COUNCIL ELECTS GRANT ASSISTANT COACH WYNNIE

Birkett L. Pribble Retained as Freshman Mentor for Three Years

NEW LINE COACH HAS NOT BEEN OBTAINED

Appropriations Are Made for Tennis and Rifle Teams

By DELMAR ADAMS

Porter Grant was elected assistant football coach at the University by the Athletic Council yesterday afternoon.

Grant, who has assisted Coach Chet Wynne for the past two seasons at Auburn, will coach the Cat ends next fall.

Grant is a product of the Alabama school and was coached by Wynne. During his career as a player he seemed headed for all Southern honors, when he was injured before the season was over.

Much of the credit for the great team the Plainsmen compiled in 1932 is given to Grant by Wynne because of the former's fine work in developing ends.

An example of his coaching is Gump Aris, who was almost unanimous all-Southern in 1932 and was named as many all-American teams.

Grant was recommended to the council by Wynne and was given a contract for one year. A line coach to assist the head coach was not acted on at this time, and will be held open for a few days, pending the decision of Coach Wynne.

There is a fertile field for the new coach's labors here, as the Cats have only one veteran returning in the person of "Smookey" Joe Rupert. A man to play the other flank must be found in the near future.

Coach Pribble, who for the last few seasons has produced freshman teams that were far above the average and lost but one game in two years, was given a new three-year contract by the council to take effect January 1.

Pribble was a member of Wildcat teams in 1921-22-23, and one of the finest players produced at the University. When he finishes with a freshman player he is ready for the most exacting type of varsity football.

Wynne appeared before the council and spoke on the outlook for football next year and the general situation along these lines at the University. Appropriations to carry on the varsity rifle team and freshman and varsity tennis, all classed as minor sports, were made.

ART DEPARTMENT FEATURES EXHIBITS

Art exhibits now on display are a student exhibit in the art department and an exhibit of the history of paintings in the library by Mr. Leman of the art department.

Members of the faculty of the art department who will make addresses will speak in Louisville next week. Mrs. E. W. Edwards will be the first.

Miss Callahan's subject will be "American Silversmiths." Her talk will be devoted to the early American silversmiths and to the Kentucky silversmiths. Mr. Rannels will speak at the "Art Museum" and Mrs. E. W. Edwards will be the first.

Final grades of all candidates for degrees must be in the office of the Registrar today. A meeting of the University senate will be held Wednesday of next week to pass on the degrees. All seniors making an average of C or above, by permission of the instructor, may be excused from final examinations, and all finals must have been held by today.

Participants in the commencement exercises will assemble at 2:30 p. m. the day of the exercises in McVey hall, the faculty in Room 111 and candidates for degrees in Room 109. In case of inclement weather, both faculty and candidates for degrees will assemble in the basement of Memorial hall.

Caps and gowns will be worn, and groups will be formed in columns in the following order: President of the University and the speaker of the day, chairs of the board of trustees, trustees and official guests, deans of colleges, alumni, candidates for advanced degrees and graduates.

A total of 70 applications have been made for degrees as follows: Ph. D., 1; M. S., 14; M. S. in Home Economics, 1; M. S., 1; A. B., 10; B. S., 1; B. S. in Agriculture, 5; B. S. in Education, 1; B. Two tickets for each graduating senior for the baccalaureate services Sunday have been reserved at the Publicity Bureau. They must be claimed before Saturday morning, because they will be given out to the public at that time.

All ticket holders are requested to call at the Publicity Bureau at 2:55 o'clock for the baccalaureate services located in the gymnasium. They will be thrown open to the public at that time if there are any vacant seats.

BOARD ACCEPTS ODK RESOLUTION

Petition Asking Trustees to Seek P.W. Funds for Union Building Approved

PLANS WILL BE DRAWN

The executive committee of the board of trustees accepted the resolutions presented by representatives of Omicron Delta Kappa Wednesday afternoon, requesting the general fund to be loaned from the Federal government with which to finance the erection of the Student Union building.

Following the acceptance of the resolutions, presented by Gordon Burns and Walter Stittler, the council passed a motion requesting the trustees to prepare a detailed statement showing the general plan of the building, the proposed cost, and the sources of income, subject to the approval of the Public Works Administration.

When the statement is ready it will be submitted to the executive committee of the board for consideration. If it is approved, it must be presented to the board of trustees before the request for the loan is filed with the Public Works Administration.

The statement which will be presented will probably provide for a request of $500,000 Federal loan and will include an architect's sketch of the proposed building, as well as the financial program which must be worked out in order to take care of the amortization and interest charges on the Federal loan.

Already several preliminary sketches have been submitted for consideration. The new building will probably contain a cafeteria, lounging rooms, a reading room, a gymnasium, and possibly a swimming pool, and other recreational rooms.

The statement will be prepared at once, in order that if it is accepted, the application for the loan may be made early within the next semester.

Kelly Thompson, Louisville, Wins Oration Contest

Oratorical and Discussion Semi-Finals Held Here Yesterday

Kelly Thompson, Louisville, was declared winner of the Intercollegiate Oratorical contest held yesterday in Memorial hall. Five entrants were selected from a high school oratorical contest held in the Training school auditorium in two contests sponsored by the Kentucky Educational Association and the University extension department.

The five entrants selected were: Claude Galloway, Hebbardsville; Elizabeth Hunter, Frankfort; George Braden, Louisville; Sam Clay, Jr., Paris; and Ruby Hart, Salyersville. Mr. Thompson's subject was "Case of Financial Support for the Public Schools." He is a student at Western State Teachers college.

The contests were planned in order that boys and girls entered might have practical experience in the art of public speaking, and also that students and people of the community might have an opportunity to discuss the educational system and its problems.

James A. Moore who represented the University of Kentucky in the contest, is from Madisonville, and is a student in the College of Arts and Sciences. He went to the semi-finals with representatives from Transylvania and Western State Teachers college.

All participants in the contests were entertained yesterday at noon with a luncheon by Kappa Delta Phi and Phi Delta Kappa, fraternal organizations on the campus.

The five semi-finalists were selected from 11 winners of as many district contests throughout the state. The intercollegiate oratorical winner was one of 14 winners of district contests held at their respective colleges.

Miss Sallie Pene, mathematics instructor, was granted leave for the year 1933-34 to graduate work.

Mrs. Stella Spicer Gilb, critic teacher at the University Training school, was granted leave from January 1 to September 1 of this year. Miss Frances Coleman will take Mrs. Gilb's place.

During the elimination for the two teams which were to compete in the final game, the Tri-Delts defeated the Kappas, and the Chi Omegas won over the Independents. Monday afternoon the Kappas lost to the Independent team by the score of 29 to 14.

Regular W.A.A. basketball practice starts Monday, February 5, at 8 p. m. in the Workmen gym. Miss Rebecca Averill will be instructor and coach.

Women's Second Bid Day Will Be Feb. 6

Second semester bidding for sororities will be held Tuesday, February 6, in the office of the Dean of Women, Rushing will be open, according to the rules which were released by the president of Women's Pan-hellenic, Virginia Pitzer.

Bids for new pledges must be in the Dean of Women's office by 9 a. m., Tuesday, February 6.

New rushing rules which have been formulated by the Pan-hellenic council will be submitted to sororities for a final vote, and if approved, will go into effect at the beginning of the fall semester.

Perhaps not the highest number of calls, but one of the hardest-working phones is that of the dear old Kerners, where an average of 46-66 calls accommodate the inquisitive students.

Maybe if this were a leap year the three men's residence halls would make a better showing, but at any rate they come right along with a 44-68 average.

CATS WILL MEET CHATTANOOGA IN NEXT COURT TILT

Game Here Saturday Night Will Be Seventh of This Season

WILDCATS EXPECT STRONG OPPOSITION

Tennessee Aggregation Uses Professional Style of Floor Work

By MAX LANCASTER

Endeavoring to make it 17 straight wins, the Kentucky Wildcats will engage the University of Chattanooga Moccasins in the Alumni gymnasium Saturday night.

That contest will be one of the hardest games of the season for the Ruppmen.

The Chattanooga club uses a professional style of play. Their coach having been a professional player. They are a fast group of basketball players with lightning speed, handle themselves like veterans, and, from all indications, are a hard outfit for the Big Blue to handle.

Coach Rupp has spent nearly the entire week drilling his boys on their passing and have room for a great deal of improvement. Should these two boys "come through" the boys' basketball team has a good chance to retain their Southeastern conference championship.

The boys have all been working hard this year and I believe we have a great year ahead of us," stated Coach Rupp. "The most pleasing thing to me so far this season is the way Lawrence and Tucker have improved. These two boys have been playing ball and have improved with every game."

The probable starting lineup for the Wildcats tomorrow night will be DeMoisy at center, Lawrence Jones at forward, Anderson and "Little Bill" Davis at guards, Lewis, Tucker, Potter and Settle representing the Whites, and Lewis, Lawrence, Mester, Potter, and Settle representing the Blues.

In a practice game Tuesday, in which DeMoisy, Davis, Tucker, Jones, and Anderson represented the Whites, and Lewis, Lawrence, Mester, Potter, and Settle representing the Blues, the Whites won by a score of 45 to 38.

Students wishing to take both parts of the course he will receive three credits. If anyone wishes to take both parts of the course he may do so and will receive six credits for it.

FAREWELL OR AS FRIEND TO FRIEND

To you, members of the graduating class, we dedicate this editorial, our farewell to friends and classmates.

Your work at the University has been completed. For many, perhaps, the thought of leaving will be touched with sadness; to others, the knowledge that a new and broader life lies beyond it may be gladdening.

When the doors of college and of youth shut behind you, and you step out into a new day, at first you may be blinded by the light. Everything will be strangely different. Only by cautious probing about you can you avoid the pitfalls of a fascinatingly dangerous world; only gradually will you become accustomed to the changed environment.

For you, commencement is truly commencement. As last you are on your own, and whatever triumphs in the future will be the result of what you have learned in the past. You have had the advantages afforded by a modern, traditionally famous University, and in the eyes of the world you are qualified now to enter the field of your choice.

Your is a glorious adventure. You are explorers, about to discover and to conquer new lands. Some times the sky will be cloudy and overcast; the sun will cease to shine, and you will be tempted to give up in despair. But that is life. Gone are the happy, carefree school days, now only pleasant memories. Good-bye, for you are now men and women ready to face a serious, hard-fought world.

For you life holds much in store. Don't let it best you; be brave. To you, our comrades, we can only say good luck, and may God bless you all.

GREEN THINGS GROW

In a significant and inspiring address given last week before a large group of men students of the University, a Lexington man struck a note heretofore overlooked by most thoughtful persons. He took as his theme "Green Things Grow" and in the course of his remarks literally inspired his biased audience of college men by his application of the theme to their lives and personalities.

Probably the most striking statement in his talk was the conviction that when a man stops growing he begins to die. The speaker said that that he was not concerned with past events but was deeply interested in the future as he was growing toward that period of time and the past was behind him.

Continuing his remarks the speaker said that a college man was bigger at the time of his graduation than at any other period of his existence. He urged the students to reach for the greater things and to grow, being not afraid to contradict themselves as by this contradiction they were showing themselves to be growing and progressing. This, he said, was a great tribute to a man—that he was growing and progressing.

Saying that some persons shy at things as does a "dish-faced man at a clay roof," he pointed out the evil results of such shyness by saying that no good could come of this timidity and the spirit of reaching out was the ideal attitude to take. The scope of his remarks was most applicable to his audience—an assembled group of college men.

We heartily agree with the speaker on all of the points stressed in his talk. Only by growing can any person reach or approach a measure of success in any undertaking. Many persons are prone to believe that to contradict one's self is an unpardonable sin. It was shown by the speaker that to retract a statement or to change one's mind was taking place.

This theme would be an ideal was clearly demonstrating that method of helping spur a college person's life and thoughts to heights wherein he may apply his personality and intellect to things bearing greater fruit than a thesis course would bear. Make this growth idea your theme and reach high and up to better things, and GROW!

PARKING REGULATIONS

Since the inauguration of the present system of parking regulation, much improvement has been noted in the parking of cars on the campus. However, within the past few weeks there have been many complaints regarding the parking of cars on the campus which have not been registered.

Whether the offenders be students or faculty members, it does not matter. Everyone who brings a car on the University campus is required to register it at the dean of men's office. Only visitors are exempted.

When the rule was first passed, it was enforced and the situation seemed to be pretty well taken care of, but now in some parts of the campus it is impossible for those who have registered their cars to find a parking place.

One of the more noticeable instances is in the area of the C. E. and P. building. Among the cars daily parked in this area a comparatively small percentage of those who are registered are present.

As a result, the ones who are registered to park there must either stay outside or park in another place.

It is only a matter of a few days until it will be time for another registration, and it will doubtless be difficult to get them to register again who now do not have a place to park as a result of the outside cars being permitted on the campus.

THE LIBRARY

There are more students studying in the library now than there have been all year. It would be easier for many that are there now if they had made it a custom to go to the library to study a little each day. You have to go there frequently to learn your way around.

Why is it that so many people wait until almost examination time to do their reference work, intensive studying, and finishing notebooks? You can not learn how to use the card index, or find reference books in such a short time.

It takes a little while to get accustomed to the atmosphere within the library. It is often hard to concentrate with people coming in and going out.

Why not try studying at the library of next semester, and see if it is not a better plan? You will find it easier to get your work up as it is assigned than to wait until the last minute, and in some cases, not have time to complete it.

START RIGHT

Were there ever so many opportunities for fresh starts? Upon entering the University we were given a chance to adopt a new attitude (if the one at that time was incorrect) and now, with the beginning of each semester we have the opportunity. Time goes on, but history repeats itself and again and again we find that if we are willing we can mend our ways and be forgiven for our past transgressions to some extent.

Just because a professor expects us, from past performances, to make low grades, is no reason that we must do so. Professors are more than willing to recognize good work, and to give credit for it. A reputation for good work is an advantage but without handicaps nothing would be any fun. It is having work with the odds against us that gives us the most satisfaction if we conquer in the end. If a teacher expects us to do "C" or "D" work, think what a pleasant surprise awaits him if we do "A" or "B" work. He will not continue to give the same old grades if the work improves anymore than he will do so if it grows worse.

And speaking of work growing worse, it is a very popular pastime to acquire a reputation for good work and rest on that. Take our word for it, if you attempt to do that a very pleasant surprise awaits you in the end. No teacher will let you pull the wool over your eyes for ever, and just when you most want and expect a good grade he is going to wake up and give you what you deserve. The advantage you have if you are accustomed to doing good work is that you have the habit. Once you start, it is easy. The hard part is forming the habit once you have slipped. If you have the habit, hold on to it, for it is worth more than the grades it has gotten you.

Resolve that in the present and future you will improve over the past. But if you once resolve it, do not break your word, for this has disastrous results. Tis better never to have resolved than to resolve and fail to live up to it. Once you give in to yourself about putting something off or cutting class, it is much easier to do it the next time. Gradually you will find your way down until you end up drifting along, following the line of least resistance. And then it is indeed hard to form the habit of work.

ACT YOUR AGE

It seems that during the course of time since our new library was built, the room on the main floor of the building originally designated as the lounging or browsing room has been converted into a combination bedroom and social meeting place which might well be renamed "the chatterbox."

Of course stretching out on the couches and taking a little snooze is not the method of gentlemen as a thing to do, but at least this does not disturb and violate the privileges of others unless the individual happens to snore. Even at that he or she would have to snore loudly to be heard when some of the society or non-society members, be-chained and would-be-chained co-eds, violate the intended quiet of the place with their conspicuous actions and verbal exclamations.

Yes, and as it may seem, it is the young ladies (?) who are the most conspicuous sinners in this respect. This is all the more true since the Women's building has just recently been opened offering the co-eds a place to go and do their gossiping, collaborative concentration, or what have you.

Instead of availing themselves of the opportunity provided, a number have perversely set up the custom of holding stage-whispered conversations and symbolic controversies in the room where other persons would find a little studying or peaceful reading. Apparently they have no concern for those who are trying to utilize their limited time to the best advantage.

The new library has provided every improvement and convenience for student benefit. The one advantage which is not exchangeable for a student's time is quietness, the reaction of all library users to the advantages they have been offered. Signs requesting quiet probably serve for every purpose from scratch paper to gum holders, and policing should not have to be forced on college students who are supposed to be of adult calibre. To those whom the collar fits we say, "Please wear it, and try to act your age."

jest Among Us

Most of us find so much work piled up for us to tackle before examinations that we are tempted to chuck it all and trust to luck plus a kind-hearted prof.

After four years at college one senior has developed the noble ambition to drive his car down the steps between McVey and Kastle halls.

And then there was the freshman who wondered if he would receive extra University credit by working on the campus projects.

We unfortunately who have not money for cars can now talk along unperturbed, since the trolley strike.

Scandal Snickerings

By "DOC"

Since Cameron Coffman is always getting a row on some celebrity, we are going to dedicate this column to the Kappasage chapter.

We have heard that Kappas Bill Howe, president of the "Bo Bo Club," combs his hair before he retires every night. Also just what office are you running for Bill?

It is rumored that Alphegum plebeite Mary Lou Bruce is married to Alumni Del Sherell Smith.

It seems that Alphegum Bob Taber was left waiting at the post at the Alphegum house the other night, as was Bill Howe several weeks ago. Seems to be becoming a habit with the Alphegums.

A pining which seems to be of wide interest took place last Wednesday between Delta Zeta plebeite Mims Smith and ATO "Plug" Kinchele.

We wonder where Helen Rich obtained her new nickname. "The football girl." We think it came from the Kappasage chapter.

What little Tri-delt's sister is the craze of the Sigeep chapter?

It is rumored that Alphegum plebeite Queenie Thompson is leaving school at the end of the semester to be married to a guy named "Alfred."

Ralph McClosion, "Brother to all Alphegums," is reported to be married. How about it, "Brother"?

Why don't the Deltas give "Kerch" a break and let him win one of these football games which the dear brothers engage in every Sunday?

We wonder if two Alphegum brothers are still fighting for the hand of a "certain" Alphegum?

Erny James has a habit of talking in his sleep, so it is reported.

College Journalism Is Lauded

Inter-collegiate Journalistic Publications Act as a Window Through Which the World Is Seen

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS

In spite of the fact that college journalism has been attending lectures and inflicting on professional journalism—to make use of the current distinction—the name of William Philip Simms I must confess, that, in my opinion, it serves a most useful purpose.

The newspapers of today and tomorrow, beyond question, will draw more and more on the colleges and universities for their writing staffs. College journalism certainly tends to encourage observation of what is going on in the world.

College journalism serves merely as a stepping stone to newspaper work as a calling, should not rate it as highly as I do. Whether the student plans to follow law, medicine, engineering, or any of the arts or sciences, newspaper training will prove a great help. And the more of this he acquires in school, the better he will be equipped for it.

A classmate who learned about Christmas in the college in the first year, and graduate with his fellows, left school in January and by June, when he was getting out of his bones, was already assistant city engineer of a large western city, and from that went rapidly on to higher things.

PETITE PIECE

By LORRAINE LEPPER

All this last minute cramming must be over by now. The professors in some departments go to heaven with the other people. If they do, then my chance is coming.

Noticed a review of "Anthem of Adversity" in the Literary column last week. Mighty long reading, but probably the best American novel of its kind. You might be interested to know that its author, Hervey Allen, is just one of the folks. He hates, so he says, pink ties, three-cornered chairs, and red fingernails. He wrote the book, according to his own statement, because he felt that this was the sort of romance a thinking person ought to read.

Watched a street cleaner the other day. After some minutes the question came to my mind, and I should be very well informed on the trade, I believe, if some kind person would tell me, what are the brushes made of?

It can go just so far and then I have to talk about McIntyre, who as you may have suspected, is my ideal man. I think I might add that I think must be because he is a very expensive person with the human touch coming from his individual life. McIntyre started with a bunch, and a man who can arouse the envy of the writing world as he does, is surely made up to both of them, although I might add that Brisbane is interesting now and then. There are times when I should think that McIntyre is a man who leaves in sheer desperation, so that he might take his place with St. Paul and his "I will with."

Portrait of a lady: She comes to church on Sundays as regularly as the Sundays come. You'll see her drive up in her private car, the chauffeur drives up at a strategic point in front of the church, opens the door with a certain flourish and touches his cap in the same precise manner. She walks up the steps and rows the aisle in the same singular manner, and dresses always in the same feminine way. There is a certain elegance to the fashion, but slow, slightly swinging step as she moves down the aisle sits down in her own pew like a leaf fluttering to earth, mustling a little in the wind before it settles completely. She makes a picture as she sits calmly through the sermon, and you wonder about her, but she's one of those persons you never get close to. It may be that her life has run on a parallel with so many others. You probably conclude that it has. You can't help but feel, though, that you'd like to know more about her.

Look it up in the dictionary, Bob.

Leslie M. Gross. They celebrated their anniversary some days ago. What an affair.

"Ex-Captain Kreuter is Ex-Brauer's suitor" would be an excellent headline for a local paper.

Tom Cassidy pinned Marjorie Powell for a "little while" Sunday night in the Den.

Phitau Frank Borries raves in his cell. He was an "unstable" love. The other night he disclosed her name; it was... one guess... Anna Hain Hillemeier. Now aren't you surprised, Anna?

We have heard that measles is catching but hadn't heard that being a chaperon was. Alphegum plebeite Mary Edith Bach has caught the terrible disease now. Methinks that she caught it from Johnny Dorsey.

Alphegum alumni Sadie Farmer thought that she was immune to LOVE... but she's got it bad now... Congratulations Hoop.

Roy Chapman Andrews, scientist, explorer, and lecturer, will present slides and motion pictures of adventures of expeditions to the Gobi desert, at 8 p. m. Friday, January 19, in the Henry Clay high school auditorium.

From a library of more than 100,000 feet of film showing the unearthing of specimens in the remote regions of the world, films and slides have been selected to be shown at the lecture.

SHOP SIGHTS

Perhaps if the young gentlemen are comfortable in a new robe they will be able to study better for the coming exams. At Kaufman's there is a corded blue silk, silk lined and with the non-slip belt. A green cordora cord has a notched lapel of solid green. There is also a popular robe which is a lighter weight since it is made of washable broadcloth. Such a one is of tiny black and white checks with solid black cuffs and peaked lapel. Among the flannel robes, the loyal student will find many combinations of blue and white.

One recommends to the co-ed a new knit suit from Emby's as a weapon to drive away despair at this time. Choose from boucle, angora or frillon knits in coral, a sea green or pansy petal blue. Many of the blouses seem to have a lacy yoke of some contrasting slash. As an example, one cream peach suit has a square neck with a half dozen round crystal buttons down one side. The short sleeves end in a full flare. Glass accessories are increasing.

Baynham's representatives to the annual shoe convention, held this year at St. Louis, have just returned with news of the new shoe styles and trends. Low heels, like the old Baby Louis heels, are to be used for all occasions and especially for sports and evening wear. Sandals for evening and highcut ties and pumps are best. Straps are almost "out." Black shoes are piped in white.

We buy only the center leaves for Luckies. Not the top leaves for they are under-developed. Not the bottom leaves for they are inferior in quality.
