Exhibition of Modern Prints Is Now on Display at Art Center

By JEAN ALLEN GIBBS
An exhibition of modern prints opened Friday at the art center. The show is one of the best to be seen in the country and certainly is the best and largest selection of modern prints to be shown here. It is hoped that the university students and the people of Lexington take advantage of this opportunity to see this exhibition of modern graphic art.

In the show are represented etchings, aquatints, woodcuts, and lithographs from the Weyhne and the Downtown galleries. As is to be expected in such a group, the lithographs are greater in number because of possibilities with such a medium. In the group from the Weyhne gallery are many foreign prints. The Downtown gallery has some prints by American artists. Among the American artists of today we find represented in the lithographs: Earnest Flies, with his rather characteristic style and Glen Coleman, who gives us American street scenes; Howard Cook's "Lower Manhattan," which

Catholic Club Hears President McVey

Meeting Held at 10:30 o'clock Sunday Morning at Lafayette Hotel

Pres. Frank L. McVey addressed approximately 100 members of the Catholic club of the university at their regular monthly meeting held at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning at the Lafayette Hotel. The subject of Doctor McVey's address was "Educated Young People in the Society of Our Day."

Opening his discussion of the educated person and society, Doctor McVey defined education as "the process of becoming acquainted with life." Education is the essence of living, he stated.

Dr. McVey explained that education is an individual matter, something which must continue as long as life itself. The present condition of the world today would not be, if every person were true to himself and to society by studying and thinking clearly what is best for the whole.

Dr. C. S. Goodman, president of the club, presided at the meeting, and the Rev. George O'Bryan, spiritual advisor, introduced the speaker. Other officers of the organization are: vice-president, Ann Hall; secretary, Thomas Lynch, and treasurer, Mary Catherine Ambrose.

Prophet Prognosticates Birth Of Kampus Kat With 40 Horns

By THE PROPHET
On this day there is come the Ides of the month called December, which name is in high honor to them that are called Dekes. And today there is to be born among them who are here a great and honorable organization, the Kampus Kat, and Sigma Delta Chi will be the accoucheur for the blessed event. And he is a wild beast with 40 horns and 80 fangs, and he sitteth upon the high lights of the sun, and he sitteth harder than ever before.

And when the crowd is come together at eventide to behold the spectacle of the basketball game, there will be many women of great beauty and clothed in purple robes who will sell shares of the beast, and the people will marvel greatly that such things have come to pass among them. And the beast will be out, and sing high praise to the beast, and shall collect one piece of silver, or a dove of nickel pieces, from them who would know evil of their brethren.

Convocation

At 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, convocation will be held in Memorial hall. The principal address will be made by Pres. Frank McVey, who has been chosen for his subject, "The Student and the University."

President McVey has established a custom to make at least two of the "between us" talks each semester. Usually he gives one at the first of each semester and another at the last of the semester. The addresses are usually frank talks with the students about their problems and the problems of the university which they might help solve.

There will be devotional exercises and probably one or two short musical selections in addition to the talk by President McVey.

Georgetown IS BLUE'S OPPONENT IN FIRST TILT

Rupp Machine Accorded More Than Even Chance to Defeat Bengals

ELLIS JOHNSON IS ACTING CAPTAIN

Kentucky Quintet Will Be Minus Services of George Yates

By JOHN ST. JOHN
Basketball will take its place as king of the university sport world tonight when the 1931-1932 edition of the Blue and White Rupp's Wildcat machine takes the floor of the Alumni gymnasium against a strong Georgetown college quintet in the opening game of the season.

Although minus the services of Captain George Yates, all-Southerner Blue rates better than even chance of defeating Coach Carey Spitzer's Bengals. The Bengals were defeated by the University of Cincinnati by about 20 points last week. Sale, lanky forward and Kentucky's scoring threat, has returned to the floor and probably will be able to play this 1931-1932 season, according to the attending physician. Meanwhile, and until his return Ellis Johnson will act as captain.

The game tonight should give the squad some much needed confidence and experience before they meet the great Carnegie Tech engineers here Friday. It is likely that the same team, with the possible exception of the forward position, which is still a scrimmage against the freshmen team Saturday will start the game tonight.

It is likely that the same team, with the possible exception of the forward position, which is still a scrimmage against the freshmen team Saturday will start the game tonight.

"Frenchy" De Mosey, sophomore center, is certain to fill the position of the injured Yates, while Ellis Johnson and Worthington, although they have been slow in getting into condition following the football season, seem ready to get the call for the guard positions. Coach Rupp has Blair, Kreuter and Johnson, and in the forward line Little and Kleiser may replace either Johnson or Worthington in the forward position. Little also may relieve De Mosey at center.

Several hundred fans witnessed the poor showing of the varsity squad as they eked out a 28 to 25 victory over the freshman team in a full meeting of the Kentucky Intercollegiate Press association which met December 11 and 12 at West-ern Teachers College, Bowling Green.

E. A. Jonas, editor of the Louisville Herald-Post, also addressed the delegates, explaining the relation between college and metropolitan journalism.

At the business meeting, Saturday morning, Herman J. Perdue, Murray State Teachers' College, was elected treasurer. The position left vacant by Joe Johnson, Georgetown, who has withdrawn from school.

Other business matters included the appointment of a committee to investigate the inactivity of Kentucky delegates for the printing of the revised constitution, and the vice-president of the association, president in the absence of the president, William Ardery, who was unable to attend.

The convention was a 40-mile tour to New Mammouth Cave and the National Park area. Friday afternoon and evening, George E. Wood, head of the department of geology and geography at Western, conducted the tour.

CHRISTMAS

Often have we heard that the gifts which are presented at Christmas are of no consequence, that it is the spirit which prompts their giving which matters. To us this beautiful sentiment of Yuletide can find expression in other ways besides the giving and receiving of gifts.

Kindness, spirituality, good will—all of these are evidences of the generous human impulses which are the basis of our religion and which are, in reality, but the continuation of traditions which were established with the birth of Jesus Christ. We can give much more from our own hearts than we can give from our purses, no matter how great our material wealth, and in the giving of good will we will experience an inner happiness which could never come from the mere presentation of mundane and meaningless things.

So, as we undergraduates, come to another Christmas season, let us remember those seemingly trivial but important courtesies and amenities, let us not overlook the true spirit of the season, or forget the real reason for its existence. If we do this we cannot but find a real and lasting happiness, which originates within our own hearts and emanates throughout the circle of our acquaintanceship.

BETWEEN US

"The Student and the University" will be the title of the address which will be given Wednesday Conventions at which President McVey speaks are, in our opinion, most important to the students of the university. It is in these meetings that problems with which the student and the university are directly concerned are discussed, and although Dr. McVey's remarks often are entirely uncomplimentary to the student body, they nevertheless are made with the intention of remedying the conditions of which they complain.

In attending the convocation Wednesday students can bring themselves into closer contact with the administration, and in this contact can gain a viewpoint of their institution as a whole. The problems which confront those in authority at the university are unknown to the majority of students, and many of those who are familiar with them care little about their solution. The truly good student is interested in every part of his university, and should lose no opportunity to learn more about those phases of it with which he is not entirely familiar.

INSTRUCTORS ARE HUMAN

A statement recently issued by E. L. Gillis, registrar of the university, shows that women instructors at the university grade boys approximately 20 per cent higher than girls, and that men often grade girls 50 per cent above boys. We are sure that the instructors themselves are not aware of the effect sex attraction is producing on their judgment of grades, and we find in this judgment an admission that no matter how systematized or how specialized the modern university becomes the human element still will be present, and, being present, cannot but show itself in cases similar to this.

From the figures it seems that the men instructors are 20 per cent more affected by the ladies than are the women by their male students, and in this percentage the ladies undoubtedly have the advantage. Remembering that although women have long clamored for equal rights, and that they now are strong in their assertions that they possess them and believe in their ability to fill the responsibilities entailed by them, we still believe that, as women, they are due the 20 per cent break they are receiving. The dictates of courtesy and consideration warn us to give preference to women in the social world. The Kernel, at least, is not angry that this courtesy and this consideration have been unknowingly extended to the academic by university instructors who, after all, are only human.

Communications

To the Editor of The Kernel Dear Sir:

When the new library was opened President McVey established a browsing room for the benefit of the students who liked to enjoy good literature in comfort. The idea was to furnish them with the best possible limited funds could provide and to place the room at the disposal of those who wanted to use it without the restriction of supervision.

Some of those who use the room (students or others) have not had it made clear to them that the book in that room are to be left there for the benefit of all who want to use them. The result is that a distressingly large number of the books are disappearing, making it clear that before the end of the year the students who like to read will have a room void of books.

Thoughtlessness for the interests of others probably accounts for most of these removals, and it is to be hoped that the loss is only temporary and that those who have enjoyed a book so much that they could not put it down will eventually return it so that others may have the same chance to enjoy it. Those who have been thoughtful about the interests of others can certainly show a spirit of fair play by returning the books that they have borrowed from the browsing room. The state of our finances does not allow us to supervise the room; besides, the atmosphere of the room would be spoiled if supervision is absolutely necessary. Moreover, we have not the money to replace lost or borrowed books. Won't you please co-operate with us and bring them back so that all may enjoy them as much as you have?

(Signed) GEORGE K. BRADY
Chairman of the Browsing Room Committee

ROAMIN' THE RIALTO

with ROAMIN' RENA

"Possessed" The Ben All's screen flashes one of those "discussed" types of motion pictures. By "discussed" we mean that such questions as "Was she right even if she did wrong?" "Will he be in force in dormitories, fraternity and sorority houses as well as over many a back fence or is it getting too cold for that outdoor sport?" in regard to the actions of pretty Joan Crawford with the ravishing Clark Gable. Rena's figure in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's production schedule called for another talented woman starring role and, as Crawford hadn't done anything like that lately, she got the spot. As of course the women of the country according to fan mail reports, consider Gable the ideal hero, Rena's morality, he is cast as a successful politician and as a method of proving his power, must have a mistress. Which also demonstrates that his political power has been financially remunerative. "Possessed" is, in short, another motion picture that will impress addressees, amuse some intelligents, bore sophisticates and make money at the box office.

"Over the Hill" Faintly does Rena recall a silent moving picture that brought tears to millions and millions in money to its producers. "Over the Hill," the silent, was released in 1921 with Mary Carr in the mother role. Now Fox issues a talkie version which also abounds in tear-jerking sentimentality, yet which is sincerely and beautifully done. One of most notable features of the picture is that it presents Mae Marsh in the Mary Carr character. You remember Mae Marsh, who did lead for D. W. Griffith, her discoverer, in "The Birth of a Nation." "Over the Hill" and several other films of that vintage, Twelve years ago she left the screen as a leading lady. Now she returns as a character woman, which at least proves that she is trying to discover, in Time. James Dunn, the Fox "find" who distinguished himself in "Bad Girl" and more recently in "Now and Then" has the her part and does a smooth, but at times over-acted piece of work. Sally Eilers is cast as the feminine love interest opposite Dunn. James Kirkwood, another old timer, is also in the cast. Perhaps you'll like "Over the Hill," but aren't there enough tears around, with the depression and all? The picture, by the way, is on exhibition at the Kentucky

"Advance Plug"
Roamin' Rena's column on Friday will be devoted to the department's selections as to the past year's best pictures, performances, directorial work, and other highlights of the nation's fifth industry uncovered since this time a year ago. This has been a feature of the little leaden tower for three years and Rena intends to uphold it. "Devotion" The Strand's policy of offering pictures on a second run brings us "Devotion," a Pathé release which stars Ann Harding and features Leslie Howard and the late Robert Williams. When reviewed by this department on its first run the picture was recommended as good entertainment. If you are an Ann Harding fan, you will be amazed at the comical antics of your star in this opus.

PEPY'S DIARY

Friday: Up to be among the mugs and muggies that did not seem to be interested in the edition of THE KERNEL. I did see MILLIE NELSON, who did have many scars on her face. I did think that SHREY COFFEY was a bad marksmanship. I did see LOUISE BRYSON and TRIANGLE SHARPE who did seem to be LOVEBIRDS in the same category with MOORE NASH. CAROLYN RAY did seem very attractive. This free advertisement comes from an admirer for I did not believe she needed the plugging. I did see JUSTINE WHITE and BENTLEY SAMPSON and they did seem very wrapped in each other. I did learn that a certain KELLY called the hall and MARY JOE ARMSTRONG did inquire very frantically as to which gent of that name it was. I did also hear that there was an IN-AUGURAL BALL at the capitol and that many of the students did attend. I did wish that I could have been there. I did journey to the DEN of INQUITTU where I did hear some one say that THBO TEBBS was possessed with more personality and common sense than any other KAPPA. I did think that this might not be too great an honor after all. I did join friends for lunch, but the food was terrible. I did slumber in the afternoon so I could play in the evening. I did visit the ZETA TAU ALPHA house and did meet the new BAND SPONSOR, BETTY WHIPP. She did seem capable of deserving the right. I dropped by the Kappa house where I did see ONE ROUND SHROPSHIRE, the terror to all visitors of the boarding house. I did also notice who did seem very popular with the gentis this season. I did see MINA PATIE, who did say that she hated to refuse anyone a request. For the lack of something to do I did retire to my abode and thence to bed.

Saturday: Up to peruse the papers and read MR. PEPPY'S fan mail, which did grow so thick—some of the letters were not so pleasant. I did join friends in the DEN, where I did find there was no conversation between JUAL MARTIN and FRANK WORTHINGTON over the zippers on their pants. I did see SALLY WARE, and I did think that she was very boxed and that she was not getting the break out of college she deserved. I did partake of little food at lunch for it was very poor. In the afternoon I did stroll in the GADETT HOP where Bill HUMBER did wait with his duty date, CARLEEN GRANT. BRUDGIE CUNNINGHAM, the SUGAR KING, did try in vain to convince VIRGINIA DOUGHEEY that he was the only one for her. I did see the ever-charming BETTY BOARD, but she did not seem to appreciate anyone being nice to her. CARLEEN GRANT did smile and pour honey every way and I did think it was successful. In the evening I did see PAUL WILLIAMS who has displaced all the other contenders as the perfect man in the eyes of the woman. I did learn that RED DAVIS was doing well with his job as tester of lip sticks. I did peruse a magazine and so to bed.

Purples Downed by Linlee Basketeers in Season's Opener

Linlee High school of Fayette county opened the opening night for the Purples of University High by administering a 13-7 thrashing Friday night on the Training school floor. The Purples were unable to penetrate the Linlee defense and counted only three goals from the field.

Coach "Pette" Kemper's lads were badly handicapped by lack of experience and practice this season. Fisher had practiced with the team only once and the showing the Purples made was not so bad if the lack of practice is taken into account. The floor work of the Training school squad was good but their shooting was ragged and they made only a small number of their shots good. Friday the Kempermen took on the Alumni, and the graduates are apt to hand the boys a drubbing as several stars are numbered among the Alumni.

Linlee got off to a flying start when Lunsford dropped in a sleeper. Little evened it for the Purples with his short shot, and put them in the lead with a foul. Curtis put Linlee in the van again with a push in and from there on the Grey and Blue clad visitors were never headed. Coach Bill Trot, Linlee mentor, and former Wildcat star has a finished team and it ranks defensively with any team around these parts.

Lunsford and Curtis led the attack of the county team; while "Rabbit" Little and Hillard looked best for the losers.

Lineup and summary:
University III 7 Pos. 13 Linlee
Little (5) F. (6) Wilson
Hillard (2) F. (6) Lunsford
Curtis (5) C. (5) Curtis
Olney (2) G. (2) Gross
Longley (2) G. (2) Kanatzer

Substitutions: University High—Bishop, Denniston, Elder, Wiederman and Crooking.

French Comedy Given By Members of Class

'La Dame de Bronze', a comedy in one act by Henri Duvernois, was presented at the final meeting of the French club by members of Miss Horsfield's class at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the recreation room of Patterson hall. The comedy has been a favorite in the Parisian theaters for many years. Virginia Bullenauer played the leading role in the comedy and Nell Dishman read the prelude. Other members of the cast included Alfred Miller, Helen Danemiller, Eleanor Huson, and Lois E. Neal. At the end of the play all the members of the club sang the French hymns "Il Est Ne le Divin Enfant," and "Marseillaise." Imogene Young played the accompaniment.

Intramural

By Norbert Campbell

Seven boxing bouts in the Intramural boxing tournament, were run off at 1:30 p. m. in the gymnasium, and completed the action for the second round of the tournament. There were several knockouts, but there have been two or three boys who have come close to going down for the count of ten.

The last two bouts on the Thursday night card were in the unlimited class, and the fans were treated to an old time slug fest, in which the blood flowed thick and fast. The bout between Jean and Featherstone came to an abrupt end after 35 seconds of slugging, when Jean received a severe gash in his head. John Drury subdued Cave in two rounds.

Coming up first on the program was the fight in the 115 pound class between Daugherty and Sampson. Daugherty gained the upper hand in the curtain raiser, taking two rounds out of the three, with the first round being a hard battle. Langfit vs. O'Bryant. O'Bryant pinned Langfit's shoulder in one minute and 13 seconds.

Eighth bout—155 pounds. Crutcher vs. Pyatt. This was the shortest bout on the program for Crutcher won the match in 26 seconds.

Ninth bout—155 pounds: Watts vs. Baker. Baker won the match in one minute and 45 seconds.

Tenth bout—155 pounds: Forgy vs. Price. Price won the match in 59 seconds.

Eleventh bout—155 pounds: Allais vs. Vogel. Allais won after 4 minutes and 46 seconds of wrestling.

Twelfth bout—155 pounds: Streubel vs. Gottschall. After 2 minutes and 11 seconds of wrestling Streubel won the match.

Thirteenth bout—155 pounds: Jordan vs. Trigg. Trigg won the bout in one minute and 6 seconds.

Exhibit of Prints At Art Center

It is interesting to note the prints by renowned French painters the day: for example, Matisse's "Nu Couchee" and "Head of Man," John Marin's "Brooklyn Bridge," and "Woolworth Building," Edward Hopper's "A Lonely House" and Marsh's "Money-go-round" are touched by each artist in his usual style.

As workers in the wood block we find represented. Edvard Munch in "Night Fall," and Kandinsky with an abstract composition. The exhibition will continue until December 24.

Wildcats to Open Net Season

(Continued from Page One) The reason why the defense was not quite satisfactory. The turnout to the open practice session was encouraging and Coach Rupp promises more such "open houses." He further declared that the fans have seen their worst practice and from now on the tiffs will be more polished.

It was apparent that the yearlings were acquainted with the varsity style of play, and in this respect it might be said that the Wildcat team was not shown up in its proper light. However, tonight the varsity will be ready to blow the lid off this season with a victory.

All of which goeth to say that the Prophet is come, running before Donner and Blitzen and Merry Christmas, to bring unto the people gathered together tidings of great joy and to announce the coming of the Kat, whose jokes are as numerous as the sands of the Kentucky river, and, forsooth, dern near as dirty.
