Doing Your Part

When you go home for Thanksgiving there may be some who have heard "dark tidings" of an anti-syllabus campaign at the University of Kentucky—Horrors! Those of you who have had your Wassermann can begin your own educational program by explaining to those people the real purpose behind the campaign, the prevalence of syphilis, and the absolute necessity of abolishing the idea that it is contracted only by the morally loose. Don't be dogmatic, but know your facts and present them clearly. Below are more facts concerning the disease.

Cost

Syphilis causes the loss in the United States of an aggregate of about twenty million working days each year. At $4.00 a day, this means a money loss of $80,000,000. An additional $100,000,000 a year is expended for the care of persons blinded by the spirochete. Fully as large a sum, if not larger, is expended upon asylums for the insane made so by syphilis. Another sum goes for the maintenance of homes for those crippled by the disease. And the shock and grief which is costing to maintain prisons for the confining of criminals who were driven to crime by the warping effects of syphilis on the brain?

How To Reduce It

A comparatively small fraction of what it is costing a country to maintain syphilis would, if intelligently and judiciously applied, avail to reduce, within a comparatively short time, the prevalence of the disease. And with reduction in the disease, the blind, the crippled, the criminal and the insane born either directly or handicapped by him. More than that, it would mean the adding of more life to twenty years to the lives of all those who now die prematurely from heart, brain and kidney disease traceable to syphilis.

Be What?

Take no chances. Avoid promiscuous sexual relations. Have a complete physical exam, including blood test, by your family physician at least once a year. Tell your friends and family freely and frankly the fundamental facts about syphilis. Help to make it certain that your children and your children's children will escape the inevitable effects of syphilis—wrecked homes, blind babies, crippled youngsters, insane adults and writhing criminals.

Dangerous Practice

"Sir, I am amazed! From day to day I hear of students who are going to school under great financial handicaps, or of those who cannot be admitted because of lack of funds. Recently Dean Jones made an appeal for contributions to give needy students. Moreover, in our churches we hear that charity begins at home.

"Yet the YM and YW are sponsoring a safe safe safe safe money to keep Chinese or European refugees in school, or bring them to our country to be incredibly abused! Since we have our students become so wealthy or our state taxpayers so liberal that we can support foreign students? Why can't we aid our needy instead of introducing foreigners who are to be educated and given (Continued on Page Four)

The Inquiring Reporter

Do you believe in capital punishment? Why?

The Answers:
Herman Edson, Senior, Law: "Favorable answers for capital punishment are that it is a deterrent and that it eliminates an undesirable member from society. Criminologists have demonstrated that there is no deterrent because of the clemency powers of state governors, political influence, reluctance of juries to impose the extreme penalty, and the belief that a good mouth-piece can beat any rap. Modern rehabilitation of the criminal has focused attention on correction rather than punishment which emanates the second conviction.

Estalene Lewis, Junior, Commerce: "It is inevitable that some kind of punishment has to be maintained; however, I object to capital punishment for the most part because it is unchristian. As a suggested remedy why not act away with pardons and make a prison a restraint of liberty for the full length of time that the convict deserves."

Grover Conley, Senior, Engineering: "I am against capital punishment. In my opinion no crime committed can be rectified by taking a life, a life which can not be restored, should an innocent man be punished."

Mary Hieronymus, Freshman, Agriculture: "Capital punishment in my estimation is the only right means of justifying an act that has been committed against the public. More capital punishment would help prevent the numerous crimes now so prevalent."

Five Cats Play Finale In Coming Vol Game

Thanksgiving Frauds Will Be Dixie's Top Draw Of The Day

With five Wildcats senior in their swan game, the 22nd renewal of the Kentucky-Tennessee football feud will be enacted Thursday on Knoxville's Shields Watkins Field in Dixie's only contribution to the Thanksgiving grid parade.

As usual, Tennessee rises top heavy favorite with the experts who contend that Kentucky's chance of even holding the score within the three figure range is as hopeless as an elephant in a stockpile.

In picking the undefeated Vol to roll over the Cats, the wise guys have a sound reason. They know the Cats will be the "Thanksgiving frauds" in the Dixie's top draw. ## PARTIES SELECT FIVE CANDIDATES

Two Political Factions Submit Petitions For Sophomore Class Officers

Only two political parties, the Fraternity Committee and the Independent Association, submitted petitions for candidates for sophomore class officers. It was learned yesterday from John Way, Student Council member in charge.

Voting will be held from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m., November 30, in the basement of the Union building.

John G. Chure, Alpha Gamma Rho, was the only candidate from the Fraternity Committee. Other candidates on the Combin ticket are John Ed Pearce, Pi Kappa Alpha, for vice-president, and Frances C. Hannah, Chi Omega, for secretary-treasurer.

Independent Association candidates are: Jean Marie McConnell, for vice-president, Petitions naming both a secretary and a treasurer were submitted by this group. These officers are to be elected by the Student Council. Political managers of the Independent group could not be reached for their decision as to which candidate they expect to run for secretary-treasurer.

The freshman class elections will be held on Thursday, December 5.

Another Old Tradition Shattered; Vol-Cat Keg Is Vinegar Barrel!

Purdue's Bucket; Michigan's Jug Eclipsed By UK's Barrel

Michigan and Minnesota have their little brown jug.

Indiana and Purdue have their old oaken bucket.

Kentucky and Tennessee have their beer keg—presumably, but it is not a beer keg at all. It is a vinegar barrel.

This is not an attempt to shatter another tradition, but only an attempt to simulate the one of the nation's keenest gridders, originally was the keg onto St. Field, that Kentucky alumni better known as the "Raspberry Patch," conceived a plan to stimulate the Cat-Volunteer rivalry to greater heights by using something material to denote supremacy between the two. ## Wassermann Tests Close First Phase Of Campaign

Educational Program Will Supplement Testing Drive

The Wassermann test total is expected to pass the 1900 mark by 5 p. m. today; the close of the first phase of the Kernel's anti-syphilis campaign, Dr. J. S. Chambers stated yesterday as preparations were made for the final day of testing.

A "last-minute" rush of students hereafter unable to take the tests, and the complete staff of the Department of Buildings that grounds, boosted the total to 1088. Members of the Kernel staff stressed the point that the testing period only will close today. Immediately after Thanksgiving, they stated, the educational program is to be inaugurated.

Included in this program will be silent and talking motion pictures, to be shown before special and mixed groups, talks and lectures by prominent members of the fac-

McVey Plaque Will Be Unveiled This Afternoon With Ceremony Conducted In University Library

President Will Be Honored In Dedictory Rites At 4 P. M.

Unveiling ceremonies of the bronze plaque to Dr. Frank L. McVey, honoring the President's 21 years of service to the University and to the state, will be held at 4 p. m. today in the main lobby of the Library.

The plaque was secured through contributions from students, faculty members and others interested in the University and sponsored by Omicron Delta Kappa, senior men's leadership fraternity.

Virginia Murray Tilson, granddaughter of President McVey, will unveil the plaque. The Merit Club is to furnish the music for the dedication.

Following the dedication, a formal dinner will be held at 7 p. m. in the Union Ball Room. President McVey will be one of the principal speakers and David Pettus, a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, will address the address Sherman Hinklebein, president of ODK, will preside.

Members of Scabbard and Blade, honorary military science fraternity, will serve as ushers.

The plaque is being presented under the auspices of Omicron Delta Kappa, national leadership fraternity to honor President McVey for his many years of service to the University and to the State.

The only figure of its kind on the campus, the plaque is the work of Christian Peterson, noted Iowa sculptor. It is a likeness of President McVey seated in a chair with a book in his hand.

The bronze plaque is 24 inches wide, 78 inches high and weighs 600 pounds. Inscribed across the top is the name "FRANK L. McVEY" in gold letters. Below is a statement, "Believe in truth. Protest against error. Lead men to the truth." The plaque was used as a model for the final work.

UK Philharmonic Group Plays To Capacity Crowd

Lampert and Capurso Do Fine Work With Second Concert

A sumptuous capacity crowd filled Memorial Hall auditorium Sunday at 4 p. m. for the fall debut of the University's philharmonic orchestra, under the batons of Professor Fred Lampert and Alexander Capurso. Despite that, the audience almost disgraced the concert from time to time, a fact which would have distressed a group with less fortitude, the entire affair was carried off nobly.

With excellent work turned in by every member of the orchestra, such as an audible hoarseness in the flutes and a rattling overture in the viola, the work was technically accurate and altogether pleasant. The confident power of the musicians and the grasp of tempo and spirit by the young musicians in every section of the orchestra, displayed a solid knowledge of music which contributed to a beautiful piece.

Four great musical nationalities were represented. The opening score, Wagner's splendid overture to "Rienzi," was the feature of the afternoon. Figured by the flutes and a rattling overture in the viola, the work was technically accurate and altogether pleasant. The confident power of the musicians and the grasp of tempo and spirit by the young musicians in every section of the orchestra, displayed a solid knowledge of music which contributed to a beautiful piece.

WOMEN'S DEANS CONVENE AT UK

Emma V. Case Of Eastern State Presides At Conference

The annual meeting of the Kentucky Association of Deans of Women's Colleges, presided at by Emma V. Case, Eastern State Teachers College, opened Sunday afternoon at the University of Kentucky.

A luncheon meeting at Boyd Hall following registration, Miss Mary P. Carr, director of occupational research and counseling at the Cincinnati public schools, spoke on "Occupational Counseling as an Integral Part of an Adequate Guidance Program."

Dr. Edward F. Parzuch, professor of literature, addressed the delegates on the topic discussed by Mrs. Frank L. McVey at Lexington last fall. His subject was "Languid Living."

"Administration of Student Personnel," was the topic discussed by Miss Helma Threlkeld, Dean of Women at the University of Louisville in a dinner given at the Lexington Country Club.

Saturday morning, Miss Jeanette Scouler, director of the women's dormitories, spoke on the subject "The Development of Leadership Through Student Government." Dr. Harriet O'Shea of the educational psychology department at Purdue University talked on "Essential Elements for Counseling."

The University of Kentucky team went to Illinois Sunday, Nov. 20, and will practice at the University of Illinois before going to Chicago for the contest.

Mystery Surrounds Beating Of Student

Lambda Chi Is "Taken For Ride," Is Unable To Identify Two Assaults

Lee Bowling, Commerce Senior, who was badly beaten Friday night after being taken for a "ride" by two men, was said to be "doing nicely" and will be released in a few days by attacks of the Good Samaritan hospital yesterday.

Bowling sustained a badly smashed hand and a broken nose. He said that when he drove up to the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity house where he resides, two men forced him back into his car. After driving him about town, the men parked the automobile, beat him severely, took three dollars from his pocket and left. Bowling was unable to furnish police with a description of his two abductors. He gave any reason for the attack.

A Tribute To President McVeey

When the bronze plaque of President McVeey is unveiled today in the University library, members of Omicron Delta Kappa, as well as other students, faculty members and alumni, may justifiably feel proud. ODK deserves special commendation because it was mainly through the continued and unflinching efforts of this organization that funds were obtained for this work.
This fitting tribute honored a man who so ably has fulfilled the exigencies of his office, will remain as a monument to his services and an inspiration to future students of the University who will be mindful of the generous spirit in which it was given—R. E. G.

Last Day For Wassermanns

Although the KERNEL's campaign against syphilis already has resulted in a greater percentage of Wassermanns taken than most schools where the test was not compulsory, we should not be satisfied until every student has been registered at the Public Health Building.
Today is the last day on which these tests will be given in large numbers. See that your friends go over from 2 to 5 o'clock this afternoon.
Take Your Wassermann Today!
Immediately after Thanksgiving, the purely educational phase of the program will begin. At that time, there will be motion pictures, talks and exhibits explaining how to diagnose and cure the disease. It is then that your part will be played. By attending these features, you will be able to assimilate the knowledge necessary to teach, instruct, and render invaluable aid in checking this number one enemy of public health.

Helping The Hand That Helped Us

The American Red Cross has started its annual drive to secure the necessary funds to carry on its vast and worthy program of good Samaritanism. Always in the front lines providing care and treatment to the stricken at times when a helping hand is most needed, the Red Cross requires a considerable sum to continue its work and is dependent upon the generosity of the people.
When you are approached for a contribution don't forget the spirit and co-operation of this organization a year or so ago when large areas of our state were unindated by the flood. Think of our helplessness then if there had not been a Red Cross with adequate funds to come to our aid—R. E. G.

A Lack Of That Thanksgiving Spirit

For the past three weeks, through the medium of this paper, Dean T. T. Jones has appealed to men at the University to bring old clothing to his office for immediate distribution among needy students.
The response was ungratifying. For from among the many more fortunate boys on the campus only one group seemed interested enough to answer the call. The Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity is to be commended for donating its surplus clothing to such a worthy cause.
It seems incredible that this Thanksgiving while some students are snuggling in the warm confines of a new coat, eating turkey dinners, and having an enjoyable vacation that other students will remain here working, eating scantily, and dreading the cold days for lack of sufficient clothing.
This situation could have been relieved if you as students had been more concerned.

Behind The Eckdahl

By ANDREW C. ECKDAHL

We are standing on the front steps of Neville hall gazing at the rain when Mr. Herbert Duncan, that elongated psychologist, comes along and asks us a question as follows:
"Have you seen that picture of a WPA worker in the library?"
"That is no WPA worker, that is President McVeey's plaque," we answer, turning our head so he cannot see the tell-tale twinkle in our eye, and also to avoid a punch in the nose for such a disrespectful statement.
"Don't be an old," he says. "There is a picture of a WPA worker in the browsing room."
We are ready to let the matter drop, but Mr. Duncan insists that we accompany him to the library and see for ourself. So through the rain we wade.
We enter the browsing room and Mr. Duncan silently points to the Kentucky-at-work mural, where we see the hulking figure of a miner asleep over a pick.

A Kentucky colonel of our acquaintance once boasted to a friend that he had on his plantation an Indian who never forgot anything. The devil was listening nearby, and he bet the colonel that he was wrong. The colonel bet his soul that the Indian wouldn't forget.
So the devil went up to the Indian and said, "Do you like eggs?"
"Yes, replied the Indian.

Twenty years elapsed and the devil returned. Confronting the old Indian he raised his hand in the customary Indian greeting and said, "How."
"Fried," replied the Indian.

End Of The First Chapter

CAMPUSCENE

By JOHN ED PEARCE

SUNDAY afternoon, the University Philharmonic orchestra gave a concert over at Memorial Hall. Contrary to the belief of a number of Universities, these affairs are very popular, proven by the fact that during the Sunday opus, Memorial Hall was as stuffed with people as the Student Union during convocation.
The program lasted for an hour and five minutes, and served to prove conclusively two points: first, that we have a very nice orchestra, and second, that some people shouldn't be allowed to attend concerts.

Voice Of The People

During the program, which was excellent, there occurred a series of incidents which might have led to a less poetic audience to acts of violence. First, there was the applause problem. Now it is definitely false to applaud at the wrong time, but this seems to be a little known fact among local listeners. Through-out the concert these persons, evidently carried away by over-enthusiasm, insisted on breaking into the music with a splatter of handclapping, which caused disconcertion to the performers, and embarrassment to the rest of the audience.
Then there was the baby episode. It seems that some loving mother saw fit to expose her infant to the afternoon's culture, and sat with him, or her, or whatever babies are on the front row. When Miss Mary Louise McKenna began her aria the listeners grew quiet, as is customary to hear a lovely voice. Not so our fretting darling, the baby, who was wont also to give his little aria, previous thing. Miss McKenna evidently displayed this undesirable element, for, she, or it immediately burst forth with a series of vocal sounds which very closely resembled the old raspberry, bronch cough, head, or poopy face. Not content with this, the infant then went to war to warble out nonsense syllables to the shocked ears of the music lovers.

Anti-Popose

Now there is, according to the best authorities, a time and place for everything, but after all . . . it would be a bit happier world if all babies were born eight years old, but this, according to the physiologists, is an impossibility. So we must content ourselves with them, and try to make the best of it. But, please, not at the concerts.
It is a shame to think that the only opportunity for expression offered to our Philharmonic is the few Sunday afternoon concerts that they give each fall and winter. Here we have sixty-five, or maybe more, students who devote a great deal of their time and energies to the structure of a fine orchestra, only to blush, for the most part, unseen. Even when they do perform, the audience is composed mostly of Lexingtonians, instead of the students of the University. Those who fail to attend these concerts are missing a fine opportunity to hear some good music played by musicians who furnish in zeal what they lack in finesse.

Physiology Majors Hear Syphilis Talk

By BEN WILLIAMS

To find real entertainment mixed with worthwhile instruction we would heartily hand the luncheon group of Physiology majors who met every Thursday in the Student Union Grid for lunch, a prepared speech and an informal discussion, a great big bouquet of their favorite flowers.
In view of the fact that the Kernel is sponsoring an anti-syphilis campaign we were invited to sit in on the meeting Thursday. Sutton Long, chairman-at-large of the group, delivered a talk on "The History and Epidemiology of Syphilis."
Long traced the course of syphilis from the time it was first discovered in the army of Charles the Eighth on the occasion of his invasion of Italy, up through all the men who have made discoveries concerning it to the present day.

One of the most outstanding discoveries ever made in connection with the disease was the positive test to determine whether a person had syphilis, developed by Wassermann. Nayer and Brocke in 1906. This is fundamentally the same test that over half of the student body on the campus has taken during the present campaign.
In the discussion which followed the speech, Dr. F. S. Allen, of the Physiology department, served as an authority to settle the various disputes which arose as to the causes, means of transmission, and cure of the disease.
There will be no meeting this week because of the Thanksgiving vacation but on the following Thursday, Elizabeth Cole will give the feature speech.

Kentucky Students Bound For Knoxville Holiday Tilt

Tennessee's Society Beacon Beckons For High Time

This old campus will be rather deserted this week-end with everybody exiting to Knoxville, or home for the holidays. Those lucky enough to attend the game will be in for a round of Tennessee high spots while the rest of us bourgeois will compromise with a dance or two plus the other forms of entertainment brought forth by home-towners to appease the social appetites of us collegians.

Triangle Initiation

Kentucky chapter of the Triangle held formal initiation Saturday for Ed Brown, Lexington, Thomas Carhart, Irvine, and Robert Taliaferro, Syracuse, N. Y.

Following the initiation a banquet was held in honor of the new members at the chapter house. Honorary members present were Elgin R. Harris, Steve Sautner, Alvin Lee Chambers, and Professor George

Calling 'Em Wild

By JOE CREASON

LINES written before the impending Kentucky-Tennessee Turkey Day brawl.

One generation of Wildcats ago this historic series was opened, in that year, 1899, Tennessee won by a 12-0 margin. Ever since that battle ignited the spark, with but four years the exception, the feud has been kept blazing until today the game, regardless of team records for the season, rates as one of the nation's top Thanksgiving grid fests. Nearing the eve of the 33rd renewal of the "battleground of the South," Tennessee holds the edge in games won by 16-10, six games ending in dog fogs.

In scoring the Volunteers are on top with a collection of 261 points to Kentucky's 214. The top score for any game of the series is 27 points, this total being acquired by Kentucky in 1924 and 1935, with Tennessee reaching the figure in 1933.

But past history proves that trying to figure the outcome of the game on the strength of team showings and games won and lost during the season, is as much out of place in this series as a bath tub in a treepee. For instance, in 1928 the Vols settled back in their own shielded-Walkin stronghold with the fastest team in the country and they ran around Alabama's elephantine line like fire around a celluloid collar.

Their Offense—Simple

Here is Kentucky's attack in a nutshell—the ball is snapped, the hole in the line opens and slants like a dog snapping at flies; but in that brief interval an orange jersey back, usually Gagego Coffman, is through the hole and winging past the secondary. License plates shining in the sun.

Kentucky's chances for a win, tie or even defeat showing might be considered as fleeting as a snow ball in July by casual observers. The group most strongly imbued with the idea that Kentucky can meet the dog bucket is the team. If before they have wanted to play football, now they are pleading for the chance. And note the Georgia Tech game as an example of their wanting to play: Kentucky again playing at that speed could extend any team in the country.

Experts are agreed that this year's Blue and White team is the ideal combination to upset the Vols; erratic, inexperienced, and with their true equality unknown even yet. Past records reveal this sort of team has met with the greatest success in the series.

As a whole, the Cats hold a slight weight advantage. At times the Kentucky offense has bordered on the brilliant, then at other times it has appeared as wobbly as a green-aid coil. The Blue offense belongs to this same question yed category. Most of the Cal offense Thursday should come from the heavens. The Wildcats, as indicated in practice the past week, may not be able to rifle so many shots the field will resemble a shooting gallery.

Any way, I think Kentucky is very much in line for an upset, you name your own poison.

FROSH GRIDDERS NIP BEARKITTENS

Three Thousand Fans See Blue Kittens Trounce Cincy 13-6

Exhibiting a powerful, well rounded offensive, the Kentucky Freshmen clamped the lid on their season's three game schedule with a 13-6 win over the Cincinnati Bearkittens at Nippert Stadium, Cincinnati, Saturday before 3,000 fans.

A forty-five yard touchdown run by fullback Timmons on the sloppy gridiron opened the score for the Bearcats in the first period. At the beginning of the second period, Mullins "piped out" this advantage when he found an opening over tackle and galloped 37 yards to score. Before the period ended Kentucky scored its final margin, when Abel caught Jones's 25 yard aerial in the end zone.

The Cincinnati score came early in the game. After pushing the Cincinnati back into their own territory, with well-placed punts by Mullins, the Kittens received a kick in their own territory. Jones failed in his first attempt to pass, and his second was intercepted by Timmons, who was stopped on the Kentucky 47. A plunge set up the scoring play, and Timmons followed with a 45-yard dash for the score.

Near the opening of the second canto, Mullins took the ball on his 37 yard touchdown sprint, and Jones converted from placement. A 39 yard return of a punt by Jones gave Kentucky the ball on the Bearkitten 25, where, after falling through the line, Jones passed to Abel who scored the second Kentucky touchdown.

OLD TRADITION OF CAT-VOL KEG IS SHATTERED

of the grain and the plow. In the past, in orange and white, came from the opposite goal. Representatives of each school carried bands. They met at the fifty-yard line, where the keg so royally rested. Each representative drank from the barrel, filled with water as told to the press, but many did and still do wonder about it all.

Then to the tune of "How Dry I Am" the traditional ceremony was completed.

This same keg, battered by numerous trips between Lexington and Knoxville, is still being used, officially by the "Beer" boys. Each year the score is painted upon its surface, and it is hauled away to the victor's quarters, and another Thanksgiving Day rolls around.

Kentucky won that first game, 22-20. No other person than the Cats' present coach, Al Kirwan, was instrumental in that victory. Three passes that resulted in touchdowns.

The following year Kentucky gave the "traspiration" to Tennessee, and the selfish Vols kept their 1938, when the Wildcats plastered them 27-0, one of the largest scores of the series.

However, Coach Neyland's boys were very much concerned about the whole thing and borrowed it again the following year. And they still have it.

All in all, Kentucky has two wins, three ties, and eight losses chalked up on the keg. But this is another year and another game, and anything can happen in this Kentucky-Tennessee feud.

Pre-Meds Must Take Aptitude Test In December

At the recent meeting of the Association of American Medical Colleges, it was decided to discontinue giving supplementary medical aptitude tests in the spring.

December 2 will be the only opportunity for taking this test, it is extremely important that all students who expect to enter medical school next fall should take it at that time.

HINKEBEIN GETS ALL-SOUTH NOD

Kentucky's captain and candidate for All-Southeastern Conference honors, Sherman Hinkebein, was picked for the center position on the mythical All-South football team second team released Friday by the NEA Newspaper Service.

In one of the closest fights for a first string selection, Dan Hill, center candidate for Wallace Wade's undefeated Duke Blue Devils, noosed out Hinkebein. Besides playing his middle post to perfection Hill at times calls signals for Duke. All season Hinkebein has been the leading block in Kentucky's front seven, shining especially in the Alabama, Clemson, Vanderbilt and Georgia Tech games. Usually fast for a man his size, Hinkebein, from his roving center post, is adept at covering punts and mauling runners during the open field.

Three players who have performed against Kentucky this season, Gus Goin, Clemson end; Don Holdgraf, Vanderbilt tackle and Vic Bradford, Alabama quarterback, were named to first string jobs on the middle post to perfection Hill at times calls signals for Duke. All season Hinkebein has been the leading block in Kentucky's front seven, shining especially in the Alabama, Clemson, Vanderbilt and Georgia Tech games.

Boxers, Wrestlers Must Take Exams

All entrants in Intramural boxing and wrestling, except varsity sports men, must report from 4-5 p.m. to the Intramural Office, 29 Alumni Gym for a compulsory physical examination, according to an announcement made yesterday by W. C. Hackensmith, Intramural Director.

Entry lists are due today at the Intramural Office and the eliminations are slated to get under way November 29 in the Gym Annex. As usual the participants will be divided into the eight weight divisions. Bob Featherstone will act as referee for the tournament and Billy Mays and L. A. Ester will serve as judges.

This year to be qualified for the eliminations, all entrants were required to participate in a training program under the supervision of Ralph Winchester and Bill Jones. The requirement reduced the number of entrants and but 40 boxers and 25 wrestlers attended the sessions the necessary three times per week. No admission will be charged for the preliminary bouts.

In the fraternity league volleyball finals held Thursday night, the Triangles defeated SAE for the championship. The defeat marked the first time in the past 8 years the SAE's have lost the title. To reach the finals the Triangles rolled over Sigma Nu in the semi-finals while SAE eliminated SFE.

High School Press To Meet Dec. 1-3

Under the direction of Prof. Victor R. Portmann the Kentucky High School Press Association will hold its annual convention Dec. 1-3 at the Kentucky Hotel, Louisville.

Delegates from high schools throughout the state will be in attendance for the series of discussions, round table meeting, and formal sessions on the two day program.

Awards are made to the best high school paper in schools with enrollment over 250, to paper in schools with enrollment under 250, to mimeographed papers, to magazines, and to annuals.

TENNESSEE GAME TO BE GRID FINALE FOR 5 UK SENIORS

Volunteer backs are guarded by a lightning fast line that averages slightly over 186 pounds which is headed by Captain Bowdon Wyatt and Bob Suftridge. Rated as superior to last season's passing attack which clicked for an average of 31 per cent, the Vols are expected to take to the ether should the Cats halt their running attack.

Behind the Stoll Field walls during the past week, Coach Kirwan has sent his Cats through extensive drills, indicating that the offense may again take to the air as in the Georgia Tech struggle. With David Zoeller and Hoot Combs rifling strikes to Bill McCubbin, Jim Hardin, Phil Scott, Davis and Phillips, the Cats are as dangerous as trunk full of colts.
