

To Baby Alexander J. Alexander from Linda Neville, October 28, 1941:

This photograph of your grandfather, William Preston, was given to me by him soon after it was made, either a short time before he became my pupil or while he was ^{was} my pupil - (The photograph represents him in the front lawn of the ^{west} Second Street home).

During the days when he was my pupil and during many years afterwards, whenever I met "Keck" I used to say to her: "We have good children", meaning William (your grandfather) and his sister Margaret (your great aunt). Linda Neville

Linda Neville is very proud whenever J. Alexander, your father, calls her "Mama Linda" just as David Neville Fevary calls her that.
