USE OF ELEVATOR IN MIK-NORTH

I am writing to ask for your cooperation in not using the elevator in King-North as an entrance/exit to the building. A number of individuals have been using the elevator as an exit, and we are unable to cope with the security problems which this poses. The elevator is, of course, free for internal building use.

Thank you.

ABOUT THE LIBRARIES

UK Faculty Research Interest Index Available:

The FRII (Faculty Research Interest Index) is available now at Reference and A.I.D.S. The Index is a massive computer printout which lists the research interests of 720 faculty members (including several librarians and library school faculty).

It includes a "bibliography" (a numerical listing of faculty members); and alphabetical listings of major subject fields; areas of specialization within major subject fields; specific research interests; and research interests outside the individual's area of specialization.

Hermann Zapf Film:

A film on Hermann Zapf, a master of printing and graphic design, will be shown Monday, 5 April, at 7 PM in the Gallery of King Library North. The color film has unusual photographic effects, according to its producer, and some interesting observations on the history and the evolution of the written work. It features Mr. Zapf demonstrating some basic techniques of lettering and making random observations about his philosophies on calligraphy.

English 102 Instructional Session:

Some 2,000 students (which represents all the second semester freshman English classes) have been given instruction in the use of the Library for researching their term papers. The instruction sequence involved spending two class periods studying the instructional materials that have been developed in cooperation with the Freshman Composition Office. The instructional sessions in the classroom were followed by one formal session in the library, which took the form of a tour. There were 174 tours given during a two week period. During the course of the tour, the guide stressed the resources covered in the instructional limits.

I want to express special thanks to the following librarians: Trudi Bellardo, Faith Harders, Alice Morgan, Patricia Renfro and Jane White, who took time out of an already busy schedule to help us coordinate the tours. Also a special thanks to Jim Sodt, Assistant Dean in the College of Library Science, for making available students in his class to assist us with the tour sessions. The students were Virginia Brady, Beverly Bury, Charlotte Greene, John Griffin, Mark Kelso, Trina King, Dru Myers and Vicki Thomas. It was due largely to the combined efforts of all of these people that the sessions in the Library went as smoothly as they did.

During the next couple of weeks, we will be evaluating the English instructional program, and I will be happy to make the results available to anyone who might be interested.

ANNUAL UNIVERSITY RECOGNITION DINNER

The annual affair to honor those retiring from the University in 1976 will be held at the Lafayette Club on April 12 at 7:30 PM. A social hour (cash bar) will precede the dinner at 5:30 PM. Charles Atcher of Special Collections is chairman of the university-wide affair that will honor 19 retirees, among them from the Libraries are Kate Irvine, Carolyn Hammer, Jacqueline Bull, Mary Ada Sullivan and Lucille Keating. Reservations from Celinda Todd, Senate Council Office, by April 9.

PERSONNEL NOTES

Susan Edmondson and Pam Sprinkle have resigned from the library staff. Mary Filiatreau and Pat Joseph have taken their places in the Bindery Department.
