My dear Dr. Rankin:-

When I saw you the other evening at the Statler Hotel I did not realize you had just been elected to the great honor of the Presidency of the American Medical Association, or I would have taken the opportunity of congratulating you upon it. I think the A.M.A. was very wise in its choice.

With kindest regards and best wishes to you,
I am

Sincerely yours,

P.S. My father also sends his kindest regards and extends his congratulations.
