

and those who will not do you homage, Tories! Do you know what you are doing? Every state in the union is opposed to your party, and astonished at its success. And have the people of the whole United States become Tories? Have they all become traitors to the principles of '76? Are they all enemies to popular government and to liberty? No, sir; it is you that are the apostates from the old school; you that are the enemies of equality and freedom. The people of the union look on your course as one tending directly to anarchy and confusion; as subversive of order and security; and therefore they deprecate vengeance on your ambitious leaders. They know the value of liberty; and they know how alone it is to be preserved; and they know that you are driving us on the high road to ruin.

Suffer me to offer you one more extract from the productions of a wise man, on the delusions and distractions of a debtor faction in the United States, shortly after the revolution:

"To a philosophical observer, the present confusion will afford an inexhaustible fund of astonishment and concern. He will behold men who have been civilized returning to barbarianism, & threatening to become fiercer than the savage children of nature, in proportion to the multitude of their wants, and the cultivated violence of their passions. He will see them weary of liberty and unworthy of it; arming their sacrilegious hands against it, though it was bought with their blood, and was once the darling pride of their hearts; complaining of oppression, because the law which has not forbidden, has not also enforced cheating; endeavoring to oppose society against morality, and to associate freemen against freedom."

The party here portrayed were such precisely as yours; their objects the same; their arguments the same. The liberty which they opposed was the liberty of the constitution; that which they vindicated was their own arbitrary will, the liberty of doing whatever they pleased.

the character of your state; but I tell you, the patriot's and the poet's malediction awaits all who rise in the ruins of their country's constitution and peace:

"Oh is there not some chosen curse,
Some hidden thunder in the store of heaven,
Red with uncommon wrath to blast the wretch
Who owes his greatness to his country's ruin!"

A PLEBIAN,

Extract of letter from a friend in Bowling-green Ky.

"DEAR SIR.—I have seen a statement in the second number of the Patriot, that J. R. Underwood, "never defended his country." This statement is FALSE—while Mr Underwood was a student of law in Lexington, there was a call for volunteers; he volunteered as a private, a company was raised, that company elected him first Lieutenant and he received his commission; the company was commanded by Captain Morrison, then of Lexington. Mr. Underwood went on with the company, and was in "Dudley's defeat." The circumstances of this campaign are well recollected by the people of Kentucky; shortly after the action commenced Morrison was killed. Underwood, who was then a youth, took command of the company; his companions upon that occasion say that he fought bravely and fearlessly; altho' he was just recovering from a severe attack of the measles, and was very weak when the army commenced retreating, he kept with his company. But the fatigues of the battle and his debilitated state were so great, that in retreating half a mile he fell in the rear, he could not keep up; he was severely wounded and retreat until he was taken not to understand, and mean not to be misrepresented. It is a faction, a desperate faction. Its facts prove, when compared with the following approved definition of faction:

"By a faction I mean a number of citizens, whether amounting to a majority or minority of the whole, who are united and actuated by some common impulse of passion, or of interest, adverse to the rights of other citizens, or to the permanent and aggregate interests of the community."

PUBLIUS.

All who belong to your party are not animated by factious motives: many are allowed to be honest. They are deluded by the wily artifices of the leaders; but still they are a faction. "A PAPER FACTION."—Pardon me for obtruding on your notice, from the pen of another wise man, a sketch of the delusion and desperation of "a paper faction."

"In spite of national beggary, paper money has still its advocates, and probably, of late, its martyrs. In defiance of demonstration, knaves will continue to proselyte fools, and keep a paper money faction alive. They (the people) will remain as blind, as credulous, as irritable as ever: ambitious men, and those whose characters and fortunes are blasted, will not be wanting to deceive and inflame them openly or by intrigue."

This was written of the continental paper, and in particular reference to the debtor faction headed by Shays. And why does it not apply to your paper and the Desha faction? It does exactly. "What should be in that Shays? Why should that name be sounded more than yours? Write them together, yours is as fair a name; sound them, it doth become the mouth as well; weigh them, it is as heavy; conjure them, Desha will start a spirit as soon as Shays." But the constitution was too strong for Shays. It will overcome Desha. The people put down him, and they will subdue you. He led an insurrection against his government to enforce paper relief. You promised to lead an insurrection against the same proven. Indeed, you have been charged publicly with these things, and they have not yet been denied. Still you do all you can to enforce this unconstitutional system, and degrade these honest judges. For this you were elected; and, whatever you may say, I am disposed to judge you by your deeds. I never believed that you were, at heart, friendly to relief or relief men. You have not the benevolence or the sensibility for distress which dignifies the errors of a sincere, cordial relief man. Whose misfortunes did you ever alleviate? Whose distress did you ever relieve? What widow's tears did you ever dry up? What orphan's cries did you ever hush? What poor man ever blessed your bounty? What occupant holds his fireside by your favor? Your fortune is ample; but to none has it ministered relief. Yet relief elected you, and you are pledged to enforce it "through scenes yet untried."

If you are opposed to the paper system, what is your object? What do you mean? Why so much noise, so much violence? I will tell you, sir. Your ambition craved the office of governor. You knew that your merit could not plead your claims to the office. You had no talents to urge you on. It was impossible for you to succeed, unless you could be taken up by one party, or the other. It is said that you offered yourself to the constitutional party, and that they (as a matter of course) rejected you with indignation. This I do not know, but have often heard it, and believe it. You then gave in your adhesion to the other party, who are ever ready to make, and eager to receive proselytes by any means. You then became the bosom friend of men whom you had hated, and who had denounced you publicly. The whole party voted for you; and many of their party supported you because you told them that you were no relief man, no
