

THE KENTUCKY KERNEL

UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY

LEXINGTON, KENTUCKY, TUESDAY, JULY 11, 1939

TUESDAY ISSUE
SUMMER KERNEL

NEW SERIES NO. 66

BAND CONCERT THURSDAY NIGHT

VOLUME XXIX 2246

Around The Campus

Old Ring Stolen
Jack Stiehl, 315 Linden Walk, reported to police last week the theft of a ring he said was 200 years old. It was taken from a building on the University campus some time during the preceding week, he reported.

Ligon Honored
When he retired from the presidency of the Lexington Rotary club last week, Prof. M. E. Ligon of the University campus was presented with a set of eight silver goblets and a long-stemmed pipe. The presentation was made by Dr. Edward Murray, immediate past president. In his valedictory talk, Professor Ligon said he felt the Rotarians' work in aiding the student progress through Berea college and the University was highly worthwhile as was the recent campaign of the Boy Scout troop at Lincoln school. Proceeds from a newspaper route, owned by the club, will go far toward support of the project, he explained.

Professor Ligon now serves as a member of the board of directors of the University of the YM. Y. C. A. Peak, director of the University YM. Y. C. A.

Barnes Entertained
Mr. and Mrs. Kerney M. Adams of Richmond entertained with a dinner Saturday evening at the Glenwood hotel in honor of Dr. Harry Elmer Barnes of the New School for Social Research, New York City. Other guests were Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Donovan, Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Keith, Dr. and Mrs. L. O. Kennamer, Dr. and Mrs. Roy B. Clark, Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Davis, Dr. and Mrs. Virgil Burns, Mr. and Mrs. Van Fossen, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McVey, Miss Mary McKinney, Miss Mary Ann Elmer Mebane, Miss Flossie D. Gill and Mr. Sam Beckley.

Band Planes
The University Summer Session band chartered its 1939 season Sunday with a picnic at Bococheboro beach on the Kentucky river. The band will give its final concert of the season Thursday night in Memorial hall.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the affair was headed by Dr. Grace Oliver, chairman; Tom Haynes, Billy Lipcomb, Sam Rainey, Caywood Thompson and Jesse Elliott.

DINNER GIVEN
Guests of honor for a dinner given Friday night in the ballroom of the Student Union building were out-of-state students in the Summer Session.

Mr. Thomas Underwood was principal speaker. He was introduced by Dr. Jesse Adams, director of the summer session, who acted as toastmaster. Other speakers were Dr. Frank L. McVey and Dr. Cayce Morrison, deputy educational commissioner for the state of New York. Students were seated in groups according to their state at tables lighted by candles held in holders representing a characteristic of that various states. Bouquets of summer flowers decorated the tables. Music was furnished during dinner.

The summer session social committee is composed of Mrs. Sarah Holmes, chairman, Dean J. H. Jorhalcher, Dr. O. T. Koppian, Prof. M. E. Foster, Miss Nellie Pearson, Dr. Jesse Adams, Mrs. Ethel Lebus, Miss Jeanette Scudder and Miss Mildred Lewis.

Out-of-state enrollment follows by states: Alabama, 5; Arkansas, 1; California, 2; Colorado, 2; Delaware, 1; District of Columbia, 2; Florida, 8; Georgia, 10; Illinois, 29; Indiana, 18; Iowa, 5; Missouri, 6; Massachusetts, 1.

Mississippi, 9; Michigan, 4; Minnesota, 1; Nebraska, 2; New York, 18; New Jersey, 7; North Carolina, 7; North Dakota, 1; Ohio, 27; Oklahoma, 1; Oregon, 1; Pennsylvania, 8; Rhode Island, 1; South Carolina, 3; Tennessee, 23; Texas, 4; Virginia, 6; est Virginia, 58; and Wisconsin, 1.

Enrollment from foreign nations include Canal Zone, 1; Canada, 1; Egypt, 1, and Venezuela, 2.

CHARGED WITH MURDER

FLINT, Mich., July 10—Rev. James Wilson Lane, 61 years old, today was charged with murder in connection with a fatal shooting of his partly blind wife, Mrs. Nancy Virginia Lane.

Prosecutor John Roach said there were "discrepancies" in Lane's story that his wife was killed accidentally when Lane was trying to dislodge a shell jammed in his .22-caliber rifle.

Mrs. Helen Anderson, 41, the Lane's housekeeper, who was divorced from her husband two months ago, is held as a material witness.

Second-Term Enrollment Will Be Held On Monday; Classwork Starts July 18

Registration for the second five-week term of the 1939 Summer Session will open Monday, July 17, in the basement of Alumni gymnasium. Classwork will start July 18.

Contrary to the usual plan of allowing a week for registration purposes, the last date on which a student may enroll for regular classwork in the second term session will be Thursday July 20, three days after the term opens. In addition to the regular courses open to both graduates and undergraduates, a number of special short courses have been arranged for the second term, including a special school for football and basketball players, August 7-12, at which Beverly Bierman, head football coach at the University of Minnesota, Burt Swagner, line coach at Northwestern University, and Ed Kirwan, head football coach at the University of Kentucky, and Adolph Rupp, University of Kentucky basketball coach, will teach.

Another short course, entitled "Safety Education," under the direction of Mr. W. H. Hansen, director of Safety Education for Kentucky, will be held from July 17 to August 2. This course will offer three credits and is open to juniors, seniors, and graduate students.

A new course in "Twentieth Century Spanish Literature," giving two credits, will be offered during the second term by Dr. H. B. Holmes, assistant professor of Romance languages.

A total of 218 credit-giving courses will be offered during the second semester. In addition to non-credit recreational activities, including gymnasium, badminton, ball and volleyball, golf, recreational games, social dancing, tennis, tap dancing, modern dance, and a variety of activities for physical education majors.

TEACHER TENURE LAW IS SOUGHT

Group Formed After Barnes' Talk

An organization to secure teacher tenure was formed in Memorial hall Thursday night following a talk of Dr. Harry Elmer Barnes of Auburn, N. Y., visiting instructor of education in the department of education of the University of Kentucky. He spoke in history for the Summer Session, at that subject.

Passed by the group was a resolution empowering the chairman of the meeting to appoint a committee to investigate various tenure laws and make a report at the next meeting of the Kentucky Educational Association.

Glenn Stone, who presided, has organized teachers interested in the organizations or who have suggestions concerning tenure to contact him in the office of the department of political science department.

Doctor Barnes spoke principally on the relation of teacher tenure to democracy. He pointed out that a teacher who was afraid of his job could not guide and train young people to make the transition to the institution which machines have made necessary.

He emphasized that the principal cause of the present teacher tenure that he keeps "dead wood" in teaching positions—was weak since it is certain that under a tenure system no more "dead wood" would be retained than under the present system.

Clyde Lewis of Ashland gave a review of tenure laws of the states.

Guests At Maxwell Place Meet Genuine Hospitality

Southern hospitality as it is famed throughout the world is personified in Mrs. McVey, first lady of the University. With natural grace and wit she shows strangers in this region that the South's reputation is not ill-deserved and sets for natives an example to emulate.

Each Wednesday afternoon during the regular session and during the summer session each week she and the President go North for a short vacation. Mrs. McVey presides at the delightful informal teas at Maxwell Place, their home on the campus to which they seem to have found something of their own friends.

We say informal because there is no stiffness about the affairs but they do have the formality of a receiving line, a number of student and faculty assistants, flowers artistically arranged in the spacious reception rooms and porch, and a beautifully appointed tea table usually covered with a lace cloth and lighted by tapers.

The receiving line varies in length

Lead Men By Reason . . .

FRANK L. McVEY, PRESIDENT OF THE UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY

HONORARY TAKES MEN EDUCATORS

Phi Delta Kappa Holds Services For 42

Initiation services were held Thursday in the library of the University Training school for 42 new members of Phi Delta Kappa, national honorary fraternity in education for men graduates.

Officers of the organization are Charles Buchanan, president; Maurice Stacy, vice-president; W. Gayle Barnes, secretary; Wellington Patrick, editor news letter; Dr. Adams, faculty advisor.

Initiates are Wayne E. Allen, teacher of business subjects, Ashland senior high school; Woodrow Wilson Allen, principal of Knott county high school, Pippasburg; George W. Bailey, teacher, Ashland city schools; Charles A. Bari, teacher, Perryville; Arman C. Berry, teacher of vocational agriculture, Salem; G. Robert Boy, principal Barbourville high school; J. H. Boyd, principal Liberty high school, Prospect; Hayward Brown, teacher-trainer in agricultural education, Western Technical College Bowling Green; O. F. Brown, principal Prentiss school, Louisville; Robert Williams Burggraf, graduate student, University of Kentucky, Johnstown, Pa.; Ruel W. Culler, teacher, Beaver Dam; Charles R. Clark, teacher, Russell high school, Russellville; Douglas V. Evans, principal Woodstock high school, Woodstock, Va.; Carl G. Ford, principal of Weeburg consolidated school, Prestonsburg; Chandler H. Frazer, mathematics teacher, Prestonsburg; Milton A. Galbraith, principal, Wallins high school; Marvin Glenn, H. H. Hanks, teacher-trainer, industrial education, University of Kentucky; Silas O. Hembree, director of student aids, Central city schools; Sherman Henderson, teacher of industrial education.

Plaque In Library Foyer Honors President McVey

McVey To Entertain Wednesday

"President and Mrs. McVey will entertain students of the Summer Session with a tea from 4 to 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at Maxwell Place. Guests of honor will be students and faculty of the College of Agriculture, Commerce, Engineering and Law. All summer Session students are invited.

BAND WILL PLAY FINAL CONCERT

Quartet And Trio To Be Featured

Under direction of John Lewis the University Summer Session band will give its final concert of the Session at 7 o'clock Thursday night in Memorial hall.

Featured on the program will be a vocal quartet composed of Harry Dean, Robert Dean, Dawson Thompson and Jesse Montjoy, and a cornet trio composed of Sam Rainey, Donithan Burrus and Wilbur Worthington.

Again on the bill will be community singing under the direction of Miss Mildred Lewis.

March, Mighty Monarchs, Filmore, Bandiana Sketches, White.

1. Chant
2. Negro Dance
Vocal quartet, selected. Harlow Dean, Dawson Thompson, Robert Dean, Jesse Montjoy.

Value Triste from Tanelaris Drama "Kuolma," Sibels.
March, Follow Through, Elwood Community singing, led by Mildred Lewis.

March
Cornet Trio, Echo Waltz, Gold. Sam Rainey, Wilbur Worthington, Donithan Burrus.
March, Washington Post, Sousa.

Tuberculosis Tests

Students desiring to take tuberculosis tests may do so from 1 to 6 o'clock Tuesday afternoon during the first semester. Dr. J. S. Chambers, dispensary head, said yesterday.

BRITAIN TALKS FIGHT

Great Britain told the world Monday that she would fight alongside Poland if necessary to keep Germany from taking Danzig. As usual as if he were reciting the order of business for the coming week, Neville Chamberlain, Prime Minister, stood up in the House of Commons and made it clear indeed that "Danzig" could be a fighting word.

Music Department To Give Story Of Composer's Life At Convocation Today

BARNES REPLIES TO PROF. KNIGHT ON NEUTRALITY

Calls Versailles Peace 'Natural Fruit' Of World War I

Editor, Kentucky Kernel: My attention has been called to a letter in your columns by Professor Grant C. Knight attacking my views on world politics and American neutrality.

I have no desire to enter into a debate with Professor Knight. But, since he has raised the issues amply and in an impersonal manner, I see no harm in setting down my reactions to his observations.

Professor Knight contends that the World War liberated a great flood of idealistic sentiment and promoted the cause of democracy throughout the world.

There were many idealistic promises embodied in the Entente propaganda, but these promises were cruelly, collectively sad and bloodstained in all human history. Most participants forgot their idealism in their zeal to hate and shed blood.

Worse than that, the ultimate idealism was to get lost in the mire. Remembering the great deception at Versailles, the idealist today, however sincere, is usually greeted with a哈哈大笑. The war for idealism ended up in all but extinguishing idealistic sentiments in the world scene.

Similarly with democracy, the war to make the world safe for democracy wound up by making democracy a mere slogan.

It was to honor President McVey that this plaque, work of the famous Iowa sculptor, Christian Brierley, was dedicated last fall.

Made possible through the University N. chapter of Omicron Delta Kappa, national men's leadership fraternity, the plaque was dedicated to President Frank L. McVey, the man who has led the last 22 years has guided the University.

And it was to honor President McVey that this plaque, work of the famous Iowa sculptor, Christian Brierley, was dedicated last fall.

Speaking at the unveiling ceremonies was Miss Lena Madsen Phillips of New York, the first woman to graduate from the University College of Law, Virginia Murray Tillot, granddaughter of the President, unveiled the plaque.

The plaque, a work in bronze, measures 16 by 24 inches and weighs more than 650 pounds. It was cast by Mr. Peterson from a clay bust he made of President McVey last year at Maxwell Place.

HALE HONORED BY COLLEAGUES

Carpenter Is Feted At Party, Show

Pat Hale, for 22 years a carpenter at the University, was guest of honor at a party and show Friday night in the training school building, with the buildings and grounds department as host.

"Whisky Woodchuckers," a skit by Harry Mefford, the master of ceremonies, was the principal feature of the show. The cast, composed of members of the building and grounds department, included Ray Stinnet, John Heckler, Bob Young, Jimmie Wood, Carl Stephenson, Jimmie Brown, Lawrence Sargent, Paul Kirby, Clyde McAllister and Howard McCartney.

Administrator

Teaching two courses of interest to school administrators in the second semester of the Summer Session will be Prof. Lee Kirkpatrick, superintendent of Paris schools and a member of the University board of trustees.

Professor Kirkpatrick will teach Education 101, "School Organization," the fourth hour, and Education 202, "Local School Administration," the third hour.

Dr. C. A. Rubado, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of elementary education of the Louisville City Schools, will be on the staff the second term beginning July 17. Dr. Rubado has a Ph. D. degree from Columbia University and has had broad experience as an administrator in the elementary school system.

He will teach two courses: Education 229, "The Elementary Principles," the third hour, and Education 212, "The Elementary School," the fourth hour.

A number of Lexington homemakers interested in the "Wise Use of Money" met, for the first time, at the University High School yesterday morning. The group was organized with a full enrollment.

Miss Mary Bell Vaughan who leads the discussions attributes the interest in money management to the facts that approximately 90% of the income is spent by women, and many of the disturbing problems in the home are connected with the management of money.

The group plans to consider such major problems as: Spending the dollar wisely, the keeping of household accounts, and making the family budget.

USE OF MONEY COURSE STARTS

First Meeting Held At Training School

The discussion group will meet daily at ten o'clock through July 14.

FATHER SENTENCED

PHILADELPHIA, July 10—Jacob Liebowitz 36, denounced by Judge James Gordon for making "a thief" of his own son, was sentenced today to two years in prison.

Mrs. Lafferty's New Book To Tell Kentucky's Lore

"The Lore of Kentucky," an historical guide-book of Kentucky, by Mrs. Maude Ward Lafferty, secretary emerita of Woman's Club Service at the University, will come from the press September 1, according to the publisher, the Standard Printing Company of Louisville, publishers of the volume.

Mrs. Lafferty, Kentucky historian and club woman, and widow of the late Judge W. T. Lafferty, for many years dean of the University's College of Law, has followed the severest of her husband's history, perhaps of pioneer folk, of Indian mounds of buffalo traces, of Revolutionary and Civil War battlefields.

The book tells when each Kentucky county was settled, for whom it was named, its industries and resources. It describes its scenic attractions and gives its history, perhaps of pioneer folk, of Indian mounds of buffalo traces, of Revolutionary and Civil War battlefields.

Mrs. H. T. LAFFERTY

Assembly To Be Held At 11 O'clock In Memorial Hall

"Stephen Collins Foster," a dramatized biography in one act based on the life of the great American composer and song writer, by Kathryn Daniels will be presented at 11 o'clock today at a general convocation in Memorial Hall under the direction of Prof. Carl Lampert.

All Summer Session classes will be dismissed for the affair. Miss Daniels bases her work on "America's Troubadour" by John Tinker Howard who is considered an authority on the life and work of Foster.

The playlet will be presented against a garden background. Seated in a rose covered arbor will be Frank Willis as Stephen Collins Foster, Dorothy Woodward will take the part of Foster's daughter, Marion.

Worked in with the dialogue are most of Foster's most famous compositions. The songs and the soloists that sing them follow:

"Open Thy Lattice, Love"—Dorothy Woodward.
"Ode to a Woodchuck"—Meriel Harris.
"O. Susanna"—Ross Chastain.
"Jeanie With the Light Brown Hair"—Mrs. William I. Goodwin.
"Old Black Joe"—Caywood Thompson.

"My Old Kentucky Home"—Mrs. William I. Goodwin.
"March in the Cold, Cold Groun"—Caywood Thompson.

"Hard Times Come Again Now"—Mary Elizabeth Rents.
"O. Susanna"—Meriel Harris.
"Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming"—Helen Burt. Violin accompaniment—Eleanor Rubin.

"The University Summer Session Chorus will sing the chorus or hum an accompaniment with all of the numbers.

Four dancers from the department of physical education and trained by Miss Mary King Coulgrum will dance the minuet.
Eloise Redwine will play the piano accompaniment.
Miss Marcia Lampert and Mr. Clay Lancaster directed and arranged the stage.

25 INITIATED BY KAPPA DELTA PI

Service Held At Camp On River

Kappa Delta Pi, national honorary fraternity in education for men and women, held initiation services Monday night at Camp Cliff Echoes, Clifton for 25 new members.

Services followed an afternoon outing during which members and their guests enjoyed boating, swimming and games and a picnic supper at the camp.

Initiates are Luther M. Ambrose, Berea; Beulla Katherine Burral, Shepherdsville; Dona, Charles Anderson, Falmouth; Marjorie B. Best, Ghent; Margaret Bunch, Huntington, W. Va.; Mrs. Virgie Wynn Craft, Winchester; Margery Crook, Louisville; Irene Darrington, Harrodsburg; Grace Baughman Green, Louisville; Thomas L. Hamkins, Lexington; and John M. Herringer, Harrodsburg.

History Honorary Will Initiate Four

Four students will be initiated into the University chapter of Phi Alpha Theta, national history honorary, at ceremonies to be held at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon in Room 19 of the Art Center.

Presiding will be Leslie Allison, president of the chapter. Dr. Huntley Dugre, associate professor of history, one of the three honorary members of the initiation, in the nature of which will be presented.

Following the initiation, a party will be held.

Familiar Operas Are Billed At Cincinnati

An astonishingly large amount of great music is familiar to people who profess, rather beligerently, to know nothing about music.

"Lucia" or the Misere from "Il Trovatore." What a thrill, then, to hear this familiar music in its proper context, to hear the lone familiar music that goes with it, and to watch the story to which it belongs!

Donizetti's "Lucia di Lammermoor" will be given at Cincinnati's Zoo Garden Sunday and Thursday, July 16 and 20; Puccini's "La Boheme" Tuesday and Friday, July 18 and 21; Verdi's "Il Trovatore" Wednesday and Saturday, July 19 and 22.

"Lucia" is the story of love and family strife in seventeenth century Scotland which Sir Walter Scott made famous in his novel "The Bride of Lammermoor."

"La Boheme" opera-lovers enjoy the most interesting musical setting of an unforgettable romantic scene of the Parisian bohemia.

"Il Trovatore" is the last Verdi opera scheduled for this season, and is remembered as a sensational opening vehicle of last summer's season.

Tickets for these operas can be purchased at the Summer Operas offices at Sixth and Walnut Sts., Cincinnati, by mail or telephone.

Reservations range in price from $5 to $15, exchange tickets are changeable for reserved seats for any performance, are purchasable in books of seven for $100.

French Teachers Arrange For Tea

Bastille Day To Be Observed At Afternoon Party On Campus

Kentucky chapter of the American Association of Teachers of French will entertain with a tea at 4:30 Thursday afternoon.

Blue, white and red, the tri-colors of the French Republic will be used in the decorations which will include garden flowers and tapers.

In the receiving line will be Miss Margaret Cooch, president of the chapter, Dr. D. E. Fogle, vice-president, Miss Laura Topham, secretary-treasurer, Miss Susan Clay Cleveland, a French teacher.

Miss D. E. Fogle of Georgetown will preside at the tea table and Miss Ellen Ferrine and Miss Gwendolyn Shaw, practice teachers of French in the Training school summer session will assist.

In case of inclement weather, the party will be held on the mezzanine of the Union building.

WLW To Broadcast Selections From "Lucia"

Gastone Donizetti's tragic opera, "Lucia di Lammermoor," will be aired in part by WLW Sunday, July 16 at 10 p. m. EST.

The annual return to Cincinnati opera-lovers enjoy the most interesting musical setting of an unforgettable romantic scene of the Parisian bohemia.

"Il Trovatore" is the last Verdi opera scheduled for this season, and is remembered as a sensational opening vehicle of last summer's season.

Tickets for these operas can be purchased at the Summer Operas offices at Sixth and Walnut Sts., Cincinnati, by mail or telephone.

Do Horses Have Moonblindness?

Do horses have moonblindness? Is this disease caused by light rays from the moon, heredity, or a result of dietary mismanagement?

On a superstition quiz given to a group of high school students several years ago the following two questions appeared:

(1) If a person sleeps in a place where the light rays from the moon will shine on him he will go insane.

(2) If a horse is placed in a field and left outside during the night that the moon is becoming full, the horse will go blind—temporarily or permanently.

The majority of the students checked the first one to be false and the second true. Why????

Horses do have an ailment which the farmers commonly call "moonblindness." Over thirty thousand dollars a year is being used by the Agriculture college in an effort to determine the cause and remedy for periodic ophthalmia, "moonblindness," which has cost the farmer thousands of dollars each year.

Known as the "work cripple" of the American farm, moonblindness was so named because it usually occurs during the full of the moon, or during the part of the moon when the moon is in its ascendancy.

There are three theories being advanced at present as to the cause of the disease: first that it comes from dietary mismanagement; second, that it comes from glandular reaction; and third, that it is a result of heredity.

The University of Kentucky now spends more time and money in its branch of research than any other institute or college in the United States.

Although there have been no actual discoveries made to date, authorities of the Agriculture college have taken the most progressive steps toward the solution of this problem, and are keeping more than fifteen horses under their observation, either at the experiment farm or at subsidiary farms in the state.

FASHION PREVIEW

Handed of navy blue and pink fall in ruffled rows of fabric from waist to hem to make a swaying effect like a ruffled duster's, as this evening gown pictured in the February Harper's Bazaar. The matching hose three-cornered scarf adds a note of dash.

Lexington Once Sat On A Powder Keg

By GERRY FIELD

In front of the former Woman's building is a huge round stone resting on an upraised base once important in the War of 1812.

Literally, Lexington was once sitting on a powderkeg. The six iron mills that were being operated in the city in 1812 produced more gunpowder than any other state.

This wheel which is so like the mill stones which peacefully grind out corn and meal, was one of the ones used in the making of powder during the War of 1812 and the Civil War.

The events leading up to the final capture of John Dillinger will be told by Agent Harris during the interview Thursday, July 27.

The other broadcasts will include "Science Fights Crime," August 10; "Alvin Karpis," August 17; "Ma Barker," August 24.

All material for the broadcasts is authentic and supplied by the Washington office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

During the height of the hottest fed a few years back, an automobile salesman was trying to sell a car to John Cavanaugh, a hatter, at his home in Connecticut.

During the height of the hottest fed a few years back, an automobile salesman was trying to sell a car to John Cavanaugh, a hatter, at his home in Connecticut.

During the height of the hottest fed a few years back, an automobile salesman was trying to sell a car to John Cavanaugh, a hatter, at his home in Connecticut.

During the height of the hottest fed a few years back, an automobile salesman was trying to sell a car to John Cavanaugh, a hatter, at his home in Connecticut.

During the height of the hottest fed a few years back, an automobile salesman was trying to sell a car to John Cavanaugh, a hatter, at his home in Connecticut.

During the height of the hottest fed a few years back, an automobile salesman was trying to sell a car to John Cavanaugh, a hatter, at his home in Connecticut.

WSAI To Air G-Men's Fight Against Crime

How J. Edgar Hoover's G-Men changed the complexion of America's fight against organized crime, how they are chosen and then trained and how they tracked down the dangerous offenders against national law is being told over WSAI by Howard Harris, special agent in charge of the Cincinnati office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The events leading up to the final capture of John Dillinger will be told by Agent Harris during the interview Thursday, July 27.

The other broadcasts will include "Science Fights Crime," August 10; "Alvin Karpis," August 17; "Ma Barker," August 24.

All material for the broadcasts is authentic and supplied by the Washington office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

During the height of the hottest fed a few years back, an automobile salesman was trying to sell a car to John Cavanaugh, a hatter, at his home in Connecticut.

During the height of the hottest fed a few years back, an automobile salesman was trying to sell a car to John Cavanaugh, a hatter, at his home in Connecticut.

During the height of the hottest fed a few years back, an automobile salesman was trying to sell a car to John Cavanaugh, a hatter, at his home in Connecticut.

During the height of the hottest fed a few years back, an automobile salesman was trying to sell a car to John Cavanaugh, a hatter, at his home in Connecticut.

During the height of the hottest fed a few years back, an automobile salesman was trying to sell a car to John Cavanaugh, a hatter, at his home in Connecticut.

During the height of the hottest fed a few years back, an automobile salesman was trying to sell a car to John Cavanaugh, a hatter, at his home in Connecticut.

During the height of the hottest fed a few years back, an automobile salesman was trying to sell a car to John Cavanaugh, a hatter, at his home in Connecticut.

During the height of the hottest fed a few years back, an automobile salesman was trying to sell a car to John Cavanaugh, a hatter, at his home in Connecticut.

Station Plans Sunset Symphony Broadcasts

The Potomac Water Gate in Washington, D. C. described as the most impressive summer concert site in the United States will be the setting for a series of twice-weekly Sunset Symphony broadcasts to be presented by the National Symphony Orchestra over WLW-NBC, beginning Sunday, July 16.

From a barge moored in the Potomac river near the Lincoln Memorial, with part of the audience seated in canoes clustered around the orchestra shell, the National Symphony Orchestra will broadcast each Sunday and Wednesday July 16 to August 23 inclusive.

Under the direction of Hans Kindler, founder and regular conductor of the orchestra, and guest conductors, the orchestra will be heard over WLW-NBC network on Sundays, beginning July 16, from 9 to 10 p. m. EST.

The opening concert will be conducted by Andre Kostelanetz, well-known radio conductor. Others who will share the podium with Hans Kindler in the series are Efrum Kurtz on July 23; Burle Marx, July 30; Charles O'Connell, August 6; Rudolf Ganz, August 13, and Reginald Stewart, August 20.

Briefs

Allegheny College in 1940 will celebrate the 125th anniversary of its founding.

The University of Pittsburgh chapter of Phi Eta Sigma gives five tutorial services to all Pitt students.

In June, Stevens Institute of Technology will sponsor a conference on the interrelations of business and government.

A new process which is believed to make possible the production of a new type of synthetic rubber has been discovered by University of Alabama scientists.

The Oberlin College mock political convention is the oldest student activity of its kind in the U. S. A special symposium on diseases of the blood will be held at the University of Wisconsin in September.

America's first extensive history of the south-10 volumes—has been started by University of Texas and Louisiana State University historians.

Since September, audiences totaling more than 50,000 persons have heard programs featuring Wayne University speech students.

Crocket, the famed English game, is a popular student sport on the Mount Angel College campus.

COTTON PREVIEW

A CALICO print blouse in pink and yellow, bordered with black and buttoned down the front with shiny black cubes, as featured in April's Harper's Bazaar.

University Studios Plans Series Of Book Reviews

Starting Friday, July 21, at 1:45 to 2 p. m. CST, and continuing each Friday thereafter through August 18, the University radio studios will present "A Woman Looks at the World of Books," a series of book reviews sponsored and written by the National Federal of Women's Clubs.

The series will feature on each program a different member of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. E. S. Good, who is chairman of the department of literature of the Kentucky Federation has announced that among the members to be presented in this series will be Mrs. Frank L. McVey and Miss Sarah G. Blanding.

On Monday of each week from 1:30 to 1:45 p. m., Anita Ware, soprano may be heard in a program of classical and semi-classical songs, and on Thursday, from 1:30 to 1:45 p. m. Lovely Kohler, continues his program of semi-classical and popular songs from the University of Kentucky studios.

On Thursday, July 13, the ninth in the series by dramatizations "Planning your career," will be presented. The title of this fifteen-minute play is "Goods may be sold," and may be heard from 1:45 to 2 p. m. This series which deals with all phases of vocational guidance, is especially recommended for the use of high school and college students and their parents.

On Thursday, July 13, the ninth in the series by dramatizations "Planning your career," will be presented. The title of this fifteen-minute play is "Goods may be sold," and may be heard from 1:45 to 2 p. m. This series which deals with all phases of vocational guidance, is especially recommended for the use of high school and college students and their parents.

On Thursday, July 13, the ninth in the series by dramatizations "Planning your career," will be presented. The title of this fifteen-minute play is "Goods may be sold," and may be heard from 1:45 to 2 p. m. This series which deals with all phases of vocational guidance, is especially recommended for the use of high school and college students and their parents.

MRS. LAFFERTY

(Continued from Page One) of parks and shrines, of interesting old homes and notable sites have added to Kentucky's fame, as Kentucky or as officials of other states, of artists, noted authors, distinguished writers.

The book gives the high points of Kentucky's history in graphic, popular style, and will prove interesting to young and old, serving as an excellent guidebook to the visitor. It should also prove an invaluable reference book to the student.

"The Last of Kentucky" is an inexpensive, compact volume of four hundred pages, told in popular style and presenting to the reader a graphic account of the development of the commonwealth from pioneer days to the present period of complicated highway travel.

Bankers To Meet On Campus July 18-20

Under joint sponsorship of the Kentucky Bankers Association, the University and the State Division of Banking, the second annual Kentucky Bankers' Conference will be held at the University July 18, 19, and 20.

A feature of the session will be a banquet to be held at 7 o'clock Wednesday night, July 19, at the Student Union, with David W. Fairleigh of Louisville, vice-president and secretary of the Lincoln Bank and Trust Company as toastmaster, and Dr. Herman B. Wells, president of Indiana University, as the speaker. His subject will be "The Future of Rural Banking."

The conference committee is composed of John C. Nichols, Lexington, executive vice-president of the First National Bank and Trust Company, chairman; Leonard C. Smith, Frankfort, deputy director of the department of business regulations, Division of Banking, co-chairman; Dr. Cecil C. Carpenter, University of Kentucky, co-chairman; Hollis C. Franklin, Madison, vice-president of the Farmers Bank and Trust Company; M. L. Underwood, Elizabethtown, president of the First Hardin National Bank; Spears Turley, Richmond, vice-president of the State Bank and Trust Company; Leland Cook, Vanceburg, cashier of the Citizens Bank; J. D. Brothier, Mt. Sterling, cashier of the Exchange Bank of Kentucky; and Jack W. Strother, Grayson, vice-president of the Commercial Bank. Charles A. Rudolph, Shelbyville, vice president of the Citizens Bank, is president of the Bankers Association.

Advertisement for 'The Kentucky Kernel' featuring the text: 'To The Students And Faculty Let The Kernel Advertisers Know That They Have Your Support BUY NOW! BUY IN LEXINGTON! Buy From Those Concerns That Advertise In Your Paper The Kentucky Kernel'

Tuesday, July 11, 1939

IRELAND'S NATIVE SOIL

Hundreds of native Irish and Irish-Americans who haven't seen the "old sod" for many years are attracted to the Irish Free State Exhibit at the New York World's Fair. There they look with misty eyes on an island which is an exact duplicate in relief of Ireland. The island is built up of soil from the countries of Eire and the lakes and rivers filled with waters from the River Shannon and the Lakes of Killarney.

"Colonel" of the Week

"This week's 'Colonel' goes to Dr. James W. Martin, professor of economics and director of the Bureau of Business Research. Dr. Martin, who has for the past three and one-half years been Kentucky's revenue commissioner, received high praise from Governor Chandler for the excellent service he has rendered to the state. To be returned to the University with a warm welcome from the faculty and students.

To show our appreciation, come in and enjoy any two of the delicious dinners on our menu.

To The Students - For a delightful change, come in and try one of our tasty steak dinners. You will say that they are the best you have ever eaten.

Cedar Village Restaurant

Limestone and Maxwell

CHEVY CHASE RIDING SCHOOL

GOOD RIDING HORSES TO RENT BY THE HOUR Special Rates to Children, Couples and Clubs Free Instruction in Capable Instructors - Long Sandy Ridge Path AT END OF OCHERAN ROAD - PHONE 972-X

Ford U-Drive-It

ALL NEW CARS FORDS AND DODGES For Rent 122 E. Short Street Phone 648 Lexington, Kentucky

Get The "Union Habit"

USE THE • CARD ROOM • GAME ROOM • MUSIC ROOM As A Means of Getting Acquainted

Student Union Building

The Corner of the Campus—Yet the Center of Activity

U. S. Colleges Have Queer Appellations

By CHARLES K. STEELE American colleges and universities go in for queer names, at least they seem queer to us who are used to hearing a simple name like "University of Kentucky."

For instance picture a cheering section yelling with all spirit and vigor the well known college yell, "Rah, rah, rah, Pestalozzi Probel Teachers' College, fight! fight! fight!" If you really want to fight, there's Brawley College in Colorado, but if you want to pull a Hitler, you may go to Bluffton College in Ohio. More amiable students would perhaps prefer Friends' University in Kansas, or Friendship College in South Carolina. Savage School for Physical Education could probably provide some formidable opposition and Deane College would no doubt slay in there and for dear old Rutgers.

For students of a gentler disposition, there's St. Mary of the Lake Seminary, St. Mary of the Woods College, St. Mary of the Springs College, St. Genevieve of the Pines Junior College, College of Our Lady of the Elms, and Fine Manor Junior College. In fact there are 72 colleges in the United States beginning with the word "Saint," 12 of them being St. Mary's.

An efficient board of trustees in Washington apparently wanted something different from the Salinas, but in order to please them all, just named their school "Holy Names Normal School." The College of Holy Names in California probably felt the same way. Nervous students who jump when the professor says "Well, when was it?" would probably be ill at ease at Scarritt College in Tennessee.

Paine College in Georgia may be

2 GARMENTS $1

Reed's Dry Cleaners Rose at Euclid Phone 623

BENALI

STARTS TODAY The "Dead End" Kids in "HELL'S KITCHEN" - plus "THEY ASKED FOR IT"

KENTUCKY

HELD OVER Jack Benny Rochester Dorothy Lamour "MAN ABOUT TOWN"

Cedar Village Restaurant

Limestone and Maxwell

CHEVY CHASE RIDING SCHOOL

GOOD RIDING HORSES TO RENT BY THE HOUR Special Rates to Children, Couples and Clubs Free Instruction in Capable Instructors - Long Sandy Ridge Path AT END OF OCHERAN ROAD - PHONE 972-X

Ford U-Drive-It

ALL NEW CARS FORDS AND DODGES For Rent 122 E. Short Street Phone 648 Lexington, Kentucky

Get The "Union Habit"

USE THE • CARD ROOM • GAME ROOM • MUSIC ROOM As A Means of Getting Acquainted

Student Union Building

The Corner of the Campus—Yet the Center of Activity

GOTTON PREVIEW

CHIC, charming and cooling in Bryner's white cotton dress, she is the star of the show at the Gotton Preview.

In some way connected with Dreps College in Pennsylvania, Mercyhurst College in Pennsylvania could complete the trio. Some students take to caffeine in order to study late in the wee hours and they apparently made such a habit of it in Kansas that they named the school Coffeyville College. It looks like Lambuth College in Tennessee may really go in for a lot of night work and no doubt they keep the hall ways highly polished at Skidmore College in New York. Hamline University in Minnesota probably goes in heavily for dramatics. Shorter College in Tennessee may really go in for a prize piece in great-grandmother's trousseau were they not quite so practical, feminine and cool, are but a few of the recommendations for these entrancing summer undies. Another item in the collection is a cool and comfortable night dress of flowered lawn, tied with sky blue pink bows and boasting of that most sought-after little-girl's touch.

It's those touches of originality that make the smart woman a few easy and inexpensive ones would include lying lines of the valley in a black bow and pinning them on the lapel of a suit with a giant gold safety pin. In the evening, for those very brown lassies' white nail after dark, and last but not the least attractive for those peaches

McVeys Entertain With Second Tea Of Summer President and Mrs. McVey entertained with the second tea of the Summer-Session series Wednesday afternoon at Maxwell Place with the students and faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences, public health officers and nurses and sanitary inspectors as guests of honor.

Assisting were Miss Willena Duncan, Mr. Merrill Beutler, Miss Blossie Rodison, Miss Helen M. Robbins, Miss Ethel Starks, Mr. Charles Baril, Dean and Mrs. C. E. Meleher, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Haas, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Rannels, Mr. and Mrs. M. Schlegel, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McFarland, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. McIner, Mr. J. R. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barkenbus, Mr. Sam Nuckols, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Sutherland, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Cutler, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Dauter, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Kluehl, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Yates, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. McFarlan, Mr. and Mrs. David Young, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Biggs, Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Knapp, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tullih, Mr. and Mrs. Huntley Dupre, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Heine, Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Griffin, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Raffitt, Miss Elma Reed, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Fortmann, Miss Gladys Wofford, Miss Mildred Semmons, Miss Flora LeSturgeon, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lampert, Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis, Miss Iva Dwyer, Mrs. Lela Cullis, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Allison, Mr. and Mrs. John Kuiper, Miss Mary King Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hackenbush, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Potter, Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis Todd, Miss Sarah Blanding, Mr. and Mrs.

Fashion Fancies

By VIRGINIA HAYDEN It's Fairs and warmer for those lucky one term summer schoolers. Just how lucky, we were wondering, being an avid believer in Elizabeth Hays' quip "fashion is spimch" and mentally recoiling at the thought of hot dark fourings. But designers are only human, so are giving us a sugar-coated "style" which is a little white birdseye pique jackets over dark cotton nets, or snowy collars and cuffs on dark sheers pep up a cool outfit for traveling as whipped cream does a chocolate pie.

For those who prefer to "travel light" we have two pertinent suggestions to offer. First is the revival of the old-fashioned durable brought up to date in new-creatable linen and cotton fabrics and which leaves you without a trace of that bewildered fair visitor look. Second is a new born habit in the luggage family. A light weight group made of a newly developed fabric so closely resembling that ultra smart crepe color, new birds' branch that it could easily be a half sister. But, the price, there is the thing that overwhelmed this. The new release is so inexpensive that even one of our financial staff could buy without the slightest pang of our miserly conscience.

It's with a sigh that we accept the inevitable and turn to talk of the weather. This time, however, not to complain but to thumb our nose at it and remain as cool as an Alaskan icecube in the most attractive coat next-to-nothings. They might easily have been the prize pieces in great-grandmother's trousseau were they not quite so practical, feminine and cool, are but a few of the recommendations for these entrancing summer undies.

Another item in the collection is a cool and comfortable night dress of flowered lawn, tied with sky blue pink bows and boasting of that most sought-after little-girl's touch.

American Woman Tells Of Life In Nazi Germany

"Reaching For The Stars" By Nora Wain "Reaching For The Stars" is a collection of articles by an American woman who lived for four years in the Germany of the Nazi-Socialist regime. The book is outstanding for its attitude of sympathy and pity for the German people, and, at the same time, for its ringing attacks against the Nazis.

Paradoxical as the above statement may seem offhand, it is clarified by the author's insistence that the citizens of the Reich little realized what the future held in store for them when they voted the Nazi party into power.

She further elaborates on this opinion by explaining the average German attitude toward politics and government. Miss Wain points out the fact that Germans for generations have been ruled by the benevolent despotism of the Hohenzollerns, had never learned to govern themselves. Consequently, any form of government which promised glorification of the Fatherland, combined with the establishment of order and the avoidance of administrative responsibilities on the part of the populace, naturally appealed to the highly patriotic Germanic peoples.

And to huge numbers of the citizenry welcomed the Nazis with open arms, dreaming only of Deutschland's glory, and totally ignorant of the reign of terror which was to follow. Today Miss Wain pictures the Germans as a race living in fear, looking upon themselves as the victims of their own political "confidence man," and looking hopefully to the future for German redemption.

Miss Wain is consistently reminding the reader of her love for the German people, and pointing with pride to the prevailing chin-up spirit of many of the populace. She is quick to praise the thousands who will not permit themselves, despite the Gestapo and the concentration camps, to be dragged down into the mire of the Jewish persecutions.

However, one cannot fail to notice the cannot help feel upon reading the book that, terrible as the situation may be, it is far from being hopeless. The old adages of "Murder will out" and "You can't keep a good man down" are pounded in innumerable circumlocutory phrases.

However, one cannot fail to notice that despite Miss Wain's optimism, too many of her conclusions are based upon a woman's emotional qualities and intuition, and too few upon logical reasoning. Besides the cold, factual calculation of Gunther, Miss Wain takes on the aspect of a wishful thinker.

—Jim Caldwell

COURTESY WITHOUT CURTSY

At the recent visit of their Britannic Majesty's the New York World's Fair, Queen Elizabeth overheard to remark during the reception in Peryton Hall, "Why don't they shake hands with the men?" The remark was prompted by the curtsies of the guests who followed the rehearsal plan. The curtsy was abandoned when the King and Queen began proffering their hands — American style.

IDIOSYNCRASY

Charles MacArthur, Broadway producer, the husband of actress Helen Hayes, had a suspicion that his approaching baldness was heralded by too much water on his head. Besides bathing caps are a nuisance, MacArthur wears a derby in the shower.

GOTTON PREVIEW

A SUZY hat of pale yellow cotton organdie with a bunch of white flowers in front—a feature in April's Harper's Bazaar. The blouse of white linen trimmed with trilled lace.

Mountain Monotony Broken By Centers

Listening Service Expanded To Thirty Stations, Sulzer Says Much of the monotony of life in remote sections of the eastern Kentucky mountains has been relieved by the presence of the University's radio listening centers, according to Elmer G. Sulzer, director of the publicity bureau and the radio studio.

Established six years ago with stations at Cow Creek and Gander, the service now has expanded to 30 stations located in remote sections of the hills, he declared. The listeners, averaging about 40 families to the station, gather in the evenings or at stated periods to hear specially planned programs, Sulzer explained.

Listed by the speaker as the most popular programs at the centers were broadcasts of daily news and political discussions. Music preferred by the center audiences ordinarily is of the "hill-billy" type, he asserted. Because jazz or symphony music is not familiar to the mountain people, those types are not in favor, he continued.

The listening centers have been made possible through cooperation of the extension department and through voluntary contributions, the director said. No solicitations have ever been made in their behalf.

Week's Best Sellers

Fiction "Grapes of Wrath," John Steinbeck. "The Web and the Rock," Thomas Wolfe. "Wickford Point," John P. Marquand. "Next To Valour," John Jennings. "Passport for a Girl," Mary Jordan. "Captain Hornblower," C. S. Forester.

Non-Fiction "Inside Asia," John Gunther. "The Hudson," Carl Carmer. "Wind, Sand and Stars," Antoine de Saint-Exupery. "New York City Guide," F. W. P. "America In Mid Passage," C. and M. Beard.

University Students Use Varied Jobs To Earn Expenses

By JOHN ED PEARCE It's amazing what some people will do for a college education.

Here on the University campus is a boy who works his way through school by acting as assistant janitor at a public school near Lexington; another serves as a companion to an old lady whose husband died recently; others do everything from washing dishes to taking care of children.

With more than 50 per cent of its male students working for all or part of their college expenses, the University ranks among the highest in the country in percentage of working students. According to estimates given by Dean Jones, 1,500 men work during the summer months to help finance their education. During the school year there are 400 students employed on N.Y.A. duties, 275 of these being boys. Two hundred and fifty boys earn all their meals, while another 150 earn part of their food. Two hundred and twenty-five boys hold assorted odd jobs ranging from undertaker's assistant to garage mechanic. Two hundred and seventy-five boys are given their room in exchange for work.

While the girls are not entirely left out of this work program, they fall far below the boys in number employed. Twenty-five girls are employed in the dormitories for table and room services, while others work in town or around the campus. One hundred and twenty-five girls are employed by the N.Y.A. Duties of these girls are almost as varied as those of the boys. Some work in five and ten cent stores; some wait tables, wash dishes, clean rooms, make beds, cook, sew; others care for small children, tutor school children, bind books, sell history, or work as assistants in laboratories.

The resourcefulness of the college

IT TAKES AN EXPERT

It takes an expert to know the difference between the mediocre and the best. Especially in this time of shoe repairing where qualities of the leather and workmanship can vary greatly, Entrust your footwear to the one shop whose record guarantees you the best of everything at prices no higher than you would for ordinary service.

McGurk's Shoe Repair

116 E. Main

STARTING—LIGHTING—IGNITION

TIRE—BATTERY—BRAKE SALES AND SERVICE TAYLOR TIRE COMPANY 24-HOUR SERVICE INCORPORATED PHONE 2638

The Place Where College Folk Meet

Benton's Tavern

One mile out Richmond Road • THIS WEEK'S SPECIALTIES Delicious Country Ham Sandwiches with French Fried Potatoes — 4c Frog Leg Sandwich — 35c

LEXINGTON YELLOW CAB CO. Inc.

Phone 8200 TAXI Phone 8200

Lexington Yellow Cab Co. Inc. (Busses)

ANYTHING IN TRANSPORTATION

BAYNHAM'S Semi-Annual Clearance SALE! Now In PROGRESS Baynam Shoe Company Air Conditioned 135 E. Main

Behind The Eckdahl

By ANDREW C. ECKDAHL

FOURTH OF JULY MEMORY: While hundreds of persons were getting themselves killed in auto wrecks, drowned while swimming and blown up by fireworks we adopted a "safety first" policy and sat quietly in our office—only to cut the end of our finger nearly off playing with a pair of scissors.

Editor and Publisher offers the following bit: The cub reporter for the Albia (Iowa) Republican who was assigned to cover the class play of the high school came in for his share of literary fame when the following turned up in his story: "The auditorium was filled with expectant mothers, eagerly awaiting the appearance of their offspring."

It is with a poignant feeling of despair and a nostalgic longing for things past that we chronicle the passing of another old custom.

Recently we had occasion to be present when a friend of ours came up and showed a coed a little movie that he had caught. Did she scream and jump for the nearest table? No! Did she faint? No!

"Oooh," she cooed, "Isn't he cute? Let me hold him." We turned away, saddened. Time marches on.

Femaphobe and Femaphile

As a femaphobe and a femaphile
Strolled on the avenue,
A beautiful girl with a lovely form
Hove suddenly into view.

Now the femaphobe looked only once
And then he turned and fled,
While the femaphile as his flit of doos
Tartied to woo and to wed.

The years have passed, as years will do.
The beautiful girl's the mother
Of eleven bright and shining kids
And expecting still another.

The femaphile works hard all day
To support his growing brood
And sadly thinks that that other day
When the lovely girl he wooed.

Now the femaphobe, alone at night,
A tired and unhappy old man,
Curses the day on the avenue
When he turned around and ran.

—Chellwin Smythe.

Corny Joke Department

(Contributed by George Martin.)
"Say stranger, where can I find a post office around here?"
"What! Have you lost one?"
(Contributed by Myer Godheff)
A chap went to a dance. After he had been there about thirty minutes he went to the ticket window and wanted his money refunded.

"Why?" asked he cashier, "do you want your money refunded?"
"Well you see," said the chap, "I am a railroad man and everyone at this dance is truckin'."

Being best man at a wedding is nothing more than being given a ring side seat for the preliminary bouts.—L. B.

Our friend Batch writes from Vanderbilt university as follows: "Beauty may be its own excuse for being but it is about its only excuse."

World Pacifism Advocated
In Talks at Peace Seminar
—Headline in Miami Tribune.

(Sounds logical.)
An idea comes on little cat feet.
It sits just out of your mind's reach and then moves on.

—Glenville Mercury.

Don't You Feel Funny When: You get back an English test paper and the first thing you see marked on it is a split infinitive?

See Prof. V. P. Rapport of Connecticut state college, "Copying one book is plagiarism, copying three books is research."

We learn that football referees are tectotales. But they manage to get their share of the boos.

A pamphlet from the chemistry department of an eastern university advises us against eating the cellophane wrapper on candy bars. "Cellophane," it says, "is practically indigestible. We had never given much thought to the matter ourselves. But evidently there is a pressing need for the dissemination of this information, so if any of you have been eating candy bars without removing the wrapper, we can tell you, you'll come to a bad end. The idea is rather significant though, mankind being warned not to eat cellophane by a group of chemists who have thought the thing out. Makes the human race look a bit silly, we think. For years, squirrels have been cracking open nuts and eating only the kernel, squirrels know about not eating the shell, but Man has to be told that cellophane is "indigestible."

The Spectorator

By JIM CALDWELL

The decidedly unfunny Gypsy Rose Lee acts which the Japanese have recently enforced on English citizens in Tientsin, China, coupled with other flavors of mud hurled at the Union Jack in Europe, make plain one fact: the British lion has grown toothless in his old age.

Ten years ago, if a furrier so much as plucked a raveling off a Bond Street jacket, he was promptly confronted by a squadron of His Majesty's destroyers. Nine times out of ten, the furrier placed the raveling back and no questions were asked.

But today the Lion may have his tail twisted, his ears twined, and his ribs pummed, and still the old kitty purrs contentedly.

Significantly coupled with this decreasing respect for the British Empire is convincing evidence of an increasing regard for the United States. At the same time Englishmen are being undressed and searched in China. Americans were politely permitted to go their way unmolested.

And when the Japanese Navy demanded the withdrawal of U. S. and British ships from certain Chinese ports, the British waited for the American admirals to reply first. When that reply took the form of a polite but firm invitation for the Japs to go take a running jump in the lake, the English tagged along behind. Latest dispatches say that those ships still maintain their anchorage, and the lake is reported full of foundering Nipponese. For Japan, however it may treat England, wants no trouble with America.

Thus has the U. S. replaced Britain as the dominating occidental force in the Orient. Simple, wasn't it?

Death of a Magazine

"Ken," that case of hysteria disguised as a magazine, has announced on August 15, it will suspend publication. The most recent venture in the slick-paper field, "Ken" was more than a year old. It was advertised from the beginning as "The Insider's World," and was designed to give the reading public an insight into events and conditions which other factors of the press discreetly discarded or ignored.

When the magazine first began it was very good. It contained a good many pieces by Ernest Hemingway and George Seldes. Hemingway at the time was covering the Spanish "Civil" war, and it was in the pages of "Ken" that the world first learned that the Japs threw down their rifles and ran like blazes at Guadalajara. But Mr. Hemingway and Mr. Seldes soon let us do the good articles.

Gradually "Ken" fell into an attitude of excitement. Anything it wrote about its tactics about so frenzied did the articles become that more often than not they caused a good deal of wear and tear on the reader's eyebrows.

It would seem most probable that the magazine died of high blood pressure or of apoplexy, but the real cause was the same as that which claimed "Scribner's" and other late publications: lack of advertising. But the publishers are good-natured about the incident, and unlike most other backers of publication flops, they are today depicting the "Ken" as they "backed the wrong horse."

"Surprise" Movies

Every so often the habitual movie goer experiences a case of pleasing "kick" from stumbling upon some unexpected little picture which turns out to be superior to many of the highly-publicized, super-colossal "extravaganzas." Last week a modest little picture entitled "Five Came Back" snuck up on the town, let loose a potent punch, and departed on its way leaving all those who had seen it thinking that in pictures as well as in life, "money isn't everything."

The movie was said to have cost only $230,000—practically a free sample in Hollywood—and yet the editing, direction and pace were enough to make such persons as Cecil B. DeMille and his $2,000,000 "epics" go bury their head in shame. The plot was not especially new—the old-to-familiar theme of an airliner wrecked in the jungle. But the treatment is entirely different, and the result is a sort of aerial "Stagecoach."

Social-minded individuals may well interpret the flicker as a social drama. After a long sojourn in the wilderness, the disabled plane is finally repaired, but it is found that it will carry only five out of the nine surviving passengers. Who these five will be presents a problem, which the spectator inevitably finds himself attempting to solve. The solution inevitably involves a bit of political philosophy, and offers the viewer an excellent opportunity to find for himself what his political beliefs actually are. Besides this it is highly enjoyable entertainment.

PASTORAL

Those summer theatre circuit—those rural playhouses which cater to vacationists at the better known watering spots—are called "straw hat theatres" by New York dramatic critics.

It Won't Be Long Now

PHI DELTA KAPPA

(Continued from Page One) industrial acts. Ernest, the senior high, Barbourville, W. Va.; Z. A. Orton, principal Clark county high school, Winchester; Talmage Huff, principal, Cumberland high school; C. Arthur Insko, teacher of English, Augusta high school; Clyde C. Jones, teacher of history, Corbin high school; O. M. Lassiter, principal, Williamson high school; J. Lawson, Adams, teacher, Harbourside high school; W. W. A. Wendell M. Layman, principal, Prophetstown high school, Prophetstown, Ill.; Alton B. Parker, instructor, College of Commerce, University of Kentucky; Eddie Logsdon, band director, Corbin high school; Charles Lewis, teacher, Beattyville high school; H. V. McClure, superintendent, London public schools; Robt. D. Merveth, teacher, Bowling Green high school; Bradshaw grade school; Wm. A. Richards, head of business education, Greensboro, N. C.; Joe Romlin, teacher, Louisville junior high school; Richard W. Slusher, principal of Kettle Island school, Clarksville, Tenn.; J. C. Taylor, principal, high school, Racine, W. Va.; A. H. Toneray, principal, Laurel school; Alfred J. Ward, principal, Russell high school, Russellville; F. D. Wilkinson, principal, Milton high school.

BARNES

(Continued from Page One) count on American aid. The latter was what made possible the evils of the Treaty of Versailles which Professor Knight so justly deplores. Professor Knight is probably right in maintaining that the peace was worse than the War. But the peace treaties are today depicting the "Ken" as they "backed the wrong horse."

We have, indeed, reasons for expecting a worse one, for hypocritical war is far more rampant among the alleged democracies today. In 1914, Great Britain and France were actually democracies. Today they are not autocracies in which little semblance of true democracy can be found. French and British liberals are today depicting the "Ken" as they "backed the wrong horse."

To make a common front for Britain and France would be ridiculous from the outset, which is why the Hiltner and Mussolini today they are more popular enthusiasm for Hitler and Mussolini today than for DeLadler and Chamberlain.

International law should be respected. But what informed persons believe that the British and French have repudiated their supposedly sacred treaty obligations as frequently and flagrantly since 1919 as have the Fascist states. To fight with them in behalf of the sanctity of treaties and international law would be even more of a travesty than to battle along side of them in support of democracy.

Politeness may, indeed, be necessary to enforce law, but the pelting of Europe is Europe's responsibility. The European powers are responsible for the current international disasters and gang law. They must express their views. Lexington police are satisfied to maintain order in Lexington; they do not run off to Chicago every time a gang murder is reported. Our scandalous crime bill would indicate that the United States has plenty of policing to do at home without taking over the problems of Danzig and Prague. No doubt a moral front will hardly restrain Hitler. But if a military front is necessary to accomplish this, it is the job of the European powers and not the United States. Europe has made its bed, it must lie in it. Uncle Sam cannot be fairly asked to share the vermin which have accumulated there. For to enter a World War and underwrite the losses attributable to Allied stupidity, treachery and bad-guessing during the last forty years would

X-Ray Machine Requires House Lined With Lead

So powerful are the rays generated by the new 200,000 volt x-ray machine recently purchased for use by the department of mining and metallurgy that it has been deemed necessary to construct a separate lead-lined building in which to house the apparatus.

This building, in the west end of the old Wendt forge shop in the engineering quadrangle, was designed by Dr. Lester Tarnopol, assistant professor in metallurgy, and embodies every major device known to scientists to protect the operator and observers from exposure to the x-rays thrown off by the super machine.

Two sides of the building are composed of an inner layer of brick, eight inches thick, a sheet of lead, and an outer layer of brick, four inches thick. The other two sides are made entirely of brick, 20 inches thick. The roof of the building is composed of four inches of concrete over which a lead sheet is laid, and this, in turn is topped with two more inches of concrete.

The operator of the apparatus stands outside of the building and observes the tests through a thick glass window containing twenty-five per cent lead. Handles control the machine, which can not be turned on unless the door to the building is closed.

All wires leading into the building from the outside are conducted through lead pipes which run under, not through the walls. The door penetrates two inches into the concrete floor, and the overlapping lead sheets are sunk six inches into the floor.

The lead lined door weighing 2,000 pounds, slides on hanging rollers, and is electrically operated. The door penetrates two inches into the concrete floor, and the overlapping lead sheets are sunk six inches into the floor.

Guest Editorial

THE END OF EDUCATION

The British Consultative Committee on public education, after five years of exhaustive investigations, with an information possible at its disposal, recently made a report which contains some eminently sound conclusions.

For example, it has pointed out that education is not primarily a matter of preparing children and young people for the future. It is, rather, a way of life today, a way of life which should be "immediately and fully satisfying." No doubt this will be a new idea to most people, though it is not new so far as educators are concerned. The child, the youth, must live now, not in some remote tomorrow, and while education does point to tomorrow it must also meet the needs of today and aid the student to make adjustments to life in the present and develop his powers for the responsibility and activities of life as it passes.

The report contains the following language: "In our report on the primary school we had to insist that, while the child at that stage must necessarily look forward to the child's post-primary studies, yet it was by no means to be considered merely or even chiefly as a preparation for them. The child's life during the primary school years has, we argued, its special needs and its intrinsic values, and the prime object of education at that stage should be to satisfy those needs and to develop those values. . . . We apply the same principle to the secondary school stage."

There must be many teachers who have overlooked this important fact. The tendency is to push children along from grade to grade as though the sole object were to have them climb, as on the rungs of a ladder, to the next higher grade, and so on until graduation, when life is supposed to begin and all things thereafter are to depend on what already has been done in school.

But the child has to live with life all the while, and may at any time be forced to turn aside from academic and routine studies to take the responsibilities of making a livelihood. No doubt education should look forward to the completion of an academic training, and steps should be taken from primary to secondary schools, and on to the college or technical institution. But these steps will best be taken and success later best insured if education at all tins recognizes "special needs and intrinsic values" and endeavors to "satisfy those needs and develop those values."

The report says that children have "a personal interest in their upbringing, something to contribute to its problems, and a point of view that we must treat with greater deference."

One distinguished English educator has said that the failure to provide the satisfying life for pupils and students lies in the fact that the idea has been overlooked "that the education of children is not first of all a matter of progress in knowledge by way of provision for the future, but rather a way of life."

—Lexington Herald-Leader.

Man O' War's Parents Buried At Elmendorf

By MINTA ANNE HOKRADAY (Burgess Editor)

In the center of an elaborate park at Elmendorf stands the $50,000 bronze statue, memorial to a famous horse that died at Man O' War. Nearby is his grave alongside that of Mahubah, Man O' War's dam.

Salvator, one of the greatest horses of all time, is also immortalized in a monument which stands on the 1,300-acre tract now owned by Joseph E. Widener. Every morning at 10 o'clock, a band of music plays over which a lead sheet is laid, and this, in turn is topped with two more inches of concrete.

The operator of the apparatus stands outside of the building and observes the tests through a thick glass window containing twenty-five per cent lead. Handles control the machine, which can not be turned on unless the door to the building is closed.

Originally called Elk Hill, Elmendorf received its present name after coming into the hands of Daniel Swigert who named it in honor of his wife's grandmother, Bladina Elmendorf, a Dutch lady.

James Ben Ali Haggin bought the place in 1852 and built a mansion, famous million-dollar mansion, for himself. Today the steps and thirted columns remain standing as a memorial to the named mansion.

Mr. Haggin added to the original tract of Elmendorf until he had an estate of almost 7,000 acres. It was his purpose to build up a thoroughbred racing establishment that would be the foremost of its kind in the world.

After the death of Mr. Haggin, the estate was divided into several pieces. One of these, the Elmendorf of today, was later bought by Mr. Widener.

Paintings of famous horses, hunting scenes and races hang in the white-painted stone house. Perched on its roof is the famous iron-ore building. He is also one of the great owners of the nation and one of the world's finest and most collectors of which he inherited from his father.

Elmendorf is situated on the Iron-works pike five miles from Lexington, and is reached by way of the Magyville pike off North Limestone street.

CLASSIFIED ADS

ROOMS FOR SECOND SEMESTER—Single or double. Shower bath, linen furnished. $1.00 per week. $1.50 per month. 214 E. High. Phone 4024 or see John E. Poirer.

CHECK THE CHILDREN
Parents visiting the New York World's Fair may check their children's health. The Children's World charges 15 cents a half hour for the service.

The Kentucky Kernel

OFFICIAL NEWSPAPER OF THE STUDENTS OF THE UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY

PUBLISHED SEMI-WEEKLY DURING THE SCHOOL YEAR. OFFICE: 420 MADISON AVENUE, LEXINGTON, KY.

Subscription Rates: $1.00 One Semester—$2.00 One Year. Single Copies: 10 Cents.