

Staff, Plans Announced For '56 Kentuckian

Staff positions on the 1956 Kentuckian have been completed by Editor Perry J. Ashley and the yearbook planning is well launched with individual photographic sittings to begin Monday in Room 209 of the Journalism Building.

Associated with Ashley in the production of the new Kentuckian, the fifty-first annual edition, will be Rosalie Redding, associate editor; John Strachan, managing editor; and Tommy Preston, sports editor.

Ashley is a senior in the School of Journalism. He is a member of Phi Alpha Theta, national history honorary; Student Board of Publications, Kernel staff, and the Arts and Sciences Press Society. He is a graduate of Stanford High School but hails from Hustonville, Ky.

Miss Redding is also a senior in the College of Arts and Sciences, majoring in journalism. She is a member of Theta Sigma Phi, national women's journalism honorary. Kernel staff, Arts and Sciences Press Society, and Alpha Delta Pi sorority. Her home is Louisville, Ky.

Strachan is a junior in the College of Arts and Sciences majoring in journalism. He is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity, Interfraternity Council, Suky, and cheerleader adviser and manager. Johnny comes from Redondo Beach, Calif., but now calls Fort Mitchell, Ky., home.

Tommy Preston, sports editor, is a senior journalism major from Versailles, Ky. He is also sports editor of the Kernel, having worked on that staff in the past as feature editor and assistant sports editor. Tommy is a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity and the Committee of 240.

Others on the staff are Phyllis Rogers, sorority editor; Charles Puqua, fraternity editor; and Kathy Reynolds, special editor.

For the first time the Kentuckian is featuring a section

Greek Jamboree. This will be an entire section of the book devoted to informal shots submitted by the fraternities and sororities. Each Greek group will be given one page free of cost to them which will be filled with any type shot the group would like to submit.

The pictures submitted should be 8 x 10 glossy prints. This is not essential but past experience has proven that much of the effect is lost in reproducing regular snapshots. These pages will carry a label head with the name of the fraternity or sorority.

As has been the rule in the past, the Kentuckian will again hold its annual Kentuckian Queen contest followed by a dance. In this contest, each of the sororities and residence halls will be asked to submit candidates from which the Queen will be chosen by a group of impartial judges. The contest is scheduled for Friday, Feb. 17 with the dance the following night.

The Kentuckian is planning something new this year—color. However in order for this to be possible the cooperation of all campus organizations will be greatly needed and appreciated. With the earlier deadline, giving the printing process ample time for their work, each of the groups reserving space are urged to fill out any information necessary and to return these forms promptly to Room 116 of the Journalism Building.

Individual sittings, for those who graduate by August, 1956, and the social organizations starts on Monday, with the same charge as last year, $3 a sitting. This charge includes all pictures of the individual which will be used in the yearbook.

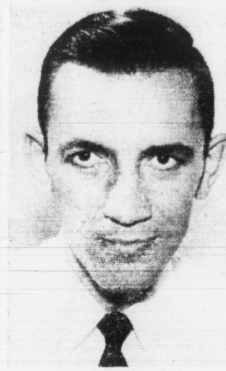

Unaffiliated seniors are urged to come to the Journalism Building and sign for an appointment with the photographer at once. Oct. 10-15 has been set aside as the time for these persons to have pictures made, with advance scheduling necessary before pictures will be made.

Group pictures will be taken immediately following the individual shots, the week of Oct. 31 to Nov. 5. A time and place will be designated for this and all groups are requested to have their members present and ready at that time. This request is made as all non-social groups on the campus must be contacted during this week.

Contracts reserving page space must be returned by all groups contracting this space before pictures of that group can be made.

Copies of the Kentuckian are still available for $3 in Room 116 of the Journalism Building. After Nov. 1, the price for each copy will be $6 with no more being sold after the first of the year. Graduating seniors do not have to reserve a copy.

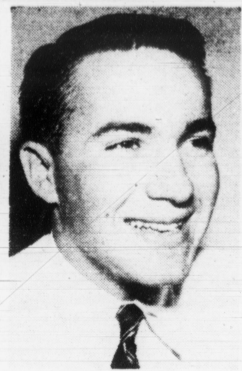

The Kentuckian will be available around the first of May and may be picked up in the Journalism Building.

Kentuckian Page Costs Among Lowest In Nation

The $35-per-page charge for Kentuckian pages is among the lowest in the nation, the Kernel learned today from Dr. Niel Plummer, director of the School of Journalism.

UK Employee Killed In Crash

J. E. Anderson, 48, of Preachersville, Ky., an employee of the UK Experiment Station, was killed instantly Saturday afternoon when his car was involved in a three-car collision.

The Anderson automobile was hit when an approaching car was thrown out of control after being swerved by another car attempting to pass.

Anderson had been employed at the Agriculture Experiment Station as Inspector of Feed and Fertilizer for about 10 years. During the war he was connected with the Extension Service on Farm Labor.

The question as to the reasonableness of the page charge, raised in this week's meeting of the SGA, was relayed to Dr. Plummer in his office in the School of Journalism after it was learned that he had participated in a nationwide study of year book charges during the last summer.

The breakdown of page charges follows:

- $65 per page—Florida.
- $60 per page—Illinois and California.
- $55 per page—Wisconsin, Texas A. & M.
- $50 per page—Southern California, Iowa, Auburn.
- $45 per page—Oklahoma, Pittsburgh.
- $40 per page—Ohio State, Yale, Boston, Maryland.
- $35 per page—Kentucky, Yale, Colorado.
- $30 per page—Arkansas.
- $25 per page—Triton, Rice, Rutgers.
- $20 per page—Florida State.

Half of these schools supplemented their income by advertising pages, selling upward to $150 per page. The Kentuckian, it was pointed out, devotes all its pages to campus activities, with no advertising.

ROTC Units Enroll 1,488

1,488 students are enrolled in the basic and advanced Military and Air Science courses at the University.

Of the total number of students in both departments, 614 are enrolled in Military Science and 874 in Air Science, department officials said.

Maj. Olaf W. Christopherson, executive officer of the Military Science Department, stated that 10 cadets have been given a temporary rank of Cadet Major. At the beginning of the second semester cadets in the advanced course will be further evaluated and two Cadet Colonels and two Cadet Lt. Colonels will be appointed.

It was also noted by Maj. Christopherson that the students holding the rank of Cadet Major have been designated as Distinguished Military Students by a board of faculty members from the University and from the Military Science Department.

The Cadet Majors are George B. Adams, Larry B. Aicken, James D. Baxter, Thomas Brabant, John B. Chenault III, Frederick G. Cox, Richard Fenley, Douglas A. Lawhorn, Charles V. Meyer, and Wilmer A. Steinhauer.

Maj. Robert T. Palmer, associate professor of Air Science, announced a new system used in AFROTC wherein cadet officers will be appointed for six-week periods. The system is designed to have a maximum number of cadets practice in the exercise of command prior to their reporting for active duty.

Although the work of the U. S. Air Force is highly technical, and parades and ceremonies are not as frequent as in the U. S. Army, there is still a demand for officers with a knowledge of military drill and ceremonies, Maj. Palmer pointed out.

Monday Is Deadline For Rhodes Scholarships

Monday is the deadline for Rhodes Scholarship applications. Dr. Shelby T. McCloy of the Rhodes Committee at UK has announced.

Candidates must be either a native of Kentucky or have attended at least two years at the University. Further qualifications are a single male citizen between the ages of 19 and 25 by Oct. 1, 1956 with at least a junior standing.

The applicants will be interviewed by the committee in mid-October. From this group, two will be selected to represent the school before the state board, Nov. 1.

Successful state candidates will convene in Chicago before the district committee.

Trustees Select Pharmacy Site

The site of the new College of Pharmacy has been selected by the Board of Trustees, Frank D. Peterson, University vice president, has announced.

The new location will be at 135 Washington Ave. behind the Biological Science Building. The property belongs to Mrs. Job D. Turner. Peterson stated that negotiations have been going on since March, but the Board hopes to acquire the property soon.

Roberta Peters

The Metropolitan Opera coloratura soprano will appear in the UK Coliseum Monday night at 8:15. Miss Peters opens the 1955 Community Concert Series. (A story with the numbers to be presented by Miss Peters appears on page 4 of the second section.)

Kentucky Writer's Work Released

Personal letters and papers of John Fox Jr., prominent Kentucky novelist of the late 19th and early 20th century, have been compiled by a sister of the author, and the collection is being distributed to members of the University of Kentucky Library Associates.

Announcement of the compilation of the material by Mrs. Elizabeth Fox Moore, Washington, D.C., sister of John Fox Jr., was made recently by Dr. Lawrence S. Thompson, director of libraries at the University.

Mrs. Moore and Miss Minnie Fox, Big Stone Gap, Va., are the only surviving sisters of the author. Included in the collection is an autobiographical sketch by John Fox Jr. himself.

In addition to family and personal letters, the volume also includes descriptions of Fox as a lecturer, his personal characteristics and tributes from various acquaintances. Among the letters are several from James Lane Allen, another well known Kentucky writer.

ANYONE FOR FOOTBALL?

Pancho Sigafoos, pale and sensitive, first saw Willa Ludovic, lithe as a hazel wand and fair as the morn, outside a class in money and banking. "Let us not hem and haw," said Pancho to Willa. "I adore you."

"Thanks, hey," said Willa, blushing prettily. "What position do you play?"

"Position?" said Pancho, looking at her askance. (The askance is a ligament just behind the ear.)

"On the football team," said Willa. "Football!" cried Pancho, his lip curling in horror. "Football is violence, and violence is the death of the mind. I am not a football player. I am a poet."

"So long, mac," said Willa. "Wait!" cried Pancho, clutching her lissome young forearm. She placed her foot on his pelvis and wrenched herself free.

"I only go with football players," she said and walked, shimmering, into the setting sun.

Pancho went to his room and lit a cigarette and pondered his vexing problem. What kind of cigarette did Pancho light? Why, Philip Morris, of corris!

Philip Morris is always welcome, but never more than when you are weary and sore beset. When a fellow needs a friend, when the heart is dull and the blood runs like sorghum, when darkness prevails, then, then above all, is the time for the mildness and gentleness that only Philip Morris can provide.

Pancho Sigafoos, his broken psyche welded, his fevered brow cooled, his synapses restored after smoking a gentle Philip Morris, came swiftly to a decision. Though he was rather small for football (an even four feet) and somewhat overweight (370 pounds) he tried out for the team—and tried out with such pluck and perseverance that he made it.

Pancho's college opened the season against the Manhattan School of Mines. The Miners were always a mettlesome foe, but this year, strengthened by four exchange students from Gibraltar who had been suckled by she-apes, they were especially formidable. By the middle of the second quarter, the Miners had wrought such havoc upon Pancho's team that there was nobody left on the bench but Pancho. And when the quarterback was sent to the infirmary with his head driven into his ribcage, the coach had no choice but to put Pancho in.

Pancho's team-mates were not conspicuously cheered as the little fellow took his place in the huddle. "Gentlemen," said Pancho, "some of you may regard poetry as sissy stuff, but now in our most trying hour I can think of no words more apt than these lines from Milton's Paradise Lost: 'All is not lost; the unconquerable will and study of revenge, immortal hate, and courage never to submit or yield!'"

So stirred was Pancho's team by this fiery exhortation that they threw themselves into the fray with utter abandon.

As a consequence, the entire squad was hospitalized before the half. The college was forced to drop football. Willa Ludovic, not having any football players to choose from, took up with Pancho and soon discovered the beauty of his soul. Today they are seen everywhere together—dancing, holding hands, smoking, smooching.

SGA Is Loafing

Once, a great engineer was asked to construct a bridge across a creek. The engineer accepted and then began talking at great length about how he would build it.

In fact, the engineer talked so much and for so long that one day, to his surprise, he found the creek had dried up. And thus the great bridge never was built.

UK's Student Government Association might well be compared to the great engineer who talked about a bridge that never was built. There are several big problems on campus that need to be solved, but all that SGA is doing about them is talking.

There is no doubt that SGA in many instances did an encouraging job last year. It aired several student and student group complaints in good timing and taste, and did a superior job in handling the Saturday classes and honor system issues.

Nevertheless SGA has slipped into a groove that might well ruin everything that its past and present members have worked for over the years. That groove is the investigating committee.

It seems that unless an issue has been talked all over the campus, SGA refuses to take some positive action on it. So-called minor issues, all too often, are put in the hands of an "investigating committee."

Undoubtedly it would be unwise to discuss every issue brought up in the assembly at great length. But it seems more unwise to hastily turn them over to an investigating committee.

Often the investigating committee only turns in a lukewarm report for recommended action. Occasionally the committee is never heard from again.

For example at the first SGA meeting of the year this week a delegate from the College of Engineering reported a complaint from one of his constituents. According to the complaint, it is possible for a student husband to buy special-rate athletic tickets for his wife, but not for a student wife to buy the same kind of tickets for her husband.

Certainly the problem could best be handled by Student Government. The engineering delegate explained the situation and asked for action. But the problem was given to an investigating committee—without any instructions whatsoever.

Instead of the mechanical process of moving that the problem be referred to a committee, SGA members would have come much closer to an ultimate solution if they had decided what action the committee could do immediately.

In other words, the ticket problem was given part and parcel to few instead of the entire elected body. Had the assembly recommended some course of action to be followed, the committee's job would have been much easier—and the problem much more likely to be solved.

Naturally assembly members, at first, cannot be expected to size up the entire situation at first hearing. But neither can the investigating committee.

It would be much easier and better for all concerned if the committee assigned a problem was told what it should find out and report back at the next meeting. Possible courses of action also might well be recommended.

SGA cannot and should not be expected to solve every problem brought before it. There are, however, several measures that can be dealt with by the assembly within the space of two meetings.

Several years ago it was the rule that reports from committees were written out and submitted to the assembly. Most reports in SGA within recent years have been given orally.

Obviously written reports are more beneficial since they make it easier for all of the members to follow what has or is being done by a committee. If SGA would go back to demanding written committee reports, there would be a better chance of more action and less talk.

Increased enrollment at UK will certainly bring more student problems. The Kernel believes that SGA might well elevate its position on campus this year by speedily and efficiently handling these problems.

Pre-instructed committees, written reports, planned agenda and active attendance by members are steps that SGA should stress to make it a better-working body.

Like the great engineer, SGA has great potential. But the engineer only talked about his bridge.

Bad Publicity

Sometimes a newspaper will exploit a story completely out of proportion to its real value. This type of sensationalism is particularly noticeable when a story concerns an individual or institution of supposedly high moral character. The motive behind this is strictly selfish. The newspapers who do it are trying to build up high reader interest. Reporting of this kind is directly opposed to the ethical standards of journalism.

In recent years the local newspaper has over played minor incidents in which UK students have been involved. It happened again this week. This is definitely not fair play.

Only 30 University men out of a student population of 5,500 had trouble with the city and county law last year. This represents less than one third of one per cent of the total students enrolled in the University. None of the offenses were serious. All of them were misdemeanors.

But on nearly every occasion the Herald gave the stories a big play, usually on the front page. If it had been anyone but University students' the stories would have probably never gotten into the paper and if they had they would have been two or three line fillers.

The Herald has given the University a tremendous amount of good publicity over the years, but like it or not the stories about the trivial misdemeanors of college students are the ones that really influence the opinion of the readers.

Many parents refuse to send their children to UK because it is called a "party school". Morally the University is neither better nor worse than any other college in the state. It doesn't deserve the bad label it gets from some factions.

The Herald has contributed to this prejudiced opinion of the University. The misdeeds of college people shouldn't be overlooked, but neither should they be splashed across the front page of the paper.

The University student should be treated exactly like any other citizen. Let the crime fit the amount of publicity.

Several University students' reputations have been unnecessarily injured.

The Herald should reconsider this policy and bring it up to the high level of their other standards.

Better Conduct

In another editorial this week the Kernel criticized the attitude of the local newspaper toward the college student who violates the law. On the other hand the University student should more seriously consider his responsibility to the University. A student must realize that his actions not only reflect on himself but also on the University.

The man or woman whose conduct is unbecoming throws a bad light on the University which is representing the educational facilities of the state to the citizens of Kentucky and the nation. He is hurting one of the great public institutions of Kentucky.

The average person judges the worth of a college through its students. Obnoxious student behavior destroys the good will accumulated by the University through long years.

Right now the University needs every bit of support it can scrape up. UK has grown so fast in the last ten years that it is bursting at the seams. It needs money for expansion. To get this money it must have the backing of every Kentuckian.

Students come into contact with taxpayers constantly, and taxpayers foot the University's bill. When a student alienates a townsman he is potentially cutting the University's income.

Not only does a student's misconduct hurt financially but it also injures the state culturally and scientifically. UK has a huge program of adult education and scientific advancement. The Ag College in particular is interested in this field. They are steadily improving farm methods in Kentucky. To do this they must have the confidence of the people. Suspicion is not a good foundation for a friendly relationship.

If a student is of age he has the right to go into a bar but he should remember that drunkenness and rowdiness is ungentlemanly and detrimental to the University.

Just remember to act like the men and women college students are supposed to be.

Band Criticized

The Kernel received a letter to the Editor this week criticizing the band's performance at last week's game. The writer decried the so-called cultural atmosphere of the half-time show. They seemed to think the band lacked pep.

The show was not high brow in any sense of the word. The band played several favorite songs. This is not dull but highly enjoyable. The formations were well designed and well executed.

Also the band marches at a 190 cadence, which is anything but dead. Granted there were rough spots in the show, but that was the first show of the year.

The Marching 100 has a national reputation of which the students should be proud.

This week's letter was not printed because it was not signed. The Kernel welcomes all letters, but they must be signed. Naturally names will be withheld upon request.

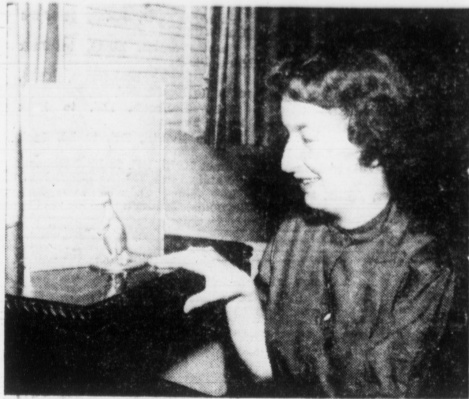

Concert Series

The average student overlooks some of the really fine cultural opportunities offered by the University. These are as much a part of the student's college education as classroom work.

Because of the trend toward specialization in college the student doesn't get a chance to study the humanities. The concerts and lectures sponsored by the University help to fill this gap.

For example there is the Community Concert Series. Lexington has one of the best setups in the country. Many of the students don't take advantage of it. They are missing hearing the finest artists in the world.

There is also the Guignol, which presents Broadway plays, the Blazer Lectures, which brings top lecturers in from all over the country, and the Sunday Afternoon Musicales.

The Workshop

Miss Kentucky Interviewed By The Old Proprietor

By RAY HORNBACK

This humble one spent a most enjoyable 45 minutes Wednesday afternoon with an interviewee. But it wasn't just an ordinary interviewee by a long stretch of the eyeballs. For yours truly had a very fine chat with Miss Kentucky, Ann Shirley Gillock.

Ann (we're going to dismiss with formalities as that's the way the personable and charming Miss Gillock would want it) is a junior majoring in commerce at UK. For those who are saying many reports list Ann as a Georgetown student, we are mighty glad to report that the celebrated young lady has transferred to our fair campus.

As she approached me Wednesday afternoon, I saw a tall brunette, with brown eyes and an olive complexion. I might add that she also possesses all the other prerequisites for a top Miss America candidate.

What impressed me most about the Carrollton, Ky., beauty was her poise, alertness, intelligence, and complete sincerity. When asked about her Atlantic City stay while competing for the Miss America title, Ann termed it "wonderful," but quickly added that she missed her Kentucky friends and is mighty glad to be back in the bluegrass state.

Ann arrived in Lexington after the semester got underway due to the Atlantic City contest where she placed eleventh in competition with 50 or so beauties. And commitments have her booked up for most of her spare time in the near future.

Take this weekend for instance—tonight she will speak to a Bedford, Ky., women's club and will follow the talk with an organ recital. (Ann's an extremely fine organist and is the proud possessor of a new organ given to her by the residents of Carrollton, a beautiful, sleepy little town between Louisville and Cincinnati.)

Saturday and Sunday, Ann will be attending a regatta on the Ohio River, where she has been made "Miss Hydroplane." Yes sir, our Miss Kentucky is really in the swim.

But so much for the little lady's crowded schedule.

I asked Ann if she recalled any incidents which stood out in her mind concerning her experiences this summer. She thought for a while and then gave me one of her pleasant but sly little smiles.

She said, "Yes, there was the night I had a date with a Midshipman in New York. He said from my pictures he had guessed that I was an introvert."

"But before the night was over,"

Miss Kentucky

she added, "I believe he changed his mind."

Charming, unassuming, extremely polite, and friendly—that's Miss Kentucky. We're mighty proud to have Kentucky's number one lady with us.

Cotton Queen To Be Picked

The National Cotton Council has announced the opening of the 1956 Main of Cotton contest. Any girl born in a cotton-producing state who has never been married, who is between the ages of 19-25, and who is at least 5 feet 5 inches tall is eligible to enter the contest.

Judging is on the basis of intelligence, personality, and poise, as well as appearance. The new maid will spend a month in New York and a while in Nassau before taking a tour of many U.S. cities.

Entry forms, accompanied by two photographs, must be post-marked no later than midnight Dec. 1.

YMCA Offers Jobs

The YMCA has many openings for boys who would like to work as a YMCA secretary.

There will be a conference held in Louisville, Oct. 14 and 15 for all junior and senior men who may be interested in the YMCA as a profession. Application blanks for attendance at this conference may be secured in the YMCA Office, SUB.

Which End's Which?

Hip, Hup, Hip, Hup—Right Shoulder, arms!! This sound, heard usually in the evenings around 5 or 6 p.m., could mean but one thing. The Pershing Rifles are at it again. After the first few weeks of pledgship and bruised jaws and skinned shins from askew rifle butts, the boys settle down and prepare to bring home the drill-meet trophies, which they seem to have no trouble capturing.

Girl Tells Of 4 Years Spent In Australia

After four years and four months of going to school and hunting kangaroos in the "down under" land, Patsy Jean Mayhew breathed a sigh of relief and said "It's good to be home again."

Born in Franklin, Ky., 19 years ago, Patsy and her family moved to California when she was a year old. After living there for 14 years, her father, who is in the construction business, was transferred to Melbourne, Australia. This touched off 52 months of all sorts of odd and exciting experiences for the pert, green-eyed, freshman coed.

Patsy, who received all of her high-school education in Melbourne, cited the schools as one of the big differences between Australia and the United States. "Two floors of a bank building," she said, "housed the school where I took the ninth through the twelfth grades."

Although she went to a co-educational public school, Patsy said the majority of the schools are private. "For the most part, the boys and girls are segregated. Everyone wears uniforms, and not only are the two sexes kept apart, they can't even speak to each other." Luckily, she said, this was not true in her school.

The curriculum was heavy in English and history, with very little vocational education. "They didn't even know what home economics meant," said Patsy.

Social activities, according to Patsy, are almost nil in Australia, especially in the schools. Most of the entertainment consists of a few movies and a "Ball Season," comparable to our debutante period. "They have no such things as going steady or getting pinned," she added. "The first serious step is engagement when a couple are dating."

"Australians follow American and French fads," said Patsy when questioned about clothing in Melbourne. They are usually six months to a year behind in the styles. The quality as a rule isn't as good, and they don't have all of the synthetics we do, such as orlon and nylon.

Australians are very sports minded people. Patsy said it was their version of football that really impressed her. It's played on a large oval, with each team employing 18 men and only two substitutes. They can take only three steps and score their goals by kicking the ball.

Patsy regarded her kangaroo hunt as most entertaining. Although they are protected by the government, the animals sometimes become menaces to ranches because of their numbers. "We hunted on a pick-up truck and chased them over large ranches. Because the kangaroos travel in such large mobs, sometimes as few as five people can kill as many as 100 in a day."

One of the hardest things for Patsy to get used to was the fact that there were no supermarkets where she was. "You had to go to a butcher store for your meat, a grocery for your dry goods, a green grocery for vegetables, and a milk bar for dairy products."

LELAND WHITE
"haven't had time to compare with last year's dating"

By ANN ABERNATHY
A large part of the college ed's and coed's life comes into the roving reporter's spotlight this week with a question on dating.

We don't know whether it is psychological or whether the girls are just now in the know on the financial angle, but their estimates of how much should be spent on the average weekend date tended to run somewhat under the boys' estimates. The boys were also asked if the cost of dating had gone up.

Mary Preston Fields said it depends on what you do. "I would say about $3."

Bill Blount—"So far this year the freshman girls don't know where the expensive places are. If you go to the show you're going to spend about $2, if you go to Joyland about $7."

Phyllis Jones—"Depends on where you go. Probably about $3."

Cleland White—"It has gone up from high school. I haven't had time to compare it with last year's dating. What you spend depends on what you do—a football game and Joyland are different amounts. Not over $4 or $5."

Wilma Jean Dorrah also thought it depended on where you go. "The movie is a lot cheaper than a dance or some high-faluting place. For the movies probably $2 or $3."

Ronnie Boyd—"I've noticed the girls like to go out to the new drive-in restaurants after a movie date." He would spend "probably

$2.50. There isn't any place to go in Lexington except the movie—no really nice dancing place. I think a girl should be more considerate of a boy's spending."

Pat Finney—"If they go to the show it would run around $1.50 and afterwards go and get something to eat—around $3 in all probably. If it's a special weekend around $8."

Pat likes to go to the show, dancing, and play miniature golf, but agreed that there aren't many places to go in Lexington.

Jackie Wells said he wouldn't think the cost of dating had gone up from last year. As to the amount to spend, "Oh, I'd say a couple of dollars."

Pat Schrider—"Yeah, I think it has. The amount you spend depends upon where you go—about $5, I guess, unless you go to a dance."

Jean Kuhn—"Well, down here I think about a dollar. They could get by with a soda and the game."

COLONEL of the WEEK

The Stirrup Cup is proud to present as its Colonel of the Week, Bill "Boom Boom" Billiter. Bill is a senior journalism student who has done many things for the UK campus—some of them good and some of them not so good.

He is widely known as a lover, having perfected what he calls the Lower Slobberoverya kiss. Needless to say, Bill is the Continental type who has a carefree and suave manner and an ulcerated stomach.

But after two of the Stirrup Cup's delicious meals, we know Bill's stomach will once again be in an extremely fine and gastric condition.

(For those dubious of Mr. Billiter's accomplishments, "Boom Boom" is president of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity, associate editor of the Kernel, and a member of ODK, Lamp and Cross, Lances, IPC, and SGA.)

Conservative Dress Is Seen On Campus

The after effects of rush have begun with one big sneeze. Trips to the infirmary, boxes of Kleenex, pills of all colors and both visible and invisible penicillin shoots are just a few examples of sorority girls and new pledges.

During rush, and now that classes have started, UK coeds are keeping up with the styles that fashion experts say are "musts".

Tweeds are the big attraction this fall, featuring smartly tailored white and gold flecked patterns. Grey flannel jumpers with matching toppers give the coed an outfit for chilly weather and then a party dress for evening wear.

With the evenings as warm as they have been lately, winter cottons are just the thing. These are usually in darker colors, and plaids have also been featured. Matching cashmere or orlon sweaters are sometimes included with the outfit to provide brighter color.

Both men and coeds have gone in for Bermuda shorts this fall and grey flannels are always a favorite, with knee socks included in the outfit.

The Ivy League look have become a favorite with the men on campus. The heavy, loose knit sweaters with the rounded necks are now being advertised in downtown stores. Tweed sport coats and the flannel grey suits are still standards, as also the repp ties.

Aside from the fact that the University of Kentucky campus is going conservative in its dress, the brave man who would sport attire consisting of flowered shirts and ties, would probably be a welcome sight.

The 1890's were a period of drab and stiff dress, but actually most will agree they want to have a certain amount of individuality when it comes to the way they choose their clothes.

Home Ec Senior Wins Fellowship

Miss Sarah Tabb, senior in home economics at the University of Kentucky, was awarded the Danforth Summer Fellowship of a month's visit in St. Louis, Mo., and Camp Miniwana, Mich. The award is offered annually to one home economics senior in each of the 48 states.

President of Phi Upsilon Omicron, home economics honorary fraternity, and secretary of the UK Home Economics Club, Miss Tabb is also a member of Mortar Board and of Alpha Xi Delta, social sorority.

Foreign Agents To Study Here

Agents from eight foreign countries, here under the auspices of the International Cooperation Administration, will be studying at UK. These Agriculture Extension agents will study here during Oct. 3-Oct. 28. Classes will be held for three hours each morning in the Agriculture Building. The afternoons will be devoted to special meetings, field trips, etc.

The ICA brought these agents to the U. S. on Aug. 11. They arrived in this country at Washington, D. C. where they went through two weeks of orientation. The group of 35 was then divided. One of the groups was then sent to Kentucky and the other to Mississippi where they have spent two weeks with the county agents and extension workers. This last week was spent with the specialists and supervisors of extension work. The Mississippi group will arrive here Sunday, Oct. 2.

After the training period here, ending Oct. 28, the visitors will spend one week in Knoxville, Tenn. studying community development. Another week will be spent at North Carolina State College in Raleigh. Here they will study communications. The agents will then return to UK for two weeks of evaluation and summary. Then comes a week in Washington, D. C. and the trip home.

The countries represented will be Formosa, Iran, Philippines, Thailand, Vietnam, Brazil, Spain, El Salvador, and Bolivia.

Around The Turntable

By JOHN ALEXANDER
We thought and thought—and still think—that the best way to open this first trip around the spinning tables is the announcement that we have seen the new Glenn Miller Limited Edition No. 3.

This is a series of records cut by the Air Force Base headed in the mid-40's. It promises to be as good an album as the other two albums, which were tops.

Passing on to the new singles, Victor has a couple out that are tops. Dinah Shore's version of "Love and Marriage" (backed with "Compare") is cute and catchy. Also new on the 'F' dog label, Frankie Carle's "Golden Touch" scores on the top side of the new release list as a catchy samba.

On Cadence, the Mariners have made their debut with an Australian marching tune, "I Love You Fair Dinkum." And for the benefit and enlightenment of all of us who aren't Aussies, here is an abbreviated glossary: "fair dinkum" translates into a slang version of "honestly"; "dinki di" means "the real McCoy"; "bonzer," "good or great"; "whacko!" is an expression of delight, and a "Koala Bear" actually is—it's a little, grey, furry creature about two feet high and native to Australia. Backside, "At the Steamboat River-Ball" is for our part a better tune, however. Listen and see?

Watch these tunes for future hits: the Ames Bros. "My Bonnie Lassic"; Four Lads "Moments to Remember"; Al Hibbler's "He, He, He"; The Cheers' "Black Denim Trousers"; Cogi Grant (an Era) "Suddenly There's a Valley"; Frank Sinatra's "Same Old Saturday Night"; and Boyd Bennett's "My Boy, Flattop." Also, Billy Vaughn's "Shifting, Whispering Sands," (recitation by Ken Nordone) deserves much mention.

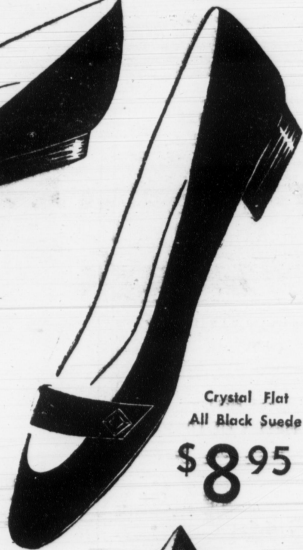

Here's the ten top tunes across the nation as reported by Billboard: Yellow Rose of Texas, Mitch Miller; Ain't That a Shame, Pat Boone; Seventeen, Boyd Bennett; Love Is a Many-Splendored Thing, Four Aces; Wake the Town and Tell the People, Mundy Carson; Rock Around the Clock, Bill Haley; Autumn Leaves, Roger Williams; Bible Tells Me So, Don Cornell; Hard to Get, Gisele MacKenzie; and Tina Marie, Perry Como.

Radio Arts Department Has Exchange Student

The UK Radio Arts Department has a foreign exchange student this semester, Mrs. Prayunsiri Premabut from Thailand.

Before coming to UK, Mrs. Premabut was in charge of the program planning and news reporting for the Educational Radio Broadcasting System of Thailand, the only radio system in that country. She has held that post since the establishment of the system in recent years. She received the appointment even though she had had no broadcasting experience.

After receiving training here in the U. S. she will be in charge of a new system of broadcasting in Thailand. This system will consist of broadcasting directly into the schools of her country for educational purposes. This system will be independent of the regular system.

Another of her duties will be to train others of her country in order to expand and improve broadcasting in Thailand.

Mrs. Premabut will not receive all her U. S. training here. Her plan calls for her spending one semester at each of various colleges throughout the country. From here she will go to Ohio State.

Her training here consists of courses in writing, production, announcing, a general survey course, and observing the work of WBKY.

Mrs. Premabut lives in Bangkok and had never been out of her native country before participating in the foreign exchange program. She received a diploma in liberal arts from the Chulalongkorn University in 1939.

BASKETBALL seems almost like a foreign word this time of the year, but let's face it, hardwood notes are already popping into the sports columns.

UK Athletic Director Bernie Shively has just released the pairings for Kentucky's third annual invitational basketball tournament which will be staged in Memorial Coliseum, December 20-21.

In first round play, defending champion Kentucky takes on Minnesota while Utah is pitted against Dayton. The following evening, losers of opening night's games will lock horns for the consolation trophy, paving a route for the championship battle.

It was in 1953 when the UKIT was inaugurated. Since that date such outstanding quintets as La Salle, Southern California, Duke, UCLA and Utah along with the Wildcats have participated in the holiday festival. Coach Adolph Rupp's squads stand undefeated since the initiation of this basketball program. The four teams selected for play this December stack up as probable national powers.

RUPP

Utah's Redskins ended last season with a 23-4 mark plus a seventh place berth in the final rating polls. The Flyers from Dayton were runners-up in the National Invitational Tournament of last year, established a 25-4 record and ranked ninth in final AP selections.

Just missing the top ten bracket, Minnesota tabulated a rough 15-7 record. The Big 10 Gophers, eleventh nationally, are expected to be much stronger than last year despite the loss of second team all-American guard, Dick Garmaker.

SHIVELY

Kentucky must defend its crown. Rupp plans for a stronger team bolstered by a powerful bench. UK's 23-3 record of last year looks mighty hard to top but the Blue and White has the material to shatter it.

A war in the pivot slot is for certain. Each contender beams with an exceptional center. Utah's 6' 8" Gary Bergen, the Cats' Bob Burrow, Dayton's Bill Uhl, a seven footer, and Minnesota's 6' 11", 275 pound Bill Simonovich will each be a show on their own.

Ticket sales will be announced at a later date, Shively stated.

MOVING away from basketball and over to Kickbacks, we had better mention Villanova.

The Main Liners, sometimes called Wildcats, certainly look sick on paper. Just how feeble are they?

Last season, the school won a single grid contest. A 41-0 victory over Fordham saved them from a completely worthless year. UK whipped them by a score of 28-3. In fact, the Main Liners have been able to scrape up only one triumph over the Cats since their first clash in the Great Lakes Bowl at Cleveland in 1947. In the series, Kentucky has won five, dropped one and tied one.

Sophomore backs pep up the Main Liners and from reports sent down from the north, Villanova, despite their underdog role is out to tame the Wildcats. They have sent fair warning that Saturday night's contest will be 60 minutes of all-out football.

THE FRESHMEN football team is in need of two or three managers. Here is a good opportunity for some eager freshmen or sophomores who would like a chance to earn a numeral. Later, if the boy is selected, he will become varsity manager and work up into the ranks of head manager. Opportunities galore center around the head manager including some mighty good trips.

Anyone interested (sorry girls you can't apply) should contact UK equipment manager, Buster Brown, or any of the freshmen coaches.

JUST for the sake of trying, I have decided to apply my mystic talents to the predicting world. There are some top-notch games scheduled for this week-end which open themselves to the merits or demerits of columnists. Well, here goes: Auburn will take Florida by six, Mississippi over North Texas State by 21 and Tennessee to lose their second straight to Duke by 14. Memphis State won't be able to stop Mississippi State's Art Davis and the Maroons will win by 18 points. Tulane will top Northwestern by 12 even though the Wave will get a scare or two. Vanderbilt should squeeze by Alabama by one and finally, Kentucky will add more woes to Villanova with their three touchdown margin.

Have You Ever Seen A 100-Yard T.D.?

Only once since 1933 has there been a run of 100 yards from scrimmage for a touchdown in the SEC.

In 1933, Herbert McAnly whipped of a century sprint in the game, Florida vs. Sewanee.

There have been seven 100-yard kickoff returns, the first in '33 and the latest 20 years hence—By Eob Duke in the Auburn-Mississippi State game.

Several Ole Miss tacklers are shown closing in on Woody Herzog, sophomore halfback, after he had ripped off a 39-yard jaunt against the Rebs. The Hamilton, Ohio speedster gained 56 yards in seven attempts during UK's 21-14 win over Mississippi.

Villanova Really Tosses 'Em, Cats Stress Aerial Defense

By BILL HENRY

Villanova's pass hinging Main Liners invade Stoll Field Saturday night in what should provide one of the top aerial shows to be seen here this fall.

In the mud and rain last week at Philadelphia the Villanova lads tossed no less than 27 passes. Two fumbles cost Villanova as many touchdowns in last week's 19-2 defeat at the hands of Baylor. Once, the Main Liners lost the ball on their one-yard line after holding four downs inside their five-yard stripe.

Later in the game against the Southwest's third best team, a Villanova back fumbled over the goal line and an alert Baylor Bear pounced on the ball for six points. Coach Frank Reagan said Villanova "couldn't give away touchdowns and expect to beat teams like Balor and the Wildcats."

During the past week the Main Liners have been brushing up on their ball handling in preparation for the game against Kentucky. However John Ferruolo, Main Liner quarterback, who threw most of the passes last week against Baylor which went for 144 yards was tossing quite a few bulls eyes in the practice session.

SEC-Coach-of-the-Week, Blanton Collier, is working on pass defense to stop the vaunted aerial artistry of the easterners in long, rough sessions. Tuesday's practice had to be completed under the lights on the practice field.

Regular end, Bradley Mills, who suffered a heel injury in the first quarter of the Ole Miss-Kentucky game Saturday night, was limping badly throughout the session. He was held out of all the rough stuff this week in order for the heel to recuperate. He is, however, a doubtful starter Saturday night.

Cats Claw Ole Miss In Thriller, 21-14

UK's "looking-ahead-one-week Wildcats" played that game Saturday night and toppled Ole Miss 21-14 under the arcs at Stoll field.

Rebounding from their initial setback to the LSU Bengals, the Big Blue dethroned last season's SEC Kings and regained some of their lost prestige. The win also enabled Kentucky to pull within one win of evening the series with the Johnny Rebs. The series now stands at 5-6-1.

Coach Collier's crew showed from the outset of the game that this was their night. They weren't to be denied. The Cats took the opening kick-off and from their own 33 marched in eight plays into the Rebel end zone. The big play of the series was a Bob Hardy to John Netoski pass which was good for 37 yards and set the ball up on the Ole Miss 12-yard line. Hardy then flipped to Bob Dougherty for the TD.

However, a kickoff and sixteen plays later the Rebels were right back in the game as field general Eagle Day tossed a perfect strike to end Bob Drewry on the Wildcat goal line.

This ended the scoring for the first half. Kentucky got a scare as the half ended when Mississippi attempted a field goal but end Bill Wheeler broke through and blocked the attempt.

After ten minutes of the third frame Ole Miss grabbed the lead as Billy Kinard took a Kentucky punt from the Wildcat 43 and weaved his way back to the Blue 14-yard stripe. Day's pass to Kinard from the 26 after a 15-yard penalty put the Rebels ahead for the first and last time.

Collier's charges came right back in a sustained drive of 76 yards to knot the score at 14 all. The scoring play of this series being Woody Herzog's skirt of right end for a touchdown.

On the ensuing kickoff Billy Kinard took the kick on his own

Dark Night For Day

If UK's Roger Pack had missed this tackle on Mississippi's sharp quarterback, Eagle Day, there still wouldn't be too much to fret about. The five other Wildcats roaring in on the unfortunate Rebel would have handled the situation in fine manner. That's what you call teamwork! Waiting to give Pack a helping hand (but he didn't need it) were Bob Hardy (14), J. T. Frankenberger (70), John Hari (60), Bill Wheeler (72), and Howie Schnellenger (numberal blocked out).

five yard and returned to the 33 where he was met by a host of blue-clad tacklers and jarred loose from the ball as John Hari, Wildcat guard, alertly pounced on it and Kentucky was off and running again. After an exchange of punts the Wildcats had the pigskin on the Ole Miss 25-yard stripe. In four plays the Cats banged and bulled their way into the Mississippi end zone. Delmar Hughes' kick was perfect and the Cats had the game wrapped up 21-14.

Liberal Arts Preferred

Steamship company executives generally consider that a man with a liberal arts education, backed with sound technical training, has the best chance of success in the maritime industry, according to a Georgetown University survey.

The 132 maritime leaders participating in the study made by the university's international transportation department did not settle, by any means, the question of whether a general or specialized formal education was better for the young man of today.

Statistically, American shipowners favored technical training, but in their answers to the Georgetown questionnaire, they leaned toward the man with a liberal arts education—one who, as Emerson wrote, would not be "harping on a single string."

After tabulating, appraising and comparing the answers to key questions, the research team conducting the survey found that: "The question of which type of formal education is most suitable for a career in shipping is left hanging in the air."

Of the American and foreign steamship line officials interviewed, 57 per cent considered specialized education more valuable than a liberal arts education for the entire career from a purely dollar and cents point of view.

On the other hand, 52 per cent of these men would have personally preferred a liberal arts education.

Apparently they agree with the late Harvard University professor, Alfred North Whitehead, who wrote in "The Aims of Education":

"What we should aim at producing is men who possess both culture and expert knowledge in some specific direction. Thorough expert knowledge will give them the ground to start from, and thorough culture will lead them as deep as philosophy and as high as art."

Near the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft plant in East Hartford, Conn., a full-fledged graduate center was established this fall by Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. Located 115 miles from R.P.I.'s home campus in upper New York State, the new graduate facilities will enable working engineers from Pratt & Whitney Aircraft and other companies in the Hartford area to continue their studies. Without interrupting normal employment, it will be possible for students to obtain advanced degrees in specialized fields from the nation's oldest engineering college.

Designed to raise the level of knowledge and to broaden the base from which advanced research can be approached, this entire program will simultaneously lead enrolled engineers to greater achievement in their careers.

Why are the girls in Keeneland Hall fenced in? There is going to be a backstop drive connecting Limestone St. with Harrison Ave.

The grading for the drive has already been finished. Present fences are to keep cars from using the drive before it is completed.

More Light, Less Heat!

By JUDITH CRIST
New York Herald Tribune

"More Light, Less Heat!"

This is the New York State Education Department's recommendation for resolution of the "brisk, lively and often heated" debate now going on over the teaching of reading.

The debate, a perennial one (among other hardy educational perennials, such as sudden discoveries that children can't write, don't know American history, can't do simple arithmetic), seems to be raging more passionately than ever these days.

It has, of course, been given fuel by a successful book explaining that Johnny can't read because, the author alleges, the schools refuse to teach phonics. Further fuel was added recently by a judge who, making the belated discovery that a high proportion of delinquents have reading difficulties, then designated these difficulties as a cause of delinquency rather than a symptom of a much broader disturbance.

Passions come to play immediately with popular misconceptions of what is actually going on in the schools, and parental self-interest beclouding the issues. The latter is most prominent, perhaps, for it is only human for the parent of a non-reader or a poor reader to blame the school system rather than face either his own failure to fulfill certain responsibilities or, most distasteful of all, the fact that his child may just not be very bright.

Some Misconceptions

"Like many other issues, which often generate deep public concern, this one suffers from the dangers of over-simplification," the State Education Department's Bureau of Elementary School Supervision warned last week in its current "Letter to Supervisors."

The concern of laymen and educators alike over the teaching of reading, the bureau feels, "is too often expressed in extremes. Either the schools are considered to be teaching word reading without recourse to specific methods of word attack—amounting practically to word memorization—or they are judged as giving too great attention to phonics and the mechanics of word analysis."

Debate Welcomed

The importance of the current debate, as far as teachers and supervisors are concerned, the bureau declared, is "certainly not in defending either of these extremes. The chief importance should be in stimulating them to make a careful and thorough re-evaluation of present methods of teaching to the end that the very best possible success in reading can be achieved by every child in the elementary school."

One thing is clear, the state agency declared, neither word reading alone nor drill in pho-

Dishwasher Installed

One of the many modern conveniences of the new Donovan Hall is a gigantic automatic dishwasher. This dishwasher stands approximately eight feet high and nearly 29 feet long. The cost including installation was $16,000.

A last minute decision to install the washer resulted in having workers work at regular pay over the Labor Day weekend to get the washer ready for the opening of school.

A pneumatic hammer was used to dig up the floor to permit the workers to tunnel to the basement to connect the drain pipes and wiring.

Public Occurrences

Few persons will mark today as the 265th anniversary of one of America's greatest institutions.

It is not a national holiday. Nor is it noted by commemorative exercises. But the obscure event that occurred Sept. 25, 1690, in Boston, Mass., gave rise to what has become as much a part of the daily lives of tens of millions of Americans as the telephone, radio or automobile.

For on that early autumn day, the American press was born in the form of issue No. 1 of "Public Occurrences Both Foreign and Domestic," edited and published by Benjamin Harris.

How quaint the country's first paper would seem to today's readers. Spelling and capitalization seem awkward and careless. Frequent use of "f's" for "s's" is confusing. It contained no advertising on its four pages.

One Known Copy

"Public Occurrences," the only known copy of which is preserved in the London Public Record Office, where it was found in 1845, measured 7½ by 11¼ inches, and had two columns of type on each page, except for a blank fourth page, undoubtedly to be filled with hand-written items when Bostonians forwarded their papers to distant friends.

The newspaper was to have been "furnished once a month (or if any Glut of Occurrences happen,

Library Group To Hear Scholar

Dr. Hardin Craig, noted Shakespearean scholar and a native of Kentucky, will speak at the second annual dinner of the University of Kentucky Library Associates to be held at 6:30 p.m., Monday, Oct. 17. The subject of the speech will be "Reading and the Growth of Imagination."

In a letter to the associates, Mr. Elvis J. Stahl, Jr., chairman of the Board of Directors of the associates, said that some 200 contributing members had affiliated with the associates since the organizational dinner last fall.

Last January the associates sponsored an exhibit to commemorate the centennial of the great immunologist Paul Ehrlich, and this summer and early fall they are showing a distinguished collection of early maps of America.

The first aim of the associates is to assist in the growth of the collections and services of the library. Recently acquired, as a gift of the associates, is the most significant Ohio Valley ornithological treatise after Audumon's folio, Howard E. and Nellie Jones' "Illustrations of the Nests and Eggs of the Birds of Ohio."

Educational Conference Slated For October

The University of Kentucky's 32nd annual Educational Conference will be held on Oct. 28 and 29, at the office of Dr. Frank G. Dickey, dean of the UK College of Education.

An invitation to all of Kentucky's educators, teachers, and administrators alike, has been extended throughout the state. Several hundred persons attend the two-day affair each year.

Scheduled in connection with the conference is the 21st annual meeting of the Kentucky Association of Colleges, Secondary and Elementary Schools.

Dr. Arthur S. Adams, president of the American Council on Education, Washington, D.C., will be the principal speaker at the conference program. Its theme will be "Building Faith in Education."

Keynote session of the conference has been planned for Friday morning, Oct. 28, in Memorial Hall. College, secondary and elementary educators will hold sectional gatherings on Friday afternoon.

Affiliated groups taking part in the conference are the Kentucky Association of School Administrators, Kentucky Business Education Association, and the Kentucky Council of Teachers of English. Slated as a pre-session meeting is an annual gathering of the Kentucky Association of Registrars and Admission Officers, set for Thursday night, Oct. 27.

Chief purpose of the conference is to bring together Kentucky educators in order that they might exchange ideas and work towards the solution of their mutual problems.

Korean Vets

Korean veterans may sign for their pay on Oct. 1 from 8:30 a.m. and on Oct. 3-5 from 8:30 a.m. to 12:00 noon and 1:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. The signing will take place on the 2nd floor of the Administration Building.

Public Occurrences

But fortune did not smile on the small, crudely printed newspaper. Free speech and press then possessed no legal standing in the colonies, and a long and hard struggle for their acceptances lay ahead.

Four days after its publication, the Governor and Council found that "Public Occurrences" had been issued "Without the least Privy or Countenance of Authority," and ordered it suppressed and called in.

Moreover, their statement declared that the paper contained "Reflections of a very high nature," and forbade future printing of anything "without License first obtained."

Thus the first issue became the last issue. But Harris' most notable achievement was a history, and American journalism was on its way. Not until 1704 did "The Boston News-Letter," which became the country's first continuously published paper, venture onto the uncertain scene.

Though "Public Occurrences" — without headlines, pictures or even significant divisions of type—would appear strange to mid-twentieth-century readers, they would find nothing odd about the nature of the content.

Harris had a "nose for news," and in his paper were reports of a man's suicide, several fires, a smallpox epidemic, and a military expedition against the French and Indians in Canada.

It seems clear that the "Reflections of a very high nature" were contained in passages which mentioned some gossip about the King of France's morals and which recounted the barbarous way in which Indian allies of the English had used some French captives.

netics alone can make a child a successful and independent reader. It is, therefore, essential to consider every possible method of helping children toward this goal. "Controversy will avail us little. Careful, thorough and penetrating study of the science and the art of teaching reading will gain much." With this declaration, the bureau suggests a number of resources that laymen, too, who are concerned with "more light" on the problem, may find of interest.

Two Reports

For specific background on the entire issue, the bureau recommends, "for those who are especially interested in the use of phonics," Part I of the 24th Yearbook of the National Society for the Study of Education, issued in 1925, and Part II of the same society's 48th Yearbook published in 1949.

In William S. Gray's "On Their Own in Reading," published in 1948 by Scott Foresman & Co., the bureau finds material of value. The book's purpose is to tell how to give children independence in attacking new words, and sections are devoted to development of word perception, sight vocabulary, context clues, word-form clues, structural analysis and use of the dictionary.

Two Other Views

Dr. Flesch, who demands a return to phonics, is "pointed and harsh" in his criticism of the schools, the bureau notes. For criticism of Dr. Flesch's position, it suggests, among many critical reviews, one by Dr. Arthur J. Gates, an eighteen-page memorandum reproduced by the Research Division and the American Educational Research Association of the National Education Association last May.

Similarly, the N. E. A.'s National Commission on the Defense of Democracy Through Education has available a six-page critical review of the Flesch book by Dr. Emmett A. Betts, entitled "Is Phonics a Cure-All?" and challenging Dr. Flesch "for making sweeping claims and accusations not documented by experimentation or research." Dr. Gates and Dr. Betts are national authorities on the teaching of reading.

The New York City school system and the State Education Department itself have put out a number of bulletins on the reading problem, such as the state department's "The Road to Better Reading," published in 1953, which deals with a program for children from kindergarten through high school.

Goal in View

With factual background and an understanding of what the methods and goals of the school reading program are, parents and educators can well reach a mutual understanding on how best to help youngsters acquire this basic skill.

"We know that no child can become a successful and independent reader," the bureau observed, "unless he is taught to use successfully definite methods of attacking new words as he meets them in his reading." It is up to laymen, as well as educators, to explore what the best methods are.

Commerce Students

Five students in the College of Commerce have been awarded scholarships for the present school year. The recipients of the $250 awards were named this week by Dean C. C. Carpenter.

They are Carole Dene England, Shelbyville, Ky.; Robert J. Beale, Louisville, Ky.; Donald Dean Bennett, Elizabethtown, Ky.; John P. Ball, Clay, Ky., and Carol Dean Thompson, Nicholasville, Ky. All are freshmen, with the exception of Miss Thompson, who is a sophomore.

The scholarships were presented by the Kentucky Consumer Finance Association, the First National Bank and Trust Company, and the J. D. Purcell Company of Lexington, Ky.

Women Voters

The League of Women Voters will hold its first meeting of the year at 4 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 5 in the SUB.

Freshmen Look Good In Prep For Vandy

While the varsity footballers are preparing for Villanova the freshman football team is practicing daily for its game Saturday, October 15 against the Vanderbilt freshmen in Nashville.

In their first outing this year, the Kittens defeated Morehead State College 14-7. Since SEC rules limit freshman football squads from playing more than three games a season, the Kittens will have only one home game, that being on November 4 against the Tennessee freshmen.

Head coach for the freshmen is John Shelton. Shelton is a graduate student in Physical Education working on his Masters degree which he expects to receive in January. He played varsity football at the University of Louisville for four years before graduating in 1952. Assisting Shelton are three members of last year's Wildcat grid team. They are Larry "Dude" Hennessey, Dick Rushing, and Gayle Rouse. Shelton and Rushing are handling the backfield while Hennessey and Rouse are coaching the linemen.

Except for a minor knee injury to quarterback Ledger Howard, the 33-man squad is in excellent physical condition.

Shelton believes this year's freshman team has more speed than last year's team. Two boys who have shown definite improvement since the beginning of practice are Ken Howell, an ex-serviceman who plays guard, and Murton Trout, a 6-0, 205 lb fullback from Bartley, West Virginia.

If the Kittens were to play a game this weekend their probable starting lineup would be almost the same as that which started the Morehead game except for one position. Howell would replace David Utter at left guard.

In the line, the Kittens would have Doug Shively and Ray Blasingame at ends, Jim Cambron and Vince Lococo, two graduates from Louisville Flaget, at tackles, Howell and Bill McFarland at guards, and Dick Blocker at center.

In the backfield, Fred Scott would be at quarterback, Dave Allen and Bobby Cravens, halfbacks, and Waymond Morris at the full-back position.

Of the 33 men on the freshman squad 18 are from Kentucky. The 15 out-of-staters represent 11 different states. Pennsylvania heads the list with three men represented. Indiana, West Virginia, and Ohio are represented by two men. Alabama, Tennessee, Illinois, California, North Carolina, and Wisconsin each have one.

Troupers Hold Tryouts Tuesday

The UK Troupers will hold the second of two talent tryouts in the Lab Theater of the Fine Arts Buildings, Tuesday night at 7:30.

The campus performing group is in search of singers, dancers, magicians, and talented performers with various novelty acts.

Each year, the group performs throughout central Kentucky and the Lexington area. The year's performances are climaxed with a two-night "Big Show" in the UK Coliseum.

Anyone unable to attend the Tuesday night tryouts should contact Skeeter Johnson in the Alumni Gym for a special audition.

Doug Grant, Troupers vice-president, requests that anyone interested in performing with the newly proposed Troupers band will be welcomed at the Tuesday tryouts.

Ungahs 60 Strong In '55 UK Band

The Ungah is back! UK's Marching 100 boasts of about 60 freshmen this year who can be spotted half-way across campus by the distinctive little beanie that is required head-gear.

The Ungahs and veterans combined to give the students at last week's game a look at the '55 edition of the band.

At tomorrow's game the band will present several military drills. While doing a series of precision dance steps they will present the first of their two concert numbers, "Hernando's Hideaway," arranged by Cecil Karriek of Eastern High School.

The second concert number, conducted by Director Warren Lutz, is a Reid Poole arrangement of "Blues In The Night." During this number the band will form a huge moon.

They will climax the show with the traditional block counter-march and nationally-famous "Marching Cats."

The half-time last week was climaxed by the presentation of the new sponsor, Coral Evans of Logan, W. Va. She was escorted to midfield by drum major Roy Woodall and greeted by last year's sponsors, Ann Futrell and Jean Skinner Jones.

An innovation that seemed to win general approval was the substitution of the Doxology by the band and audience for the usual pre-game prayer.

The next appearance of the March 100 will be at the Auburn game in Birmingham, Ala.

Coaches Seek Squadmen For Track, Tennis

Varsity Track Coach, Don Cash Seaton, has issued a call for any persons interested in participating in track practice this fall. Coach Seaton has urged both freshman and varsity members to attend these practice sessions.

Several members of last year's varsity team have already begun workouts. These men are Bill Thomas and Sam Horsley, distance runners; Dave Cousins and Jim Ingram, hurdlers; Jay Bayless and Ray Mills who participate in the discus and high jump.

There are several promising freshmen who should provide the nucleus for a winning team. One of these candidates, Dave Franta, a pole vaulter from Mansfield, Ohio, was awarded a track scholarship to the University.

Coach Seaton has also urged any freshmen or varsity men interested in participating in this year's Cross Country Run to begin workouts as soon as possible.

Practice will begin Monday, Oct.

Dr. H. Downing, coach of the University Tennis Team, is accepting names of those persons who are interested in becoming candidates for either the freshman or varsity tennis squads. Five men from last year's team were lost through graduation so there are plenty of vacancies to be filled.

Practice Won't End Until Weather Runs Us In-Lancaster

By MARNEY BEARD

In a determined effort to better last year's miserable record, head baseball coach, Harry Lancaster, is hard at work rounding some promising diamond men into shape while the weather permits.

Lancaster makes no excuses for last season, but does promise that if a good catcher can be developed, Kentucky's presence will definitely be felt in the SEC baseball race next spring.

At present, there are no plans for cutting the squad until the end of fall practice, which will last, as Coach Lancaster said, "until the weather runs us in." He plans on letting the entire squad stay out, thus having a seasoned core to work with next spring.

An intra-squad game was held last Tuesday in which the Blues defeated the Whites by a score of 5-4 on the strength of Phil Johnson's three-run homer.

The lineup was: Blues—Huly C. Johnson 1B, Flynn 2B, Volt SS, Biggerstaff 3B, Lawhern LF, Calvert CF, Willard RF, Hill and Longworth P. For the Whites it was Morris C. Casady 1B, Rigby 2B, Marsten SS, Hest 3B, Reynolds LF, Lewis CF, Taylor RF, with Parham and Bailey doing the pitching.

If the recent proposal suggested by Florida's baseball coach takes effect, the Southeastern Conference baseball schedule will be somewhat different next year.

Briefly, the proposal is for all ballgames to be played on weekends, with one game on Friday and a doubleheader on Saturday. Each team will be in a division with five other teams. Each team will play every other team in its division three times, with the exception of their natural rival, who they will play six times.

Thus, Kentucky's schedule will read three games with Florida, three with Auburn, three with Georgia, three with Georgia Tech, and six with Tennessee. The Cats open their schedule with a three game series at Florida the weekend of March 30-31.

Coach Lancaster is well pleased with the progress of his boys so far and is particularly impressed with the performances of Jim Host and Joe Dawson, the first two boys to ever receive a baseball scholarship from the University. Other impressive freshmen are Donnis Butcher, of Meade Memorial; Bill Malpin, a catcher from Waco, who it is hoped will help solve the Cats' catching problem; Jerry Asbill, who played with Louisville Manual two years ago but was sidelined last year with injuries; Vince Lococo, Louisville Flaget, and Doug Shively of Lexington Lafayette, who, because of football practice, are not working out with the baseball team this fall.

Sonny Corum, Doug Lawhorn, and Bill Willard, returning lettermen, are the only men back from last year who are sure to play, according to Lancaster. Phil Grawemeyer, sidelined with a broken leg last year, is expected to do a large part of the pitching along with Bobby Lester and Donny Appleborn, who just returned from two years of service. All in all, the pitching staff is expected to be more than adequate.

Georgia, perennial powerhouse, is expected to furnish the toughest opposition along with Georgia Tech. But judging from the workouts, and the opinion expressed by Coach Lancaster when he said, "we were just caught short last year—no pitchers and loss of our first two catchers due to injuries or classroom conflicts." We think that the other SEC teams had better be served notice that Kentucky can't be counted out.

St. Peter's College, Jersey City, has announced a co-operative program of studies with the University of Detroit College of Engineering.
