

The Nation on the Campus

For classes in current events, political economy, literature, and art The Nation is invaluable. Well-written, authoritative, fearless, it furnishes a comprehensive, up-to-date, week-by-week survey of the world we live in. Below are listed a few of the series and articles scheduled for publication in The Nation before the school-year closes.

IN FORTHCOMING ISSUES

A Practical Program for America

Articles by leading economists proposing and developing a practical program by which America can weather the depression and proceed to a more civilized order.

Presidential Possibilities

A series on White House possibilities — Roosevelt, Coolidge, Borah, Baker, Hoover, Ritchie, Thomas — by Oswald Garrison Villard, Frank Kent, and others.

Russia Carries On

We will continue to publish authoritative first-hand accounts of the most exciting social experiment in history. By Louis Fischer, Maurice Hindus, and others.
