A Jewell Hall coed stops for a minute's meditation in the small chapel established by the dormitory's religious committee.

By JUNE BYERS
Kernel Staff Writer

The first dormitory chapel on the UK campus was completed in Jewell Hall last Saturday with the aid of a blank check and a little ingenuity on the part of dorm residents.

Cynthia Allen, religious chairman, said the idea for a chapel was mentioned to her by several students before spring vacation.

"They felt the need for a place where they could go to be alone—a kind of sanctuary," she added.

The idea met with the approval of the House Council, and was then presented to the residents in a general meeting. Cynthia said it was understood that if one girl objected, the whole idea would be abandoned.

"I explained that it was not obligatory, but that anyone who was really interested in the project could come to my room for a meeting. To my surprise, 45 girls showed up," she said.

The proposed chapel was originally to have been furnished by donations from the girls living in the dorm, but the blank check which arrived during the vacation solved all financial problems.

Phyllis Kirtley, president of Jewell, said that only a few persons know the identity of the donor, who wishes to remain anonymous. "I can say only that the person has no affiliation with the university," she said.

The chapel, transformed from an old third floor study room, was completed in less than two weeks at a cost of approximately $35. The UK greenhouse supplies a floral arrangement every Saturday.

Dorms Will Open For June Graduates

Seniors who graduate this semester will be permitted to live in University housing between the last day of final examinations, May 27, and the June 5 commencement ceremony, President Frank G. Dickey said yesterday.

Dr. Dickey said seniors who complete all their work by the end of final examinations will be free to go home if they wish and return for the baccalaureate service and commencement exercises.

"Students who choose to live in dorms or fraternities will be under University control," the president added.

Mrs. Marie Fortenberry, director of food services, said the Student Union Building cafeteria will remain open to serve seniors who remain at the University.

Robert W. Blakeman, director of men's housing, said no definite decision has been made as to which men's dormitory will be open for the graduating seniors.

"I would guess it would be Bradley Hall," he said. "We usually keep it open on special occasions."

Miss Dixie Evans, director of women's residence halls, said sorority members would be able to remain in their houses for the nine-day interval between examinations and the commencement ceremony.

She said she has arranged a meeting with senior women in Keeneland and Holmes Halls to determine which dormitory, if any, will be used for other women who choose to remain at the University.

Coeds Get Late Curfew For Saturday

All University women have been given 2 a.m. late permission for Saturday by the women's House Presidents' Council.

Miss Dixie Evans, director of women's residence halls, said the late permission had been granted by the council because of the late beginning of the Little Kentucky Derby dance after the George Shearing concert.

This is the first time in several years that the council has voted for a late permission, Miss Pat Patterson, advisor to the House Presidents' Council, said yesterday.

The advisor said that the council decided Saturday night would be an experiment to evaluate the possibility of future late all-campus permissions.

However, she also pointed out that in the future each request for late permission will be considered individually.

'Stars In Night' Recognizes 200

Nearly 200 coeds were recognized for outstanding scholarship and leadership at the annual "Stars in the Night" program last night.

Twenty-four of the women were named to Mortar Board, women's leadership and service honorary, at the 33rd annual ceremony in Memorial Hall.

The new Mortar Board members are Alice Akin, Paintsville; Judith Beetem, Lexington; Patricia Botner, Paducah; Jacqueline Cain, Walton; Deborah Daniel, Lancaster; Nancy Dee Ellis, Eminence; Ann Fitts, Lexington; Barbara Harkey, Lebanon, Tenn.; Patricia Harris, Carrollton; Mary Ellen LaBach, Lexington; Sue McCauley, Lexington.

June Moore, North Miami, Fla.; Elanor Ann Piper, Russellville; Pixie Priest, Hartford; Germaine Ranch, Miami, Fla.; Louise Rose, Atlanta, Ga.; Diane Ross, Campbellsville; Lucy Salmon, Madisonville; Anne Shaver, Lexington; Kathleen Songster, Elizabethtown; Sandra Tattershall, Ft. Mitchell; Myra Tobin, Harned; Gertrude Webb, Lexington; and Molly Ryland, Lexington.

The newly established Kentucky Student Teacher's Association award in honor of the late Prof. Esther Adams went to Miss Judith Beetem, Lexington, and the Mortar Board Senior Service Awards were presented to Henrietta Johnson, Lexington, and Diane Mills, Washington, D. C. Beverly Wong, Jamaica, was the recipient of the Pi Beta Phi Freshman Woman Award.

Alpha Delta Pi received an award as the outstanding women's organization of the year. Miss Byrle Davidson, Ft. Greely, Alaska, president of the Stars in the Night Committee, presided at the ceremony.

Social Survey To Ask Grads About Plans

Questionnaires are being sent to selected graduating seniors as part of a national survey concerning career plans of college seniors.

Prof. J. Kolaja of the Sociology Department is conducting the survey at UK.

Forty thousand students in 135 colleges will be polled to learn how many students plan to go on to graduate studies, and how many intend to go directly into business, and to discover how the students arrived at their choices.

Sponsored jointly by the Office of Education, the National Institute of Health, and the National Science Foundation, the $125,000 project is being conducted by the National Opinion Center.

UK President Frank G. Dickey urged each senior polled to return the completed questionnaire.

ID Portraits

Photographs for 1961-62 student identification cards will be taken from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., May 1-5 in the east corridor of the Student Union Building. All students except graduating seniors are required to have pictures made.

New Antisegregation Group Acts

UK Students In 'Freedom March'

By MIKE WENNINGER, Managing Editor

A new local segregation-fighting group came to the forefront Tuesday night when it sponsored a "freedom march" involving 200 to 300 persons in downtown Lexington.

The new group, called the Lexington Steering Committee, is co-operating with the Congress on Racial Equality in its efforts to end segregation in Lexington business establishments.

The committee organized a peaceful march of hundreds of persons, mostly Negroes, along Main Street between Deweese Street and Broadway from 8 to 9:15 p.m. Tuesday.

The demonstrators walked slowly in rain while chanting and keeping rhythm by clapping. They carried signs reading, among other things, "Khrushchev and Castro can attend American theaters—why can't Negroes?" "We want equality," and "We have waited 100 years."

James O'Rourke Jr., 21-year-old senior premedical student, said yesterday that 12 University Negro students marched in the demonstration.

O'Rourke, a Negro and a member of CORE and the steering committee, said the LSC was formed about three weeks ago. Its purpose, said O'Rourke, is to encourage

Coeds Contemplate Dieting To Attract Male Eyes

By TONI LENNOS

It all began when the bustle and hoop skirt were removed from female fashions. Since then, it's been one crash diet after another for the weaker sex.

And now that Saturday afternoons at the lake seem to have gained the sanction of the weatherman, contemporary coeds face the dilemma: "Will I or won't I do justice to last year's bathing suit?"

The old fellow who so aptly disclosed "vanity thy name is woman" forgot to continue "reason for vanity thy name is man." There's nothing like a model figure to catch the male roving eye the experts say. And the way to that model figure for most women is filled with one way-signs . . . diet, diet, diet.

Amid the Metrical, diet pills, and exercise routines, one factor remains . . . food. Even when surrounded by the former delicacies, it is still rather difficult to forget what cherry pie a la mode (250 calories) tastes like; or chocolate cake (good size piece-200 calories). Of course, if one would like to enjoy a beverage such as a glass of milk at the same time, add another 100 calories.

That mid-morning candy bar or bag of potato chips and coke will have to go if Venus-like proportions are to be attained. Their caloric count is too disastrous to mention.

Likewise, think twice about the cooking glass of beer a friend may offer to buy you between classes on one of these humid spring days. If you're not of age, it's illegal; and if you are, it's 110 more calories.

When funds reach the point of almost total evaporation, buy as many tomatoes, onions, and cucumbers as you can afford and eat till your heart's content. It takes three or four onions and two or three tomatoes or cucumbers to add up to 100 calories. You may face total financial embarrassment more rapidly, but think of the calories you've saved.

When the opportunity arises, have a hamburger rather than a good-sized frankfurter. Nothing against "America's favorite food" but there are five less calories in the hamburger (without trimmings).

If perchance you awaken in the middle of the night because your stomach protests the empty state of affairs, it should be remembered that broths are permitted at any time; clear coffee, tea, or fat-free broths are permitted at any time to relieve hunger. Where such things may be found at 3 a.m. in a women's residence unit . . . that my friends is another story.

Lingerie Leads Double Life

By The Associated Press

Ralph Montenero has not yet chosen the woman who will share his breakfast table, but he has abiding pity for those husbands who must each morning face pincurbed, cold-creamed creatures in ragged robes.

His sympathy extends to career women — ones who can hardly wait to get home to shed their fashionable constrictions for more expansive (but sloppy) comfort. And he has understanding for the housewife trapped in her nightgown at nearly noon with ever-criticizing in-laws knocking at the door.

Thus, to improve romance, comfort, beauty and modesty in the American home, Montenero has turned his talents to creating lingerie that leads a double life.

To be worn over soft, filmy night gowns he has made opaque peg-noirs and doublets which do not so much as hint at being "boudoir."

Unhindered by underpinnings, a woman can don one of these costumes early in the evening, lounge comfortably without pulling the shades down, and in no more time than it takes to stifle a yawn remove the outer garment and be ready for bed.

"The importance is in the cut," says the handsome, slight, sometimes blushing 27-year-old who has been designing women's clothes since he was 19. "The costume is made to flatter the bust and hide the stomach."

After eight years of designing daytime wear, Montenero turned to the sleepwear field because "I have a feel for soft fabrics," and because "there is more opportunity for originality."

To avoid the boudoir look, he has combined some unique materials. One of his pegnoirs, he says, looks like a shaggy rug. But those stringy, man-made fibers are washably practical.

Making up in elegance for what it lacks in practicality is another wide-awake Montenero sleepwear garment lavishly trimmed with fur.

His "guinea pig" Mrs. Sylvia Doole, (28, an enviable size 10) believe Montenero's designs do all he intended.

And she would be just as enthusiastic, even if he were not her brother.

Let Commencement Die?

With final examinations drawing near, graduating seniors should be looking forward to commencement, but such is not the case.

A large number of seniors are looking on the official graduation ceremonies with disfavor because of a schedule that will leave them with at least nine days to kill between the end of final exams and commencement. If all the June graduates who have threatened to pass up the ceremonies in favor of having their diplomas mailed to them do so, commencement could easily end up looking like a faculty meeting.

Since commencement attendance has already been falling off at a noticeable rate, it would take only one or two more commencements such as this to drive another University tradition to the grave.

We have heard a number of reasons for the scheduling of commencement for more than a week after the end of the examination period, but none of them really justify this obviously unsatisfactory arrangement.

One explanation is that seniors lost a week or more of instruction when they had to take their exams a week before commencement. Another was that it was difficult for instructors to administer one final examination to seniors, another to remaining students. Still a third reason was that having seniors on the campus for a week or so with no classes caused unnecessary confusion.

What is probably one of the most important reasons the commencement date was moved ahead from before finals to after has not received much notice. The College of Law complained for years that it could not grade its senior exams and still enable Law seniors to take part in the commencement exercises. Two years ago the Law College even considered holding its graduates out of commencement.

But whatever the reason for moving the commencement date up two weeks, the present date is unsatisfactory and is causing many extra problems. Seniors planning to begin work immediately after the examination period will either have to come back for commencement or miss it. Out-of-town students must return to Lexington from their homes or find somewhere to live for nine days. And even the faculty gets into the act as those planning vacations before the start of summer school or summer study at other schools find themselves marking time for a week and a half before leaving.

Considering the reasons for the commencement change, it seems that the cure is worse than the disease and a return to the former date is called for.

Or perhaps it would be best to just let commencement die.

Peace Corps—No Place For It To Go

By DAROLD POWERS

The Peace Corps will serve only in underdeveloped countries which welcome it, but it has not yet negotiated specific technical assistance projects with any foreign governments.

Many details on the corps cannot be made final until it is known what its specific tasks and areas of operation will be. At the same time, though, lack of concrete information from Washington has also delayed official foreign response from the underdeveloped areas of the world—where reaction to the corps ranges from guarded enthusiasm to outright denunciation.

Inability to set final details—especially for the training of volunteers—until specific projects are approved bilaterally was the first point raised by physical training consultant Forest Evashevski in a recent interview.

The ice may, however, be broken this week, as a current Newsweek predicts President Kennedy will shortly announce the site and project for the corps' first mission.

Chances are the first country to invite the Peace Corps will be one of these: Nigeria, Gabon, Thailand, India, Pakistan, the Philippines, Colombia, Mexico, Chile, or Haiti. The Colorado State University Research Foundation interviewed officials in these nations and reported a high degree of receptivity in each —“almost always tempered by caution . . .”

The Pakistani Embassy in Washington wrote this reporter that President Mohammed Ayub Khan “welcomes the idea and wishes it every success. . . . Pakistan will welcome this type of assistance.”

The New York Times reported deep regret in India, not that the corps might come, but that probably none of the Corps workers would be sufficiently fluent in the indigenous language to teach science on the secondary level.

Many underdeveloped countries are neutralist and approach the possible political implications of involvement in the Peace Corps program with caution. Ghana might be taken as a case in point. A letter to this reporter from the Ministry of Social Welfare there said simply that no comment could be made until copies of the proposed program have been made available to it by the United States Government. Ghana has, however, accepted privately sponsored volunteers such as those in Operations Cross-Roads Africa.

But nations such as Ghana are very sensitive to cries of imperialism and colonialism raised by such groups as the All-Africa People's Conference—termed left-wing by the West—which on March 31 denounced the corps from Cairo as “a so-called volunteer corps for peace set up by the American government to reconquer

Writer Charges SC Goofed

By MIKE WENNINGER

I attended Student Congress' special meeting Monday night to observe how the newest and largest product of students' efforts to govern themselves operates. In general, I was pleased by what I saw and heard.

Overall, the congress is an orderly body, with Garryl Sipple presiding effectively and with questions of parliamentary procedure being answered immediately. President Sipple strives to give all representatives equal chances to speak on the floor, and most speakers make their comments pertinent and brief.

Unfortunately, however, at Monday's extraordinary session, as at the regular ones, attendance by representatives was not what it should be. I estimate that more than a third of the congress' members did not attend the special meeting.

Anyway, what prompted me to write this article is that I noticed a peculiar attitude prevailing among the majority of representatives to SC. It seems that they are not aware that their duty is to represent students, not to act as footmen to them. I got the impression that most of the representatives feel that instead of leading the student body, they are supposed to act as puppets of it.

At the beginning of Monday's meeting, President Sipple asked the congress to consider three possible solutions to the Homecoming problem and then recommend one to University President Frank Dickey and the Alumni Association. After about 50 minutes of discussion, it was moved that SC go on record as favoring leaving the Homecoming game scheduled as it is and promoting a “bigger and better” Homecoming weekend during the Thanksgiving holidays.

The motion was subsequently tabled until the next regular meeting (May 8) because many representatives felt it would be unfair to the student body if SC recommended such a solution to the problem without first getting a consensus of the students. I vehemently disagree with that reasoning.

In the first place, SC members, as representatives of the students, should have known already what the consensus is. Sipple sent notices of the special meeting to all representatives Thursday and a front page notice was published in Friday's Kernel, so the representatives had at least three days in which to learn how their constituents feel about the Homecoming problem. Furthermore, SC is supposed to be a guiding and initiative-taking governing body, not a mere assembly that meets to adopt resolutions approving any old thing requested by the student body.

But what makes SC's hesitant action really absurd is that the congress was not about to decide the final solution to the Homecoming problem, but was only going to recommend a solution to Dr. Dickey and the Alumni Association. The final decision as to what to do about Homecoming will be made by the president, the association, and the Athletic Department.

In brief, SC goofed Monday night. Instead of determining a definite policy to be followed by students during discussions of the Homecoming situation, it merely left everything up in the air for at least two weeks. I hope this nonproductive approach to student government will not become standard operating procedure for SC. If the congress is to ever become an effective governing body, its members must begin to act more like representatives and less like political weathervanes.

and economically dominate Africa.” And South African papers have reportedly condemned the corps as interference in local affairs.

In the same vein, the Nigerian Daily Times editorialized that the corps is a “deadly suspicious device on the part of America to plant her spies all over the world.” As indicated above, however, it is reported that Nigeria is one of the countries with which the Peace Corps is now negotiating projects.

Such ambivalence toward the corps within underdeveloped nations was further exemplified in President Modibo Keita of Mali, who was quoted as first opining the Corps might be good primarily for opening the eyes of young Americans about Africa—and then allowing the corps might also be useful, if members brought some skills and could help in construction.

Gamal Abdel Nasser, president of the United Arab Republic, is a man whose attitude toward the political implications of the Peace Corps may be expected to influence the response of other Afro-Asian neutralists. His letter to this reporter demonstrates well the yet-unresolved foreign doubts about the Peace Corps, and it should give pause to any who think our idealism must automatically be accepted elsewhere as patent altruism. Nasser wrote:

“ . . . the Youth Corps, proposed by the American President, would “However, United Nations' supervision over this or any other project for similar objectives would be more effective since it should provide against re-infiltration and revival of extraneous dominance in newly independent countries. Therefore, a United Nations-sponsored-and-supervised economic fund, as proposed by Mr. Eisenhower, . . . would be likely to be more congenially conducive to the acceleration of economic progress in developing countries, narrowing, thereby, the gap between these and highly developed countries, which is essential for the assurance and consolidation of world peace and security.

'Freedom March' Initiates New Antisegregation Group

 age more persons to support integration. The committee's membership includes white persons.

A press notice released by LSC before the "freedom march" said, "The purpose of the demonstration is to show that many Negro citizens and people of good will of other races are interested in and support the movement to gain for all citizens the freedoms of democracy accorded all white Americans, and foreigners of all colors, of all degrees of morality, of all degrees of poverty, and of all religious creeds."

The release said the marchers would be expressing "sympathy with the eleven CORE members who have already been convicted by the local newspapers and who will be tried in the local Police Court."

(This statement referred to the 11 demonstrators arrested on breach of peace charges April 3 in front of the Kentucky Theater. They were going to be tried in Police Court yesterday, but Police Judge Thomas Ready rescheduled the trial for June 27 at the request of CORE's attorney.)

"These people (the 11 demonstrators) dared attempt to be admitted to theaters which are supposedly open to the general public," continued LSC's press release, "theaters protected by their tax dollars, theaters whose privacy was relinquished when they purchased licenses to operate a public business."

The eleven persons mentioned in the release include four UK students and one instructor. O'Rourke said yesterday that he felt the arrests were unnecessary and that police and newspaper descriptions of the stand-in at the Kentucky Theatre had been exaggerated, especially the reports concerning the doorman who said he was injured during the demonstration.

As for Tuesday night's march, O'Rourke, who lives in Lexington, said, the local Negro populace thinks it was a success, considering that a big thunderstorm broke just before the march was scheduled to begin, causing many would-be marchers to stay home.

He added that he couldn't definitely say there will be more "freedom marches."

Speaking of the overall anti-segregation movement in Lexington, O'Rourke said about 2,500 persons, both Negro and white, are actively supporting CORE's activities. He said there are approximately 20,000 Negroes in the Lexington area.

O'Rourke, who is on the executive committee of the Lexington CORE chapter, said he had no positive information about a recently formed all-white anti-segregation group.

The new group reportedly calls itself SCORE, meaning Southern Citizens on Racial Equality. Its membership is supposedly made up of well-to-do local citizens.

Returning to the overall picture, O'Rourke said, "Great strides have been made in the past two or three years which would not have been made if CORE had been in existence, and while doing this CORE has kept the support of the community."

He added, however, that several CORE members have lost their jobs because of their CORE activities, and that other less serious reprisals have been taken occasionally against the group's members.

'Blithe Spirit'

JEWELL CHAPEL BUILT WITH HELP OF GIFT

 Cynthia said that other than the 12 benches donated by a local church and an old study table from the dorm, the remainder of the furnishings were constructed by the girls themselves.

A beige backdrop, which matches the curtains, covers the entire wall behind the altar. Six kneeling pads were made from Army surplus foam rubber covered with a dark brown material. The altar, fashioned from the study table, is draped with a floor-length white cloth. A Bible, two white candles in gold holders, and a floral decoration are the only articles placed on the altar.

"There was some discussion on the type of Bible we should have," Cynthia said. "However, everyone agreed to buy a Catholic Bible as it contains the necessary scriptures for all three major faiths."

She explained that the chapel was for all religions and open to every woman student on campus. "There will be no scheduled programs in it as we have vesper services in the lobby every Wednesday to serve that purpose," she said. "It is just always open when someone wishes to use it."

Cynthia estimated that more than thirty girls had visited the chapel last week. "There was so much dorm spirit in putting the chapel here, it has helped the dorm in many ways," she added.

6-8 Hoosier Center Signed By Kentucky

Kentucky's basketball recruiting shifted literally into high gear yesterday with the announcement by Coach Adolph Rupp of the signing of 6-8 pivotman John Adams of Rising Sun, Ind.

Adams, who has been closely watched by Kentucky scouts for the past two years, adds vital height to the roster of future Wildcats and is the tallest of six prospects signed to UK basketball scholarships to date.

Coached at Rising Sun High by Mickey Lampson, the 6-8 stand-out last season averaged 20.6 points a game and hauled down an average of 22 rebounds per contest. His best night came in a 34-point outburst against Madison (Ind.) Shaw High.

Adams captained his team and is scheduled to participate in the Indiana All-Star games at Ft. Wayne and Huntington in mid-June.

Coach Rupp, obviously highly pleased over the acquisition of Adams, said, "He has been one of our leading prospects for the past two years. We have followed him with tremendous interest. It is a mystery to us how he has been overlooked in Indiana when all-state honors were passed out.

"John is big, rugged, intelligent, and has the great desire to win which is a Kentucky trademark. He is a straight A student and it will be a pleasure to work with him. He comes from an outstanding family and we feel fortunate that he has decided to cast his destiny with us."

Rising Sun is a small community about 25 miles down the Ohio River from Cincinnati and just across the border from Boone County, Ky.

Previously announced as signed to cage grants by Kentucky have Randy Embry of Owensboro, 6-3 guard-Terry Mobley of Harrodsburg, 6-3 forward-guard Sam Harper of Clinton, 6-0 guard Ronnie Kennett of Lawrenceburg, Ind., and Denny Radabaugh, 6-5 forward scoring sensation from Savana, Ill.

Loyd Breaks School Record In 5-2 Victory Over Georgia

Unperturbed Charlie Loyd survived nightmarish fifth and sixth innings to pitch Kentucky to an important 5-2 victory over Southeastern Conference foe Georgia yesterday.

The route-going performance by Loyd gave him seven complete games this season and set a school record. The old mark of six was established by Jim Host and Jerry Sharp in 1959.

The win moved Kentucky into second place in the SEC with a 6-3 conference record. Auburn, 10-4, still leads while idle Florida, 9-5, dropped to third place.

Loyd, who gave up only five hits, encountered serious trouble only in the fifth and sixth frames as he struck out 13 batters and won his sixth game in seven decisions.

In the fifth, Joe Miller doubled off shortstop Dick Parsons' glove, went to third on catcher Allen Feldhaus' error on a strikeout, and came home when Loyd threw over Ray Ruelh's head at third base on an attempted pick-off play.

The sixth inning trouble resulted when Jim Rogers singled, moved to second on a passed ball, and romped home on a one-bagger by Tom Vandiver.

Dallous Reed's brilliant throw, which nipped Vandiver at home plate, averted further scoring in this stanza.

Kentucky was led at bat by Reed with a single and a double and by Parsons, Eddie Monroe, and Bobby Meyers with two singles each. Bobby Newsome also had a single.

Kentucky scored two runs in the second inning and one run in the fifth, sixth, and eighth for its seventh consecutive victory.

The two second-inning runs came on walks to Feldhaus and Larry Pursiful, a passed ball, and a wrong-field double down the left-field line by Reed.

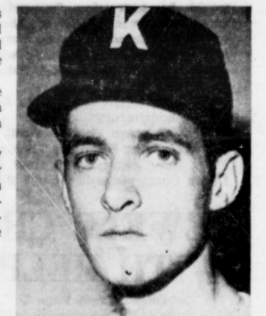

In the sixth inning, Monroe singled, went to third base on a single by Parsons, and tallied on a sacrifice fly by Ruelh.

A walk to Reed and singles by Meyers and Monroe accounted for the Cats' fourth run in the sixth inning. This score took considerable pressure off Loyd as Kentucky was only leading 3-2 at the time.

Kentucky's final tally came in the eighth inning on Meyers' second single of the day, a hit batsman, and Parsons' second one-base blow.

Georgia starter Don Woeltjen, who was relieved by W. L. Hall in the seventh, took the loss for the Bulldogs—his fourth against two wins this season.

The same two teams meet again today at 3 p.m. on the Sports Center diamond with Bobby Newsome (2-2) pitching for Kentucky and Ronnie Braddock opening for the Bulldogs.

Spence Says

By Newton Spencer

About this time of the year, or maybe earlier, writers announce their predictions for the coming baseball season.

Some of these prognostications are based on first-hand experience, a few are based on hearsay, while others are based on nothing.

Here is how we see the races, our opinions concocted merely from television—between beer commercials.

National League:

1—Pittsburgh: A little luck beats ability any day.

2—Milwaukee: If the Braves played as well as Manager Charlie Dressen talked, they would be a cinch for the title.

3—Los Angeles: The Dodgers are unbeatable at home with their short left field fence, but they can't play all their games there.

4—St. Louis: The Cardinals could surprise and take it all.

5—San Francisco: It was the Giants' year last season and they goofed.

6—Cincinnati: The Reds have Freddie Hutchinson as a manager. Need we say more?

7—Chicago: The Cubs have nine coaches and in this case, nine heads are worse than one.

8—Philadelphia: The Phils had better enjoy eighth place this year, next season there'll be 10 teams in the league.

American League:

1—Baltimore: Orioles have the youngsters and Manager Paul Richards.

2—New York: With Yankee-hater Frank Lane at Kansas City, the Yanks lose their most valuable farm club.

3—Chicago: The Go-Sox are too elderly.

4—Minnesota: The Twins are finally out of Washington and that means at least 20 games in the win column.

Pinsetter, Duck Pin, Candle Pin and Queen Pin are thoroughbred horses owned by Chicagoan Robert F. Bensinger. He's in the bowling business.

The rest of the organizations trailed far behind.

Tuesday night's individual winners:

120-yard low hurdles—Koppelman (Men's Dorm), time 16.6.

100-yard dash—Kirk (SAE), time 11.1.

660-yard run—Cooper (SPE), time 134.1.

220-yard dash—Hammer (PDT), time 25.8.

880-yard relay—Kentucky freshmen team.

Discus—Grimm (KS), distance 122-5.

Javelin — Koppelman (Men's Dorm), distance 148-4 (New record).

The Intramural Softball Tournament, which began last night, continues tonight with three games scheduled.

Clashing tonight will be Sigma Alpha Epsilon and the winner of last night's Sigma Nu—Phi Sigma Kappa winner, Kappa Sigma and Kappa Alpha, and Phi Delta Theta against the Alpha Gamma Rho—Phi Gamma Delta winner.

Richard the Lion-Hearted says:

I would never have surrendered England ... if I'd had Jockey support

C'mon, Dick! You're rationalizing. Jockey support might never have secured you against the Emperor. But it certainly would have provided snug protection against the physical stresses and strains of your active life. Your armor never tailored a coat of mail more knowingly than Jockey tailors a brief—from 13 separate, body-conforming pieces.

Clark States Doug Hines Verbally Accepted Post

Somerset Athletic Director William Clark late yesterday said that Kentucky Assistant Coach Doug Hines has been offered and has verbally accepted the high school basketball coaching job at Somerset.

Earlier yesterday, Hines had said that there was a strong possibility he would take the job, but he had not signed a contract.

If Hines takes the job, he will succeed Ed Tucker, who resigned as basketball coach recently. Tucker will stay on as a teacher at the school.

Clark said Hines' contract with Somerset will begin August 1st.

At Kentucky, Hines' duties last year were scout, recruiter, and assistant coach for both the varsity and freshman squads.

Golfers Top Netmen Seek 11th Victory Against Musketeers Today

Kentucky's golf team won its 10th meet of the year yesterday by trouncing Transylvania, 13 1/2-4 1/2 on the Spring Valley course.

Pioneer golfer Paul Hughes, however, took medalist honors for the day with a 74.

Kentucky linksmen and their scores were: Capt Johnny Kirk and Jack Crutcher, 75, Larry Heath, 76, and Jerry Lockwood, 78.

Kentucky's next match is Saturday against Marshall at Huntington, W. Va.

Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants hit .299 in Candlestick Park last season but had a .388 batting average on the road.

Coach Ballard Moore's Kentucky tennis team will be out to cop victory No. 11 this afternoon when it engages the Xavier Musketeers at 2 p.m. on the Coliseum courts.

The UK netmen set the Muskies down in order last year as they raced to a 9-0 victory.

A win for the team will put it one shy of tying the school record of 12 victories set by last year's squad.

Charlie Daus, Don Sebolt, Don Dreyfuss, Dave Braun, Billy Bob Dailey, and Tony Mann will once again make up the Wildcat singles lineup.

Dreyfuss and Braun will be seeking their 12th straight victories in singles play.

Performing in the doubles events for Kentucky today will be Daus and Sebolt, No. 1, Dreyfuss and Dailey, No. 2, and Braun and Mann, No. 3.

Friday the team hosts a tough Vanderbilt squad here, and Saturday travels to Huntington, W. Va., to meet Marshall.

Intramural Wrestler Injures Knee In Match

Jim Trammel, junior from Somerset, suffered a dislocated kneecap in an intramural wrestling match at the Alumni Gymnasium Tuesday night.

The injured student was removed to the infirmary shortly after the accident. A Health Service nurse said yesterday that Trammel is "doing just fine" and will soon be released.

No canvas stretcher was available to carry the student to medical aid, according to Jim Stubblefield, a student assistant in the Physical Education Department.

"We moved him to the infirmary on a six-foot wooden frame that I found downstairs," Stubblefield said.

Bernard M. Johnson, assistant professor of Physical Education, said later that there was a stretcher "locked up in the camp room."

THE POPULARITY of short sleeve dress shirts has grown by leaps and bounds in the past several seasons. I can fully understand—they are not only comfortable—they are down right good looking and suitable to all age groups. The tab collared variety requires a tie of course, but the button down style can easily be worn with the collar open, and double as a sport shirt. Solid white is the prime favorite as always. However, pastel blues, olives, tans, and butter yellows are pushing forward at a fast pace.

TOMORROW NIGHT I hope to see you at the big spring style show, in connection with the Little Kentucky Derby weekend at the Coliseum.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA Push Cart Derby went well. Kappa Sigma frat was in first place, Triangle frat in second place. In the sorority division, Zeta Tau Alpha was first, and Kappa Kappa Gamma second, fun eh!

LEONARD RUTH of Transylvania, has one of the new Bermuda suits I told you about last week. He put the correct accessories with it and zowie!

RAYMOND WESLEY (non-frat Arts and Sciences student) was spotted wearing a real sharp Ivy cut suit of deep olive shadow plaid (wool-dacron mixture), a pale olive short sleeve shirt with button down collar, and a black olive tie of silk—Raymond is very neat in appearance and a pleasant person. None of my business, but I think he would make some frat a good member.

Engineers Leave On Southern Tour

Thirty-seven civil engineering seniors left for New Orleans last night on an annual inspection trip.

The students will visit different construction and operational sights of several off-shore oil rigs in the Gulf of Mexico tomorrow and Saturday.

Mr. Samuel A. Mory, professor of structural engineering, is traveling with the students.

ROTC Has No Set Plans To Repay Loan From SC

There are no definite plans for future events to help pay the debt owed to Student Congress by ROTC units.

The debt was incurred two years ago when the Military Ball planning committee borrowed $2,200 to finance the dance.

The planning committee is made up of representatives from the three military honoraries, Scabbard and Blade, Arnold Air Society, and the Pershing Rifles.

Col. Roland Boughton, professor of Aerospace Science, said that he would like to pay part of the debt before this semester is over, but he does not know definitely that it can be done.

Profits from the judo tournament held Saturday were to be used to pay part of the debt. However, gate receipts were $132.50 and tournament expenses were estimated at $350.

Receipts from the Military Ball plus profits from any ROTC sponsored event are to be used to pay off the debt, Col. Boughton said.

Col. Boughton said he would be glad to consider any organization on campus that would like to loan money to pay part of the debt. However, he emphasized that he would want the loan to be legal and made through the proper channels.

The UK Board of Trustees includes 12 members appointed by the governor, three of whom are alumni.

ODK To Sponsor Navy Band Concert

The United States Navy Band will present a concert at 8 p.m. on May 18 in Memorial Coliseum.

Omicron Delta Kappa, a junior and senior men's leadership honorary, will sponsor the concert. The proceeds will go into the organization's project fund which is used primarily for scholarships.

Dave Stewart, chairman of the steering committee for the concert, said the scholarships are based on state-wide high school test scores.

The Navy Band, which is conducted by Commander Charles Brendler, contains a complete symphony orchestra and ultra modern "swingphonette" section.

Designated as the official band of the United States Navy by a special act of Congress, the band plays for the inauguration ceremonies and many of the official functions of the White House.

Members of the steering committee are John Kirk, auditorium arrangements; Jerry Stricker, ticket sales; George Duncan, publicity; Bill Crain, reception and decorations; and Larry Westerland, program.

Counselors Named To Lead Camp For '61 Freshmen

The counselors for the YMCA-YWCA freshman camp Sept. 8-10 at Cumberland Falls State Park have been selected.

Women chosen were Carol Craigmyle, Alice Ford, Joan Jameson, Martha Greenwood, Dottie Martin, Trudy Webb, Vivian Shipley, and Betty Choate. Brenda Brooke was chosen as alternate.

John Williams, Bob Beshear, Prent Smith, Gary Williamson, Bob Smith, Cecil Bell, David Graham, and Ted Gum will be the male counselors.

The counselors were chosen for their campus activities, with consideration given to even representation of the four classes. John Williams, chairman of the freshman camp steering committee, said.
