mathematics component in both I-A and II-A; and (b) courses approved as Clustered Courses  may be used to satisfy both the Cross-Disciplinary and designated Disciplinary requirements.

 Clustered Courses must be composed of two or more sets of paired courses approved for the cross-disciplinary component of the University Studies Program. All clusters must be approved in accordance with the rules and procedures for including any course or sequence of courses in the University Studies Program.

RATIONALE: Certain sequences of courses in the humanities, natural sciences, and social sciences lend themselves to clustering in such a way as to provide a coherent and enriched cross-disciplinary experience for students. For example, a student taking a two semester sequence in Western history (HIS 104/105) which has been clustered with a two semester sequence in Western literature (ENG 261/262) for a total of twelve hours fulfills the spirit and purpose of the humanities requirement and the cross-disciplinary requirement in a most desirable way. Technically, however, a student could not do this under the existing rule in the University Studies Program. Thus, a student taking the two-course sequence in History for the humanities requirement would be excluded automatically from using either course to pair with one of the literature courses to satisfy the cross-disciplinary requirement. In this way a very beneficial educational experience is forestalled by strict adherence to what is otherwise a good rule. It should be emphasized that the cluster concept involves no diminution of the number of hours required and that the clusters can be developed and approved for use in the natural sciences, the social and behavioral sciences, and the humanities. Currently two have been developed in the humanities. Three other, including one in the natural sciences, are being discussed.
