OBITUARY NOTICE RECALLS EARLY HISTORY OF OLD IRON INDUSTRY

An old obituary notice which fell into the possession of Mrs. Louella C. Myers, Editor and Manager of the Greenup Republican, depicts much of the early history of the Iron Industry of Greenup County and Eastern Kentucky.

The obituary notes the death of Samuel C. Wurts, who died in the early seventies of the nineteenth century. He was the father of William Wurts, of Riverton and Mrs. Lucy Wurts Walker of Race-land. Squire Seymore Chinn and Wurts Chinn, of Wurtland are grandsons.

The obituary follows: a

"Friday last another of our oldest iron men, one of the very pioneers of the Hanging Rock iron region, and one time one of our most successful furnace managers. Mr. Samuel C. Wurts departed this life aged 60.

"A native of Connellville, Fayette county, Pa., the deceased was deputy sheriff of that county in 1828-29. In 1830 he engaged in the pig iron business as manager of Aetna furnace in his native county but after a year's stay he removed to the city of Erie, to take a position in a bank till 1831, when he once more returned to Aetna furnace. In 1832 he married Miss Mary McMannis, by whom he had one daughter. From Aetna furnace he moved to Hecla furnace, Lawrence county, Ohio, and is was here in 1835 that his wife died.

"He managed this furnace till

1838, when he and his brothers George and William rented and operated her for the succeeded five years, making pig iron and castings. Here he became acquainted with Miss Martha Cartwright and married her in 1840. Two sons, George and William, and five daughters sprung from this wedlock, only one of whom, George died in 1863. All the daughters are married and reside in this county.

"The Hecla furnace lease expiring in 1843, he and his brother came over to our State and county purchased the old Argillite furnace tract and other lands, built Pennsylvania furnace in 1844 and ran it for one year. In 1845 he sold out his interest and moved to Caroline furnace, purchasing an interest in her. In 1849 he and his brothers built Laurel furnace. He continued in the management of Caroline furnace till 1851, when he purchased a fine river bottom farm, five miles from town, built a fine residence on it and remained there till 1870, when he moved to an adjacent farm. As a partner of Wurts, Swap and Co., he also rebuilt the old Steam furnace.

"He was a man of unusual endowments, and while in the iron business, his judgment and ability as to the management of iron furnaces was second to none.

By his death his family and friends have lost a kind hearted, faithful friend, whose memory will long dwell with them."

The telephone industry has made an admirable record in providing the American people with a steadily broadening and improving service, at the lowest cost for an equivalent service in the world.

London's Green Grocers.

IN America—where tariffs have long prevented any large importations of foods—few people realize the extent of the international trade in perishables, points out an article in the new magazine "Food Distribution," which reveals the cosmopolitan character of your Londoner's daily fare.

At this season of the year, says "Food Distribution," he eats peaches, plums, and apricots from South Africa, apples from Nova Scotia and Virginia, grapes from Belgium, pears from California, bananas and tomatoes from the Canary Islands, oranges from Jaffa, California and Spain, asparagus, lettuce and cauliflower from France, and new potatoes from Algeria, the Azores and the Scilly Islands—to mention only a few hints in his geographical diet.

Using "Psychology"

A CEMENT manufacturer, failing to sell his cement blocks fast enough, consulted a psychologist. The psychologist introduced the idea of color. The result was colored stucco and a huge business. A hotel keeper with an old building found he was losing trade. He started advertising his rooms as large,

NEW INCORPORATIONS

X. prominent in Bronx political, public and social life.

Characterizing Mr. Haffen as a man of "courage and fine personality," Mr. McKee said his career was an inspiration for those seeking the betterment of the Bronx.

Mr. Bruckner complimented Mr. Haffen on his services to the Bronx.

In reply Mr. Haffen said:

"If I have accomplished anything of note during my term as President of this organization, the credit for it should go to the officers of the board and to its members, who have given me that whole-hearted cooperation so necessary in the performance of civic work. I trust that the same splendid cooperation will be extended to my successor, Mr. Wurzbach."

Thirty Bronx civic organizations, service clubs and business firms reserved tables at the luncheon.
