U.K. Philharmonic Orchestra Feature Of Sunday Vesper

Miss Josephine Fithian Is Guest Artist at Recital

FRANK BURGER "Classic" is the word that describes the performance of the University Philharmonic orchestra, conducted by Prof. Carl Lampert, at the Sunday afternoon musicale, presented to a half-capacity audience Sunday at 4:37 p. m. in Memorial hall.

At times the group showed brilliant technique and interpretation; at other times its performance was only mediocre, but the program as a whole showed careful preparation.

The more symphonic numbers were not as well-liked as those of a lighter nature, judging by the audience reaction. Those especially enjoyed were "Young Prince and Young Princess" by Rimsky-Korsakov, beautifully arranged to feature the flutes.

In a rich, mellow voice, Miss Fithian sang a group of five songs, four by Rachmaninoff and one by Beethoven. Her entrance was announced to the audience. It was "The Showers" by Zeckler. Ralph Briggs sang the piano accompaniment.

The recent announcement of the selection of Thomas A. Gorman, freshman coach at the University of Notre Dame, as assistant varsity coach is greeted with favor by the student body.

To you, Coach Gorman, we extend a word of welcome and a word of congratulations. May your stay here at the University be both a pleasant and profitable one.

TEMPERATE SPEECH

Leaders of destiny must be more cautious. Political, militaristic and economic situations call for judicious leadership, free from envy, greed and self-advancement.

Great masters speak and opinions are formed. Lesser voices are also being raised, giving to the world uninformed opinions and misdirection.

Voices of political leaders are being sounded throughout the nation. Grave responsibility is attached to them. They may advance personal gains by advocating policies which they realize are not for the good of "the people."

French politicians declare the recent advancement of the Germans on the Rhine to be "an act of war." Germans interpret their actions as the only steps whereby she could continue her peace.

Owen D. Young, in a plea for temperate speech, recently said of politics: "At the end of a political campaign, when men are tired and irritated and emotions inevitably run high, we may excuse, even though we deplore, an appeal to passion and an outbreak of irritation."

Temperate speech will relieve our present day fears. Today many suffer and are in trouble. Falsification or warping of facts, when so many are conscientiously struggling to find their way, may result in mistakes which will plague us to our graves.

WALTER WILLIAMS

There has recently come to this desk a booklet entitled "In Memoriam, Walter Williams," which is a tribute to the career of one of America's greatest journalists.

He never received a college degree; in fact he never graduated from high school and yet he became Dean of the School of Journalism at the University of Missouri and later president of that institution.

And so The Kernel pays its small tribute to the passing of one of America's greatest journalists, a man who had the will to pioneer and who conquered in spite of handicaps and obstacles.

"MATHEMATICS AS A PERSONAL EXPERIENCE"

There has recently come to The Kernel a pamphlet with the title, "Mathematics As A Personal Experience," written by Dean Paul P. Boyd.

Dean Boyd offers a clear, unique picture of this science in direct contrariety to the impression held by the majority of those who study mathematics.

Dean Boyd states that those who work in this field are as detached in their way as is a poet or a philosopher. The practical man believes them harmless and only remotely useful.

Dean Boyd does not apologize for this science, but his interest in it is chiefly in the matter of personal experience.

The two ideals in which the student of mathematics is interested are accuracy and logical perfection. "Mathematics is nothing if not accurate." This is its distinguishing characteristic.

This habit of the mathematical mind is neither comfortable nor safe to associate with. Since he is able to see a matter clearly and others cannot he becomes impatient.

Beyond these two ideals of accuracy and logic, there is that of the liberated mind. The mathematician wishes to bring his mathematical ideals to bear upon the everyday problems of society.

Finally, Dean Boyd brings out the relation of mathematics to poetry, a fact of which few are aware. In closing his dissertation, he quotes excerpts of Wordsworth's work.

There is an unrepentant law in Massachusetts which prevents a man from kissing his wife on Sunday.

Puritanism, supposedly a fundamental precept of Christianity, showed its ignorance and superstition in early colonial days in America, by sponsoring crusades against witches.

One page of The Kernel, when locked in its form, may weigh as much as 200 pounds, depending upon the number and size of the ads used on the page.

Now that the TVA is O. K., everything is hunkey-dorey. They're going to pull down our electric bill fifty per cent—and jack up our taxes seventy-five per cent.

And with the Townsend plan being taken seriously, grandpa will soon be riding in limousines. We wonder if he'll give us a lift to the poor house?

Guignol theatre will soon celebrate its fiftieth production. One hundred and twenty-five hours of entertainment for John Q. Public; eight years of work for Frank Fowler and staff.

To speak wisely may not always be easy—but to not speak ill requires only silence.

Night and day

By ENGY

Having had a long rest it is time that the "unreeling" machine got a little workout, and so here goes on another one of those so-called columns... My pinch-hitter of the past two weeks seems to have caused something of a rumpus in the column writing circles...

Congratulations to the PI Kaps for the fine dances they gave Saturday night... Although the decorations were none to speak of, the band, Ace Brigade and his Virginiaans, turned out some mighty swell music...

Some day they are going to have adequate checking facilities at the gym, but how many years hence that will be hard to say... After reading the "Four Bills" column in the Sunday Leader, the Military department should do something to change their uniforms...

Under the circumstances it is not fair to expect a reply should be submitted in defense of our column after the "exceptionally badly written" assault that was launched upon it in last Friday's edition of the Kernel.

Dear Frank: Ah, I am so deeply touched. An ugly grin has been pointed at my brain finger, and without malice, but with the hardy determination that engulfs strong men, a voice has roared "risque scandal columns must go!"

Wonder what kind of a dance the Kapsas will give next time... Probably the usual sorority dance where you say "Hello" and "Thank you" in one breath to the girl you happen to "break"...

Now it's your turn to accept P.A.'s. NO-RISK OFFER!

Advertisement for Prince Albert cigarettes featuring a woman's face and the text: "I TRIED P.A. IT WAS EVEN BETTER THAN I EXPECTED!"

Advertisement for Prince Albert cigarettes featuring a pack of cigarettes and the text: "SMOKE 20 PIPEFULS UNDER NO-RISK OFFER" reads the scandal column dash dash dash... The writer of this column is not far from right! If one were to take a poll of the students mentioned in the scandal column...

Being an ex-senator, I would like to crack the whip in defense of the scandal column in the Kernel... I would like to see a lot of unnecessary trips, especially trips concerning the scandal column.

And, Mr. Night and Dayapper, the spelling is no longer Bill Polloi but Hoi Polloi. Better check up on your spelling. So you think that the scandal is a reflection on the Kernel?

A LIGHT SMOKE

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

Over a period of years, certain basic advances have been made in the selection and treatment of cigarette tobaccos for Lucky Strike Cigarettes.

They include preliminary analyses of the tobacco selected; use of center leaves; the higher heat treatment of tobacco ("Toasting"); consideration of acid-alkaline balance, with consequent definite improvement in flavor; and controlled uniformity in the finished product. All these combine to produce a superior cigarette—a modern cigarette, a cigarette made of rich, ripe-bodied tobaccos—A Light Smoke.

Luckies are less acid

Recent chemical tests show that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.

Sport Sketches

Vincent "Dick" Robinson, quarterback of the football squad, came across the Kentucky river from Richmond... he is 20 years old, 5 feet and 11 inches tall and weighs 175 pounds... a sophomore in the College of Education with a major in social science and a minor in physical education.

Dick was a good all-round athlete in high school... played football, basketball and tennis. He and his partner won doubles in the state high school tennis tournament in 24. However, the Madison county youth has dropped all these sports except football. Last year he was in the starting line-up in the games next fall. Dick is an excellent blocker and runs well with the ball, but with two of the best backs in the south, Bert and Bob, the value of his blocking exceeds that of his running. He is also a good left handed passer.

Dick is another of those timid boys... shuns the girls to the best of his ability... which is lacking... and his resistance melts like energy does in the spring when he sees a "redhead"... spends the summers at his camp on the river... likes surf board riding and possesses the seal to hitch hike... thinks Zasu Pitts is the best actress on the screen... has a white rat named Virginia... says that Andy Anderson's orchestra can play for him any old day... and wears polo shirts, not by choice, but for necessity. Dick has several hung out such as the Commons or Taverna, but he will be found at the State theatre every Saturday afternoon watching the daring, exciting and romantic serial, "Talispo Tommy".

HOI POLLIU (Continued from Page Two) scandal causes the Kernel and in the next breath he says that every thing would be okay-dekoy if there was a writer such as Bill Ardrey. Such inconsistency! If you don't like the way Hoi Polliu is written, Mr. Griper, why don't you try writing it? I believe you would find it a bigger job than you realize. It is not only the time sitting before a typewriter that makes it a tough job, but the fact that the scandalist has to be alert at all times. He must have an ear for news always. Just try it sometime and see if it is as easy as you seem to think. In closing may I say that the Kernel would not be the Kernel as we all know it without the scandal column. A scandal column keeps a college paper from being dull; it is the very life of a college publication. College students and scandal and they always will. It is a foolish thought to even consider doing away with Hoi Polliu. Sincerely yours, Robert D. Hess
