

SOUVENIR OF THE ANNUAL DINNER

OF THE

CAMBRIDGE GROUP

CHRISTMAS 1940

"Termites Eat Wood"

Or

"Brown, Put on Your Hat."

A CHRISTMAS CAROL

Printed for Private Distribution
At the Annual Christmas Dinner
Of the Cambridge Group-

December 23, 1940

Herwan Eckhart

1.

Consider, now, the Termite which

Occupies a certain Niche

in the affairs of men

This pallid

bug eats floors and beams

For salad.

2.

Every year, statistics say,

the rich and poor dig down and pay

A Termite dinner bill of thirty million bucks or so;

The dirty

3.

Little so and so's, the mites,

have enormous appetites;

They eat piano legs! Too bad!

it makes me feel a little sad.

Oft times I've hoped they'll buckle down and make a meal of Welburn Brown

4.

BUT

No self-respecting Termite bloke

could stomach Brown, he'd surely choke

So Brown pursue your evil way

you're safe from Termites for a day

But soon or late the time will come when you'll get yours, you dirty bum!
