

AMERICAN LIBERTY LEAGUE

Leaflets

THE American Liberty League has prepared for popular distribution a series of four page leaflets which deal briefly and simply with vital political and economic questions of the day. Some of these leaflets are illustrated—all are written expressly for the layman and are in graphic and easily understood language.

THE League will gladly send any of these little leaflets to individuals interested. If you would like to help the educational work of the League by distributing a quantity of this type of literature, please indicate your desires on the attached blank.

Leaflets Available

The President Wants More Power—A graphic story of steps already taken in the United States towards that breakdown of constitutional government which paves the road to dictatorship.

The Townsend Nightmare—Explaining for the average worker just how much of his time and wages would be taken away from him if the Townsend Plan were adopted.

The New Deal Works Program—Boondoggling as seen by Raymond Clapper, eminent journalist and Washington political observer.

The American Liberty League—A simple explanation of the League as a nation-wide organization devoted to sanity in government. This leaflet was written by Dr. Ray Bert Westerfield, famous American educator.
