Post-Game Dance Highlights Weekend

Veterans Sponsor; Rapp Will Play

Tickets are now on sale at the Campus bookstore and at a booth in the Union building for the informal dance sponsored by the Veterans' club which will be held Saturday from 8:30 to 12:30 p.m. in the ballroom of the Union. Barney Rapp and his New Englanders will furnish music for the dance.

Revelin' Rapp

Further ticket sales will be made tomorrow at the Marquette game and at the door tomorrow night. State tickets will cost $1.00 each, while couple tickets are priced at $1.75 per couple.

The dance, although sponsored by the veterans' group, is open to all students and the club extends a special invitation to non-veterans on the campus.

The ballroom will be decorated with insignia of various armed services, with parachutes and with a crystal ball hanging in the center of the room.

A meeting of all Veterans' club committee members connected with arrangements for the dance will be held tonight at the Union building, and those responsible are urged to be present.

Billy Will Have His Pennant

Last week's plea has been answered. Billy will receive his Kentucky pennant. Mrs. Mays of the bookstore reports that a great number of University students have reacted to the stirring plea of last week's Kernel. She stated that a pennant has been mailed to little twelve-year-old Billy Turley of Bessemer, Ala., who is suffering from brain hemorrhages.

Billy has a collection of state pennants and wanted a pennant representing Kentucky. No time was wasted in satisfying his desire.

Piano Soloist For Musicale

Zadel Skolovsky Will Play Sunday

Zadel Skolovsky, pianist, will be the soloist on the Sunday afternoon musicale program at 4 p.m. Sunday in Memorial hall.

Though born in Vancouver, B. C., Canada, of Russian parents, Skolovsky considers Los Angeles his home town, and he grew up and received his first musical training in that city.

Mr. Skolovsky entered the Curtis Institute as the pupil of Madame Isabelle Voingerova at the age of 11. He also studied with Fritz Reiner during his last two years before graduation from Curtis. Leopold Godowsky awarded Mr. Skolovsky a scholarship in his master classes and took great personal interest in him.

Winning the famous Naumburg award, Zadel Skolovsky made his professional New York debut at Town hall, December 5, 1939. In subsequent years, other honors such as prizes from the National Federation of Music Clubs, the National Music League and the Robin Hood Dell Young American artists award were bestowed upon him.

Appearances as soloist, with symphony orchestras, on radio programs, and in recitals gained for him an increasing reputation. During the season of 1944-45, he was unanimously acclaimed from the press and audiences everywhere while on a nation-wide concert tour. He appeared with the New York Philharmonic, under Rodzinski, on a Sunday afternoon broadcast program, substituting for Josef Hofmann, who was taken ill. He was re-engaged by the orchestra for this coming season.

A leading critic has said of Mr. Skolovsky, "He has all the necessary technical, accuracy, and power to take him into the inner circle of the great piano virtuosos."

The program will be: Two Organ Choral Preludes—"Now comes the Gentiles Saviour," and "Rejoice, Beloved Christians." Bach-Busoni: Sonata No. 2 in C Sharp Minor, Opus 27 (Moonlight Sonata), Beethoven.

The Barcarolle, Opus 60, and the Polonaise in A Flat Major, Opus 53, Chopin.

Jeux d'eau, Ravel; Clair de Lune, Debussy; Deux Arabesques, Liszt; March Militaire, Schubert-Tausig.

Reveal A-Bomb Secret... Webb

The atomic bomb "secret" should be turned over to the Security Council of great powers for the use of all nations, stated Dr. William S. Webb, head of the physics department, at an interview Monday.

The nations should promise first, not to use the information in warfare. Authority should be given this international organization to police the world, he suggested. A nation will hesitate to strike in aggression if she knows she will have to fight all the other nations of the world.

His statement has already been published in the "New York Times."

Dr. Webb's views were already in the process we are concealing so carefully and perhaps discuss an improved method. Even small nations can become powerful armed with the atomic bomb, he explained.

"How much uranium does Russia have?" is the question that should be given Dr. Webb. He declared, "By continuing to play power politics and by building up national armaments we may plunge into another war, he added."

The so-called "secret" of the atomic bomb has been definitely overruled, Dr. Webb believes. Already much of the information has been published and the rest cast probably be obtained with little difficulty by any foreign nation without additional help from us, he added.

Maybe USSR Knows Russia may have already in the process we are concealing so carefully and perhaps discuss an improved method. Even small nations can become powerful armed with the atomic bomb, he explained.

SUB Plans To Enforce Decisions

Board Approves Keeping Grill Open After 7 P.M.

A campaign against the fire-hazardous smoking in the Bluegrass room ended at a meeting of the Student Union board Monday. President Emily Jones stressed the importance of enforcing of a faculty-SUB rule prohibiting smoking in the ballroom.

A proposal to keep the Union Grill open after 7 p.m. on nights when dances are being held was approved by the group. No date for beginning of the new hours was set, but it was understood that the change would take place soon.

A board-sponsored formal dance, scheduled for December 15 was postponed until the winter quarter because of difficulties involved in having a formal after the Kentucky-Tennessee basketball game, which will be played that night.

Use of the Union building by student organizations for commercial purposes will be prohibited after this year. Formerly, Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, had been the only organization permitted to have a concession in the building.

They had sold "mums" for the football game. The request of a student to obtain authority to sell "mums" before the games was denied; it was decided that Mortar Board could exercise their franchise for the remainder of the football season.

Enforcement of a rule requiring organizations having parties in the Union building to buy refreshments from the Union cafeteria was discussed. It has been the policy in the past to keep this rule, but since groups with low budgets cannot pay for cafeteria refreshments they have been allowed to bring their own in the residence halls. No definite procedure was decided upon by the board.

Do you know your parliamentary procedure? Don't miss the conference on this subject at 2 p.m. Sunday, November 18 in the Music room of the Union building.

How Madame Arati, Ruth, and Charles attempt to demoralize Elvira and to bring peace and stability back to their lives and home makes a hilarious situation.

Mr. Briggs, director of the production, has selected a well founded cast for his opening play of the season. The cast consists of five veteran Guignol players and two newcomers.

Sue Hinkle, who plays the spirit of Charles' first wife, Elvira, is a Lexingtonian. She has five other Guignol plays to her credit: "The Women," "Candlelight," "Arms and the Man," "The Male Animal," and "The Man who Came to Dinner."

Minna Bloomfield, also of Lexington, portrays Ruth Condome, Charles' second wife. She has previously appeared in "When Ladies Meet," "March Hares," "Petitioned Even," "Stage Door," "E. T. E.," "Old Acquaintance," and "Dark Eyes."

Charles Condome, the bewitching, is played by Ed Miller, who recently moved to Lexington from Pittsburgh, Pa., where he was an outstanding player in the Pittsburgh Playhouse. During the year he has been in Lexington, he has appeared in every Guignol production presented. Many will remember him in the roles he created in "Junior Miss," "Angel Street," "Kiss and Tell," and the summer musical "Out of the Blue."

Mary Lyons, an eleven-year veteran of Guignol from Lexington, becomes Madame Arati in the new production. Miss Lyons' former success include "When Ladies Meet," "Arms and the Man," "Old Acquaintance," "The Admirable Crichton," "The Thirteenth Chair," and "Lady Woodruff's Fan."

No doubt that one of the best characterized parts in "Out of the Blue," the summer musical, was the part of Rose, the colored maid which was portrayed by Margaret McCorkle, University student from Glasgow. Shifting from the dainty dialect to the cockney, Miss McCorkle takes on the part of Edith, the maid, which she is bound to do with great zest and soul.

William Campbell, University student from Kansas City, Mo., will portray Dr. Bradman. Although Mr. Campbell will conduct interviews from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday, November 28, in the Henry Clay hotel at Louisville, he has had a number of years of experience at radio announcing.

Sales Begin Wednesday The doctor's wife, Mrs. Bradman, is played by Jean Paxton, University student from Bowling Green. Miss Paxton has worked backstage on a number of Guignol productions, but this is her first appearance on the stage.

The theater box office opens next Wednesday, and tickets for the production may be purchased at that time. All seats are reserved. Student tickets are sixty cents, and adult tickets are one dollar.

Inter-faith Council Admits Canterbury

The first meeting of the year of the inter-faith council was held Saturday following a luncheon in the "Y" lounge. Joan Scott presided over the group, which is comprised of representatives of the various denominations, chosen through those churches attended by students, and of the several religious organizations on the campus.

A petition from the newly organized Episcopalian group, the Canterbury club, for representation on the council, was granted. Thus Christ Episcopal church will appoint two permanent members to the council, plus one "floating member" for each meeting, and an adult adviser.

A committee consisting of Bart Peak, Joan Scott, Shirley Meister, and Gene Wulcker has been appointed to make a study of chapels to be found on other campuses throughout the country, in order to supply the University board of trustees, who are considering erecting such a building here, with pertinent data.

Other officers of the council are vice-president, Mattie Evelyn Douglas; secretary, Mary Bennett; Treasurer, Harold Friedly Jr.; Thomas Parry, Robert Wilson, Joe Mainous, Graden Walter and Edward Compton.

Guignol's Fall Production To Begin November 26

By Hugh Collett

Noel Coward's "Blythe Spirit," which opens for a week's run at the Guignol theater on November 26, tells the hilarious story of Charles Condome and his second wife Ruth. Charles, a writer, is planning to write a book on spiritualism. The request of a student to obtain authority to sell "mums" before the games was denied; it was decided that Mortar Board could exercise their franchise for the remainder of the football season.

There's More To WBKY Than McVey Hall Antenna

By Betty Smiley
There's more to WBKY than the antenna on top of McVey Hall. I confess I had heard a rumor that the third floor of McVey was just a repetition of dead, dull classrooms. When I finally ventured into the remains of this "unknown," I found it very much alive and very much "unclassroomish." (Don't try to find that one in Webster's.) I was ushered into the master control room, given a sideline chair, and things began to happen. I was just in time for the beginning of the regular two-hour FM schedule which is given every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday nights from 7 to 9. After a few unusual accidents—a blown fuse, misrecorders, and "unplugged" transmitter—the program got under way. It was interesting to know that the voices and music that I heard were being heard also over approximately 200 FM sets in this district, because of the capable handling of the young engineers. After watching them fiddle with "thing-a-ma-jigs" and "what-a-call-it" (you see I just have an humble layman's understanding of the matter) I wandered into the outer studio where the rehearsal of "From Pills to Penicillin" was under way. The recording of that program is being done here and the authors, Ronnie Linnville, and members of the cast are students at the University. The series, which will be presented over WIAS starting January 8, is an interesting and informative program tracing the progress of medicine in Kentucky. After nosing about a bit, I picked up a few important facts for you guys and gals. Here are a few of the highlights: that WBKY operates on 500 watts and 42,900 kilocycles. (Maybe you'd better look those up in the dictionary, too.) that the studio is headed by Elmer G. Sulzer, director, with Lolo Robinson as program director. These two are ably assisted by those fascinating campus activity eager-beavers. that WBKY has a weekly schedule of six hours, along with home football games, and making of transcriptions for other stations. that WBKY is your radio station. WBKY signing off!

Hill's Essay On Man

By Marjean Hill
Darwin says man is an ape. Coates says man has no faith. Emerson says man is a part of a whole. Addison says man is a whole of a part. Lamb says man should not be married. Wells says man should not live with his wife. Marx says man is a pig in a machine. But I say, in the immortal words of Burns, "A man's a man for a that."

Practice What You Learn

You think life is giving you a hard time? Forget it. Think of the girls in the Home Management house. Five students from the home economics department inhabit this house at 641 Maxwell court for five weeks quarterly. Not only do they live at the house, but they also make the house livable. It is imperative appearing in the duty of these women and their adviser, Miss Helen Wilmore. Each week, each student has a different task, such as food preparation, manager, housekeeper and hostess. At the end of the week their expenditures must balance. Social functions are included in this program. Entertainment includes dinners, teas, and picnics, all planned by the inhabitants of the house. In this way everything they have learned in previous courses is put into practice and these women gain experience in all lines of homemaking. It may sound unreasonable to expect students to accomplish this and attend classes at the same time but the Home Management house occupants combine business and pleasure and enjoy doing it. We can always sweep with an artist's brush, dust with desk copy and read a history nursery-rhyme to the kids but guess who will have the advantage over us!

Daisy Mae's Flat Broke; Expenses Come From Lil' Abner's Pocket Now

By Jim Wood
Termination of SuKy's I've-chased-you-now-you-chase-me week, traditionally known as Sadie Hawkins' reign, came about Saturday night with the annual Sadie Hawkins dance held in the Bluegrass room of the Union building, attended by approximately 1,000 persons.

Wilma Lee Haverly, Delta Zeta pledge, was chosen Daisy Mae, and Joe Meers, Sig Ep pledge, was chosen Lil' Abner by judges who included Mrs. Lizzie Moore, Dr. E. W. Rannels, E. G. Sulzer, Margaret McDowell and Cornell Clarke, president of SuKy.

Thirty-five women and 14 men were contestants for the Daisy Mae, Lil' Abner titles. Knights Play Modern Although approximately 98 per cent of the dancers were in costumes of various Dog Patchers, modern music was furnished by a dance orchestra, the Kentucky Knights.

At one end of the ballroom were bear traps so the girls could fasten their dimes five cents for plain shoes and one dollar for cute ones while they powdered their noses, etc. Caricatures of all the Dog Patchers adorned the walls. "Kickapoo Joy Juice" was sold at ten cents per swig straight from the jug. Publicity for Sadie Hawkins week was nation wide with the Associated Press and International News Service taking pictures of various activities of the week. Big Papers Noted Several metropolitan newspapers, including the New York Daily Mirror and the Cincinnati Enquirer, ran pictures made on the campus taken in connection with Sadie Hawkins week. Pictures and stories will be collected by SuKy from various newspapers throughout the country which run articles concerning the week's activities at the University and these will be placed on display in the Union building at a later date. Next year SuKy anticipates that several large magazines, including Life, will send photographers here to cover the activities of Sadie Hawkins week, according to Cornell Clarke.

Mountaineers Succumb 19-6 To Rejuvenated Blue Team

By O. C. Halvard

The University of Kentucky Wildcats chalked up their second win of the season last Saturday afternoon by defeating the West Virginia Mountaineers 19-6.

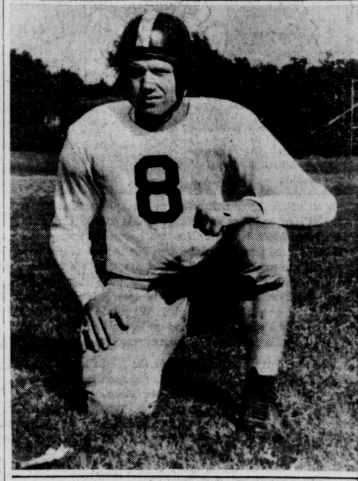

Serini

Both teams fought hard during their attack all season, but won on the ground. The greatly improved Kentucky team followed up the good showing that they had made against Alabama by playing alert, wide-awake football, in spite of the rain and mud handicap, beating the Mountaineers on their own field before a homecoming crowd of 11,000.

Finally climbing back into the win column after suffering five straight defeats, the Cats once again looked like a football team. They did not call upon their passing which had been the main part of their attack all season, but won on the ground. The greatly improved Kentucky team followed up the good showing that they had made against Alabama by playing alert, wide-awake football, in spite of the rain and mud handicap, beating the Mountaineers on their own field before a homecoming crowd of 11,000.

BEHIND THE 8-PAUL--Sneer if you must at a lousy pun, but that's what's in prospect for Kentucky Wildcat opponents this fall. Big Henry Paul, the Paducah 225-pounder, has a year of action behind him as a tackle and will be hard to wear this season.

Introducin' Prospects For Game Make Coach Gloomy

By O. C. Halvard

Big Henry Pauls, another 225-pound Wildcat lineman, another "Red" is a sophomore at the University, majoring in education, and hoping to become a coach after finishing college. He is 22 years old, stands 6-3, and has reddish-brown curly hair. Henry is a veteran, having received his discharge from the service about two years ago.

The big Kentuckian, born and raised in Paducah, was a reserve tackle on the Wildcat squad last season. However, his outstanding playing and ability to hold out the opponent's forwards earned him a first string position on this year's team.

Henry is another of those 60-minute men, who takes the rough treatment generally associated with line play in his stride. He continually makes the going plenty tough for the other team until the final gun sounds. His ability to move his massive body around fast aids the Kentucky backfield in getting running plays started, or holds out the charging line to give them time to pass or kick. He also is quick in helping close up holes that might be opened on his side of the line. At Paducah, he won letters in track and basketball as well as football, and made the all-state second team in football. His high school coaches were Ralph McRight and Rice Montjoy.

Rain Hinders Cagers

Practice for the Kentucky Wildcats was greatly hampered this week by rain and bad weather. They spent most of the time inside going through black-board drills studying Marquette's plays and doing calisthenics in the gym. The squad also studied their mistakes in the West Virginia game by looking at moving pictures taken of the contest.

However, Coach Shively did put the boys through a practice session Monday afternoon, capitalizing on the wet weather to give the backs and ends experience in handling the slick ball, especially in passing and receiving. They devoted most of the entire session practicing pass plays. Last week Kentucky didn't use a single pass play because of the wet, muddy field. If it rains for their next two games Shively hopes to be able to use his passing attack.

The Marquette squad has been hit hard lately by injuries and army inductions but he had one bright side to his tale. Big John Rudan, the team's leading scorer and ground-gainer, has been able to practice with the team for the first time since he was injured in the Michigan State game, October 27. In the infirmary taking treatment for his injured foot the first of the week, but chances are that he will be in condition to play tomorrow.

Bernie Pavlovich, substitute guard who fell on the blocked kick in last Saturday's game for a touchdown, was absent from practice. He had gone to his home in Gary, Indiana, to draft a meeting Thursday with his draft board.

If Pavlovich doesn't get back in time for the game with Marquette, Coach Shively plans to shift Wash Serini to tackle on defense and guard on offense, and Nick English to offensive tackle and defensive guard.

UK To Open Cage Season With Fort Knox December 1

The University of Kentucky basketball team will open its 1945-1946 season on December 1, when it meets the Fort Knox quintet in Alumni gym here. In addition to the opener, Coach Adolph Rupp has scheduled 29 other games for his team, ten of these to be played in Alumni gym.

The Wildcats, who have been slipping up nicely in practice, give indications of becoming one of the leading teams in the nation again this year. After a six-game opening series in Lexington, the Cats take to the road to meet St. John's in Madison Square Garden on December 29, and Temple at Philadelphia on New Year's Day. Following the Fort Knox game the Blue and White will meet Western Ontario in a two-game series, then Cincinnati, Arkansas, and Oklahoma.

Kentucky's first road trip should present fans with two of the outstanding games of the regular playing season since it is reported that the St. John's squad is potentially stronger this year than last. And as you remember, the boys from Brooklyn participated in the Metropolitan Invitational tournament last year. Then, three days later the Cats meet Temple, who nearly always turn out a good team.

The rest of the schedule should not be overlooked since it includes such teams as Ohio University, Michigan State, Xavier, and Notre Dame, along with the following Southeastern Conference competition, such as Tennessee, Georgia Tech, and Vanderbilt.

The complete schedule is as follows:
Dec. 1—Fort Knox at Lexington.
Dec. 7—Western Ontario at Lexington.
Dec. 8—Western Ontario at Lexington.
Dec. 15—Cincinnati at Lexington.
Dec. 18—Arkansas at Lexington.
Dec. 21—Oklahoma at Lexington.
Dec. 29—St. John's at New York.

'The Lowe-Down'

By Dick Lowe

There always have been, and there always will be letters to editors from anonymous persons and alums about the way a staff is writing or is not writing on a subject. I am taking time out this issue to answer a few of the letters received recently about the way the sports staff has been handling the football page.

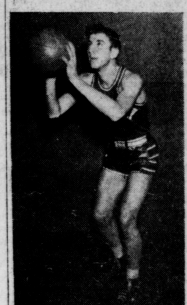

Most of the letter writers are of the opinion that the paper is not as loyal as it was at one time and is only kicking the team around because it is down. But that is entirely wrong. We are still behind the team, all of the way, but the job of a newspaper is to tell the truth with an unbiased opinion. We believe that everyone must face the facts, especially when they are staring him in the face. Why evade the issue when it is as important as the football question seems to be? We would be the last ones to praise only a winning team and cry in our sleep when the team was losing if there seemed an apparent reason for the past defeats.

Everyone knew and talked about the football that was being played by Kentucky and a loyal but dishonest stand would have been worse than the views expressed by the Kernel. Constructive criticism never hurt anyone at any time. We sincerely hope that everyone sees our side of the story and does not believe that we only want to back a winning team and arguing the wrong side of the issue.

When a writer tears a team down and then they turn around and defeat a team decisively the following week, then he is ready to eat all of the copy that he has written. The Wildcats played a good game against West Virginia last week. They played like a new and spirited ball club in defeating the Mountaineers—the first time that they have been beaten on their home field since 1911.

Victories over Marquette and Tennessee would erase the blemishes on the season's record.

Milt Tocco Plays; Signs Contract

Milton Tocco of Jenkins, Ky., has added his All-American basketball reputation, which he gained two years back at the University, to the roster of the newly organized 71st Division team. After completing a successful season as first-baseman with the Red Circle team that played in the ETO finals, Tocco donned trunks to go back to the game of which he was an All-American. Tocco has signed to play ball with the Cincinnati Reds as soon as he leaves the service.

Considered the most dangerous shot on the team, which is composed of basketball names, Milt Tocco starred on the Fort Benning Champs last year. This is the team that earned the reputation as one of the best soldier combines in the south.

Spirited Wildcat Gridders Meet Marquette Tomorrow

Next Week's Game Is 'Cat-Vol Classic

By Don B. Towles

A high-spirited Kentucky football team will clash tomorrow afternoon on Stoll field with Marquette from Milwaukee, Wis. This will be the third home game for the Wildcats. They have lost six of their eight played games. The Big Blue has defeated only Cincinnati and West Virginia.

Marquette has played eight games so far this season, winning three, losing four and tying one. They have been defeated by Purdue, Wisconsin, Villanova, and Great Lakes. They have beaten Kansas State, Detroit, and the University of Kansas and tied Michigan State. In the Marquette-Purdue game, Marquette was barely beaten—14-13.

The Marquette team is older and more experienced than the Kentucky squad. Their outstanding linemen are Dams, captain of the squad and Kalchik, right tackle. Dams, a returned vet, plays right guard. The most outstanding players for Marquette are Hickey, Copoulos, and Riddan. Hickey, the team's passer, is also the field general. Copoulos, right halfback, is an exceptionally good pass receiver and runner. Riddan, left halfback, has not played for the last two games but will be ready and in good condition to play against Kentucky. He is the high scorer for the Avalanche.

Two ends who are expected to shine in the coming game are Kaminski and Palesse, weighing 202 and 182 pounds, respectively. These boys do quite a bit of the pass receiving for Marquette. According to the outcome of games played by both sides so far, Marquette is rated so favorite over Kentucky. However, Kentucky, strengthened by last week's victory over West Virginia, will make it anybody's ball game.

This Saturday will be high school day and a large percentage of the crowd is expected to consist of high school students. Game time will be at 2 o'clock.

The University of Kentucky Wildcats will meet the University of Tennessee Volunteers on Stoll field a week from tomorrow. This is homecoming day for Kentucky and a large crowd is expected to be on hand.

Last week the Vols beat the University of Mississippi, 34-0. In five minutes the Vols had scored three touchdowns against Ole Miss. The Tennessee team, trying hard to get a bid to the Rose Bowl, will be hard to stop. However, if the Kentucky team plays the type of ball that they played against West Virginia, Tennessee can be stopped—and by Kentucky.

Tennessee will be sparked by ball carriers Casey Stephenson and Buster Stephens. Both played bang-up ball against Ole Miss. The Vols have been doing the biggest part of their gaining by line plays. Kentucky will go through an especially hard week of practice following tomorrow's game with Marquette so that they will be at their best to meet their traditional Southeastern rival.

Kentucky has defeated Tennessee every ten years since 1906. In 1915, 1925, and 1935 Tennessee was beaten by the Wildcats. Therefore, this is Kentucky's year to win.
