Crosbie asks SGA court to reconsider its decision

By BRIAN BENNETT Staff Writer

Student Government Association President Scott Crosbie asked the Judicial Board Friday to reconsider a recent decision concerning the power a referendum holds. "With my decision not to run, I don't see any potential conflict of interest," Walker said. "It's a tenuous supposition that I ever had something to gain by deciding on the election rules."

He also said a conflict of interest requires personal gain, while the election rules apply to everyone.

"I don't see where I would have anything to gain," he said.

Walker said he would contact board members and that he hopes to meet Tuesday to docted whether board can rehear issues. The SGA Constitution states all decisions made by the board are final. Director Spike Lee says college athletics exploits black players

By TIM WIESENHAHN Sports Editor and TYRONE BEASON

Although Friday night was his first visit to the Bluegrass, Spike Lee, clad in a brown suit, told fans he, too, kn. v about UK basketball and its legendary coach, "The man in the brown suit."

But the filmmaker said UK was just another example of racism and the black athlete; and its former coach Adolph Rupp was just another man weeping a hown suit.

"I know Adolph Rupp is turning over in his grave," said Lee to a crowd of about 4,000 in Memorial Coliseum. "The fabled history of UK and the black athlete. But it was not just at Kentucky. Bear Bryant, Adolph Rupp. They were crushted." lack athlete. But it was not just at Kentucky. Bear Bryant, Adolph Rupp. They were crushed."

Lee sat on UK's bench Saturday at the Wildcats' game against the University of Tennessee.

"Rupp," he said Friday. "I have hard time just saying that name."

Lee, who addressed the crowd and answered questions for nearly two hours, said racism makes people hate themselves — especially blacks.
"We still hate ourselves collectively," Lee said. "Who we are, where we come from."

Lee said that "self-hate" has been fostered by negative images of blacks portrayed in the media.

The Student Activities Board, the Office of Minority Affairs and the Student Government sponsored Lee's lecture.

Lee focused on his next film, a biographical account of slain civil-rights leader Malcolm X.

"This is the most important film of my life," he said. "Everything I've done has prepared me for this film. Nothing has been in the scope of 'X.'

"It is a great responsibility."

Lee's previous films include "Jungle Fever" (1991), "Mo' Better Blues" (1990), "Do the Right Thing" (1989), "School Daze" (1988) and "She's Lee said it was important that a black need offers of 1988).

Gotta Have II' (1986).

Cotta Have II' (1986).

Le said it was important that a black person direct a film about Malcolm X—not because blacks can only make films about black issues—but because no white man in America knows how racism feels, he said.

He called Malcolm X a complex and visionary hero. Lee said many people have a superficial image of him. The goal of his film is to give the audience, which is made up of mostly college students and children, a better understanding of Malcolm X. Lee said.

The film should be in theaters in December.

At a Saturday press conference at the Radisson hotel, Lee said the present is the best time to be a black filmmaker.

"I'm not saying the door's wide open, but the crack is bigger than it's ever been," he said. "There's a serious interest to make money generated by black films. Hopefully, it won't be a fad."

Who knows how I was scarred as a youth? I may have a secret urge to pour liquid alum into co-workers' coffee, causing their face to form a huge pucker.

Maybe if you ask me for two lumps of sugar in your tea, I'll bash you on the head with a giant mallet. I could have those tendencies. Af-ter all, I've watched Warner Broth-

And when they do get criticism, it usually goes no further than that.

No one successfully lobbies to get "G.I. Joe" or "Transformer" cartoons taken off the air or toned

I'm not advocating that such shows should be tampered with. If someone out there likes them, more power to you. I'm just saying all the availability of all shows, cartoon or otherwise, should be dependent on the viewing choices of the public. If you don't like a show, turn your set off. Don't turn mine off.

It would be a great day to spend at the movies, unless Tipper Gore & Co. show up out of fear that I'm having too much fun.

However, Tuttle said, repeated sunburn or regular exposure breaks down the elastic tissues in the skin and makes it look prematurely old and wrinkled.

Although Tuttle suggests that students avoid tanning altogether, she said she knows many won't heed that bit of advice.

And it students insist on tanning during peak sun hours, they should use liberal amounts of sunscreen or sunblock protection, she said.

Proposed overhaul of SGA Constitution is a needed change

It was high time someone said it — the Student Government Association Constitution needs to be rewritten. Last week Judicial Board Chief Justice Ken Walker proposed an overhaul of the "archaic" document that has more loopholes than the U.S. tax code.

What appeared to spur the suggestion was a ruling by the judicial board Monday night that a referendum does not have the effect of law. Even though we disagreed with the ruling, we concede that the ruling was plausible, given the ambiguity of the SGA constitution. The document clearly must be couched in more obvious and plain language. The constitution should not leave such fundamental decisions to interpretation.

To keep SGA honest, a comparable number of students outside student government should be involved in the rewrite. Obviously the experience and advice of SGA members should not be ignored, but they should not be allowed to write their own rules unchecked. SGA is a representative body with enough problems representing students — without allowing it to have the temptation to isolate it-

We have seen that piecemeal revisions to the constitution through amendment are ineffectual in reforming such a flawed document. Walker's idea is one for which the time has come.

Conservatives show weaknesses

When will Pat Buchanan quit the race? He has been in several primaries now and, while doing well, has still not won even one of the contests. He has fared better than most people imagined and certainly better than the White House thought possible. But he will not get the nomination. With that decided, when will he go sawy?

The national chairman of the Republican Party (his name is unimportant because, in reality, so its job) stated that Buchanan should quit when it became numerically impossible for him to win the nomination. That seems tike a practical solution.

Primaries are held in each state so candidates can win delegates who then vote for them at the autional convention. When a candidate get "X" number of delegates of the wins the nomination. Buth is well on his way to get the makes PAB Bechama moot. The national chairman's advice is sound.

tional chairman's advice is sound.

But people are still missing the whole point of the Buchanan campaign. Buchanan is not in the race simply to get the nomination (but never be fooled into thinking he does not want desperately to be president) but rather to put the entire conservative movement back on track.

N. Alan CORNETT

pointed out so often that it would do no good to do so here again. But Bush will not get these conservatives back as supporters until the shows them he means business. Some of them will never support Bush again — regardless — but before he can ever regain any support he must first of all get rid of Budget Director Richard Durman.

There is probably no one more hated by conservatives han Dick Darman. Darman was responsible for the the budget fiasoo in 193 as well as the Bush-backed tax hike. Most conservatives hold Darman personally responsible for the resonant personally responsible for the resonant personally responsible for the resonant personally responsible for the received support him.

The saddest part of the whole campaign is those conservatives who are playing water boy for Bush. House Minority Whip Newt Gingrich and former drug czar Bill Bennett are the two leading examples of this. They correctly see Buchanan as a threat to their own prominence as well as to their brand of consensurities.

Buchanan is clearly anti-Semitic

ing. — Edmund Burke

— Edmund Burke

Words cannot begin to describe my shock when I first read N. Alan Corneti's Feb. 24 column "Is Pat Buchanan an anti-Semite?" Having known Alan almost as long as I've been at UK and having had numerous interesting and enjoyable conversations with him during that time, it came as a great surprise to find that of all people, Alan Cornett has begun to engage in a type of virulent deconstructionism.

Of course, Cornett is not alone in support of Buchanan, 37 percent of voters in New Hampshire and seewhere agree that Buchanan has something to offer the country Certett, to deliver "a muchdeserved slap in the face" to President Bush, 1 he focus of this rocectionist platform (without question, it is the best idea since the lawley-Smoot Tariff Act), but rather to make clear to Cornett and others that Buchanan is indeed an anti-Semite, and moroover to explain that by voting for Buchanan in seconds. others that Buchanan is indeed an anti-Semite, and moreover to explain that by voting for Buchanan (even if only to give Bush a primary time "slap in the face") you are supporting anti-Semitism and racism, plain and simple. And the ramifications of anti-Semitism is more than just a "titilhating topic"

— but I needn't go into that

SAFFER

2,000 years of history proves my point well enough.

We can go beyond the Buchanan remark that caused New York Times columnist A. M. Rosenthal to "bellow" (if you don't recall, Buchanan had remarked that the only groups that supported U.S. intervention in Iraq was Israel and its "amen comer in the Senate.") Look at what Buchanan has said and written over the years.

Buchanan has embraced the ran-ten over the years.

Buchanan has embraced the randomly violent intifada movement that he contends "will be recorded in history like the "Boston Massacre' of 1770... this time the Paestinians did it right." Yet this adamant supporter of "a God-givenright" to a Palestinian state strangely also supports white minority rule in South Africa:

"But where did we zet that idea

ly also supports white minority rule

"Sut where did we get that idea (that white rule of a black majority is inherently wrong)? The Founding Fathers did not believe this ... If the past thirty years taught us nothing els, it has surely taught us that. To elevate majority rule to the level of divine revelation is a heresy of the American idea.

Thus it becomes apparent he is not as much a champion of the "oppressed" as a supporter of Palestine and an opponent specifically of Israel and the Jewish people.

Of course, Cornett is not alone in his support of Buchanan, 37 percent of voters in New Hampshire and elsewhere agree that Buchanan has something to offer the country (even if it is only, to borrow from Cornett, to deliver "a much-deserved slap in the face" to President Bush).

And the list goes on:
A U.S. News and World Report
article explained that "fellow White House aides blanched when Comunications Director Patrick Buchanan bluntly urged Jewish leaders visiting the White House to "be good Americans" and stop protestiting Reagan's cemetary stop (at libburg, where member of the S.S. are buried).

burg, where memoer of the S.S. are buried).

But it is when addressing the sub-ject of the Holocaust that Bucha-nan's repulsive beliefs are most clear. Buchanan has challenged the legitimacy of the Justice Depart-ment's Office of Special Investiga-tion that pursues Nazi war crimi-nals:

nals:
"You've got a great atrocity that occurred 35, 45 years ago, why ... put millions of dollars [into] investigating that?"
But it gets even worse, when the U.S. offered an apology for sheltering Nazi Klaus Barbie (the infamous Butcher of Lyons) Buchanan remarked:

remarked:
"To what end is all this wallowing in the atrocities of a dead regime?"
Of course there can be no question anyone who is willing to brush off of the massare of millions of Jews and others this way is (to borrow from Cornett again) is "insensitive," and most probably an anti-Semite as well. But for those who need yet convinced the list goes on, quite literally, ad nauseum.

As Joshus Muravchik, a resident scholar at The American Enterprise Complicity in wartime attrocties came out, Buchanan complained that the ostracism of Pres. Waldheim (has) an aspect of moral bullying and the singular stench of selective indignation." (Evidently it took these revelations to make Buchanan sympathetic to Waldheim, since as U.N. Secretary General, Waldheim was a whipping boy of Buchanan, These are not the greatest of Buchanan's sins. Tomorrow, I will explore his defense of Nazis and the questions he has raised about the Holocasust. Also, I will respond to Buchanan defenders Michael Kinsley and N. Alan Cornett.
