BEAUTY ON THE CAMPUS

Many of the students who hurry back and forth between classes and then to their homes every day fail to see the beauty of the University campus. Much time, work and thought has been expended to make the grounds attractive, and although in some few spots the sod is torn up and building is still going on, most of the campus with its lovely old trees and flowering bushes and plants is a sight that many visitors praise.

With the completion of the botanic garden, in the near future another section will have been made beautiful. Rare shrubs, trees and flowers, with stone steps and benches combine to make the rolling slope down to the stream back of the athletic field a mecca for nature lovers. When people from all parts of the state come to see the gardens, as well as citizens of other states, then there is all the more reason that the University students take advantage of an opportunity to know their campus better.

Are you one who has eyes and yet does not see?

NOT SO BAD THESE WOMEN

Women have certainly proven themselves capable of managing and participating in big things. A woman is sometimes thought of as a frivolous-minded human being, one who delights only in beautiful clothes and a fine figure and who is "not hard to look at."

But report all the co-eds from this campus, and what's left? You'll all agree that a great share of the enthusiasm and attractiveness would be lacking. We women must stand up for ourselves or else who will? The men are too busy with exhibiting the glories of their achievements. Yes, they call on the women when they find that they cannot perform a task themselves, but of course they do not admit that.

On glancing over this paper one sees the varied fields of activities in which the women of the Oregon campus participate. They've worked hard during the year with what they have had to do, and furthermore have done these things well. Maybe they are "darned good dancers," but they can sell tickets to concerts and raise money for a new building, too.

The women are usually found to be willing and ready to help with the many doings of the university and to do justice to the affair. Call on one next time and see how well she will co-operate with you!

LITERARY SECTION

[MARGARET CUNDIFF, Editor]

A PRAYER

"Who is this that darkeneth council by words without knowledge?"—The Voice (Job 38:2)

Why speakest thou now not know, oh Voice out of the Whirlwind?

Long have I listened for thy rebuke for those who speak so sure.

Canst thou not see that men have saddled thee with wrong?

Have made of thee a stumbling block in the way? Bid them once again to explain, if they knowest it all—

Where is the dwelling place of light, the darkness, where is the place thereof?

Or ask them once again, if they can bind the cluster of the Pleiades, or loose the bands of Orion?

Declare thyself, oh Voice, that these babbling saints may be stilled!

Speak to them with the voice of thunder and bid them loose the shackles of their law.

That they may search the heavens for thee, and the atom for thy truth.

—ROBERT E. SHARON.

Theater Guild Will Present Plays in 10 Cities in 1929-1930

The Theater Guild is expanding from its original confines of New York City and the Guild will sponsor subscription seasons in 10 cities next year, including the new members of Cincinnati, Washington, St. Louis and Detroit.

The dramatic organization ran successful seasons in Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Baltimore, as well as in New York this year, the plays being presented under the subscription basis.

The Theater Guild has stood for better drama and each season has found itself growing with larger audiences in attendance. It was the mother of the little theater movement in America.

The plays to be sent on tour in 1929-30 will include "Caprice," the Sil-Vara comedy in which Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne are currently engaged in New York and in which they will be seen on the road; "Wings Over Europe"; "Major Barbara" and "Pygmalion," both by George Bernard Shaw; and "Strange Interlude," which will be played by two companies—the one already touring in the O'Neill drama and the one which is still playing in New York.

HAYES OWENS IS WINNER IN CAMP KNOX TRACK MEET
Hayes H. Owens, captain-elect of the University track team, won the half-mile and mile runs last week in a track meet at Camp Knox. Owens is one of the best distance runners ever developed at the University and has defeated a number of Southern Conference stars. He is also a member of the Wildcat football and basketball squads. Stand- ing of the schools in the track meet gave the University of Akron 26 points and the University of Ken- tucky 25.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Shively have returned to Lexington after a visit with relatives at Champaign, Ill. Miss Mildred Self, who attended the first semester at the University, has returned to her home in Somers- et.

exact number of students who come to school in this manner, as neither the registrar's office nor the traction company carry such statistics. Nevertheless we know that the Nicholasville car empties a load of about 15 students at the University gates nearly every morning, and the Georgetown and Frankfort cars average 10 apiece.

On the Paris car the motorman and the students are acquainted to the point of riding without tickets, so figure out the relationship your- self. Most of the boys ride in the smoker, from which one occasionally catches the strains of "Sweet Adeline" or similar close harmony. About eight students come to Lexington daily via train, for these fortunates have fathers connected with the railroad service and can ride free of charge. Here too, the conductor, a fatherly old gentle- man, knows all of his passengers and is genuinely concerned if one is missing. As the first train does not arrive until 8 o'clock, they must arrange their classes with this in view, but such small matters cause no wrinkles on their young brows.

Frankfort, being farthest from Lexington, requires more time in getting here so that students living in the capital city must get up al- most before dawn in order to get here at 8 o'clock. Distance, however, does not daunt them in their search for knowledge.

The day of the horse and bicycle is gone, and the aeroplane era looms ahead. Who knows but that some day students, eager for learn- ing, will go in for truly "higher edu- cation." What will a mere 100 miles matter to one who wishes to attend the University of Kentucky and still live in the old home town? Merely a matter of a Lindy-type pilot, and a sturdy plane; then— what hol for "higher" education."

Mrs. Ella E. Hawkins, of Seymour, Texas, arrived Saturday to visit her daughter, Mrs. L. L. Dantzier, and Professor Dantzier.

Just Around the Corner From Lime on Main

After the Bridge Party!

Nothing will delight your bridge guests more than our delicious ice cream. They will enjoy the wealth of pure cream from selected dairies—the real fruits—full ripened and luscious—that are crushed into it.

We freeze our ice cream by the patented method of Heathization—the scientific improvement on all other ways of making ice cream. The use of Heathization intensifies the flavor and gives our ice cream that creamy, velvety texture which makes it so delicious.

There is one of our agents near your home. He will deliver your order promptly.
