Record Set As 6,485 Register; Students Continue To Enroll

October 2 Deadline For UK Entrance

Smashing records and predictions, the University's fall quarter enrollment reached a total of 6,485 yesterday afternoon, according to figures in the registrar's office.

After regular registration of students according to an alphabetical order was completed late enrollments were taken at a temporary registration set up in the Army, which registration is now going on in the Administration Building. Late registration is scheduled to continue until Wednesday, October 2, which has been designated as the last date on which any student may enter an organized class.

Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, dean of the University, commenting on the all-time high enrollment, declared that the enrollment probably could be explained as those students who have been able to locate housing facilities in Lexington or near by.

Late registration usually increases the enrollment by about 10 to 15 percent, but it is doubted that many more students will register, she said.

College Night Tonight-SUB

The annual college night program, a carnival and dance, will be held from 7:30 to 11:30 tonight in the Student Union building.

College Night, sponsored each year by the YMCA, Student Union Board, and Student Government Association as the first all-college social function, will feature an amateur hour with comedy games and prizes for the winners.

SuKy Trials Will Start Next Game

SuKy, University pep organization, will officially open its try-out season for SuKy hopefuls at the first convocation of the 1946-1947 school year.

Those students who have not contacted SuKy previous to the game should report to the organization at the Rose street end of the south grandstand an hour before game time.

The students trying out for SuKy are similar to pledges in a fraternity or sorority. Their work during the tryout period determines the amount of money they shall be accepted for permanent membership in SuKy.

Basketball Ticket Divisional Plan For Season Posted

Kentucky's athletic association has taken pre-season steps to avoid last-minute ticket troubles, improper playing space and general confusion brought about by Alumni gym's limited seating capacity.

The association expresses its "regret" in not making tickets available to all those wishing to attend each contest, but feels that this is the best possible solution.

In Memoriam

Your reporter came back to school three days early to write a feature on registration. I took one look at the mob and went home. The Kernel assigned another reporter, but he was smothered in the bookstore line.

Nevertheless, came Wednesday, 6400 students had registered. Ingrid Ulman claimed the distinction of having made the first ring around the bathtub in Boyd hall, and several members of the faculty were still standing in line outside their own offices.

But registration was a big success. That is to say, practically everyone got in. Of course a few engineering students were signed up for home economics, and several music majors were registered in Ag school; but these things are to be expected with 6400 persons trying to register simultaneously for 25,000 classes.

Having been told about what a tough time freshmen have at registration, your scribe generously offered to be particularly helpful to the bewildered looking chap only to learn that he was head of one of the departments. But everyone makes mistakes.

One freshman tells about the beautiful brown-haired girl in the company who looked up at him with a deep soulful look and whispered in a soft husky voice, "Do you have athlete's foot?" Slightly taken aback he answered, "No," but hesitated to add, "Is there anything else you'd like to know about me?" "Yes," she whispered in the same mellow voice, "have you ever had athlete's foot?"

Not to be forgotten in connection with freshman week and fall registration are the traditional fraternal and sorority rush week programs. The sorority girls are wearing their best clothes to school again and the fraternities are dusting off the trap doors in front of their own offices.

If some of the girls could hear the boys talking about prospective pledges they'd probably be plain jealous of some of the nice things the boys are saying about each other. However, all fraternities discourage members from going steady with rushes, and it really makes no difference because they'll all be out washing windows in a couple of weeks anyway.

And speaking of windows, if you'll look out yours most anytime you're likely to see some new and mighty pretty freshman girls. Of course, the tradition connected with Patterson's statue still goes and rumor has it that when one comely freshman girl passed, he not only rose to his feet, but stepped off his bronze pedestal and followed her half way across the campus.

PATIENCE, FORTITUDE DONOVAN ASKS

For some years the campus of the University will be in disorder, but this will not be a unique condition for confusion and disorder will exist on the campus of every college and university that is in the process of expanding. Much new building will be in progress. Beautiful lawns and open spaces on the campus will be filled with temporary buildings. Some people will not like this. However, we believe that the education of young men and women is more important than the preservation of a beautiful lawn.

Too many students for our present facilities will result in queues forming for service in the cafeteria, the book store, the post office, the library, and offices. It will require patience to wait in line. Frequently there may not be enough food, or books, or services to go around. There will be disappointment awaiting all of us—teachers and students alike. Rooms will be difficult to obtain. Apartments and houses for married students and faculty members will be at a premium, and when they are available they will not be wholly satisfactory. Please be reasonable and do not blame these shortages of goods and services on the University. These conditions are the results of war. A nation cannot spend $400,000,000,000 of its wealth and five years of the energies of its people destroying its enemies and expect to continue on its normal course of affairs after the termination of hostilities. It takes time to catch up on our deficiencies. As irritating as our inconveniences may be, remember we are probably more fortunate than any other people in the world today.

I plead for patience and understanding on the part of all of those associated with the University. Remember everyone is endeavoring to improve the situation and to help serve those who are seeking an education.

that matter). Smile and greet people when you see them and you'll discover that before long they are telling their friends about your wonderful personality (include me out of this Dale Carnegie routine, though, I'm an introvert).

If you have anything on the ball at all, you'll have a lot of fun and there will be a lot of things worth remembering.

Oh yes, one more thing. The best piece of advice I can give you is this: don't consider majoring in journalism unless you have an iron constitution and enjoy being kicked in the face.

Well, don't say you weren't warned. Good luck, freshmen!

Wright or Wrong

By Orman Wright
I'm certainly not qualified for giving advice about anything to anybody. I thought I had better make this plain before some of the wisecracks start making cracks. But ever since I agreed to write this thing I thought how nice it would be to do a piece for the new freshmen. Of course fifteen or twenty other people who are doing articles for this first Kernel of the fall quarter probably have the same idea in mind. Anyway I had better get on with it before I build up too strong a case against myself. Don't take it too seriously. If there is anything in here, it was purely unintentional.

First off, you tyros should admit to yourselves that you are dumb. I looked down on by the upperclassmen, and very likely to make scores of ridiculous mistakes before your first year is over. You might as well admit this, because everyone will be able to tell you are a freshman anyway. But there is an even better reason: there is nothing quite so disgusting as an obvious new comer trying to be blasé. Don't try to depend entirely on your catalog maps. If you don't know your way around, ask somebody. Don't try to plot out your whole college career by yourself. Your advisers are supposed to be skilled persons (and generally are) and it's a cinch they know more about going to college than you ever will. So don't hesitate to ask questions and try to ask them of the persons best qualified to answer. You can console yourself with this thought: There are a good many seniors in this place who still have to get somebody to interpret the college catalog to them.

Secondly, you had just as well decide to do a little work. You'll find characters up here who tell you how far they have managed to get without "cracking a book." Don't believe them. If you take a tiny worthless course you will have to study. How much you study depends upon you, your abilities and ambitions, and the courses you take. Putting your studies first would be a good policy for you to follow. Maybe you will find that you can taper off next year. But make your first year a good one, at least.

I've always wanted to say something about the "vahoos" at the University. (Some of the amateur psychologists roaming the campus can probably explain to you about my "frustrated" personality. One thing to keep in mind: don't be awed by the "wheels." The wheels worth knowing aren't interested in saving you and they aren't particularly aware of their own importance. It takes a peculiar combination of abilities to be a "wheel" but a superfluity of gray matter is not a necessary ingredient. So don't let the big shots scare you. You'll find that most of them are really nice people and won't regard you as the scum of the earth. However, there are a few stinkers that have managed to attain some importance on this campus. You will find out who they are soon enough. You will do well to steer clear of them.

I've been on a good many campuses but the Kentucky campus is the friendliest one I've ever walked across. If nothing else, we can always brag about our friendly campus. So speak when you are spoken to and don't be afraid to be the first to say "hello" when you meet someone you recognize. You'll find you don't have to wait for a formal introduction. When you sit beside someone in a class for three or five days a week it's only natural to get acquainted with him when you see him on the campus. A reputation for friendliness is a good thing to have here at UK (or anywhere else, for that matter). Smile and greet people when you see them and you'll discover that before long they are telling their friends about your wonderful personality (include me out of this Dale Carnegie routine, though, I'm an introvert).

If you have anything on the ball at all, you'll have a lot of fun and there will be a lot of things worth remembering.

Oh yes, one more thing. The best piece of advice I can give you is this: don't consider majoring in journalism unless you have an iron constitution and enjoy being kicked in the face.

Well, don't say you weren't warned. Good luck, freshmen!

Let's Talk About The Kernel

Again it's time to state Kernel policy.

Criticism of newspapers is a favorite American sport. The Kernel takes its share. It is always should. However, sometimes it is good practice to analyze criticism and to explain why The Kernel acts as it does in certain situations.

Criticism which usually is received by The Kernel falls into four types.

First of these is treatment of the news. Complaints come in that The Kernel gives too little space to things all the students are interested in.

Space for news stories and placement of them are in the hands of the editors and the editors only. These editors do their work on the basis of importance as well as interest. A dance or an all-university function is not as important as a money grant, or the housing situation. Therefore the dance, although all students are interested in it, will not be given as big a play as a story on one of the other subjects.

Not that social news will be excluded from The Kernel—it's good news. But the fact that Stanislaw Kolivosky's band will play for a fraternity dance is hardly big news.

It might be emphasized here, too, that The Kernel wants your story—not to be run for seven weeks or at seven times its proper size or with a lot of propaganda. But we do want it. However, The Kernel isn't omnipotent or omniscient. Its staff of trained reporters (usually journalism students) and editors (always journalism students) tries to reach every news source on the campus. The staff doesn't always succeed. The attitude of many publicity chairmen seems to be a let-The-Kernel-do-it-and-if-they-don't-we'll-complain-later one. It's up to publicity chairmen to report news from their organizations. Sometimes The Kernel staff has no way of knowing that the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Rabbits on Football Fields will meet tomorrow.

A meeting of publicity chairmen with the Kernel staff will be scheduled sometime this month, the time and date to be announced later.

And remember, importance is well as interest must be considered in judgment of news play.

There is always the plaint "But my story didn't get in." The Kernel promises no one that his story will appear in any certain issue. Editors are instructed according to best journalistic practice to get in all the stories possible. But frequently there is more news than there is space. Here again the importance and interest are considered. Contrary to what you may have heard, type isn't rubber and it most certainly doesn't shrink or stretch. Something has to go, and it's up to the editors to decide.

The Kernel reserves the right to edit all stories as it sees fit. Often this results in the omission of news which someone thinks important. Perhaps the story couldn't be crammed into the space. It's better to have a story that has been cut than to have none at all. The editors try to omit the least important facts.

Often students write letters to the editor. Sometimes these letters aren't printed. More often they appear on the editorial page under the title "Post Office Box."

The Kernel prints letters which do not agree with the opinions of its editors, but they are opinions of students or faculty and they have a right to appear in print. How anyone could get the idea that The Kernel agrees with all opinions which are written in to it, we do not know. But this accusation has been made.

The Kernel will print all letters which are submitted to it with the following reservations:

- (1) Maximum length: 350 words. (2) Letters must be signed by the author. (3) This doesn't mean signing someone else's name as a practical joke. Whenever it is requested that the name of the author be withheld, The Kernel will be glad to do so, but it must know who wrote the letter. Anonymous letters are automatically filed in the waste basket, usually without even a reading. (5) Letters must be coherent. (4) Letters must be on some subject of interest to the campus. The Kernel doesn't care what that subject is.

Occasionally someone writes a libelous letter. These The Kernel cannot and will not print. According to the law which governs the press, any paper which prints libelous remarks is responsible to the person libeled and liable to suit. The author is unimportant in this case. It's the paper which prints the objectionable material that suffers. Obscenity in print also is forbidden by law. The Kernel editors reserve the right to decide whether material is libelous or obscene.

A few students and faculty members believe that the only purpose of The Kernel is to "raise trouble" and give the administration a black eye. The Kernel often finds fault with the University officials; the University officials often find fault with The Kernel. But The Kernel doesn't pick on the administration; it discusses those problems which it feels should be brought to the attention of the faculty.

Many readers accuse The Kernel of merely destroying and offering nothing better. Reforms in SGA, better steps, some registration reforms, all have been suggested by The Kernel.

Sometimes an editorial writer discusses a problem to which he knows no solution. But even an alumnus doesn't know all the answers; the University officials don't know all the answers. The Kernel feels, however, that there is someone somewhere who does know the answer to a particular problem, and it tries to find that person through its editorial columns.

Criticism is justified when reform is hoped for. Must The Kernel always offer a sure-fire solution to everything it discusses? Hercules didn't put anything back in the Augean stables.

Sometimes it is difficult to obtain stories from news sources. For fear of embarrassment some persons won't "break a story." This fear often is justified. The Kernel, however, doesn't welcome "off-the-record" tips. It may prevent it from getting the story elsewhere. If a story is given to The Kernel, the editors have the right to determine the advisability of using it.

* The Kernel is a student newspaper, as free as it possibly can be from University control. It asks to be treated as such and not as a publicity mouthpiece or sunshine spreader for the administration.

On the other hand, by no means does The Kernel "have it in" for the administration. It attempts to be fair.

The Kernel recognizes its responsibilities, but insists on freedom of news coverage, freedom of editorial comment, freedom to be as nearly as possible, a professional newspaper.

The latest extra-curricular activity in Jewell hall is finding a fourth roommate under three feet tall who will fit nicely on the closet shelf this fall.

It has been announced that another all-American basketball player plans to attend the University this fall. Several thousand students and fans may be quoted as saying, "Ho hum."

The doubling up on rooms in both the University residence halls and rooming houses in town calls for a re-phrasing of the old saying to read: "Education makes strange bedfellows."

First Big Fraternity Rush Week Staged Since War's Beginning

With a record-breaking number of men enrolled in the University during the last ten days, the seventeen campus fraternities are, individually and collectively, staging the most extensive rush week for new members since before the war.

The ruling that no University women may participate in fraternity rushing has changed the pattern if not the amount of the entertaining. In place of the usual dances and mixed parties, smokers and stag suppers have dominated the rush week.

Hotel Banquets
Alpha Gamma Rho held a smoker at its chapter house for rushers Monday night. The AGRS entertained with a banquet at the Phoenix hotel Wednesday night, and a party will be held at Castwood tonight. Their rush week will end with individual rushing by the members tomorrow night.

Alpha Tau Omega opened its rushing with a chapter house smoker Tuesday night and a luncheon Wednesday noon. The high point of the ATO week was a banquet at the Phoenix hotel Wednesday night. A party last night and a smoker tonight will end their formal rushing.

Delta Tau Delta entertained with a banquet at the Phoenix Wednesday night and a party last night. A dance at the chapter house is planned for tomorrow night.

The Kappa Alpha house held rush suppers at the chapter house every night this week. A dance in the Fireside room of the Phoenix will be held tonight in honor of the new pledges.

River Party
Kappa Sigma rushed Tuesday night with a barbecue supper on the Kentucky river at Clifton. Wednesday night with a Monte Carlo supper at the chapter house and last night with a house party and smoker.

Lambda Chi Alpha held a smoker at the house Monday night and a winner roast in the backyard Wednesday. They had a stag party at the house last night and will have another tonight. A mixed house party is scheduled for tomorrow night in honor of the new pledges.

Phi Delta Theta entertained over 200 guests with a buffet supper-warming party before the Mississippi game last Saturday night, and a smoker followed the game. Other functions included a buffet supper and smoker at the house Monday night, and another supper at the Country club Wednesday evening.

Sorority Rush Week To End Tomorrow

Approximately 250 University women will receive bids to Kentucky's eleven sororities at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in Memorial Hall. Presentation of the bids will climax a week of formal rushing.

With eleven national sororities represented on the UK campus this year, rush week has rolled into its last day, preference parties being tonight.

Changes in the sorority set-up include the pledging of Tau Alpha Pi local sorority members into Sigma Delta Tau, national group. Mrs. Irving Linderman, national representative of the sorority, pledged ten girls September 18. They will comprise the Alpha Gamma Gamma chapter here.

New Tea System
A new system of attending the opening teas was inaugurated this fall as rushers came according to an alphabetical system arranged by Panhellenic. Each sorority had two teas in the period of Friday through Sunday.

The sororities were divided for the parties into groups that entertained on alternating nights. The first group included Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Xi Delta, and Kappa Alpha Theta. In the other group were Alpha Delta Pi, Chi Omega, Kappa Delta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Zeta Tau Alpha sororities.

Another change in the campus scene occurred when the Kappa's wartime home was reclaimed by the Delta Tau Deltas, forcing the sorority to go "house-hunting." They were fortunate in finding a house but cannot obtain possession until later in the quarter. Their first teas were held in the Union building, others being held at the homes of various members.

Rushers were guests Monday night at the Alpha Xi Holiday Inn party, a Theta Showboat party, a Tri-Delta School-days party, an Alpha Gamma Arabian Knights party, and a Delta Zeta Oriental party.

Tuesday night the second group of sororities entertained rushers with a Chi Omega Garden party, a KD School-days party, an AD Pi Monte Carlo party, and a Zeta Tau Alpha Horse Races party. The Kappas entertained rushers that night with a Kappa Canteen party at the home of Mary Jane Grimes on Hanover avenue.

Pre-Preference Parties
Featured Wednesday night was a Delta Zeta Pickaninny party.

Intramurals

By O. C. Halvard

An enlarged intramural program consisting of touch football, tennis, golf, volleyball, wrestling and boxing, has been planned for the fall quarter. Bill McCubbin, intramural manager, said that with the increased enrollment he is expecting intramurals to hit a new peak in student interest and participation.

Touch football, tennis and golf lead off the agenda with the deadline registration date for all three Tuesday, October 1. Play is scheduled to begin in each on October 8. The football will be played on a round-robin basis first, and then an elimination tournament will be planned. All fraternities and any independent groups desiring to organize a team will be eligible for participation in the tournament, and should send their intramural manager to talk with Coach McCubbin. Prizes will be awarded according to the results of play in the elimination. The teams will be seeded for this final round of play by their won-lost count in the round-robin competition. Both singles and doubles will be offered in tennis and golf. Play will be on an elimination basis only, and prizes will be awarded accordingly.

All tennis matches will be played on the Downing courts, while the golfers will travel to Peademe. There will be three football games each day, one on the intramural field behind the Mens gym, and two on the U-High field. Football contests will be limited to 30 minutes. Any students knowing the rules for touch football well enough to qualify as referee should get in touch with McCubbin at their earliest convenience. There are also openings for two or three overall intramural managers to assist the director. The physical education department has prepared a booklet on intramural sports to serve as a record and a source of information to the team managers. They will be distributed at a meeting for the managers. Volleyball, wrestling and boxing will be offered later in the quarter after the weather becomes too

Scouts, Scribes Fill Press Box

Not only Wildcat fans are wondering if Kentucky's football fortunes are on the rise, if Saturday night's pressbox occupants are any indication. Several of the south's better known sports writers were there, as well as scouts from many schools, particularly future Wildcat foes.

Dean of the scribes was Ed Danforth, sports editor of the Atlanta Journal. Danforth, incidentally, is a Kentucky graduate, returns to Lexington annually before the first game to summarize 'Cat prospects. He is considered one of the top authorities on southern football. Other familiar faces were Fred Russell, Nashville Banner; Johnny Bradberry, Atlanta Constitution; Walter Stewart, Memphis Commercial-Appeal; Buck Weaver, Louisville Times; Raymond Johnson, Nashville Tennessean, and Jimmy Minter, Cincinnati Post.

Hamilton's Back, And Bryant's Got Him

That cheerful whistle emanating from Coach Paul Bryant today is caused by a wandering footballer's return. The lad in question is Allen Hamilton, not just another griddle but one of the most sought-after prospects in years. Hamilton, captain and all-state guard of Louisville Male's 1944 state champions, started workouts with the Wildcats in early August, was lured to Vanderbilt after two weeks. He returned to practice Thursday, is expected to see action in Saturday's Cincinnati clash. The 190-pound lineman played first-string for Great Lakes in his first year out of high school, and the salient lineup was crowded with former college and professional stars.

Quite interesting was the reaction among the writers on the E-mail Allen's eligibility. Some were non-committal, but Russell and Hewitt were outspoken in their disfavor of his playing. Scouts were so plentiful it was hard to identify all of them. Bob Neyland, Tennessee's veteran coach, brought along four aides to look things over. "Red" Sanders, head Vanderbilt mentor, called the Wildcats "a great team." Bud Bonar, Cincinnati assistant, was on hand for a look-see at the boys who will oppose his Bengals this Saturday, predicted a close game. —B. M.

Russell Quote Wrong; Allen Still Eligible

That E-mail Allen will play Saturday is certain, barring last-minute action by conference officials. In light of the week's developments Kentucky's much-disputed left half may be declared eligible for the rest of the season.

His participation in the Mississippi game was a result of the Southeastern's executive committee vote. J. J. Tigert, loop president, was reported early this week by Fred Russell, Nashville sports writer, as having said he would reverse his opinion, but denied the statement.

As The Kernel went to press, Tigert indicated that he may call for another committee ruling, appoint two special members to make a five-man tally. Dr. W. L. Funkhouser, Kentucky delegate, could not vote because his school was involved, Mississippi's representative had not been appointed after its chancellor's resignation. If necessary, Tigert said, he will poll the entire conference.

bad for outdoor competition. McCubbin announced that an overall prize will be offered to the organization accumulating the largest number of points for participating in intramurals throughout the quarter.

B's Play Fort Knox

Kentucky's B team will meet the Fort Knox Tankers tonight in Louisville in the second game on its schedule.

The team, composed of the overflow from Coach Bryant's varsity, was held to a 13-13 tie by Morehead's varsity last Friday at Morehead. The eleven was formed to give reserve players a chance to see more action before future varsity service.

Bill McCubbin, latest addition to Bryant's coaching staff, handles the squad. Carney Leslie will take the team to Louisville, however, while McCubbin is out of town this weekend scouting a future Wildcat foe.

MUSING with Melton

Kentucky's football delegates had a job to do. From the hill country to the Purchase University fans were listening. Stoll field itself was packed with its greatest crowd in history. In the north side seats were several thousand students who had come to see if Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant had really gathered together a group of gridirers which would put Kentucky's football star in the heavens.

The press box was crowded, too. Sport scribes from all over the south had convened to watch the boys from the Bluegrass try their first step up the conference ladder. Scouts from several schools, particularly Wildcat foes, were there to see if the boys from Arkansas really had something different.

University fans first sensed something different when 56 uniformed gridirers ran on the field. Where were the smaller squads of yesterday? Could these blue-jerseyed athletes be from the University of Kentucky, which usually fielded a good starting team, then lost the game on less seasoned reserves? Oh, well, they can put a uniform on anyone. Wealth in quality, not quantity, makes a team.

The Rebels from Oxford and the lost Wildcats had one thing in common. Both were launching what they hoped would be "new orders" in football, eyes of a brighter day on the gridiron. Kentucky had lured Bryant for its rebuilding, Mississippi chose "Red" Drew, former Bama end mentor who had coached the "Bear" to All-American honors as a Tide wingman.

When the locals pushed their first touchdown across, fans were still skeptical. Hadn't they done that many times, then gone on to lose? With the second marker a bit of this doubt began to disappear. Mississippi rallied and scored, but heck, the bleacherites reasoned, they were lucky. Didn't they get the ball in mid-field after a punt exchange?

And then the fans thought of something else. Those first two scores weren't accidents. They were direct results of concentrated drives. Why, except for costly fumbles, the 'Cat score would easily have been doubled.

The last tally helped erase still more disbelief. Smart fellow, that Allen—can't find a receiver, so he runs the ball across. Sure glad the executive committee made him eligible.

So they left the stadium, wondering if brighter days were really ahead. They'd seen Kentucky look great early in the season, then slump. How about the University of Cincinnati next week—how about the big boys in the conference like Alabama, Tennessee and Georgia, all future foes?

Whatever the result in terms of final scores they knew the University at last had a team which would fight all the way. Moreover, they felt that the 1946 club was one which would play its games on the field, not be beaten before by the foe's record and press clippings.

During their years in the service Kentucky students were often asked "Why does UK always have great basketball teams, but no good football squads?" We cannot make rosy predictions on one game, but here's hoping last week's game will begin an answer to the question.

To coin an old military phrase, "Well done."

Record Crowd As Cats Top Rebels, Make Bear Bryant's Bow Success

Allen, Cutchins Toss Touchdown Passes

The largest crowd in Kentucky football history, 19,600, saw Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant's Cats usher in the University's heralded new era on the gridiron by topping Mississippi, 20-6, Saturday night on Stoll field. The win gave Kentucky a 2-1 edge in the series which began in 1944.

Few moments had elapsed before it was evident that the Wildcats had carried on to the field a bit of the drive and power so publicized in pregame reports. Ermal Allen's last-minute eligibility by virtue of a conference executive committee vote was more than a small factor in the win which Kentucky fans hope is only the beginning of more wonderful things to come.

No mention of Allen can be made without including his partner at left half, Phil Cutchin, whose triple-threat play, like the Morrissett, Tenn. speedster, sparked the squad. Nor can the 91-yard runback of a Rebel kickoff by Don Phelps for a touchdown be overlooked. But here, once again, the guys who carried the ball are helping football's easiest and greatest oversights—the fellows in the line. Coach Bryant himself praises the play of Jay Rhodemyre at center, Leo Yarusis at guard, and Wallace Jones and Bill Portwood at ends, as well as others. Injuries to Yarusis and Bill Chambers, fullback, were one of only two discordant notes in the game for the winners. Yarusis will be out for several weeks, possibly the season, with a fractured right wrist. Chambers' consistent play will be missed in this week's Cincinnati game while he recovers from a leg injury.

Other than injuries, yardage lost by penalties gave Kentucky fans unhappy moments. The Wildcats were penalized 90 yards, while only 10 were charged against Mississippi. The game had hardly gotten under way when the Wildcats drove to the 20, but lost the ball on George Senek's fumble on an end-around. Other fumbles by Big Blue backs deep in enemy territory cost Kentucky several scores. Especially is this true of heaves dropped in the end zone, once by Charlie Bentley on a loss from Allen, another on a pass, to Seangle by Cutchin, both coming in the third quarter.

Kentucky's first touchdown came on Cutchin's aerial to Jones, who was very much alone, thanks to a bit of 'Cat maneuvering. Very significant was the fact that the score came on the first play after Cutchin replaced Allen, apparently bringing his mates the word from Coach Bryant on the play that faked the Ole Miss line to the offensive right, leaving Jones an easy target for the season's first marker. Cutchin's try for extra point went wide.

The second 'Cat score was realized on Allen's chuck to Bill Portwood, and this time Cutchin's kick was good. Allen and Chambers had run the ball to Mississippi's 13-yard line, after George Blanda had intercepted a Rebel pass on the "Sippy 23-yard stripe. Blanda's dependable kicking was still another pleasant feature for the partisan throng.

Mississippi's one and only six-pointer was as much a result of a punt exchange and a Kentucky penalty as from ball-toting itself. The Rebels had the ball in mid-field when the quarter ended, were forced to kick on a fourth down. The ball went to Kentucky's 10, where after a Wildcat clipping violation, Allen kicked out of danger. The punt traveled only to the edge of Rebel territory. Billy Mustin returned this to the Cat 45, and the visitors took a time out to plan scoring strategy. Another Kentucky penalty for roughness helped things along, and a series of short gains carried to the Blue nine, where Clayton Blount tossed to "one of the Poole boys"—Ray—for the southerners' lone marker. The try for extra point was blocked.

The game's last scoring was set up by Phelps. The Danville youth took Ray Poole's kickoff on his own three, went to midfield behind good blocking, cut toward the sidelines on his own and appeared headed toward double-strikes when Blount's shoestring tackle from behind brought him down on the Rebel six. Mississippi's Joy was short-lived, however, as Allen hurried over on the next play. He had faked back to pass, could find no receiver, so ran the ball across. Bill Bolter's kick was good.

The losers got across the halfway mark only three times during the game. Not until late in the first half could they cross the 50, on Charles Conery's pass to Jimmy Majure. Just before the third quarter ended, Davis recovered Chambers' fumble on the Mississippi 47. Blount moved it to Kentucky's 49 before losing four on a fake. Their last jaunt started within the Blue realm and ended in the Rebels' only score.

 KENTUCKY'S FINEST FURNITURE STORE

University veterans, in an effort to provide for housing for fellow students and for themselves and their wives, went to work this summer as carpenters, riggers, plumbers—anything that might help. Results of their labor are seen over the campus. Here two unknown ex-sliders hammer on the roof of a Shawsheen house.

Two UK Alumni Are Pictured In 'Mirror'

Two alumni of the University of Kentucky are pictured in the October issue of Mirror, national radio fan magazine, in an article featuring the activities of a Washington correspondent and commentator.

The article spotlights the work of O. W. Kingsbury, '33, the Washington correspondent and commentator for Radio Station WLW, Cincinnati.

The WLW correspondent, who is a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity, also is pictured interviewing Senator James Huffman of Ohio, Agriculture Secretary Anderson and other Washington personalities in getting news for his daily broadcasts from the WLW studios in the nation's capital.

Was Kernel News Editor
Mr. Kingsbury, who worked on Kentucky newspapers and was assistant professor at the University of Cincinnati before joining WLW as news editor, got his journalistic start as news editor of The Kernel. He was a member of Omicron Delta Kappa and president of Sukey.

Although stationed in Washington, he maintains his legal residence in Kenton county, Kentucky.

Among his news contacts in Washington are numerous graduates of the University, including Paul Porter, the OPA chief; Undersecretary of Labor, Keen Johnson; Representative Earle Clements of the Second Kentucky District and others.

UK Offers Courses For Townspeople

Thirty-four late afternoon, evening and Saturday classes in three colleges of the University will be offered during fall quarter for the primary benefit of Lexington townspeople interested in part-time study. Miss Maple Moores, assistant registrar, announced.

The courses in the Colleges of Education, Arts and Sciences and Commerce are those "for which there has been a demand in the past on the part of non-students," Miss Moores said.

The last date on which one may enter an organized class is Oct. 2.

apt. Leslie Van Hoy Takes Transport Post

Cap't Leslie B. Van Hoy of Lexington, Kentucky, has assumed the post of Assistant Chief Pilot of the Military Air Transport Unit stationed at Memphis, Tennessee. It was announced recently by Lt. Col. Lawrence G. Gilbert, base commander. In this position, his duties will be continuous checking of pilot qualifications and administration matters over the MAT unit.

Cap't Van Hoy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Van Hoy, who reside at Bowling Green, Ky. He was graduated from Scottsville High School, Scottsville, Kentucky and attended the University of Kentucky at Lexington.

Radio Station Receives New FCC Rating

Application has been made to the Federal Communications Commission by the University for a new assignment in both frequency and wattage for radio station WKYK, the University's frequency modulation station, Elmer G. Sulzer, UK director of radio, has announced.

With FCC approval, the University proposes to operate the new transmitter on a strength of 1,000 watts and on a frequency of 92.200 kilocycles in the newly designed frequency modulation band, ranging from 88,000 to 92,000 kilocycles for educational and non-commercial stations, Sulzer said.

Since March 1945, WKYK has broadcast on a frequency of 42.90 kilocycles with a power of 500 watts from the studios in McVey hall. There will necessarily be dual operation of the two transmitters by a while, Sulzer explained, but WKYK will eventually vacate the present FM band which is being cleared by the FCC.

Construction was completed this month on a new 148-foot tower which will support a four-element turnstile type antenna and all the University station greater range. The structure, formerly used by the Lexington police department, will give the station a coverage of about 40 miles, according to Sulzer. FM range is practically limited to the horizon.

Steve Jillson, Alum Does Character Role In 'Duel In The Sun'

Steve Jillson, former student at the University, has recently completed a character role in David O. Selznick's technical production, "Duel In The Sun," in which he appeared with such outstanding stars as Jennifer Jones, Gregory Peck, Joseph Cotton, Lionel Barrymore, Herbert Marshall, Lillian Gish, Walter Houston, Charles Brickell, Tully Loach and others.

Although Jillson whose professional name is Steve Dunhill, has appeared in a dozen pictures since he graduated three years ago, "Duel in the Sun" marks his debut in a Selznick technical production.

A former contact player on the Selznick lot, Dunhill appeared in O. Selznick's "Since You Went Away" in which he portrayed a handsome Mariner, who true to the romantic tradition of the movie Marinas had been "Dunhill's ambition to be an actor, as he came to California originally to recover from a tropical illness which he had contracted while working as a tractor operator in Costa Rica, where he had been engaged in the construction of the Pan-American Highway.

A talent scout saw him, not acting, but simply relaxing, and brought him to the Selznick studio to study dramatics and be groomed for important parts in pictures. "I am very grateful," Dunhill said, "for the chance events, that got me into pictures, for on the Selznick lot I certainly had the opportunity to observe at first hand some of the most polished actors which the screen possesses."

Home Town Is Frankfort
Dunhill, whose home town was Frankfort, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Jillson reside, enjoys Hollywood variation as a contrast to the stability of his "Kentucky home."

Dr. Jillson, Dunhill's father, is the former director of the Kentucky Geological Survey, and now serves as consultant geologist. Dunhill is unmarried and resides in an apartment at 203 North Belmont Street, Beverly Hills.

Dunhill's sister, Ann Jillson, is a sophomore student at the University where she is a member of Chi Omega sorority.

Sullivan Argues Against Annexation

Arguments against annexation of Lexington suburban areas to the city were voiced by Rodman Sullivan, professor in the College of Commerce, in a talk at a meeting of the Lexington Rotary club Aug. 29. The city of Lexington should offer advantages to the suburban areas if annexation is to be made attractive, the speaker stated. He added that he was not "unilaterally opposed" to annexation, but that he thought the city was not a fit place for civilized man to live "because of smoke, dirt, and noise nuisances.

Consolidation of the city-county governments with property assessed on a zoning system, revision of the present zoning ordinance, and revenue-earning properties held by educational, church, or charitable agencies, were suggested by Professor Sullivan as steps which would increase city revenue.

30 Receive Scholarships

Thirty graduates of Kentucky high schools were named 1946-47 recipients of the Kentucky Distillers' Association Scholarships for University of Kentucky freshmen by Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, dean of the University and administrator of the scholarships.

Selection was made on a competitive basis from among superior students who were nominated by their respective high school principals. Every high school in Kentucky was asked for nominations, Dean Chamberlain said.

Those who have been granted the one-year scholarships, which carry a stipend of $250 each year, are: Mary V. Anewall, Dayton, Dayton High school; Louise C. Ayres, Cynthiana, Cynthiana High school; John W. Barr, Carlisle, Carlisle High school; Burkett R. Barrett, Mt. Sterling, Mt. Sterling High school; Katherine A. Barnett, Shelbyville, Shelbyville High school; Ada E. Burgin, Harrodsburg, Burgin High school; Charles W. Carter, Davis S. Fields, Jr., Louisville, Fields High school; Jacqueline L. Freppon, Covington, Holmes High school; Barbara P. Gibson, Bellevue, Bellevue High school; Halie F. Hays, Lexington, Henry Clay High school; Raymond P. Holbrook, Bowling, Fleming County High school; John B. Kupper, Lexington, Lafayette High school; Patricia J. Lawson, Hickman, Hickman High school; Joyce L. Mackey, Lebanon, Lebanon High school; Joe Nagle, Middletown, Middletown High school; Hilda R. Newland, Louisville, Louisville Girls High school; John A. Pedigo, Scottsville, Scottsville High school; Barbara Jean Peck, Nicholasville, Wilmore High school; George D. Sisson, Jr., Paducah, Tilghman High school; Betty L. University Alumni Is Now In Manila

Elizabeth Mary Gottron, graduate of Miami University and the University of Kentucky, is one of the three American girls in charge of the kitchen and dining rooms at the American Red Cross Roosevelt Club, formerly Manila Jai Alai Club. Miss Gottron's job is to work with the Filipino chef in devising interesting menus from things at hand.

"For example," Miss Gottron says, "for two whole months we had to think of new ways of serving pork sausage, as at that time pork sausage was all that we were able to get at our quartermaster sales company." Clubs like the Roosevelt and Army-run recreational centers, draw food from a five percent shipping and not from food marked for cash sales.

At peak periods the Roosevelt Club was serving 2,000 meals a day.

Radio Conservation Essay Contest Begins

Prizes totaling $1,500 will be awarded the Kentucky high school students who win the 1946 Soil Conservation Essay Contest, Barry Bingham, president of the Courier-Journal, the Louisville Times and Radio Station WHAS announced.

Conducted annually since 1944, the contest is sponsored by the two papers and the radio station in operation with the Kentucky Association of Soil Conservation Districts, and others.

1,000 Word Essay
To enter the contest every qualified student should write an essay, not exceeding 1,000 words on "Why Soil Conservation Program Is Important To Kentucky." Special emphasis should be placed on the importance of soil conservation to other natural resources and the need for soil conservation district field in this program.

The state prizes will include Savings Bonds of $100, $50, and $25. In addition, a $25 Savings Bond will be given to the winner of the best essay from each of the soil conservation districts in which at least five essays are submitted.

Background material for the contest is available at the annual Home and Farm Campaign-Town Wallace Forestry Award-Soil Conservation Essay Contest luncheon-conference, held in Louisville, June 15. State judges who will meet in Louisville are: Watson Armstrong, executive director, vocational education, U. S. C., and the immediate vicinity; Mrs. Barry Bingham, representative, Courier-Journal, the Louisville Times and Radio station WHAS; H. Brown, commissioner of conservation, State soil conservation committee; H. K. Gayle, state conservator of fish and game; Agriculture; Mrs. J. Kidwell Granville, Kentucky Council of Conservation; E. J. Kinney, department director, U. S. Department of Agriculture; University of Kentucky; J. E. Stanford, executive secretary, Kentucky Conservation District Supervisors' Farm Bureau; A. Threlkeld, president, Kentucky Association of Soil Conservation Districts; and Ralph Wood, president, Murray State Teachers' College.

Background material for the contest may be secured from county agricultural agents, vocational agricultural agents, soil conservation technicians, U. S. Department of Agriculture, and the experience of local farm agents.

For contest information write to J. M. Wynne, in care of the Courier-Journal, The Times or WHAS, in Louisville, Ky.

Vets Should Guard Against Pay Delay

Veterans who are entering school or job-training this fall under provisions of the GI Bill should be in possession of their financial allowances, the three states advised by the Columbus Branch Office at Columbus has advised.

While VA will make every effort to pay assistance in a timely manner, there may be some cases of some delay in payments due to the tremendous volume of work resulting from the start of a new school term. It is estimated that this fall within the Branch area, 18,000 veterans will receive some $8,000,000 in allowances including $4,000 in Ohio, $3,000 in Michigan, and 11,000 in Kentucky; the three states advised by the Columbus Branch Office.

"There is no provision in the GI Bill (Public Law 246) which permits VA to make loans or advance subsistence payments to veterans commencing or taking educational or training courses. Under Public Law 16, which is the Vocational Rehabilitation Act for disabled veterans, a $1,500,000 revolving fund has been provided to make advance payments not exceeding $100 in any case to disabled veterans who are entering training. The advancement must be repaid to the VA in installments.

Loan Is Granted For Dormitory Plans

Congressman Virgil Chapman announced at Washington, Aug. 29 that the Federal Works Administration had approved a loan of $225,000 revolving fund has been provided to make advance payments not exceeding $100 in any case to disabled veterans who are entering training. The advancement must be repaid to the VA in installments.

One Hundred One Latin Americans Attend US Colleges

One hundred and one Latin American students, from the United States by Pan American World Airways Clippers, complete a special English-language orientation course at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 15. Preparatory to further study this fall at various U.S. colleges.

Representing 17 Latin American nations, the students are studying the customs and language of the United States.

For 76 of the group, the two months course is serving as an orientation before the dispersal to U.S. colleges for regular courses this fall. The others are returning to their native countries.

Sponsored by State Department
Twenty-five of the students were selected by the Institute of International Education and are sponsored in the special course by the U.S. State Department. They are from Argentina, Bolivia, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Ecuador, Honduras, Mexico, and Peru.

Four of the students are Buenos Aires Convention Fellows, selected and sponsored by the U.S. Office of Education. They are from Guatemala, Nicaragua and Panama.

Twenty Brazilian students comprise the largest group enrolled from any one country, followed by 15 each from Costa Rica and Mexico and 14 from Colombia. Six enrollees traveled up from Cuba, five each from Chile and Venezuela and four from Honduras.

Nicaragua and Panama each contributed three students and Argentina, Bolivia, Ecuador and Peru, two. The Dominican Republic, Guatemala, El Salvador are represented by a single student each.

H. S. New Accessibility
The exchange of students between Latin America and the United States has increased in direct proportion to a vast post-war expansion of Pan American service. Always, recent reductions to flying times are making U.S. colleges easily accessible.

How quickly they are availing themselves of the opportunity and how widely the influence of student exchange movement is being felt is shown by the list of colleges which the Louisiana State group plans to attend.

Kentucky Has One
L.S.U. sponsoring the special summer session, gains the greatest number—47. The University of Denver is attracting five, Iowa State College, the University of Michigan, three each, and the University of Wyoming, southwestern Louisiana Institute and the University of Oklahoma, two each. Indiana University, Kansas State University, Washington University, Southwestern Missouri State Teachers' College, Tulane University, Evansville College, the University of Arkansas, Northwestern State College, the University of Kansas and the University of Texas are enrolling one each of the students.

18 Receive Haggan Award

Eighteen recipients of Margaret Voorhies Haggan Trust fellowships and scholarships for research and advanced study in the University of Kentucky Graduate School were named by Dr. William D. Funkhouser, Graduate School dean.

Named as graduate fellows were Clyde R. Tipton, Jr., Erlanger, College of Engineering; Esther Z. Bailey, Winston Salem, N. C., Department of History, and Elizabeth R. Helvestine, Clifton Forge, Va., College of Education. One fellowship remains to be filled.

Awarded scholars were Jack W. Buchanan, Berea, horticulture; Elizabeth R. Shreve, Milledgeville, Ga., history; Joe L. Lawson, Jr., Walling Creek, psychology; May B. Aull, Clemson, S. C., commerce; Marie S. Young, Herndon, home economics; Evelyn M. Becker, Jeanette, Pa., bacteriology; John H. Denham, Hazard, chemistry; Harvey C. Sunderman, St. Mary's W. Va., geology; Donald C. Rose, Lexington, mathematics; Dale McHugh, Murray, physics; William K. Blue, Clay, psychology; Lella A. Turner, Williamsburg, zoology; Earl K. Turner, Williamsburg, zoology.

All appointments were approved by the University board of trustees. The University Graduate School fellowships and 14 scholarships are open annually to graduates of accredited colleges and universities showing special aptitude for the line of work they desire to pursue.

Trustees Hold Meeting; Hire Dorm Architect

Dr. Sarah Blanding Will Be Installed At Vassar Oct. 11
Dr. Sarah Gibson Blanding, former dean of women at the University, will be installed formally as the first, the late Frances Jewell McVey, was one of the four principal speakers at the ceremonies.

Other speakers are Dean Virginia Glidewere of Barnard College, New York City; Dr. Edmund E. Day, president of Cornell University, where Dr. Blanding was dean of the College of Home Economics, and Dr. Blanding.

Dr. McVey was president of the University when Miss Blanding served as dean of women, and his wife, the late Frances Jewell McVey, was a close friend of the Vassar president.

Blast Damages Highway Lab

Explosion Loss Is Estimated At $1,000
An explosion from an oven containing a two-gallon can of asphalt in the Highway Materials Research Laboratory at the College of Engineering plant on Graham avenue September 11 caused damage estimated at $1,000.

The explosion, which occurred at 7:25 o'clock, could be heard a half-mile away, according to Patrolman J. T. Dickey and John Puckett. They report the sound resembled the muffled blast of a road quarry explosion.

City firemen said damage to the laboratory and the equipment was caused by heavy smoke and dust resulting from the blast. There was little fire.

Dr. W. Terrell, acting dean of the College of Engineering reported that the oven in which the asphalt had been left inadvertently at the close of working hours yesterday afternoon was destroyed and that a cabinet underneath the table on which the oven stood was badly damaged.

The laboratory, where materials are used in experiment for highway paving, is operated by the highway department in conjunction with the Engineering Department.

L. E. Gregg, associate in charge of engineering research at the laboratory, traced the explosion to the fact that the can of asphalt had been left the oven four or five hours too long.

The alarm was sounded by H. S. VanArsdell, 136 Graham avenue. Both Mr. VanArsdell's residence, adjacent to the laboratory and the home of Mrs. John Pritch, 122 Graham avenue, escaped damage.

Dr. Webb Speaks On Atomic Energy

Dr. W. S. Webb, head of the University Physics, Anthropology and Archeology departments, spoke on atomic energy at the luncheon meeting of the Lions club Sept. 4 at the Lafayette hotel.

Release of atomic energy, the speaker stated, is too revolutionary to be considered in the framework of old ideas and marks an epoch in human history.

"If World War III comes," Dr. Webb continued, "it will last only two days — perhaps only a few hours."

French Girl Selected To Attend University

Miss Helene Bourdais of Grenoble, France, has been selected to receive the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs scholarship to the University for 1946-47. Miss June Haselden, assistant dean of women, announced.

Miss Bourdais, a graduate in law from the University of Grenoble, plans to study political science and international law at the University. She was scheduled to depart from Le Havre, France, Sept. 5 and to arrive here in time to take up studies for the fall quarter.

The Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs maintains a standing $1,000 scholarship to send a foreign student to the University for one calendar year. The award is announced annually in September.

Fall Staff Changes Announced

Members of the executive committee of the University of Kentucky board of trustees, meeting August 23, in the offices of President M. L. Douvan, approved staff changes, accepted gifts and employed for service buildings. It makes changes in plans and specifications as a means of cutting the cost of the structure. The University comptroller was directed to advertise for bids to be opened at the December meeting of the board of trustees. A few bids of $250,000 submitted in July was turned down by the trustees.

Following resolution was adopted by the trustees: "The University of Kentucky board of trustees hereby resolves that the name of the University of Kentucky, or any abbreviation thereof, should not be used in any advertising matter, or in any other way, by any private enterprise not connected with the institution. The board further resolves that the University should not be asked to request any business firm so using the name of the University of Kentucky to put an immediate halt to such practice."

Official approval was given to the names Cooperstown and Shawsheen, housing projects for veterans.

Dr. Clement Eaton, head of history department at Lafayette College, Pennsylvania, was appointed professor of history; Willis M. Carter was named professor of machine design, and Dr. Ralph H. Pickett, head of the Commerce Department at Kansas State Teachers' College, was appointed professor of economics.

John F. Wilcox, Lexington architect, was employed to prepare plans for a residence hall on which construction will begin as soon as possible. The four-story dormitory will be of fireproof construction and will accommodate 366 students. It will be financed by a bond issue and will have a life expectancy of 25 years. A cafeteria for men will be included.

Permission was granted the Central Kentucky Gas Company to lay a pipe across University property on which Cooperstown, veterans' housing project, is situated.

A gift of rare books was accepted from Mrs. J. Byrle Anderson, Gentry Park, Newton, Pa. A $750 grant also was accepted from the Kenland Foundation. The fund will be used to pay the cost of instruction of Ogden F. Edwards, assistant professor of bacteriology, in the use of the electron-microscope. Prof. Edwards will study at Bethesda, Md., from Oct. 1 to Dec. 16.

Present for the session were Judge Richard C. Stoll, chairman, Lexington; John C. Everett, Mayor of Louisville; and Dr. R. F. Hobson, Louisville; H. D. Palmer, Frankfort; Frank D. Peterson, head of the board, and Dr. Donnan.

Cost-Plus Contract For UK Is Legal

There are no state laws which prohibit the University's Board of Trustees from negotiating privately a cost-plus-fixed-fee contract for construction of a new Service Building at the school. Atty. Gen. Eldon S. Dammart declared August 23.

The opinion, written for Dr. H. L. Donnan, University president, said such a contract would have to be approved ultimately by the state commissioner of finance.

Donnan told Dammart that the new building would cost $500,000. Lowest of bids opened by the board July 19, was $488,000, Donnan said. However, he added, the contractors indicated a desire to bid on the cost-plus-fixed-fee basis, both saying this arrangement would be less costly. Bids were high, the president suggested, because of the current price uncertainties.

Dammart said he had been advised money for the building, which is raised by bond issue and transfer of University credit now in the state fire and tornado insurance fund.

Dr. Plummer Speaks

Dr. Niel Plummer, head of the Department of Journalism, was principal speaker at a dinner meeting of the Executive Board of Professional Women's Club Sept. 10.

Life, Liberty, and Pursuit---Excerpts from Denman's Summer Quarter Columns

BY ADELE DENMAN
June 28 Edition

Well, here we are back to the blood, sweat, and tears of summer school—and no two people know anyone else. Yes, courtin' and stuff remain supreme both on the sunny side of the street and the shady side of the bushes. So let's get started boys, when in doubt—pin her, 'cause the competition promises to be somewhat kinetic in conjunction with any other active verb one can mention.

LIFE: Enough of this grammar, let's get down to brass hats. As we all know, professor will be professors, and those in the education college are no exception. Our quite loyal prof, who that would probably wear a feather in his mortar board) has a friendly little habit of quoting some word of wisdom, subsequently followed by a wink at each one of his six female class members. None of him to keep the gab from getting bored in class, and the theory is that if one counts winds like other persons count sheep, members' tables would be thing of the past. Another theory is that he winks half the time, and sleeps half the time without the students knowing it. Professors are smart!

Some seniors have discovered that they must take a class in communicable diseases in order to graduate, but they are not spreading it around. Flag of the Week: This week it goes to SAE fraternity for their sign WELCOME HOME ATO. Nice work boys in trying to eliminate some of the interfraternity jealousy.

PURSUIT: Speaking of jealousy, listen to all the fun some people are having and weep:

First we really should mention two swell guys that are on the hunt at present. Gals, they are really worth dating! These are Dick Youencer and "Screech" Leach. Dick is a well known Sigma Chi, and "Screech" is a sports writer on the Leader.

a. Marriages to come: (maybe) Ned McDonald (Sig Ep) to Iva Lu Ross (KD) and Corky Clark (Sig Ep) to Marjorie Michell (DDD).

b. Dorm Stuff: And so Eve Greer is flashing thin finger left FLASH! TRANSY MAN DATES UK STUDENT * the gal is named Alice Phillips. First on the date-book fly leaf for the last 18 days is Sue Nicholas, 18 consecutive dates, and ain't life grand!

c. Football Boys Date: (Now let's get it right). Rex Miller (Pi Kap) and quarterback has been rining up a score with Alabama Eddie-Dot Key. "Doc" Farrell has a tie with the KD house, namely Jane Bond. The "long and short" of it is that Harry (for coat) Omorgrose came over to see Ruth May Jordan (Alpha Xi).

He's six something and she measures five feet. Big Jim Wright (aren't all football players called big something or other?) made an upper division triumph out of the cracking affair between Homer Hall (Pi Kap) and Ingrid Ullman. d. Previews: Buddy Siele (Kappa Sig) and Sue Ferguson have a date for this coming Saturday.

e. Surprise: Ethel Newwood has been dating some fellow she calls "the Russian." Also Zoe Ann Beazley is getting married.

f. Question: Who is this Cret that Lynn Woodridge is dating?

From July 5 Edition

PURSUIT: a. Our Little Buddy: Buddy Gwelin receives an effort over Mr. Bell's invention every night from Helen Millman.

b. FLASH: Now let's get in the hall everyone. The Maye SX and Betsy Kane (ZTA) have the honor of being the first "pinned" of the summer.

c. Sympathy: Harold Mullins (Kappa Sig) had been going with a gal for five years when she got married to another man. Darn women anyway!

d. Pat Hall and Greek Goins On: Buddy Thiel (SAE) cannot leave La Le Witherspoon (DDD). Carol Demerice is dating Jim McCracken (Sigma Chi). Bubba Sutherland (SAE) and Mary Kassenbrock (Chi O) have the time. Margaret Tindler and Charlie Harris have a Chi O and Sigma Nu combination. Charlie Noel (Phi Del) was up to visit Betsy Moore (DDD). LIFE.

Janitors at the University have more fun than anybody. They don't have to go to class, they don't have to worry about $5.00 salary limitations, and they take out their "reform tendencies" by merely cleaning up University buildings (sweeping out dirt, that is).

Janitors are the type of "Blythe spirits" that usually are just as contented with mopping the floor. One particular colored gentleman who is employed in this capacity in one of our buildings has gotten quite friendly with all the students.

Yesterday he appeared at work with a bright RED tie on. Naturally a co-ed stopped and admired his tie in a somewhat joking manner. "Listen, Missus," he said solemnly. "This tie ain't no joking matter. I've been hearing all dis summer dat we is gonna have to fight the Reds and I don't want nobody to mistake me fo no Blue."

Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall inherit . . .

Aside from janitors, co-eds have lots of fun also. But never you forget that the old sage says, "Men must work, while women must worry how to get more work out of them."

The following human interest story illustrates just too well how co-eds have fun, worrying.

Four co-eds were reading a copy of "Life" magazine in a room of Jewell hall and they came in their preview to an advertisement of "Big & Hair." "The most famous pinch bottle in the world." This began a discussion as to what was the most famous bottle.

"I think it is the whiskey bottle," quoth the gay, party gal, co-ed.

"On the contrary, it just must be the jug of wine," said the lit-tle co-ed.

"I insist it is the 'bottleneck,'" said the wit of the crowd.

"I believe you're all wrong," said a little co-ed over in the corner who was definitely the type with marriage and a family on her mind.

"Everyone knows it is the baby bottle."

I guess everyone knows about the housing shortage by now, so it wouldn't sound a bit silly to tell you that a couple in Cooperstown living in one of those two by four bldgs is considering renting a room. Another interesting angle to the price people are paying for houses was brought to light when a man advertised in one of the papers in the state that he has a horse and a cow for sale. By some strange chance the paper made an error and the advertisement read, "a HOUSE and a cow for sale."

The poor advertiser was swamped. Everyone wanted to buy his house. Pretty soon he got tired of refusing and explaining, and sold his house for three times the price he had paid for it. The cow was also sold for a nice price.

Now he, his family, and the horse are looking for a place to live.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK: "Someone has said that good professors are leaving the University like rats deserting a sinking ship. If rat is, as rat does, even rats can't live on paper constitutions, they could always use a little green cheese."

LIBERTY: The bookstore doesn't fool anyone when they put the "out of cokes" sign over the dot of the cokes machine when the "out" sign isn't lit. Some smart people have discovered that all they must do now is to lift up the "out of cokes" sign and insert a nickel.

Speaking of cokes, things are getting pretty bad when the "over-the-coke grill talkers" can't afford a ten cent coke, and then they can't afford a twenty-five-cent beer to cry in about it.

CONGRATULATIONS OF THE WEEK: This goes to the Cooperstown city council for their official publication "The Cooperstown." Although mimeographed, it is a swell little paper.

Speaking of Cooperstown, why don't the citizens start a co-operative grocery store for themselves. If you want to save money—don't wait for the "nice University" to give you one. DO IT YOURSELF. For further information on this read the editorial on this page.

Now for my final and personal gripe. I have begged, I have pleaded, I have been nice, but I WANT $10 back salary for writing this column. I don't mind working at this for $5 a year, but I haven't been paid for the last two years.

PURSUIT: Now "Pursuit" lovers, here's all the gossip you can stand. Why you want to torture your self this way, I can't understand, but it's your funeral, and you wanted it.

a. What's Burin' in Boyd: A nice example of brotherly love is shown by the fact that Gann Davis is dating three Phi Taus. Jean Caproni has the singular honor of dating the great Soony Trent. Deal Sturgill (Bill that is) is still dating round. This time he is taking Mary Bradford to the library every night.

Dot Robertson and Bill Haylock date. Now another item: Why is Beaky Gripshy called the leober? Darned if I know, do you? Anus Hatman is still all in favor of football players, especially Carl Athaus.

b. Jewell Squad: Naomi Duncan has been going with Lloyd Waddell of late. He is Phi Tau.

c. Hearts and Flowers: My vote goes to Eve Greer and Jack Fenton as being the couple "most in love" of four football players, especially Carl Athaus.

d. Sigma Chi Dance: Bill "Bottle" Young (SAE) just happened to drop in at the Sigma Chi dance in a very informal "sit" garb and entertained everyone by singing his famous song, "Furniture Man."

e. SAE Dance: Dick "Senator Chagnon" Gillespie and Bill "The White Knight" Wharton, the two great politicians of the fraternity nominated each other for everything on earth, we hear.

f. "Steeled Wood": A very popular dog on campus was the master of ceremonies at the dance. He was slipping 'em the grip all over the place.

Jack (what, no nickname?) Darlington's "Renfro Valley Girl" was at the dance also.

Jim Bailey didn't go to West Virginia for the climate.

Hey, Bubba Sutherland, that shaving lotion is for your face, remember!

i. Delt River Party: What couple hit the water at about 10:00 at night? Everyone missed them.

j. Phi Tau Serenade: I understand that the members of this fraternity had a serenade at Pat hall for all ladies under 85.

k. Sigma News: Women in Patt hall have learned to get their watches by the Sigma Nu who pass under their windows at 7:00 every night and yell, "Hey Jo."

From the August 2 Edition
If June is the month of young love, we could say that July was the month for old loves. Imagine the surprise of a happy young couple when they saw a very respectable, and slightly venerable couple of around 50 years walk up the driveway of Pat hall and sit down on the bench in the quadrangle, and do the same thing that the young couple was engaged in—a wee bit of love-making. People are so excited about the new building program that the University is planning. As one co-ed put it, "There will be so many dark corners, and they will be so close together, that I am sure there will be at least 50 to 100 more dark corners on the campus."

PURSUIT: And now, (stump, stump) here is that good ole gossip that gets everyone so much trouble.

Kay Le Master and a guy named Joe can't seem to find a place to sit on campus where the campus cops don't interfere.

Rene Rich and Liz Thomas of Jewell hall seem to like each other's company lots.

Meg Tindler and Ben Sullivan might be patching it up.

Tony Shrieve just carried her wedding ring around until the time when she may wear it.

Planings this week seem to come from the Kappa Sig exclusively.

They are Wayne Dauberly and Marjorie Burton (Chi O); Jack Wolens and a gal back home; Dwan Gullette and a gal in Ashland.

Joe Gardner (Kappa Sig) had one of the quickest streamlined weddings on record. Six couples started to an everything was over when they got there.

From now on the KA party at the Paris country club will be referred to as the "Stoner Creek Incident." From what everyone hears there were just lots of people down by the creek that took a quick swim?

And the Sigma Nus had a good time playing gin rummy last weekend.

This is old stuff; but Phi Dells Bo Bo and Conington will know what we mean by "Meet you by the river path."

Uh-oh! Last minute flash, flash, dis- dis- dis- etc. "I'll never get pinned . . . not me!" But he did. Bill Fowler (Sigma Nu) put the white star on Jo Heston (Alpha Xi).

Another Sigma Nu pinning was that of Bill Birkow and Mary Anne Stewart. Better watch out, boys, or you won't have any pins left to show to the rushes.

From August 9 Edition

LIFE: We go happily about our own business and everyone else's here on the campus but many of us never stop to think how our little jokes may be taken by the great amount of townspeople. For instance, this little bit was overheard on a city bus, before many of the fraternities or societies had found a home to hang their pledges in.

An extremely intelligent city mother (I am sure she was intelligent) she mentioned to her friend that she, too, had attended the University, but nevertheless, her conversation of the "social southern accent" variety went something like this: "Mah dear, have you heard about those terrible conditions at the University of Kentucky?"

"Mah little girl's fiense mentioned the other night, that these poor sorority girls would probably have to live in 'tights'." "Now reallity deah, I don't care what the wah has done to those young people, mah daughter is going East to school!"

All joking aside, that type of female probably has a twelve room house, no husband, and a poah little daughter who has only three rooms for herself. Did it ever occur to that type of city mother, that any one of the sorocities would have been glad to move in with "deah" daughter?

The University Extension Department dispatches reams of correspondence to the poor "seekers after" all over the state. The other day they could contain themselves no longer in telling about the names of some of the people they write about. They had to tell about an interesting character they had been to. Naming this little girl is Georgia Loretta Bryant from Slant near Drift. Would this little girl live in Kentucky, or hasn't the state annexed Slant or Drift? I guess we'll never know.

The other day a very honest female "Abe Lincoln" found a bill-fold behind Guignol. She refused to give her name, as she doesn't want to admit that she was back there, and she is to considerate to mention the boy's name that they could find in said article, cause everyone would know he was back there. The article has $2 in it, and she would like to return it. She is now looking for an impartial person to make the delivery in a dark alley where no one will ever know. Would anyone like to apply?

It happens every summer. The big brave University men start their small pilgrimages to the little towns around Lexington looking for easy prey. The little high school girls are most impressed, and the men are so impressed that they are impressed—but by the University girls aren't. If the men want someone to admire them, the local talent will honor!

Now that the SAE's are painting their house, there are so many interfering silver splashes all over it. Now don't blame me for this, but another fraternity man came out with the interesting remark that it was a perfect illustration of "Silver threads among the gold bricks!" Remarks like that don't help the feeling among fraternities, and I don't know any gold bricks in SAE, do you?

PURSUIT: Before I go on with this section, let me tell you my sob story. The two chief sources of information for this column—the gossip little fiends that know everything, were shall we say—slightly indisposed. When I started to write this column, at the very last possible minute I called before the deadline, I dashed eagerly over to my first li-

Half The Summer News

Friday, June 21 — The record 8,380 summer school enrollment exceeded by 1,000 the previous mark set in 1940. . . . Betty Lee Fleishman, Lexington, and Edward A. Bary, Bellevue, received the Algernon Bidney Sullivan awards as the outstanding 1946 seniors, at the 79th annual spring commencement held June 7. . . . Dean of Men T. T. Jones announced that parking permits may be obtained for a one-dollar fee. . . . Tommy Gish, YMCA president, Carlos Scott, and Bill Spragens attended the annual Southern Area Students YMCA conference at Blue Ridge, N. C. . . . An electron microscope was offered to the University by the Keeneeland Foundation. . . . Colonel James H. Graham resigned as dean of the College of Engineering. Col. Graham had been dean for 11 years. Dr. D. V. Terrell was named acting dean. . . . Another one of those hopeful rumors—that the University was planning to build the long-sought "fraternity row"—was circulating. . . . Dick Hicks, engineering sophomore, won the 1946 Kentucky Amateur Golf championship. . . . Col. Gabriel T. Mackenzie was awarded the "Military Valor Cross" by the Italian government in recognition of "valor and a splendid spirit of self-sacrifice" in the Italian campaign.

June 28 — Dr. A. M. Harding, president of the University of Arkansas, was chosen to be the speaker at the first summer convocation. . . . Forty students in arts and sciences and 14 engineers made perfect standings. . . . Mr. Raymond W. Wild, recently appointed director of public relations, was scheduled to assume his duties at the University on July 1. . . . Mr. Victor R. Portmann, assistant professor of journalism, returned from the annual meeting of the National Editors association held in Colorado. Professor Portmann was an official delegate of the Kentucky Press Association. . . . John "Sunny" Day, University graduate and editor of The Kernel in 1928, now managing editor of The Dayton (Ohio) News, visited the campus. . . . The Kentucky division of the American Association of University Women chose Lexington as the site of their annual convention. . . . Dean of Men T. T. Jones was a patient at the Good Samaritan hospital. . . . Omicron Delta Kappa donated $250 to the athletic fund. . . . Howard C. Bowles, president of the University Veterans' club spoke at a meeting of the Shelbyville Kiwanis club. . . . Dean of the University Leo M. Chamberlain stated that the new field house would be built on the lot adjacent to Stoll Field despite rumors that another spot had been picked.

July 5 — The regular quarterly meeting of the Kentucky Association of Student Veterans' clubs was held in an all-day session on the campus. . . . Dr. David R. Lincome assumed his duties as instructor in the zoology department. . . . The American Chemical Society accredited the University. . . . Lt. Col. John L. Carter assumed his duties as acting head of the military department. . . . Dr. D. V. Terrell became acting dean of the College of Engineering. . . . Jimmy Donovan was appointed assistant news editor. . . . All but one of Kentucky's 120 counties, 30 states, and five foreign countries were represented in the first term summer enrollment. . . . Many campus buildings were receiving face-liftings. . . . An American flag, which flew over the Capitol building in Washington, D. C., was presented to the University Veterans' club by Congressman Virgil Chapman. . . . Two of the top three awards made by the Kentucky Press Association to weekly newspapers were won by University graduates. . . . This round-up of news taken from the summer editions of The Kernel will be continued next week. . . . Navy pay is good—and you have a chance to become a well paid expert through Navy training. You can now enlist in the Regular Navy for four or six years. Go to your nearest Navy Recruiting Station.

IT'S HERE AGAIN—ADVICE TO FRESH MEN

Yea, I guess I shoulda listened to the guy the first day when he said, juniors who have had technical. This is a course for seniors and courses. You sophomores had better get out of here now." Well, I says to myself, I'll get this course of my hands this summer. That guy don't realize that I'm a genius. Heck, I can get up a technical report on anything. . . . In class we are all classified as I.M.'s or Engineers — those I.M.'s are a special case. We want them in a separate class, says the prof but, they stay with the rest of us Engineers. . . . Fertilizer Sample . . . Next thing they wanted to know whether we've had courses in which we made technical reports or courses from which a technical report could be written. Well, I'm taking Quantitative Analysis, so that old farmer's fertilizer sample would be just the thing. So I stick in the class. . . . Time passes—we take minimum essentials — two errors allowed — what's that, I've made three? Well, better luck next time. . . . Time passes, we write letters, business letters; that's my line. (God help me if my English teacher reads this.) "Be concise, be brief," the professor says, and spends three periods telling us how. . . . Then the blow: that term paper can take it, my mother trained me is mentioned. Oh, well! I guess I well—threw me out the second story window, knocked me down the basement stairs. What's a little term paper? Still three weeks away. I'll take in that show at the Rialto. . . . Time Files . . . One whole week; well, I guess I'd better think of something and start writing. I'll go to the library. (At the card catalogue) Goody, there's just lots of material on analysis of spinal fluid from Mexican Jumping Beans. I present the list of ten books to the appalled librarian who trudges wearily toward the stacks. Soon she returns with five books. "No, that one you wanted most wasn't there. Professor Pendergrass of the Psychiatry Department has that." I greedily start signing out all the others. "You can have only four," says the cute little thing. A much deflated cogitator leaves the hall of learning. . . . Well, one whole week. I'll go to see that ballgame at the park tonight. No hurry on that paper. About three days later the prof begins to hear rumbles of "Wait until next Wednesday to take up these technical reports. We can do a much better job by then—besides this is a long weekend, and we can put lots of time on the paper." "Can't do that," says the prof. "I wish I could, but the Department rules, you know?" . . . Friday night I finally get to work and hurriedly complete the report in the no longer wee hours. Saturday: "Prof, this has certainly taken a lot out of me."

Glad To Have You

Course in Societies Scheduled For Fall

The Geography and sociology departments have announced a new two-quarter course, Societies Around the World, to be offered jointly, beginning in September. It will carry ten quarter-hours credit and, although open to others, it can be used by students in the College of Arts and Sciences to satisfy lower division requirements in the social sciences. This is an introductory course for both geography and sociology, including basic skills, and counting as a prerequisite for further courses in these fields. During the first quarter the course will treat the habits and culture of peoples inhabiting the arctic, tropical and desert environments and representing various degrees of social development. The instructors will be Dr. J. R. Schweinendan and Dr. Irwin T. Sanders.

COLONEL Of The Week

This Week's Colonel of the Week is KILROY.

Kilroy is that elusive character, who has left his nom de plume name that is in many conspicuous places, but up to now has not been seen. The only reason he is now making his identity known is to praise the delicious food at the Cedar Village, where he happened to stop in his name-writing tour.

SERVING HOURS: Lunch 11:45 to 1:30, Dinner 4:45-7:30, Sunday Dinner 11:45-2:00

The text describes the coat as 'the smartest topper of them all' and 'Suave "point device" simplicity is the secret.' It lists sizes from 10 to 20 and mentions '100% Wool Gabardine (or Men's Wear Serge)'. The Perkins logo is at the bottom.

Large advertisement for 'Old Town TROTTERS' shoes. It features a large, detailed illustration of a hand-sewn moccasin shoe. The text says 'BE BETTER FITTED IN BAYNHAM'S "Shoes of Distinction"'. At the bottom, it says 'EXCLUSIVELY Baynhams "SHOES OF DISTINCTION"'. The Perkins logo is also present.

Advertisement for 'PORTIS HATS IN WOODLAND TONES'. It features an illustration of a man wearing a hat. The text says 'time to choose your new Fall Hat... and the hunting's good here!'. It describes the hats as 'built-in' shape that stays the way you want it' and 'In Portis fur-felt, rich, durable, and handsome in woodland tones to harmonize with business or sport clothes.' The price is listed as 'Most Styles $7.50 to $12.50'. The Hester Clothing Co. logo and address '110 South Lime' are at the bottom.

Life, Liberty, and Pursuit

the source—luff, she was asleep! Then I dashed over to the room of my second little source—under the influence! After a half an hour trying to make up my first little source, and another hour of trying to talk my second into a shower—I started calling fraternity houses about 12:30 at night, hoping they would know something about what they had been doing.

Girls, you have no idea how much fun it is to call fraternity houses—especially when you have a good excuse. All the boys are so nice—and so sleepy. But here is what seems to have been happening in fraternities. All of them were not included, but after all, it was late, and one has to sleep sometime!

May I take this space to extend my deepest appreciation to Gloria, the nicest most considerate telephone operator in the whole telephone exchange. She worried with me most of the night and after all, she didn't have to.

Gloria has her troubles also. She is in love with her boss, but let's not drag Gloria into this, but how would you feel if you had to sit up and say "Number please" all night when your heart is breaking?

SIGMA NUS: The Sigma Nus have planned another big party as only they can give it. It is the first house dance of the reconstruction period for them and it will be in full swing by nine o'clock tonight. Plans have been made at Jewell hall to have the entire telephone equipment overhauled this afternoon, so that the little girls won't miss a thing.

Notables of the brethren who will probably attend the dance are: The Reverend Chick Phillips, famous for his interesting blessings; Bill "Shakespeare" Hornback who can write a sonnet while you are chatting up and—; Dangerous Bill Cooper who always carries a big stick to beat the women off with; Hal Trigg won't be there, as he is going to Chicago to see Helen Millman. Bud Wilson will probably bring Flo Baker; and Edward Hally and Jimmy Lee; probably again Katie Gilbert and Jim Jackson, and FLASH! Bill (now it's for romance) Kimbell will act very much pined with Louise Scarce.

DELTS: I couldn't call them, but they are planning a small lawn (some say blanket) party to celebrate the opening of their house Saturday night.

KAPPA SIGS The Kappa Sigs were pretty sleepy but they managed to say that Harold Almonds was going mad over Naomi Duncan. Also some boys from Fulton, Ky., had a good grind at Center's Old Mill. They lost articles like cigarette lighters, pins, glasses, etc. Some gal really must have made a haul.

SAE: The SAE house was awake probably trying to keep the campus cops from getting into trouble, but they had more interesting rums which I think are gossip.

Seems that Freddy Watts and Doty Simpson are all pined up. Buddy Toole really was down to see La La Witherspoon. Burley Young is in Louisville seeing Betty Broadhead. Bill Lynn goes to Danville to see Margaret Armstrong all the time. Harold Hunt longs for Bobby La Zelle. Billy Colvert is back from overseas and has a lady from Minnesota visiting him. They also reminded some of us that Foke Rhodes is getting married. They are having a stag party Tuesday night, and last and least, they have given berth to a new baby grand piano.

SIGMA CHI: Have you heard about the balloon? Whenever the biggest parties are in progress, the Sigs send up their balloon. It is a small ball on top of the house similar to a balloon, but they call it a balloon just to give some originality. As the parties get more interesting, the balloon keeps getting higher and higher—something like the party.

They also stayed up till 3:30 in the morning just to appreciate their house—housing shortage you know.

Slide Spears sings, "I know a little bit about Janice Ayres, but I don't know enough about Flo Baker." Reader dear, haven't I mentioned Flo Baker somewhere else in this column? "The Bark" Sturgill is at Virginia Beach with Emma Louise. And after a whirlwind romance, Seny Trent and Jean Caproni are married.

MISC.: Mary Jane Ramsey (KD) and Jim Ed Able (Sig Ep) and Mary Battle (KKG) and Jimmy Kayse (Sigma Chi) are dating.

Do you suppose when the Sigma Nus get their new Neom sign? What the snake's eyes will wink—we wouldn't doubt it.

PI KAPPS: A big river party was planned Saturday night. Rex Miller is dating the most Alabama accent he can.

Charlie Burton deprived Jeanie Crab of his pin, and has been dating Do Ann Goldman (lucky girl!).

Fred Daugherty and Theodora Wynn Mosley became engaged, passed out cigars, and our little Bernie Able got sick.

Every meeting night the Pi Kaps go to Patterson hall, the girls drool. But does it do them any good? No! The boys invade the dorm, sit down at tables, and—play bridge with each other!

FLASH!—DENMAN GRADUATES!!

Four Quonset Huts Presented To ROTC

Four quonset-type huts have been presented by the Army to the University ROTC unit and erection has been begun on the practice field behind the Union building.

Measuring 20 by 96 feet, the huts can be used for ROTC purposes only. Lt. Col. John Carter of the military department said. Two of the huts will be used for storage and maintenance purposes, he stated.

Dr. Sanders Speaks To Co-Operatives

Dr. Irwin Sanders, head of the sociology department, was a principal speaker at the Sept. 9 meeting of the Lexington Co-Operative club.

Dr. Sanders, who is author of several articles on the Balkan background, discussed "The Balkan Background." He described some of the political, historical, and geographical characteristics of the countries in which he worked and studied before World War II and in which he recently spent 18 months as a representative of the United States government.

Homemakers Meet To Hear Elliott

Twenty-two selected representatives of Fayette County Homemakers clubs met in a one-day session at the University Aug. 29 to study landscaping methods.

Professor N. R. Elliott discussed how plantings are made, how to develop lawns, and how to make use of shrubs around the home. The group was under the leadership of Miss Ruth Latimer.

10,445 Foreigners Are Students In US

The number of students from outside the United States who enrolled in the higher education institutions of the country in 1945-46 totaled 10,445, according to the annual census made by the committee on Friendly Relations Among Foreign Students at Ursinus College.

The country with the largest number is Canada with a total of 1,613, in contrast to 832 for 1944-45. China is second in rank with 1,286, in comparison with 823 last year. There are students from a total of 99 different countries. Of the total of 10,441 received in time to separate by men and women there are 6,972 men and 3,469 women.

From Latin America have come 4,538 students, a marked increase over the previous year, and continuing a trend that became sharply evident during the war years. Many have arrived from Europe, however, during a period too recent to be included in statistics for the current year.

Not Bird Or Plane Jet-Propelled Bike

If at some future time you see a streak whizzing down a University drive, don't worry too much. It won't be a plane. It won't be Superman. More than likely it will be a bicycle propelled by a home-made jet motor, and made by two former University students.

Fvt. Volney Davis and Pfc. Robert Kroes of Fort Benning Georgia, are the inventors of the jet-propelled bike. Kroes and Brown, both natives of California, met at the University where they both were engineering students when Uncle Sam interrupted their school activities. They met again at Fort Benning where Kroes conceived the idea of the jet-propelled bicycle. Deciding that two heads were better than one, he invited Brown to help.

The jet motor, which is still in a Columbus, Ga., machine shop where it was built, is now being adapted for efficient combustion. A conglomeration of auto, electrical, and plumbing fixtures, it would not look out of place in a Flash Gordon cartoon, according to those who have seen it. Its inventors, however, expect to reach speeds up to sixty miles an hour when they get it mounted on a bicycle.

Kohler Gives Recital Here

Lewy Kohler, former Lexington singer, gave a recital of classical and modern songs August 24 in the Music room of the Union building.

Well known in Lexington music circles and former assistant manager of Radio Station WLPJ, Mr. Kohler has lived in New York City since June, 1945. He is a tenor soloist at the Fifth Church of Christ, Scientist, in New York and holds a position with the Manhattan bank. While a resident of Lexington he sang in local operas and numerous recitals.

Radio Head Receives Appointment

Professor Elmer G. Sulzer, head of the radio arts department, has been appointed State Chairman of Radio of the Kentucky Federation of Music Clubs.
